The history of its discovery is curious A Copt living in the upper part of Delta, at a place called Berket el Sab (Well of the Lion) a station on the Cairo Railway in the province of Menouf, noticed in the autumn of 1873 a plant in a cotton field wholly different to the rest He collected the pods separated the seed and planted it in secret in an isolated plot of ground For three years he has carried on the cultivation, and now there are said to be from three to four hundred ardebs in the country, and the seed is sold in the public market '

Attracted by this account, I addressed Mr J C Chapman, Agent of the Peninsular and Oriental Company at Alexandria, on 25th April, of which the following is an extract —

My attention has been recently drawn to accounts in the newspapers regarding a newly introduced cotton plant into Egypt some of which has been raised in Alexandria or its vicinity The kind of cotton is said to be not only superior in quality but much more prolific than the ordinary descriptions of cotton known in commerce

' May I request the favor of your good offices to procure a few seeds of this cotton for the Agri Horticultural Society of India, who are desirous to introduce it into their garden If successful it may prove a most useful addition to our class of Indian cottons

' I have been so many (10) years interested in the introduction into India of new kinds of cotton and improvements of the indigenou that I naturally regard with pleasure all such attempts as that now under consideration

Mr Chapman was kind enough to send me a small packet containing about 300 seeds, with the following advice —

' I am in receipt of your letter of 25th April forwarded by Captain Lovell I fear there are no seeds of the Bamieh cotton plant to be had now They were all eagerly bought up and planted If however I can obtain even a small quantity I will with pleasure send some in our despatch box to your address

I have planted some in my garden and am watching the result with interest Unfortunately my water supply is rather salt and I am afraid to give as much as is said to be necessary However, next season there will be large quantities grown and I will report to you and send some seed This or even the ordinary Egyptian cotton would be a great boon for India I am interested in spinning mill at Bombay and know the disadvantage of having only one quality of cotton to work up The article in the English papers on this new cotton was furnished by me

The packet reached me in June and I lost no time in distributing the seeds as judiciously as possible in small quantities to about thirty persons resident in various parts of India including fifty seeds to the Government of Bengal and twenty to Mr Buck the Director of Agriculture, North Western Provinces As yet only two returns have been received one from Mr Buck and another from Mr W Masters of the Opium Department at Hajipore I placed six seeds in the soil, of which five germinated one seedling was destroyed by a crow and another when about four feet high, by the falling on it of a large heavy plant of Ricina luxurians I had therefore only three plants to rear The seed was sown about the middle of June grew very vigorously (ten feet in height) throughout the rainy season in the manner detailed in the above quoted letter Began to blossom in September yielded first ripe pods in October and November and continued flowering and podding freely till the end of February and sparingly during March These three plants have yielded rather less than two ounces of clean cotton It has now (end of April) recommenced to flower and I propose allowing the plants to remain as a biennial to ascertain if the quality of the next season's produce retains its character or deteriorates

The following are the reports of the experiment at Cawnpore, communicated by the Director of Agriculture, North Western Provinces

Dated 29th March 1878

From the Director Department of Agriculture and Commerce N W Provinces

I have the honor to advise despatch by to day's packet post a parcel containing 6 ounces of Egyptian cotton seed produced from the 20 seeds supplied to this Department by the Society

2 A small sample of cotton and a copy of the report on the experiment by the Superintendent of the Government Experimental Farm, Cawnpore, are sent herewith

From the Superintendent Government Experimental Farm Cawnpore

I have now the honor to report results of an experiment made with Bamich cotton

2 Twenty seeds received from Agri Horticultural Society (through your No $\frac{T}{114A}$, dated 18th June 1877) on the 24th June

3 A small patch of land measuring 7 by 17 feet was prepared on the vegetable gardens and thrown up into ridges 2½ feet apart and the seeds planted 2½ feet in the row The seed was sown on the 19th July, and began to appear above ground on the 24th

4 Of the twenty seeds sown thirteen germinated the first bolls were picked on 20th December and picking went on at intervals till the beginning of this month

5 The quantity of kapas collected from the thirteen plants, 2 seers 8 chittacks, of which four chittacks was sent to Bulandshahr Agricultural Show the rest on being passed the native churka—

6 From the almost total cessation of rain the season cannot be said to have been a good one yet the plants grew to the height of 5 to 5½ feet and threw out long lateral branches I am of opinion seed ought to be sown three feet apart at least

From Mr W Master

Sowed six seeds of Bamich cotton on the 7th July 1877 one sprouted on the 10th the other five on the 11th idem Of the six plants one was destroyed by a carpenter cricket and two by an over curious mali On the 31st July 1877, transplanted one of the remaining three four and a half feet from the others

On the 24th September 1877 observed buds appearing on the 5th October flowers were out on the 2nd December 1877 counted 150 pods and flowers on the transplanted plant the other two appeared injured the leaves and pods withering and turning black In January 1878, the three plants produced flowers but very few, the pods ripened slowly By 24th of the month only two ripe pods had been gathered from the transplanted plant several poor ones from the others On the 27th January 1878 pulled up by the roots one of the untransplanted plants and sent to the Agricultural and Horticultural Society Towards the end of March 1878 cut away the main stems to within 2 feet of the ground and the seed branches to within a foot of the main stems, leaving however three branches uncut on the transplanted plant On the 16th May 1878 counted 138 fresh flowers and pods on the transplanted plant, the other one had died off

Of the three plants the transplanted one was the healthiest and most bushy, it had a main stem tapering upwards to a height of about ten feet with seven side branches issuing from it within the space of one and a half feet from the ground, the three branches afterwards measured eight and half feet, the flowers grew on the axils of the leaves as many as three from one axil being common on the main stem above the highest branch small shoots or leaf stalks about six inches long appeared the flowers sprung from the base of these The untransplanted plants had three branches, and its main stem stood about 12 feet high, the stems and branches of all bent over considerably, many of them touching the ground at their ends After pruning, new branches sprung from those cut near their bases or quite from the bases but not from the main stem, the flowers and pods of these are very small, but the new flowers and pods on the uncut branches are large and blooming seventy two pods gave two ounces of cotton and one thousand three hundred and seven seeds Many flowers and pods shrivelled and turned black in a bright hot sun Rain falling on a ripe open pod stained the cotton yellow The soil on which the plants were grown was a poor and sandy one

Messrs W Haworth and Co of this city have kindly furnished a report on the quality of the specimens raised at Cawnpore, Hajipore, and Calcutta of which the following is a copy —

We have pleasure in returning your samples of Bamieh (Egyptian) cotton with the following report —

1 Bolls similar to Egyptian cultivation and like it as regards its seed, both as to formation and freedom with which the fibre can be separated (Cawnpore Model Farm)

2 Not of a particularly good color but as regards length softness strength and fineness of staple every thing that could be desired and would rank as good fair Egyptian cotton valued at about 7 to 7½ per pound (Ditto)

3 Not equal to No 1 either in size of the boll or the quality of the cotton but similar in all other respects (Mr Masters)

4 Equal in color to No 2 but containing considerably more stains, harsher in staple which is also wanting in length and strength value about 6 to 6½ per pound (Mr Blechynden)

I have placed as an appendix to this note some particulars from the Gardener's Chronicle regarding this cotton from the pen of M Delchevalerie the Inspector of Agriculture of Cairo Also a few details regarding experiments at Texas —

"M Delchevalerie the Inspector of Agriculture of Cairo, laid before the recent Congress of Amsterdam some specimens of a new cotton plant found growing in Egypt in a field of cotton, among which were found some Bamias (Hibiscus esculentus) A certain Cheik el Celed of the environs of Chibin el kom in Lower Egypt noticed some specimens of fastigiate cotton plants, quite different to the others and similar in habit to the Bamieh or Bamia plant The stems are about 8 to 10 feet high straight and with relatively few branches and those ascending not spreading as in ordinary cotton plants Hence the planters of that region did not hesitate to call them Kotu Bamieh They collected the seeds carefully in order to plant them separately The following year they obtained nearly half a feddan (about half an acre) of them of which the seeds were collected in the same way and Egypt this year already possesses important plantations of this new variety of cotton The first samples which arrived in the market of Alexandria were distributed among several merchants who sent them to Liverpool where they were classed above 'fair cotton' and nearly fetched the price of good fair'

"M Delchevalerie in a note addressed to the Congress suggested the idea that this cotton is a hybrid production between Hibiscus esculentus and the Egyptian cotton itself, and he proposes this summer to make some experiments at Cairo in order to ascertain if this be so If this hybridisation has really taken place between the Hibiscus (Abelmoschus) esculentus and the cotton the fact will be of great importance from a scientific point of view for it may give rise to other experiments in artificial fertilisation between other genera of the same family Similar facts are not unprecedented in the records of horticulture However this may be, the new cotton plant is taller than the ordinary cotton It is erect and scarcely branched with the exception of two or three small branches at the base which allow of the plants being planted closer It has not the shrubby form of the ordinary cotton plant which has numerous branches, themselves branched and producing here and there at the joints a capsule of cotton on a long peduncle On the contrary, in the new cotton plant the principal branch is straight and not branched The capsules grow on the principal stem in clusters in the axils of the leaves, and are likewise borne on long axillary stalks The roots are more tap shaped than those of the ordinary cotton whose root fibres moreover spread more horizontally And what is more important is that the new variety produces much more cotton The cultivators of this new cotton plant have assured M Delchevalerie that they have obtained fifteen quintals of it per feddan in the rich soil of the Delta while the ordinary cotton does not produce half that quantity

'The Bamieh cotton of Egypt, to which we drew attention at p 561 vol VII of the Gardener's Chronicle seemed after the subsidence of the first great excitement in its favor destined to pass into oblivion which is so often the fate of many newly introduced products Our contemporary Cotton however draws attention to the fact of recent experiments that have been made in its cultivation in Texas The seeds were planted on 4th May in a garden situated in latitude 29 40 at an elevation of thirty feet above Galveston Bay, and about 300 yards from its margin The soil was a light fertile sandy loam The seeds germinated and the plants made their appearance above the surface of the soil in six days namely, on 10th May The first blossoms appeared on 5th July and the first open fruits on 30th August The average height of the plant was about eight feet but some grew up to ten feet After the plants had ceased growing the fruits perfected themselves increasing in size It is stated that the fruits are very abundantly produced from near the base of the plant to its very top In the space of four months and ten days from the time of planting the open fruits were of sufficient size for picking in any quantity From as careful and safe an estimate as could be made the yield was found to be fully equal to 2,500 lbs of cotton in the seed per acre The habit of the plant is described as being very singular in its outline Unlike the American Upland and Sea Island cottons, it does not send off branches regularly from near the ground to the top of the plant but the main stem bears close to the ground two, three, or more branches, and then rises to a height of eight or ten feet without a branch Leaves only are given off along the stems, and in the axil of each leaf are from two to five, and sometimes six long petioles, each bearing a fruit The branches described at the base were also very heavily fruited, as many as five large fruits growing so close together as to touch each other The cotton or wool contained in every fruit on the plantation was of a pale yellow color, which was difficult to be accounted for as there had been no heavy rains during its growth to stain it it is suggested the profuse dews may have been the cause From the record of these experiments it seems that we may still hear something favorable about Bamieh cotton with regard to its becoming an article of commerce"

The late Mr Kurz, of the Royal Botanic Garden, Calcutta, was kind enough, at my request, to examine the plants raised there from seed received from the Society, with reference to the supposed hybridisation between Hibiscus esculentus and the ordinary Egyptian cotton, and in a note now before me he writes —

"The Egyptian Bamieh cotton is Gossypium vitifolium, a variety very near to the G acuminatum Roxb, both which are now reduced to G barbadense L These two varieties are contrasted in the Flora of British India, and I see really little difference between the two"

Some stress is laid it will be seen on the advantage that this variety of cotton possesses in running up as it does to ten or twelve feet with little or no branching The plants in my garden, though not so bushy as the ordinary Egyptian or other exotic kinds, are not of such a spare habit as has been represented, and I quite agree with the Superintendent of the Model Farm, Cawnpore that the seed ought to be sown three feet apart at least If grown closer together, a larger quantity of produce may be obtained per acre but it is questionable if the quality will be so good for cotton instead of being crowded together is, like most other plants, the better for having a sufficiency of air and light All the samples received have a cream like tinge similar to the finest Sea Island this is not caused apparently, by the climate, but is the natural color A small portion is stained, but such is of a darker color

Since writing the above I have perused a letter from the Alexandria correspondent of the Times, on the subject of cotton cultivation generally in Egypt, in which the following remarks occur in respect to the Bamieh variety —

'The feeling that whatever they (the cultivators) gain goes generally to pay the Government taxes, is also said to make them very reckless in their system of cultivation The way in which the seed is mixed is admirably illustrated by the recent experiments made in the Bamieh cotton plant which was to revolutionize the cotton market by its productiveness and quality The seed ran up to 10, 20 and even 30 times the price per ardeb of the ordinary seed This was too much for the sellers In every case there was adulteration, and no experiment has proved decisive on account of the admixture of other qualities'

P S—Mr Chapman in a letter just received (8th June) forwarding a further supply of seed (about 12 pounds), writes as follows —

The seed is difficult to procure genuine being generally mixed with Ashmouni and sells at £ 30 the kuntar The package sent is genuine, and will I hope give good results Here the Bamieh plant is mostly a failure, requiring an immense deal of water, and growing too tall— as high as 15 feet

 The following extract from the Report of the Horticultural Garden, Lucknow, for the year 1877 78 communicated by the Director of Department of Agriculture and Commerce North Western Provinces, on the 5th July, has reached whilst the above is passing through the press —

"22 This is said to be a cross between ordinary Egyptian Cotton and Bamieh (Hibiscus esculentus) or 'Bindi'

'A small plot of it was sown, July 14th, 1877 The seed was sown in rows three feet apart, and two feet in the rows, this space was found to be required, as by the time growth ceased, the whole of the ground was covered

"Owing to the scanty and irregular rainfall, the crop had to be frequently watered from a well This with regular weeding and ploughing with a native plough previous to sowing was the whole of the cultivation given The plants maintained a healthy and vigorous growth till checked by cold in November by that time some of the tallest plants were nine feet high, and the average height of the plot from five to six feet

"There were two distinct kinds of plants which I have labelled, Nos 1 and 2 No 1 was of tall upright growth with few side branches, and which I take to be the true hybrid

No 2 was of bushy spreading habit with several side branches nearly as large as the centre stem and which appears to be ordinary Egyptian

'Whether the seed was mixed or has a tendency to revert to the cotton parent is a point to be settled by future trials to this end the seed of the two kinds has been collected and kept separate It is however possible that the flowers of both were cross fertilized as the plants were grown side by side and should the seed No 1 again produce two kinds of plants, it must not be concluded that the hybrid is wanting in fixity and permanence of character

Should the crop be of two kinds and pure seed be desired, care should be taken to pull out all plants of bushy spreading habit before they come into flower, and if the crop is grown at some distance from the other kinds of cotton true seed is likely to be produced

'As the seed was late in being sown and the season altogether an unusual one, I have thought it undesirable to give the outturn, as it could not by any means be taken as a guide to what the results would be in ordinary years

I cannot say that either kind bore heavy crops the bolls though large were nothing like so numerous as such large strong plants seemed capable of yielding

It is possible however that the deficiency in quantity is more than made up in the quality of the fibre which is soft and silky and at least twice the length of common country cotton

The following quantity of each kind of seed is available for distribution as you may direct —

No 13 —The following statutes are published for general information —

42 VIC, CHAPTER 8

An Act to make further provision for the registration of Deaths Marriages and Births occurring out of the United Kingdom among officers and soldiers of Her Majesty's Forces and their families

[23rd May 1879]

BE it enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal and Commons in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows —

1 This Act may be cited as the Registration of Births Deaths and Marriages (Army) Act 1879

Short title

2 If Her Majesty is pleased from time to time to make regulations respecting the registration of deaths and births occurring and marriages solemnized out of the United Kingdom among officers and soldiers of Her Majesty's land forces and their families or any of them the register kept from time to time in pursuance of the said regulations shall in manner provided by the regulations for the time being in force be authenticated and transmitted to the Registrar General of Births and Deaths in England

Transmission to Registrar of registers of births deaths and marriages of army kept in pursuance of Her Majesty's regulations

Where it appears from any such register that an officer or soldier whose death or marriage is entered therein or to whose family a person whose death marriage or birth is entered therein belonged was a Scotch or Irish subject of Her Majesty the Registrar General of Births and Deaths in England shall as soon as may be after receiving the register send a certified copy of so much thereof as relates to such death marriage or birth to the Registrar General of Births and Deaths in Scotland or Ireland, as the case may require

Every Registrar General of Births and Deaths to whom a register or certified copy of a register is sent in pursuance of this section shall cause the same to be filed and preserved in or copied in a book to be kept by him for the purpose and to be called the Army Register Book and such book shall be deemed to be a certified copy of the register book within the meaning of the Acts relating to the registration of births and deaths in England, Scotland and Ireland respectively

3 Whereas, under the directions of Her Majesty or of one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State or the Commander in Chief or other lawful authority various documents, such as registers, muster rolls and pay lists have been kept showing the deaths and births which have occurred and the marriages which have been solemnized among officers and soldiers of Her Majesty's land forces and their families

Provision as to existing documents evidencing deaths marriages and births among officers and soldiers of the army and their families

And whereas it is expedient to make further provision respecting the said documents

Be it therefore enacted as follows

Where any of such documents or any certified extracts thereof made under the direction of one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State have either before or after the passing of this Act been transmitted to the Registrar General of Births and Deaths in England such documents or extracts shall be deemed to be in the legal custody of the said Registrar General and shall be admissible in evidence and a copy of any such document or extract of or any part thereof purporting to be certified to be a true copy under the seal of the Register Office of the Registrar General shall be admissible in evidence of such document, extract or part

4 Nothing in this Act shall apply to any deaths marriages or births which occur in the United Kingdom except where the same occurred before the commencement of this Act

Saving as to births deaths and marriages in the United Kingdom

5 This Act shall come into operation on the first day of July one thousand eight hundred and seventy nine which day is in this Act referred to as the commencement of this Act

42 & 43 VIC, CHAPTER 29

An Act to remove doubts as to the validity of certain Marriages of British subjects on Board Her Majesty's ships

WHEREAS Officers Commanding Her Majesty's ships on foreign stations have permitted marriages to be solemnized according to religious rites or ceremonies or to be contracted per verba de presenti in the presence of such officers, in the belief that marriages were authorized by law to be so solemnized and contracted and doubts have arisen with respect to the validity of such marriages, and it is expedient to confirm the same

Be it therefore enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same as follows

1 This Act may be cited as the Confirmation of Marriages on Her Majesty's Ships Act 1879

Short title

2 All marriages both of the parties being British subjects, which before the passing of this Act have been solemnized on board one of Her Majesty's vessels on a foreign station in the presence of the officer commanding such vessel whether solemnized according to any religious rite or ceremony or contracted per verba de presenti shall be valid in like manner as if the same had been so solemnized within Her Majesty's dominions with the due observance of all forms required by law

Confirmation of marriages of British subjects on board Her Majesty's ships

Provided that this enactment shall not render valid any marriage which before the passing of this Act has been declared invalid by any Court of competent jurisdiction in any proceeding touching such marriage or any right dependent on the validity or invalidity thereof or render valid any marriage where either of the parties has before the passing of this Act and during the life of the other party lawfully intermarried with any person

Report by the Head Commissioner of the Department of the Issue of Paper Currency on the operations of the Department during the year 1878 79

RESOLUTION—The average aggregate value of the notes issued by the Paper Currency Department outstanding on the last day of each calendar month in the year 1878 79, was 1 319 lakhs being less by only 6 lakhs than the corresponding value in the previous year

2 The circulation fell off considerably towards the end of 1878 79, and continued low till June 1879 Since then it has again been rising and in January 1880 it attained a figure but little lower than the maximum attained in 1878 79

3 The maximum circulation was 1 427 lakhs in August and the minimum 1 147 lakhs in May, a range of 280 lakhs as compared with 149 lakhs in 1875 76, 202 lakhs in 1876 77, 463 lakhs in 1877 78 and 306 lakhs in 1879 80

4 The following statistics may be considered in connection with these facts about the note circulation —

(IN LAKHS OF RUPEES)

	Average note circulation	Silver: Net amount imported	Silver: Coin at the Indian Mints	Security reserve
1874 75	1 067	464	490	569
1875 76	1 135	155	250	569
1876 77	1 164	720	627	600
1877 78	1 325	1 468	1 618	569
1878 79	1 319	397	721	600
1879 80	1,280	787	842	600

5 In 1878 79 notes were issued for value received at the Mints amounting to 598 lakhs as compared with 1,575 lakhs issued in the previous year

6 The notes issued by sub circles that were cashed at the Presidency offices as required by law were as follows —

	1876 77	1877 78	1878 79
Calcutta	216	141	88
Madras	69	76	91
Bombay	23	14	27
Total	338	231	209

The corresponding amounts for previous years were—

	Lakhs
1875 76	411

The reduction in Calcutta since 1873 74, the year of the Bengal famine, is more than 200 lakhs But the demand on Madras and Bombay is rapidly increasing

7 The accommodation afforded to the public at treasuries and by encashment of foreign circle notes in Currency Offices was also slightly reduced, as it was found necessary to prohibit the concession in the Allahabad and Lahore offices

8 The total value of notes remitted through the Currency Offices and Treasuries compares with the previous years as follows —

	1875 76	1876 77	1877 78	1878 79
Sub circle notes cashed at Presidency Offices	411	338	231	209

9 The remittances of coin during the year amounted to 411 lakhs as compared with 525 lakhs in the previous year this amount was made up chiefly of remittances to Allahabad Kurrachee and Lahore for the Afghan war The cost was Rs 1 04,920 as compared with Rs 1,41 147 in 1877 78 The amount negotiated by bills and transfers was 555 lakhs of which 364 lakhs were remitted to Calcutta to adjust the notes issued against bullion in Bombay and remitted by the importers to Calcutta to pay for opium The premium realised during the year was Rs 74 703 Besides the surplus of the famine silver was withdrawn from Madras and shipped to Rangoon under arrangements with various banks which bore the cost of freight Thus the sum total of all kinds of remittances was 1,144 lakhs and the net cost Rs 30 217

10 The receipts and issues of notes compare as follows with the previous years —

	(In lakhs)
	Receipts	Issues	Total
1875 76	6 270	6 218	12 488
1876 77	7 878	7 787	15 665
1877 78	9,953	9 626	19 579
1878 79	8 609	9 075	17 684

11 Notes for the value of 4,284 lakhs and numbering 4, 115 911, were cancelled as against 4 551 lakhs in the previous year The proportion which notes of the Calcutta circle bear to the total cancellations is 59 per cent as against 62 per cent in 1877 78

12 The figures showing the turnover of the notes in the Presidency offices given in previous reports were not rendered on a uniform plan. This has been done in the present report, and the following results are brought out —

	Calcutta			Bombay			Madras

13 The table given in paragraph 24 gives the following results. Out of a total amount of 1 173 lakhs held on the 31st December 1878 in notes and cash by Government Treasuries, Presidency Banks and their Branches, 321 lakhs or 27 per cent of the whole was in notes. In Calcutta the notes were 46 per cent of the whole amount held, at Allahabad 11 per cent, at Lahore 15 per cent, in Madras 12 per cent and in Bombay 18 per cent. The Bank of Bengal held 55 lakhs in notes and 24 lakhs in cash or 69 per cent of the whole; the Bank of Madras 8 lakhs in notes and 16 lakhs in cash, or 34 per cent of the whole, and the Bank of Bombay 62 lakhs in notes and 56 lakhs in cash, or 53 per cent of the whole.

14 The total value of lost notes paid to the end of the year was Rs 14,35 750. It is satisfactory that Government has as yet suffered no loss by these payments.

15 Forgeries have greatly increased in Bombay, and in some cases the imitation is executed with skill. The Government of India is carefully considering measures calculated to arrest the evil.

16 The net issues of small silver and copper show some increase as compared with the last two years—

	Receipts	Issues	Net
	Rs	Rs	Rs
1875-76	1 39 765	28 37 979	26 98 214
1876-77	1 76 533	19 51 160	17 74 627
1877-78	11 59 300	22 50 817	10 91 517
1878-79	1 85 119	22 82 203	20 97 084

17 The statement in paragraph 33 shows that Rs 81 318 of defaced coin has been withdrawn from circulation for recoinage. The statement is, however, not complete and it will yet take some time before an idea of the full effect of the order under which such coin is withdrawn can be obtained.

18 The transactions in Agencies compare as follows with the previous years —

	1876-77	1877-78	1878-79
Issues	41	44	52
Receipts	30	18	23
Total	71	62	75
Net issues	11	26	29

19 The net profits of the Department have been as follows —

	Receipts	Charges	Net profit
1873-74	23 71 581	4 55 976	19 15 605
1874-75	25 61 991	5 81 811	19 80 180

1878-79	23 95 196	5 18 310	18 76 886

20 The Head Commissioner explains that the decrease in the receipts of the year (Rs 54,000) is due to a delay in realising interest to the extent of Rs 47,000 and to premium paid on purchases being deducted from interest instead of being shown as a charge.

21 On the charges side there is an excess of Rs 34,000 as compared with the previous year but the cost of note forms in the year under report was more by Rs 51,000 than in the year before

From MAJOR GENERAL C R GREAVES C B Adjutant General in India to the Secretary to the Government of India Military Department —(No 2937A Field Operations dated Simla the 22nd June 1880)

In forwarding the accompanying summary of the operations of the Naga Field Force lately under command of Brigadier General Nation I am directed by the Commander in Chief to commend to the favorable notice of the Government of India the services rendered by Brigadier General Nation and the officers and men under his command

No 108 of the 6th May 1880 From Brigadier General J L Nation

2 The capture of Konoma has already been reported to Government, and the gallantry and devotion of the troops on that occasion has been brought prominently to notice

3 It only remains to say in regard to the operations generally that though they have been protracted they have been in the end completely successful and looking to the arduous nature of the service and the difficulties of supply and transport in the country devoid of roads His Excellency trusts that Government will concur with him in considering the delay unavoidable

From BRIGADIER GENERAL J L NATION Commanding the Naga Hills Field Force to the Adjutant General in India —(No 108 dated Shillong the 6th May 1880)

I have the honor to submit, for the information of His Excellency the Commander in Chief in India the following summary of the operations of the Naga Hills Field Force lately under my command

2 Mr Damant the Political Officer of the Naga Hills was murdered by the Nagas of Konoma on the 14th October 1879 and his escort was cut up and dispersed During the next few days many of the adjacent villages rebelled and took up arms against the British Government and surrounded the stockade at Kohima This rebellion, and the strait to which the slender garrison of Kohima was reduced rendered immediate measures necessary

3 The news of the rising reached me on the 19th October 1879 The 44th Native Infantry which had lately left the province en route to Kabul were fortunately on their way back to Assam their services not being required in Afghanistan I telegraphed orders at once for the regiment to proceed to Golaghat and I applied for two mountain guns On the night of the 21st I telegraphed to the Officer Commanding the 43rd Native Infantry at Dibrughar to send 150 men at once under command of Major Evans to relieve Kohima This detachment left Dibrughar on the morning of the 23rd October and pushing on as quickly as possible reached Kohima on the 30th on the eighth day from Dibrughar

4 In the meantime however Lieutenant Colonel Johnstone Political Agent of Manipur had marched to Kohima with a large body of Manipuri troops and had relieved the garrison on the 27th October

The 44th Native Infantry under Colonel Nuttall C B reached Golaghat on the 1st November and pushed on at once to Piphima which was reached on the 9th this being one of the hostile villages was destroyed

6 I reached Golaghat on the 5th November and Piphima on the 10th Here I found it necessary to employ the 44th Native Infantry in opening up a new trail toward Suchema and in making it practicable for elephants The political path had been cut away by the enemy with the object of arresting our onward progress

I wished also to communicate with Lieutenant Colonel Johnstone the Political Officer who was at Kohima

7 I ascertained that the enemy were in force at Konoma which place they had strongly fortified and I accordingly decided to concentrate my force at Suchema a village situated in a very commanding position at the entrance to the valley in which Konoma stands and in close proximity to Konoma and Jotsoma both hostile and to Mozema which was friendly but only in name Suchema itself was also hostile

8 Colonel Nuttall marched with his regiment the 44th Native Infantry on the 14th November to Suchema which was attacked and partially destroyed the next day, sufficient huts being left standing to shelter the troops The 44th lost one man killed and one wounded (mortally)

9 I moved my head-quarters on the 15th November to Suchema, leaving Major Evans at Piphima with his detachment of the 43rd Native

Infantry with orders to burn the village of Sephima, distant some 12 miles. Salopa, the chief of this village, had in former years been friendly to the British Government, but on this occasion he had not supplied coolies when ordered to do so, and had been reported by the Chief Political Officer as an offender in other respects. Major Evans carried out this order on the 16th November, meeting with considerable opposition. His casualties were Lieutenant Maxwell, Assistant Political Officer, wounded in two places; two sepoys severely wounded (both since dead), and one slightly wounded.

10. Major Evans with the detachment 43rd Native Infantry joined my camp at Suchema on the 18th November. On the 21st the mountain guns under Lieutenant Mansel, R.A., came up, and on the 22nd Konoma was attacked and captured. The particulars of the action have already been reported to His Excellency.

11. On the 24th November I moved the wounded to Suchema, to which place I returned myself on the 25th, leaving a garrison of 200 men of the 44th Native Infantry at Konoma under Lieutenant Colonel Walker, with instruction to utterly destroy the village. Lieutenant Colonel Walker carried this out during the ensuing two months. He was harassed night and day by the enemy (who had established themselves in the Chukha fort on the higher ridge of the Burail range) and lost several men killed and wounded.

12. Lieutenant Colonel Johnstone, the Chief Political Officer, now wished me to proceed with active operations without any delay, his immediate object being to attack the village of Cheswijuma in the Eastern Angami country, where the hostile clan of Kohima had taken refuge; but I was quite unable to meet his wishes, as I had neither transport nor supplies. Moreover, until I had reduced the garrison of Konoma, which could not then be reduced, I had not sufficient men at my disposal to justify me in detaching a force to operate independently. I had telegraphed on the 24th November for 300 men of the [illegible] Native Infantry to be sent at once from Shillong, and I was compelled to wait for their arrival before resuming active operation.

13. In the meantime the adjacent village of Jotsoma was destroyed on the [illegible]th November by a force from Kohima under Lieutenant Colonel Robertson, 44th Native Infantry. The village was found to be deserted and no opposition was offered. But a party sent out from Suchema to co-operate met with a body of the enemy upon whom they inflicted some loss.

14. On the 2nd December Lieutenant Wingate, Commissariat Officer, joined me, bringing with him a small supply of stores sufficient for about four days only. The force had hitherto subsisted on what had been arranged for and brought up regimentally.

15. During the month of December, for want of men, supplies and transport, I could undertake no active operation. I was forced to confine myself to sending out small parties to search for grain and to hunt up small bodies of the enemy who were known to be hiding in the jungles in our vicinity. These parties frequently succeeded in inflicting loss on the Nagas, and a considerable quantity of grain was collected. This, though new rice, had to be made use of and utilized for the troops, though greatly against the wishes of the medical officers, who considered it unwholesome, but we had little or no choice, supplies being so limited.

16. For a great part of this time I had no Political Officer with me except Lieutenant Maxwell, whose powers were limited. Colonel Johnstone had gone first to Manipur, leaving Captain Williamson in charge at Kohima. On his return he and Captain Williamson both went down to Golaghat to confer with the Chief Commissioner of Assam. They returned on the 14th December, when Colonel Johnstone was so ill as to oblige him to return to Manipur, and Captain Williamson assumed chief political charge.

17. On the 22nd December I moved my head quarters to Kohima, taking the mountain guns with me. Colonel Nuttall, C.B., and the 44th Native Infantry remained at Suchema, where I was unable to reduce the garrison, owing to the wounded being there and most of them not in a condition to be moved to Golaghat.

18. Up to this time, owing to the want of transport, supplies had been coming up very slowly, and there had never been more than two or three days' ration in hand.

19. The wing of the 42nd Native Infantry under Captain Abbott reached Pephima on the 1[illegible]th December, and as the Nagas of Sephima under their chief Salopa had been giving trouble on the road, I ordered Captain Abbott to go with 100 men to the site of the village (which it will be remembered had been destroyed a month before by Major Evans), and to endeavour to surprise Salopa. Captain Abbott went to the village, where he found that the inhabitants had been trying to re-establish themselves. He destroyed their temporary huts and a large quantity of grain and live stock. His detachment was fired upon by the enemy, but no casualties occurred. Captain Abbott joined my camp at Kohima on the 29th December.

20. I was now in a position as regarded men and supplies to prosecute active operations, and the Chief Political Officer was able to collect Nagas from friendly villages for transport. Accordingly on the 1st January 1880 I despatched a flying column under command of Lieutenant Colonel Robertson, 44th Native Infantry, to visit the Eastern Angami country. Lieutenant Colonel Robertson destroyed the village of Cheswijuma and visited several other villages in that direction, returning by Viswema and Kigwema. The Chief Political Officer accompanied the column and inflicted heavy fines on all the villages who were at all hostile or in any way implicated in the rebellion.

21. As Colonel Nuttall, C.B., Commandant 44th Native Infantry, was about to retire from the service, and as I required an officer of standing and experience, I had ordered Colonel Sherriff, Commandant [illegible]nd Native Infantry, to bring his regimental head quarters to Kohima, and he joined me there on the [illegible]th January.

22. The village of Kohima had (with the exception of the Chitonma Khel) been friendly to our cause all along, and had hitherto freely given labour; but on the 17th January, having been ordered to furnish a number of coolies, the village refused compliance. Accordingly, at the requisition of the Chief Political Officer, a rocket and two shells were fired into the village. On this part of the village furnished their quota of coolies. As the remainder still continued obstinate

I occupied their part of the village with troops and ordered some houses to be plundered and live stock destroyed In this one sepoy of the 44th Native Infantry was killed by a spear and one sepoy of the 42nd Native Infantry was slightly wounded The village returned to its allegiance in a few days, and has since given no trouble

23 The Chief Political Officer had informed me that the Nagas of Konoma who were still in their forts above their old village were drawing large supplies from the village of "Poplongmai" in the Kutcha Naga country to the west of Konoma As Captain Macgregor Deputy Assistant Quarter master General, had visited that part of the country in former years, I now sent him with 150 men of the 43rd and 44th Native Infantry to surprise and destroy Poplongmai He marched from Suchema on the night of the 26th January and reached his destination the following morning As soon as the enemy in the forts discovered this movement they pursued and overtook Captain Macgregor's rear guard on the morning of the 27th and attacked it wounding four sepoys On Captain Macgregor's entering the village the inhabitants offered no opposition and were apparently well disposed He therefore encamped outside During the night however some Konoma Nagas occupied the village and so Captain Macgregor found it necessary to attack and capture it which he accomplished successfully the next day with a loss of one sepoy killed He now found himself unable to return to Suchema all his Naga coolies having deserted He therefore sent in letters asking for reinforcements supplies and coolies Arrangements were at once made and a detachment 43rd Native Infantry under Lieutenant Barrett was sent with supplies Orders were also sent to Captain Macgregor to remain at Poplongmai and from thence to operate against the villages in the vicinity But in the meantime he had succeeded in obtaining coolies and had started on his return march He met my orders on the way but too late for him to retrace his steps

24 This expedition revealed the fact that the enemy attached great importance to Poplongmai and were most anxious to prevent us from taking possession of and holding it It was the nearest village from which they could easily obtain supplies in any quantity and was a convenient place in which to keep their families or to retreat to in case of necessity It was on the way to the Kuki and Manipuri country and to North Cachar and the Nagas who raided in North Cachar and killed the Manager of the Baladhun Tea Garden in January last had passed through Poplongmai and I was afterwards informed that they returned there on the very day on which Captain Macgregor left the place

25 It was therefore necessary to reoccupy it The Chief Political Officer recommended that a column should be sent from the north via Zumhi Pum Tehema Berima visiting the Kuki country en route On the 7th February I despatched Captain Abbott 42nd Native Infantry with 150 men 42nd and 43rd Native Infantry He was much delayed for want of coolies and did not reach Poplongmai till the 9th March instead of about the 28th February as was expected This delay was due to various causes and the country over which he marched was an extremely difficult one He met with no opposition

26 Early in February I reinforced the garrison of Konoma, raising it to 250 men, and I placed Lieutenant Colonel Robertson, 44th Native Infantry in command there, with instructions to devote the whole of his attention to harassing the Konoma Nagas I hoped that by making it impossible for them to move about in safety and by cutting them off from Poplongmai, I should compel them to surrender or starve On the 9th February Lieutenant Colonel Robertson's patrols had a sharp skirmish with the enemy, in which the 44th Native Infantry lost two sepoys killed one non commissioned officer and three sepoys wounded, the Nagas also lost seven men killed

27 At this time the enemy made a most determined attack on our post at Nichi Guard on the Golaghat road, with the avowed purpose of capturing some muzzle-loading ammunition which was stored there They attacked on four nights each time unsuccessfully and finally withdrew The 12nd Native Infantry held the post and lost two sepoys wounded Sergeant Baker of the Commissariat Department who was stationed at Nichi Guard at the time rendered excellent service on each occasion of attack

28 On the 13th February I found myself compelled to ask for more troops The raid on the Baladhun Garden in North Cachar had raised apprehensions of other raids being committed on the Nowgong and Sibsagar side I could not spare a single man to send to the gardens in those districts The line of telegraph was advancing towards Kohima and the construction parties required guards and escorts Work had also commenced on the road under Mr Noyce Executive Engineer and the Police could not furnish sufficient escorts The line of communication was a very long one (over 100 miles) and was in parts a dangerous one necessitating guards at frequent intervals and strong escort for convoys and dak I also had to consider the necessity of bringing more force to bear on the Konoma Nagas Hitherto the supply of rasad had not been constant enough to warrant my bringing more troops to the front but supplies were now coming forward more regularly I therefore asked for a wing of a Native regiment to be sent and a wing of the 18th Native Infantry at Jalpiguri was ordered to move to Golaghat where it arrived on the 12th March having detached half a company to the Nowgong district

29 Up to the 22nd February out of the thirteen villages who were in arms against us at the commencement of hostilities ten had submitted only three held out namely Konoma the Chitonoma Khel of Kohima and Sephema

30 I had determined after much deliberation to reduce the Konoma men by a close blockade Every examination of the position they occupied on the upper ridges of the Burail range convinced me that to storm their defences would be to sacrifice life without obtaining any material advantage Had we stormed their position and driven them out they would have suffered little loss themselves being so little exposed to our fire and they would have dispersed over the country They would thus have been far more dangerous to us than they were shut up in their forts they would in all likelihood have spread over our line of communications ambushed our convoys and inflicted great loss on our escorts and this would perhaps have prolonged the campaign to another cold season which I was of course most anxious to avoid

31 It was necessary to find out and close the paths by which the enemy obtained supplies from other villages. For this purpose I directed Captain MacGregor to reconnoitre the country to the east of the Chukka Forts. He went out on the 22nd February and found the path leading towards Kigwema and the Eastern Angami country. He came across two parties of the enemy taking supplies to the forts and dispersed them, killing and wounding five men. In this reconnaissance Captain MacGregor and the party with him (43rd and 44th Native Infantry) marched 30 miles consecutively—a most noteworthy march considering the country traversed.

32. I was most anxiously awaiting news from Captain Abbott, as until he reached and occupied Poplongmai I could not commence the close blockade I contemplated. But he was, as I before stated, forced to make a longer detour than was originally intended, and did not reach Poplongmai till the 9th March.

33. In the meantime the Chief Commissioner of Assam was coming to Kohima from Manipur, and I was obliged to detach a strong escort to bring him in from Viswema; nor did I feel justified in reducing the force at Kohima until he had reached the plains. He arrived at Kohima on the 1st March and left again on the 11th.

34. On the 4th March I occupied Kigwema with a party of 50 men 43rd Native Infantry under a Native officer. This had the effect of closing the path to the Eastern Angami country, and the enemy now began to show signs of submission, for they sent in emissaries to ascertain what terms would be granted them.

35. But Captain Abbott having reached Poplongmai, it became necessary to send out supplies for his detachment, and I accordingly ordered a convoy to go to him escorted by 75 men 44th Native Infantry under Lieutenant Henderson. This convoy started on the 10th March from Konoma. The coolies carrying the stores were chiefly Nagas of Mozema. After proceeding for about 7 miles the convoy was suddenly fired upon from both sides of the road by Nagas concealed in the jungle, and three sepoys were killed and one wounded. The coolies threw down their loads and refused to proceed, many made off into the jungle and never appeared again, and a large quantity of the supplies was lost. This affair was nearly terminating disastrously for the whole party, but Lieutenant Henderson judiciously determined to return, protecting his wounded men and what he could save of the stores. The enemy were so effectually concealed on this occasion that Lieutenant Henderson states that he did not even see the smoke of their guns when they fired on him.

36. The Political Officer now arranged with friendly Nagas of Mozema, Jotsoma and Suchema that they should take supplies to Captain Abbott without any escort, and they accordingly started, but were turned back by Konoma Nagas. Captain Abbott, however, succeeded in obtaining supplies by another route from Zumha Puni, and was thus enabled to hold his position at Poplongmai.

37. Their success in stopping supplies from going to Poplongmai emboldened the enemy, who ceased to treat for terms. But I was now in a position to close in on them and blockade them. During the previous month I had thrown into Konoma two months' provisions for 250 men, so I had no anxiety as to being able to feed the blockading force (which would consist of about 700 men), and more provisions were coming forward to Suchema.

38. Accordingly on the 14th March I sent Colonel Sherriff, Commanding 42nd Native Infantry, with 100 men of his regiment to Konoma to take command there, with instructions to reconnoitre and patrol constantly in the vicinity. On the 15th I occupied Jotsoma with 150 men of the 43rd and 44th Native Infantry, and on the 19th I placed 100 of the 44th in Mozema. Captain MacGregor and Lieutenant Mansell, Royal Artillery, had already reconnoitred on the Basoma ridge to the east of the Chukka Forts, and had selected a spot from which it was possible to shell the enemy's works, though at a long range.

39. On the 22nd March I moved my head-quarters to Konoma, the Chief Political Officer taking up his quarters on the same day in the adjacent village of Mozema. On the 23rd the mountain guns were moved to Jotsoma in readiness to be placed in position on the Basoma ridge, and on the 24th the 18th Native Infantry under Lieutenant-Colonel De Brett reached Suchema.

40. As soon as the Nagas in the forts saw these operations in progress they sent emissaries to treat, who met Captain Williamson at Mozema on the 22nd. But as they still hesitated, I posted a strong detachment of the 43rd and 44th Native Infantry on the Basoma ridge on the 26th March, and on the same day moved up 100 men of the 18th Native from Suchema to Konoma. On that afternoon Captain Williamson informed me that the Nagas had fully submitted.

41. On the 27th the enemy evacuated the Chukka Forts, of which I took possession on the following day, placing a detachment of the 44th Native Infantry in occupation. These forts, with all their defences, have since been completely destroyed.

42. The submission of Konoma was speedily followed by that of Sephema and the Chitonoma Khel of Kohima, and nothing more remained to be done except to enforce our terms and to take measures to guard against any re-occupation of their land by the Konoma Nagas. For this purpose I remained at Mozema with Captain Williamson till the 15th April, on which date I proceeded down the road, arriving at Golaghat on the 21st April. On the 22nd I broke up the Naga Hill Field Force.

43. From the foregoing narrative I think it will be seen that after the fall of Konoma on the 22nd November 1879 it was impossible to lay down any fixed plan of operations, neither were any called for on a large scale, as the tactics of the enemy became those of strictly guerilla warfare, and the Naga proved himself the most wily and skilful enemy we have yet met with on this frontier. With the exception of the Konoma men who retired into the Chukka Forts, the enemy scattered in small bodies to their respective villages to spread disaffection and rebellion against our rule. At the commencement of hostilities thirteen villages were in arms against us, and all these had to be dealt with in succession and gradually brought into submission. They were all more or less severely punished by fine of money and grain, and have been deprived of their firearms. Several villages which deserved punishment for aiding and abetting the rebellion furnished our only transport service in the hills, and had therefore to be temporized with lest supplies at the front should cease

44 Except at Konoma there have been no serious engagements to record but the long list of casualties will I think prove the nature of the work on which the troops have been engaged and I do not think that any force has had more harassing and arduous duties to perform For some portion of the time the troops have been on three quarter rations as supplies could not be got forward in sufficient quantities and this has told greatly on the general health of the force

45 As regards the duration of the campaign I am more and more convinced daily that the prolonged military occupation of the country and the policy of forcing submission on the enemy was the best course that could have been pursued Had the Konoma men been earlier ejected from their forts before the other hostile villages had been dealt with there is no doubt that they would have dispersed all over the hills and infested our line of communication Indeed they might have prolonged matters and caused the final settlement to be postponed till next cold season But the occupation of the country for so long by such a large body of troops has inflicted serious punishment on all concerned as we have drawn largely on their supplies of grain and labour and this will have a far more lasting effect than if we had marched into the country destroyed a few villages and retired again as has hitherto been the case The men of Konoma formerly the terror of the hills have been entirely broken up and dispersed their fortified village levelled with the ground and their magnificent stone faced terraced land the work of generations has been confiscated They have also been deprived of their arms and a heavy fine in money has been exacted from them and this with the punishment inflicted on other offending villages will I trust satisfy the Government that the objects of the expedition have been attained

46 I trust I may be pardoned in saying that I consider that no expedition in this part has worked under greater disadvantages than this one owing to the utter want of reliable transport both for military movements and supplies arising from the hasty manner in which troops had to be thrown into the country to avenge the murder of our Political Officer All our movements required two or three days previous notice for Naga coolies to be collected They were supplied most reluctantly and among them were doubtless the people of our enemies It was necessary to exercise the greatest vigilance over them all along the route to see that the guns were not thrown down or injured or spare ammunition made off with into the dense forest and jungles Furnished as our transport has been with this style of coolie transport it is hardly surprising that the Naga enemy was always prepared for us and that our men were ambushed all along the road I think it is acknowledged that the most difficult warfare is that against an unseen enemy and this has been our lot throughout In almost every encounter our loss was five or six killed and wounded while that inflicted on the enemy was unknown The Naga invariably carries off his killed or wounded into the jungle whereas ours have to be instantly protected and attended to otherwise they are mercilessly decapitated dead or alive and their arms and ammunition carried off Our men too heavily weighted with accoutrements and strong heavy boots have no chance with the half naked agile Naga who escape through the jungle unseen and unheard

47 In conclusion, it is my pleasing duty to bring to His Excellency's notice the praiseworthy services rendered by the troops engaged namely the 42nd 43rd 44th Native Infantry and latterly the 18th Native Infantry Officers and men deserve my warmest commendations for the soldierlike and ready way in which they have invariably done their duty and for the patience with which they have endured hardships and privations of no common kind The work throughout has been of an exceptionally arduous nature chiefly owing to the very difficult country in which we have had to operate and all ranks have worked well and willingly throughout

But I must bring to His Excellency's special notice the very valuable services performed by the 44th Regiment (Sylhet Light Infantry) The part taken by them in the capture of Konoma on the 22nd November last has already received Sir F Haines approbation and from the long list of their casualties (which have been greatly in excess of those of other regiments engaged) it will be apparent that in all operations the 44th always took a prominent part and to both officers and men of this gallant regiment I beg to express my sincerest thanks

48 In addition to the officers mentioned in my letter of the 3rd December last I beg most strongly to recommend to His Excellency's consideration my personal staff Major Evans Officiating Deputy Assistant Adjutant General has at all times afforded me the most valuable assistance and has proved himself a very efficient Staff Officer Major Evans rapid move from Dibrughar to the relief of Kohima has been already specially reported to His Excellency and had he only received two days earlier notice than he did he would have run Colonel Johnstone and the Manipur troops very close in the honour of relieving the garrison

Captain MacGregor Deputy Assistant Quartermaster General is a very hard working officer and from his previous knowledge of the Naga Hills was of great assistance to me He was always ready and volunteered for any duty that was of a particularly arduous nature and he made some very trying marches through the hills to obtain me information

Lieutenant Wingate the only Commissariat Officer with the Force has done excellent service under most trying transport difficulties and has my best thanks

Surgeon O'Brien 44th Native Infantry [illegible] great praise for the admirable arrangements that were at all times made for the large number of sick and wounded throughout the operations and I beg to recommend him to His Excellency

The great political ability displayed by Captain Williamson the Chief Political Officer with the Force has gained my greatest admiration and will I feel sure be duly acknowledged but as in addition to his civil duties he invariably accompanied my force that took the field it was more due to his personal knowledge of the hills and tribes that success attended our operations than from information obtained elsewhere and therefore I beg to most specially recommend him to His Excellency's favorable notice as also Lieutenant Maxwell his most able assistant who was wounded in two places at the attack on the village of Sephema in November last

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT

[Third publication]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 2nd July 1880, and is hereby promulgated for general information —

ACT No XI OF 1880

An Act to provide for the appointment of an Additional Recorder of Rangoon, and for other purposes

Preamble

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the temporary appointment from time to time of an Additional Recorder to assist the Recorder of Rangoon , and whereas it is also expedient to remove certain doubts which exist as to the jurisdiction of the said Recorder under section sixty two of the Burma Courts Act 1875 It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title

1 This Act may be called The Burma Courts Act 1880

Commencement

and it shall come into force at once

Appointment of Additional Recorder

2 The Governor General in Council may from time to time by notification in the Gazette of India, appoint to be an Additional Recorder and to sit as such in the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon, such person as he thinks fit, being a Barrister of not less than five years standing, or a person who has for at least three years served as a District Judge or exercised the like powers as those of a District Judge

Every person so appointed shall hold his office during the pleasure of the Governor General in Council

Cases to be disposed of by Additional Recorder

3 Every Additional Recorder appointed under section two shall sit at such of the places at which under the said Act the Recorder's Court can be held as the Chief Commissioner of British Burma from time to time directs, and shall dispose of such cases now or hereafter pending in the said Recorder's Court under any enactment for the time being in force as the said Chief Commissioner or Recorder may from time to time, direct and in the disposal of such cases shall administer the same law, follow the same procedure exercise the same powers and use the same seal as would be administered followed, exercised and used by the said Recorder in like cases

All decrees orders and sentences made or passed in such cases by any such Additional Recorder shall, for the purposes of the law relating to appeals references and revision be deemed to be made or passed by the Recorder

The Chief Commissioner may at any time cancel any direction given under this section requiring the Additional Recorder to dispose of a case

Additional Recorder to sit in Special Court in place of Recorder

4 The Additional Recorder shall also sit in the place of the Recorder as a member of the Special Court established under Chapter V of the said Act, for the disposal of such cases as the Chief Commissioner directs, and shall, while so sitting, take precedence according to the same rule as the Recorder and exercise all the powers and perform all the duties which under the said Act may be exercised and performed by the Recorder as a member of such Special Court

Section 80 of the Burma Courts Act to apply when Additional Recorder sits in Special Court

5 Whenever, in cases tried by the Judicial Commissioner and Additional Recorder of Rangoon sitting together as a Special Court without a Commissioner, a difference of opinion arises, the rules prescribed by section eighty of the said Act shall be observed, the words "Additional Recorder" being substituted for the word "Recorder" wherever it occurs in the said rules

6 For the first paragraph of section sixty two of the said Burma Courts Act, 1875, the following paragraph shall be substituted —

"Notwithstanding any thing hereinbefore contained, the Recorder shall have all the powers of a High Court, under the Code of Criminal Procedure in respect of offences committed by European British subjects and persons charged jointly with European British subjects within British Burma"

An Act for the appointment of persons to the office of Kazi

WHEREAS by the preamble to Act No XI of 1864 (An Act to repeal the law relating to the offices of Hindu and Muhammadan Law Officers and to the offices of Kází-ul-Kuzaat and of Kazi, and to abolish the former offices) it was (among other things) declared that it was inexpedient that the appointment of the Kázi ul Kuzaat or of City Town or Pargana Kázis should be made by the Government and by the same Act the enactments relating to the appointment by the Government of the said officers were repealed and whereas by the usage of the Muhammadan community in some parts of British India the presence of Kázis appointed by the Government is required at the celebration of marriages and the performance of certain other rites and ceremonies and it is therefore expedient that the Government should again be empowered to appoint persons to the office of Kázi, It is hereby enacted as follows —

1 This Act may be called "The Kazis Act 1880",

Commencement.

Local extent

It extends in the first instance only to the territories administered by the Governor of Fort St George in Council But any other Local Government may from time to time by notification in the official Gazette extend it to the whole or any part of the territories under its administration

Power to Government to appoint Kázis for any local area

2 Whenever it appears to the Local Government that any considerable number of the Muhammadans resident in any local area desire that one or more Kázis should be appointed for such local area the Local Government, may, if it thinks fit, after consulting the principal Muhammadan residents of such local area, select one or more fit persons and appoint him or them to be Kázis for such local area

If any question arises whether any person has been rightly appointed Kází under this section, the decision thereof by the Local Government shall be conclusive

The Local Government may, if it thinks fit suspend or remove any Kází appointed under this section who is guilty of any misconduct in the execution of his office, or who is for a continuous period of six months absent from the local area for which he is appointed or leaves such local area for the purpose of residing elsewhere or is declared an insolvent, or desires to be discharged from the office or who refuses or becomes in the opinion of the Local Government unfit or personally incapable to discharge the duties of the office

Náib Kázis

3 Any Kazi appointed under this Act may appoint one or more persons as his náib or naibs to act in his place in all or any of the matters appertaining to his office throughout the whole or in any portion of the local area for which he is appointed and may suspend or remove any náib so appointed

When any Kazi is suspended or removed under section two his naib or naibs (if any) shall be deemed to be suspended or removed as the case may be

4 Nothing herein contained and no appointment made hereunder shall be deemed—

Nothing in Act to confer judicial or other powers on Kázi or

(a) to confer any judicial or administrative powers on any Kázi or Naib Kází appointed hereunder or to render the presence of a Kazi necessary or

(b) to render the presence of a Kází or Náib Kázi necessary at the celebration of any marriage or the performance of any rite or ceremony or to prevent any one acting as Kazi

(c) to prevent any person discharging any of the functions of a Kazi

(8) "vaccination season" means the period from time to time fixed by the Local Government for any local area under its administration by notification in the official Gazette, during which alone vaccination may be performed under this Act

Extension of Act to municipalities.

3. A majority in number of the persons present at a meeting of the Municipal Commissioners specially convened in this behalf may apply to the Local Government to extend this Act to the whole or any part of a municipality, and thereupon the Local Government may, if it thinks fit, by notification published in the official Gazette, declare its intention to extend this Act in the manner proposed.

Any inhabitant of such municipality or part thereof who objects to such extension may, within six weeks from the date of such publication, send his objection in writing to the Secretary to the Local Government, and the Local Government shall take such objection into consideration. When six weeks from the said publication have expired, the Local Government, if no such objections have been sent as aforesaid, or (when such objections have been so sent) if in its opinion they are insufficient, may, by like notification, effect the proposed extension.

Extension to cantonments.

4. The Local Government may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, by notification in the local official Gazette, extend this Act to the whole or any part of a military cantonment.

Power to withdraw local areas from operation of Act.

5. The Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, withdraw any local area in a municipality, or, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, any local area in a cantonment, from the operation of this Act.

Prohibition of inoculation.

6. In any local area to which the provisions of this Act apply, inoculation shall be prohibited; and no person who has undergone inoculation shall enter such area before the lapse of forty days from the date of the operation without a certificate from a medical practitioner of such class as the Local Government may from time to time by written order authorize to grant such certificates, stating that such person is no longer likely to produce small-pox by contact or near approach.

Inoculated persons not to enter local areas subject to Act.

Vaccination circles.

7. Every local area to which this Act applies shall be a vaccination circle, or shall, in manner hereinafter provided, be divided into a number of such circles;

Vaccinators.

one or more vaccinators shall be appointed, in manner hereinafter provided, for each such circle; and one or more Superintendents of vaccination shall be appointed in manner hereinafter provided for each such local area.

Superintendents of vaccination.

Private vaccinators.

8. The Local Government may by written licence authorize private vaccinators to perform vaccination in any vaccination circle, and may suspend or cancel any such license.

Unprotected children to be vaccinated.

9. When any unprotected child having attained the age of six months has resided for a period of one month during the vaccination season in any local area to which the provisions of this Act apply, and has not at the expiration of such period attained the age, if a boy, of fourteen years, and if a girl of eight years, the parent or guardian of such child shall take it, or cause it to be taken, to a vaccinator to be vaccinated, or send for a vaccinator to vaccinate it.

Such vaccinator shall vaccinate the child and deliver to its parent or guardian a memorandum stating the date on which the vaccination has been performed and the date on which the child is to be inspected in order to ascertain the result of the operation, or shall, if he finds such child in a state unfit for vaccination, deliver to its parent or guardian a certificate under his hand to the effect that the child is in a state unfit for vaccination for the whole or part of the current vaccination season.

Inspection after vaccination.

10. The parent or guardian of every child which has been vaccinated under section nine shall, on the date of inspection stated in the memorandum, take the child or cause it to be taken to a vaccinator for inspection, or get it inspected at his own house by a vaccinator; and such vaccinator shall then append to the memorandum a certificate stating that the child has been inspected and the result of such inspection.

[illegible]

11. When it is ascertained at the time of inspecting a child under section ten that the vaccination has been successful, a certificate shall be delivered by the vaccinator to the parent or guardian of such child to that effect, and such child shall thereafter be deemed to be protected.

[illegible]

12. When it is ascertained as aforesaid that the vaccination has been unsuccessful, the parent or guardian shall, if the vaccinator so direct, cause the child to be forthwith again vaccinated and subsequently inspected in manner hereinbefore provided.

[illegible]

13. A certificate granted under section nine showing the unfitness of a child for vaccination shall remain in force for the period stated therein, and on the termination of that period, or, if that period terminates after the vaccination season is over, when the next vaccination season begins, the parent or guardian of such child shall take the child or cause it to be taken to a vaccinator to be vaccinated, or procure its vaccination at his own house by a vaccinator:

Provided that if the child is still found to be in a state unfit for vaccination, the certificate granted under section nine shall be renewed.

14. If the Superintendent of vaccination is of opinion that a child which has been three times unsuccessfully vaccinated is insusceptible of successful vaccination, he shall deliver to the parent or guardian of such child a certificate under his hand to that effect, and the parent or guardian shall thenceforth not be required to cause the child to be vaccinated.

What lymph to be used.

15. The vaccination of a child shall ordinarily be performed with such lymph as may be prescribed by the rules to be made under this Act.

Provided that,

1st, if animal lymph is so prescribed and the parent or guardian of any child desires that such child shall be vaccinated with human lymph, it shall be so vaccinated, and

2nd, if in any local area in which animal lymph is procurable human lymph is so prescribed and the parent or guardian of any child desires that such child should be vaccinated with animal lymph and tenders to the vaccinator the amount of such fee, not exceeding one rupee, as may be fixed by such rules in this behalf, such child shall be so vaccinated

No fee to be charged except by private vaccinator

16 No fee shall be charged by any vaccinator except a private vaccinator to the parent or guardian of any child for any of the duties imposed on such vaccinator by or under the provisions of this Act

Proviso

Provided that it shall be lawful for a vaccinator to accept a fee for vaccinating a child by request of the parent or guardian elsewhere than in the circle for which such vaccinator is appointed

Duties of Superintendent of vaccination

17 The Superintendent of vaccination in addition to the other duties imposed on him by or under the provisions of this Act shall ascertain whether all unprotected children under the age of fourteen years if boys and under the age of eight years if girls within the local area under his superintendence have been vaccinated and if he has reason to believe that the parent or guardian of any such child is bound by the provisions hereinbefore contained to procure the vaccination of such child or to present it for inspection and has omitted so to do he shall personally

Notice to parent or guardian to comply with Act

go to the house of such parent or guardian and there make enquiry and shall if the fact is proved forthwith deliver to such parent or guardian or cause to be affixed to his house a notice requiring that the child be vaccinated or (as the case may be) that it be presented for inspection at a time and place to be specified in such notice

Order by Magistrate when notice not complied with

18 If such notice is not complied with the Superintendent of vaccination shall report the matter to the Magistrate of the District or such Magistrate as the Local Government or the Magistrate of the District may from time to time appoint in this behalf and the Magistrate receiving such report shall summon the parent or guardian of the child and demand his explanation and shall if such explanation is not satisfactory make an order in writing directing such parent or guardian to comply with the notice before a date specified in the order

Procedure when order not obeyed

If on such date the order has not been obeyed the Magistrate shall summon the parent or guardian before him and unless just cause or excuse is shown shall deal with the disobedience as an offence punishable under section twenty two

Magistrates to be non official natives

The Magistrates appointed under this section shall as far as is conveniently practicable be natives of India, and not paid servants of the Government

Power to make rules for municipalities.

19 When this Act has been applied to any municipality or any part thereof the Municipal Commissioners may, from time to time make rules consistent with this Act for the proper enforcement of this Act within the limits to which it applies Such rules shall be made in the manner in which under the law for the time being in force the Commissioners make rules or bye laws for the regulation of other matters within the limits of the municipality and shall when confirmed by the Local Government and published in the official Gazette, have the force of law

Provided that the Local Government may at any time rescind or modify any such rule

Power to make rules for cantonments

20 When this Act has been applied to any cantonment or any part thereof, the Local Government may from time to time subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, make such rules

What rules under sections 19 and 20 may provide for

21 The rules to be made for any local area under sections nineteen or twenty may among other matters, provide for—

(a) the division of such local area into circles for the performance of vaccination

(b) the appointment of a place in each vaccination circle as a public vaccine station and the posting at some distinguishing mark in a conspicuous place near such station

(c) the qualifications to be required of public vaccinators and Superintendents of vaccination

(d) the authority with which their appointment suspension and dismissal shall rest

(e) the time of attendance of public vaccinators at the vaccine stations and their residence within the limits of the vaccination circles

(f) the distinguishing mark or badge to be worn by them

(g) the amount of fee chargeable by private vaccinators and their guidance generally in the performance of their duties

(h) the facilities to be afforded to people for procuring the vaccination of their children at their own houses

(i) the grant and form of certificates of successful vaccination or of unfitness for vaccination or of insusceptibility of vaccination

(j) the nature of the lymph to be used and the supply of a sufficient quantity of such lymph

(k) the fee to be paid for vaccination with animal lymph under section fifteen

(l) the fee to be paid to a public vaccinator for vaccinating a child beyond the vaccination circle at the request of the parent or guardian of the said child

(m) the preparation and keeping of registers showing,— the names of children born in such local area on or after the date of the application of this Act

the names of unprotected children born in such local area previous to the application of this Act and who are at the time the Act is applied under the age of fourteen years if boys, and of eight years if girls, the names of unprotected boys and girls respectively under those ages brought within such local area at any time after the application of this Act and who have resided there for a month the result of each vaccination or its postponement and the delivery of certificates, if any

(n) the assistance to be given by the Municipal Commissioners and municipal servants in the preparation of these registers and in other matters, and

( ) the preparation of vaccination reports and return

Punishment of offences

22 Whoever commits any of the undermentioned offences (that is to say) —

(a) violates the provisions of section six

(b) neglects without just excuse to obey an order made under section eighteen,

(c) breaks any of the rules made under section nineteen or twenty or

(d) neglects without just cause to obey an order made under section eighteen after having been previously convicted of so neglecting to obey a similar order made in respect of the same child, shall be punished as follows (that is to say) — in the case of the offence mentioned in clause (a), with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, or with both, in the case of the offences mentioned in clauses (b) and (c) with fine which may extend to fifty rupees and in the case of the offence mentioned in clause (d) with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees or with both

Municipal funds to receive fines and meet expenditure

23 The amount of all fees and fines realized and the amount of all expenditure incurred under this Act in any municipality shall respectively be credited to and paid from the municipal fund

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 9th July 1880 and was referred to a Select Committee —

No) of 1880

A Bill to amend the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act 1876

Preamble

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act 1876 in manner hereinafter appearing and to make further provision for the recovery of certain advances made in the territories administered by the Governor of Bombay in Council for purposes other than those specified in the Land Improvement Act 1871 It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title

1 This Act may be called 'The Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act 1880

Commencement

and it shall come into force at once

Repeal of sections 8 9 10 and 17 of Act No X of 1876

2 Sections eight nine ten and seventeen of the said Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act, 1876 are hereby repealed

Proviso as to second paragraph of section 17

Provided that the repeal of the second clause of the said section seventeen shall not be deemed to render invalid or illegal anything made valid or legal by the said clause

Amendment of section 32 of Act No XIV of 1869 ... of Act No X of 1876

3 To section thirty two of the Bombay Civil Courts Act No XIV of 1869 as amended by section fifteen of the said Act the following words shall be added —

' Provided that nothing in this section shall be deemed to apply to any suit merely because a municipal corporation constituted under Bombay Act No VI of 187 or any other enactment for the time being in force is a party to such suit and an officer of Government is in his official capacity a member of such corporation '

Governor in Council to make rules as to ... Act X XXVI of 1871

4 The Governor of Bombay in Council may from time to time with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council prescribe rules as to advances to be made in the territories administered by the said Governor in Council to owners and occupiers of arable land for the relief of distress the purchase of seed or cattle or any other purpose not specified in the Land Improvement Act 1871 but connected with agricultural objects Act X of 1879 s 3

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette

Recovery of such advances

5 Every advance for any such purpose which may heretofore have been made by or on behalf of the Government in the said territories and every advance which may hereafter be made under such rules shall when it becomes due be recoverable from the person to whom it was made or from any person who has become surety for the repayment thereof as if it were an arrear of land revenue due by the person to whom the advance was made or by his surety Act X of 1879 s 3

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

THE passing of the Bombay Land Revenue Code (Bombay Act No V of 1879) has rendered certain of the provisions of the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act (No X of 1876) superfluous Thus sections 9 and 10 of that Act, which provide for appeals from the proceedings of Revenue officers and for review of the orders passed on such appeals in certain specified cases are covered by the provisions of the Code, which provide for such appeals and reviews generally Again, the need for paragraph 1 of section 17 of the Act is removed by section 151 of the Code, whilst Bombay Regulation XVII of 1827, to which the second paragraph of the same section refers, is entirely repealed by the Code, sections 45 and 48 of which render lands within the sites of villages, towns and cities liable to assessment to the land revenue

2 The present Bill repeals all these provisions of the Revenue Jurisdiction Act Care, however has been taken when repealing the second clause of section 17, to add a proviso maintaining the validity which that clause gives to things done before the Act was passed

3 The opportunity has been taken to make one or two other amendments in connection with the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act which have been suggested by the Bombay Government

4 Section 8 of the Act had an intelligible meaning as it stood with its original context in Bombay Regulation V of 1830 section 1, clause 6 but as it stands alone in the Act its correct interpretation is by no means clear and as the Bombay Government state that in practice its provisions are a dead letter, it has been thought advisable to repeal it altogether by the present Bill

5 It has recently been held by the Bombay High Court (Melvill J and Kemball J) in the case of the Ahmadabad municipality (I L R 3 Bom p 116) that in a suit by or against a municipality constituted under the Bombay Municipal Act (No VI of 1873) every individual Commissioner must be regarded as a party within the meaning of section 15 of the Revenue Jurisdiction Act 1876 and that, consequently if any officers of Government are in their official capacity Commissioners such a suit can be entertained by the District Judge alone A large number of the suits in which municipalities are concerned are of a trifling nature and there appears to be no adequate reason for depriving the Subordinate Judges and the Judges of the Small Cause Courts of jurisdiction with regard to them whilst the result of confining such suits to the Court of the District Judge is to impede that officer in the disposal of the more important suits and which properly fall within the jurisdiction of his Court A proviso has therefore been added to section 54 of the Bombay Courts Act (No XIV of 1869) as amended by section 15 of the Revenue Jurisdiction Act saving from the provisions of the section suit by or against municipalities in cases in which Government officials are as such members of such municipalities

6 Lastly the third paragraph of section 17 of the Revenue Jurisdiction Act though rendering advances made by Government for purposes other than those specified in the Land Improvement Act 1871, recoverable as arrear of land revenue is restricted in its operation to the case of the persons to whom such advances have been made, and does not extend to the sureties of such persons This is an evident defect in the law Instead however of merely amending the paragraph it has been thought more expedient to repeal it altogether and to enact a new provision based on section 3 of the Northern India Takkavi Act, 1879

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 9th July, 1880, and was referred to a Select Committee —

No 10 of 1880

A Bill to exempt Pársís from certain provisions of the Administrator General's Act 1874

Preamble

WHEREAS Hindus, Muhammadans and Buddhists are exempted from the operation of certain provisions of the Administrator General's Act (No II) 1874 but are subject to the operation of certain other provisions of the said Act and whereas it is expedient that Pársís should be exempted from and be subject to the operation of the said Act to the same extent as Hindus, Muhammadans and Buddhists It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title

1 This Act may be called "The Administrator General's Act, 1880

Commencement

and it shall come into force at once

Amendment of sections 16 17 18 36 and 64 of Administrator General's Act 1874

2 In sections 16 17 18 36 and 64 respectively of the said Act between the word Muhammadan and the words or Buddhist wherever they occur the word Pársí shall be inserted

Saving of letters and certificates already granted

3 Nothing herein contained shall affect any letters of administration or certificate granted under the said Act before the passing of this Act

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

1 As the law now stands all the provisions of the Administrator General's Act (No II of 1874) apply to Pársis to the same extent as to their European and Christian fellow subjects On the other hand, Hindus Muhammadans and Buddhists though subject to certain portion of the Act which are expressly declared applicable to all persons without exception, are by the terms of the Act itself exempted from some of its most important provisions

2 So far as can be gathered from various memorials and communications on the subject which have been received the Pársis are almost unanimous in their desire to be exempted from the provisions of the Act, in the same manner and to the same extent as Hindus, Muhammadans and Buddhists

3 Briefly stated, the chief grounds on which the Pársis base their claim to exemption appear to be, first that there is no necessity for such an Act in their case, secondly, that in its operation the Act is oppressive and burdensome to them and repugnant to their social and religious customs

4 With regard to the former ground, there is no doubt that the Act was originally designed to meet the case of Europeans and other foreigners similarly situated in this country whereas Pársis are distinctly Asiatics with an Indian domicile They have always relatives or friends willing to take charge of their property and to enforce its proper administration It is thus clear that Pársis are in a totally different position from those for whose benefit the Act was intended and it would accordingly seem that there is a great deal to be said in favour of the arguments of the Parsis on this ground

5 As to the second ground it could scarcely be contended that the provisions of the Administrator General's Act are in themselves either oppressive or burdensome but looking to the repugnance with which Pársis regard such an exposure of their family affairs and resources as would sometimes result if the Act were enforced in their case it may be admitted that the second ground is not altogether without foundation

6 The present Bill by a slight alteration of the Administrator General's Act 1874 puts Pársis in exactly the same position with regard to that Act as Hindus Muhammadans and Buddhists

EXPLANATION OF THE PRINCIPAL CAUSES OF THE FAILURE TO ESTIMATE MORE CORRECTLY THE COST OF THE MILITARY OPERATIONS IN AFGHÁNISTAN

From the Government of India, to the Secretary of State for India,—(No 176, dated the 1st June 1880)

In continuation of our Despatch No 143 dated 4th May, we have the honour to forward a Minute by Sir John Strachey dated 20th May, and a Minute by His Excellency the Viceroy, dated 26th May, in explanation of the principal causes of the failure to estimate more correctly the cost of the military operations in Afghánistán

2 Our Despatch of the 4th May although it correctly indicated those causes, was, necessarily incomplete The papers now transmitted will fully explain the circumstances of the case They show how the military accounts, in themselves accurate gave an altogether erroneous representation of the actual cost of the war and misled the Government not only in regard to the probable future expenditure, but in regard to the expenditure which had already been incurred

3 The system of our military accounts was elaborated under the advice of the most competent authorities that could be found but it is clear that its merits must now be subjected to thorough reinvestigation No mere defects of system could however account for such an error as has occurred It is not possible that the Government could thus have been left in ignorance of facts of essential importance if the duties imposed on the responsible officers had been in all cases discharged with proper care and intelligence In saying this we disclaim any desire to extenuate the responsibility of the Government itself It is not as an apology for the Government or for any of its members or departments that we attribute this error to defects of system which, if they existed ought to have been discovered and amended or to want of due vigilance on the part of our officers The ultimate responsibility clearly rests upon the Government and this we completely acknowledge

4 The enquiry now in progress will enable the Government to decide how far this error is due to defects of system and what responsibility attaches to individual officers by whom the system has been administered The result of this enquiry will be reported for the information of Her Majesty's Government but meanwhile there is no reason for delay in submitting to Your Lordship the accompanying papers, which clearly show the origin of our error

5 We have only now, to express our regret for the serious extent to which Her Majesty's Government has thus been misled in regard to the cost of the Afghan war But there is no reason to suppose that the failure to estimate its cost aright has led to any increase in the actual expenditure on the war or that that failure will cause an addition to the public burdens which a better forecast would have enabled us to avoid

The question whether our military operations have been conducted with that regard for proper economy which we have always desired to enforce, has little connection with the accuracy or failure of our estimates but we concur with His Excellency the Viceroy in thinking that a careful enquiry hereafter into the cost of the war will be valuable for future guidance, and that it ought certainly to be undertaken

6 Revised estimates of the cost of the war are under preparation, and will be submitted at an early date

Minute by the Honourable Sir JOHN STRACHEY, G C S I, C I E, on the failure of the estimates of the expenditure on the Army in 1879 80 and 1880 81 in India

In making the following observations for the consideration of the Governor General in Council, and, eventually, of Her Majesty s Government, on the error which has occurred in the military estimates, I thoroughly recognise the fact that, while Her Majesty's Government holds the Government of India responsible for the correctness of the yearly estimates, that responsibility obviously falls in particular on the Financial Department and on myself as the Member in charge of it. It is, therefore, my duty to give, as soon as possible, a complete statement of the nature and causes of the error which has come to light, and to show what measures have been taken to prevent the recurrence of similar errors. When our Despatch No. 143 of the 4th May was sent to the Secretary of State, our information was, in many respects incomplete, but we are now able if not to clear up all points of doubt to explain much more fully than we could do before, what has actually occurred.

2. The object of the Government of India in that Despatch was not to define the separate or relative responsibilities of its several officers or Departments for the war estimates; that is a matter which mainly concerns its own internal administration. Its purpose was to make it clear, in limine, that those estimates had not been prepared arbitrarily, but by the usual means and in the usual way, and, especially that there had been no irregular interference in their preparation. All this has already been done and I do not propose to enter further into such considerations. It has been sufficiently described how the estimates were made in the Military Department, how they were accepted in the Financial Department, and how they were incorporated in the Budget.

3. In his Minute of the 1st May, my Hon'ble Colleague, Sir Edwin Johnson, with a generosity which all who know him will feel to be characteristic, claimed for himself personally complete responsibility for the estimates which have proved so inaccurate. Now, it is true that my Hon'ble Colleague is the head of the Military Department, and that the Military Department was responsible for supplying to the Financial Department the estimates of the whole military expenditure; but Sir Edwin Johnson could no more make those estimates or supervise their details, than I could have undertaken such a duty myself. He trusted the machinery which had been provided and which he and all of us believed to deserve complete confidence. An elaborate system had been carefully devised and matured by the most competent authorities that the Government could find; it had worked for many years in a manner that had given no suspicion of practical imperfection, and it was believed that, under this system, the Government would always be kept informed of everything regarding the military expenditure that it behoved it to know. We now find that this belief was incorrect; the system which we trusted has failed us and the Government has been left in ignorance of facts of essential importance. Sir Edwin Johnson was misled, and the Financial Department also was misled by accounts which were in themselves, as far as they went, perfectly correct but which, nevertheless, totally failed to show the actual expenditure on the war.

4. I do not now propose to enter into further consideration of the points to which the attention of my Hon'ble Colleague Sir Edwin Johnson was chiefly directed in his Minute of the 1st May, or to discuss the causes which led, in his opinion, to increased expenditure. Such points are apart from the main question now before me, which is how it happened that both the Military and the Financial Departments failed to appreciate not only what the war would cost in the future, but what it had cost in the past. For we have, now, not merely to show why we failed in the task of making an accurate estimate of the future cost of a war; if this had been the extent of our error, we need not have troubled ourselves about it much. Our real failure has been far more serious; we have not only been unable to foresee the expenditure of the future, but we have been deceived in regard to the expenditure of the past and in regard to the expenditure that was actually going on. It is this that really requires explanation, and on which I shall throw the fullest light in my power.

5. In the 12th paragraph of our Despatch of the 4th May, we stated our belief that our inability to estimate aright the cost of the war was mainly due to the peculiarity of the system of our military accounts. It has become more and more clear that the principal source of our mistake was then indicated.

6 Our civil revenues and expenditure are, for the most part, recorded in the Finance and Revenue Accounts, directly from the transactions at our treasuries—a procedure which ensures the promptest possible record of the facts and that nothing shall be kept out of the accounts, pending enquiries and perhaps controversies, which may be interminable The Government knows how tenaciously the Financial Department clings to this procedure, and resists the many endeavours which are made to disturb, by interdepartmental adjustments and the like, the simple record thus provided Secure in this record, we trouble ourselves comparatively little about the subsequent completion of the several departmental accounts, which would often be found lagging long behind

7 To this wholesome procedure there are some exceptions which have hitherto, been considered unavoidable, owing to the admixture, in the treasury transactions affected, of items which are neither revenue nor expenditure For example, the transactions at our treasuries with the Post Office include money order remittances and many other debt items, and would, therefore, be no guide to the postal revenue and expenditure In like manner, the transactions with the Public Works Department include the revenue and working expenses of the Railways, State and Guaranteed, the outlay upon the construction of Productive Public Works and so on

In such cases, it has been considered that we should lose more than we should gain by attempting to work upon the treasury figures, and it has been thought better to wait for our accounts until the departmental account officers can audit and classify the treasury transactions It is an essential part of the duty of those officers to take care that their accounts eventually correspond in all particulars with the treasury transactions but it is plain that the system is much less satisfactory than the simpler method to which we adhere whenever possible

8 It has not, hitherto, been thought practicable to treat the military accounts by the simpler and safer method, the plan always adopted has been to wait until the pecuniary transactions of the Military Department could be classified and audited in the Military Account Department upon which rests the responsibility of seeing that the accounts of the military revenue and expenditure are in true accord with the treasury transactions The character of the military accounts will be readily understood from a paper written in 1868 by the late Colonel Arthur Broome, when Controller General of Military Expenditure * extracts from which are printed in Appendix A (II) The accounts rendered by the military disbursing officers are audited, classified and compiled in the Account Department, disbursements which cannot be sufficiently vouched by the disbursers or which are challenged by the auditors, being entered under the Suspense Head "Advances Recoverable" and not recorded as expenditure The general result is, that the audited and classified expenditure in any month is not known for about ten weeks, and that an indefinite balance which is really expenditure always remains unaudited and therefore unadjusted In quiet times this balance is not large, and no serious inconvenience ensues but when field operations are in progress on a large scale, the unadjusted residue may attain to such dimensions, that the accounts of the audited and classified expenditure afford no indication of the real outlay It is in consequence of disregard of these considerations that the present error has occurred

9 The system of our military accounts was carefully remodelled by the English Commissioners of Inquiry into Indian Accounts, Messrs Foster and Whiffen as explained in their elaborate report dated 30th August 1864 but they suggested no material organic changes in the procedure previously followed The Commissioners did not, apparently think it practicable to follow in respect of the military accounts, what I have called the simpler system but they were alive to the dangers involved at several points of the procedure which they advocated I have extracted in Appendix A (I) the paragraphs of their report which bear immediately upon this subject, and show the nature of the precautions which they recommended

10 Effect was gradually given to the recommendations of the Commissioners, but the final orders of the Government on their report were not issued till the 7th July 1868 In Appendix A (II) will be found extracts, which

* By a Resolution in the Financial Department No 41 4 dated 21st October 1871 the title of this officer was changed to Accountant General Military Department without material change of his functions

now possess a special significance, from the review by Colonel Broome upon which the orders of the Government were based

11 The Government of India in the Military Department re echoed the spirit of Colonel Broome's remarks, as follows —

"3 The conclusion at which Colonel Broome has arrived in paragraph 23 also appears to His Excellency in Council to be strictly correct the new head of 'Advances Recoverable' being in reality nothing else than an Inefficient Balance,' with the same inconvenience, and with no actual diminution of amount Considering, however, the extensive and multifarious character of military charges it is the Governor General in Council observes, almost inconceivable that any system can be devised which can free the military accounts from some amount of unadjusted charges —in other words, an 'Inefficient Balance

"4 Colonel Broome's review of the new system appears to the Governor General in Council to be a fair and candid one and the conclusion he arrives at viz that the present system should be regarded as one of a permanent nature trusting to vigilance to mitigate the defects inherent in the system has the cordial assent of the Government of India in the Military Department

12 The final Resolution by the Government in the Financial Department was of a formal character, and contains no reference to the defects thus recognized None of the authorities who took part in those discussions allude to the possibility of the elimination of these defects by the direct record, in the Finance and Revenue Accounts as military revenue and expenditure of the military transactions at our civil treasuries, after a few suitable adjustments

This preliminary discussion may appear tedious, but it is essential to the full understanding of the case

13 I now invite attention to the two appended Statements marked B and C, being returns of—

(B) the net military expenditure in India as recorded in the Finance and Revenue Accounts, month by month, from April 1869 to February 1880 which is the latest month for which the accounts are complete, with an estimate for March and

(C) the net disbursements from the civil treasuries in India to the Military Department month by month, from April 1869 to April 1880 The entry for March is, however, only an estimate We know that the net amount disbursed in March was 2 082 500*l* but we do not yet know the sets off still to come in the shape of excess payments made during the year by the Military Department on account of the Civil Department, and the like, which still await adjustment in the accounts of March Such sets off will certainly be large I have, therefore, entered 1,750 000*l*

14 If these two Statements be compared, it will be found that—

(1) until the end of 1877 78, the recorded net military expenditure was invariably more or less in excess of the net disbursements to the Military Department the explanation of this excess is that, besides the sums withdrawn from the civil treasuries, the Military Department spends some portion of the departmental receipts, including money which it receives for remittances to families in England, and so on

(2) till the end of 1877 78, if allowance be made for the aforesaid normal difference, the two accounts corresponded closely clearly, with a few appropriate adjustments the treasury accounts might, till then have been substituted for the accounts of audited and classified revenue and expenditure without substantial or ultimate inaccuracy but apparently, till the end of 1877 78, little would have been gained by such substitution

(3) from the beginning of 1878 79, these normal conditions were reversed the net disbursements having, since the beginning of 1878 79, constantly exceeded the net recorded expenditure, and

(4) from October 1878, this excess became constantly larger and larger Our troops crossed the Frontier on the 21st November 1878, but, as we all remember, expenditure in preparation for war had been going on for some time before that event

In 1878 79		2 222,000
and
In 1879 80 (by estimate as regards March and compared with the Regular Estimate)		3 092 000

16 To this large excess some considerable addition should probably be made because as has been pointed out the net recorded expenditure ordinarily exceeds the disbursements so that there remains a very large sum which must be eventually adjusted in the Finance and Revenue Accounts as military expenditure in India, in excess of the estimates of 1879 80 and 1880 81

17 It would be premature to attempt to state precisely the amount by which the estimates have thus been exceeded and it would be still more premature to enquire how much of such excess is due to the war in Afghanistan and how much to other causes such as the operations on the North Eastern Frontier the military preparations in Burma or even to an underestimate of the normal military expenditure apart from all extraordinary operations Moreover, it is manifest that a similar excess is still accruing as compared with the estimate for 1880 81 We are not yet therefore, in a position to conjecture with any approach to accuracy by what aggregate amount and in what particulars the estimates of the two years 1879 80 and 1880 81 will, eventually, be found deficient

In paragraph 8 of our despatch of the 4th May the opinion was expressed that at least 1,000 000*l* must be added to the estimate of the cost of the war in 1880 81 and we said that we could only speak with much reserve of the total amount which the war would ultimately cost "The responsible officers it was added, of the Military Department still confidently expect that its cost will not be nearly so much as 10,000 000*l* but we are unable at present to reconcile this expectation with the actual outgoings from our treasuries" I feel still less able to share that expectation now Although I will not attempt to anticipate the results which our advisers may place before us as their revised estimate of the total cost of the war yet considering what we already know regarding the expenditure of the past considering also the present scale of our military operations the uncertainties of the future and on the other hand the certainty, under the most favourable expectations which can be entertained that a great expenditure is still before us considering I say all the facts and probabilities of the case it appears to me hardly possible to doubt that the fears expressed in our Despatch of the 4th May will be justified, and that the ultimate cost of the war will largely exceed the sum of 10 000,000*l*, which was then named with so much hesitation With our present knowledge, I cannot feel any confidence that, even if the war is brought to a termination as soon as we now anticipate, it will cost, independently of the frontier railways, less than 15,000 000*l*

18 Statement C has been compiled only since the Government found reason to doubt the correctness of the military estimates So far as I am aware,

no similar comparative statement of the disbursements to the Military Department during a long succession of months has ever before been compiled The English Commissioners of Enquiry into Indian Accounts suggested no such check, and the expediency of a precaution of this nature has not occurred, at any time, to any of the officers of the Civil or Military Account Department Thus, this statement, which seems to me to show plainly what has happened, was not in the hands of any of the officers who took part in the preparation of the military estimates nor was it before the Government of India in either the Military or the Financial Department, when those estimates were under consideration When the military estimates were before the Government in the Financial Department, the latest completed military accounts were those for October 1879, they showed a net expenditure, in the first seven months of the year 1879 80 of 7,161 000*l*, being only 721 600*l* more than the corresponding expenditure of 1878 79, and only 1 061 000*l* more than the least corresponding expenditure during the preceding ten years There was nothing in these figures to suggest any distrust of the departmental estimates

19 From the extracts collected in Appendix A it appears that the system of the military accounts provides for a vigilant attention to the expenditure held in suspense under the head Advances Recoverable and that the English Commissioners insisted prominently upon the vital importance of a punctual interchange of the military accounts with the civil treasuries

I will not with the information actually before me assert in regard to any individual officer among the responsible officers concerned that the salutary warnings of the Commissioners were in the present instance neglected and it is true that the most exact observance of the prescribed precautions would not have supplied the place of such a check as Statement C the virtue of which consists in the means which it affords for the promptest possible comparison of the total current military outgoings from our treasuries with the corresponding transactions in the past and with the contemporary estimates of the military receipts and expenditure

Plainly, however it was the duty of the officers of the Military Account Department in the preparation of their estimates to pay special regard to the large advances of which they must have been aware They have been officially called upon to explain upon what grounds they nevertheless, believed that their estimates of the cost of the war in Afghanistan were adequate and it will be right to await their explanations before we impute blame to officers who have hitherto been distinguished for the zealous and intelligent discharge of their duties and have enjoyed the confidence of the Government of India but I must say at once that it appears inconceivable that the Government could thus have remained in ignorance of facts which it was essential it should know if the duties imposed on the several departments concerned had been performed in a really intelligent manner

20 It must be remembered that the elaborate recommendations of the English Commissioners concern exclusively the Offices of Account primarily the Military Offices of Account, and in a secondary degree the Civil Offices of Account in their relation to the Military Offices Those recommendations had no reference at all to the procedure of the Government of India itself, but only to the provision of the best precautions which could be devised against such oversight or failure in the Account Offices as might cause the Government to be misled

21 In popular apprehension the Financial Department is regarded as one homogeneous organisation the responsibilities of which are common to the whole body But in truth the Financial Department consists of two separate sections with distinct and clearly defined functions, namely—

(1) the Financial Department of the Government and

(2) the Offices of Account and Audit

Although the Account Offices are entirely subordinate to, and at the command of, the Government, the functions and responsibilities of the Financial Department of the Government should not be confounded with those of the Account Department

It is the duty of the Government to make intelligent use of the Finance and Revenue Accounts and Estimates laid before it, and to correct the estimates by any fresh information in its possession, or if it draws different inferences from the data furnished by the Account Department, but although the Government alone is responsible for the estimates ultimately adopted, it takes no part in their detailed preparation.

A costly trained agency is provided, whose whole time and attention is devoted to the record of the public accounts, and, periodically, to the preparation of the public estimates. An elaborate system and carefully considered rules are prescribed for the guidance of this agency. The Government is bound to introduce any improvement in that system which experience may suggest, and to correct any defects which may come to light, but only mischief and confusion would ensue, if the Government were to interfere with the Account Department in the discharge of its daily duties, or to test by extraneous checks, the correctness of its work. Any such misdirected activity would, almost inevitably, result in the formation of a second and less trustworthy system of public accounts, in a weakening of the proper sense of their responsibilities on the part of the Account Officers, and in a dissipation of energy injurious to the public interests. The true policy in this matter lies in the proper division of labour, and not in the interference of one Department with the proper functions of another. The procedure of the Government of India in this respect does not, I believe, differ from that of Her Majesty's Government or from that of the Governments of other civilised countries.

22. The preparation of a correct, intelligent, punctual and efficient record of the actual public receipts and disbursements and of the most trustworthy possible estimates of the public receipts and disbursements is the duty of the Account Department, upon which rests the obligation of seeing that the Government is not misled by any superficial aspects of the public accounts or otherwise. It is of great public importance that these responsibilities of the Account Department should be in no way compromised or lost sight of, and in this view I proceed now to give a sketch of the duties of the principal officers concerned on the present occasion.

What follows will be better understood if it be borne in mind that the machinery for the compilation of the public accounts in India is to all intents and purposes divided into three independent Departments. The Departments which keep the accounts of the Army and of the Public Works Department are quite separate from the Department which keeps the Civil Accounts and although their accounts eventually flow into the general books kept by the Comptroller General, in the Central Office of Account, they owe no direct allegiance to the Comptroller General. The Military Account Department is directly subordinate to the Government of India in the Military Department and the Public Works Account Department to the Government of India in the Public Works Department.

It was the particular duty of the Controller of Military Accounts in Bengal to watch the expenditure on the military operations in Afghanistan as an obviously important part of that section of the public expenditure for the record of which he is responsible, to take especial care that there was no avoidable delay in the audit and classification of the war expenditure, to bring immediately to notice any obstacles or hindrances in the way of its prompt adjustment, to ascertain with particular vigilance that the accounts corresponded with the transactions of the Military Department or on behalf of the Military Department, at the civil treasuries within his jurisdiction, to keep the Government constantly and truly informed of the progress of the war expenditure, and at the prescribed intervals, to estimate its probable amount, after carefully collating all the data necessary for the purpose.

With this officer rested the duty of issuing assignments or letters of credit upon the civil treasuries in favor of the spending departments, so that he had in his own hands the means of knowing readily the general scope and progress of the bulk of the outlay. This remark does not include the expenditure by civil officers on behalf of the Military Department, but the Controller should have taken special precautions to acquaint himself with such expenditure as promptly as possible. It was not the specific duty of the Controller of Military

Accounts to suggest the particular check the application of which has now discovered the error in the war estimates, but he might have been expected to ascertain, by some equally effective check that his accounts and estimates of the war expenditure were consistent with the disbursements to the Military Department from the treasuries within his own jurisdiction, which constituted by far the greater part of all the war disbursements.

23. The functions of the Accountant General, Military Department, are less exactly defined than those of the Controller of Military Accounts, but they include the whole of India, and thus extend over a wider range. His duties are twofold:—

I.—He is responsible for the scrutiny of the several presidential estimates and accounts and for their review and consolidation into the Imperial estimates and accounts. He is also required to collect and prepare statistics and other information on military subjects required by the Government.

II.—He is the ex officio adviser of the Government of India in the Military Department in respect to military accounts, economy and finance. In this capacity his office is a branch of the Military Secretariat.

In the first of these capacities, the Military Accountant General deals only with the completed estimates and accounts received from the Controllers of Military Accounts, Bengal, Madras and Bombay, supplementing and correcting their estimates, reports, &c., by the light of the further information which he may possess as to the views and intentions of the Government, probable changes of organisation, or other circumstances. He has no executive functions as regards pay, audit, and allotment of funds to the military disbursing officers.

As regards his duties under the second head, he advises the Government of India on the financial aspect of all military questions which may be referred to him, and in this respect, and in his close connection and subordination to the Military Department, he occupies in relation to the Military Department very much the position of the Accountant General in relation to the War Office in England. The duties, however, of the two officers are not otherwise analogous, as the Military Accountant General in India is not an executive officer and keeps no detailed accounts, these being kept and compiled for each Presidency by the several Controllers.

But, although the functions of this officer are rather those of a Financial Deputy Secretary in the Military Department than of an Accountant General, yet, in respect to the war in Afghanistan, the Government might, I think, fairly have looked to him to watch the proceedings of the Controllers of Military Accounts and to take care that the Government was informed of the facts of the war expenditure as punctually as possible. Indeed, I know that, although his endeavours have been unsuccessful, the Accountant General did anxiously endeavour to discharge such duties. At all events, the sooner such duties, and perhaps other cognate duties, are definitively imposed upon the Accountant General the better. It is one of the defects of the present system that the Accountant General is an Accountant General only in name: there is really no one head of the Military Account Department in the sense in which the Comptroller General is at the head of the Civil Account Offices, and to a limited extent of all Account Offices in India, and in which the Accountant General, Public Works Department, is at the head of all Account Offices in the Public Works Department. The Controllers of Military Accounts occupy this position each in his own Presidency, but there is no Military Comptroller General for all India. The Military Accountant General, according to the present definition of his duties, does not supply this void.

24. The Comptroller General is head of the Civil Account Department. He has nothing to do with the preparation of the military estimates, or even of the civil estimates. It is not his specific duty to take official note of the military estimates, or to ascertain that the subsequent facts are in accord with those estimates. Eventually, indeed, the military receipts and expenditure are recorded, from the military books, in the Comptroller General's books, and it would be incumbent on him to bring to notice any error, or any practice or procedure likely to lead to error, of which he might, at any time, or in any way, become cognisant The immediate connection of the Comptroller General with the present war expenditure is confined to the provision of funds on the demand of the Controller of Military Accounts, the two officers having been placed in special communication for the purpose He has been called upon to say whether he has made any comparison between the funds he has thus supplied and the war estimates, and, if not, why not

It was open to the Comptroller General to apply the check that has now been applied, the essential figures of which were indeed, in his own keeping, but it cannot be said that it was his recognised duty to do so

25 Early in March last, the Comptroller General brought to the notice of the Government in the Financial Department the increasing drain from the Punjab treasuries in connection with the war, and the Government, thereupon, seeing, for the first time, reason to fear that the estimates of the cost of the Army prepared in the Military Account Department might be untrustworthy, lost no time in instituting enquiries which revealed the facts stated in this Minute The check now applied was not thought of in the Military or Civil Account Department, but originated in the Financial Secretariat

26 I do not intend, now, to offer any opinion as to the degree of responsibility that may attach to the several officers concerned As already said, before coming to any conclusions in this respect, the Government must await the explanations which have been called for If it be found, hereafter, that there have been shortcomings, we must be prepared to find some excuses for them in the strain to which the system of military accounts must have been subjected during the progress of field operations of the magnitude of those in which the army has been engaged On such occasions the disbursements are on a suddenly increased scale and the disbursing officers being actively engaged in the field or at the base, have less time to give to the punctual and orderly preparation of their accounts Under such circumstances, delays and irregularities may be almost unavoidable

But meanwhile without losing sight of my disclaimer of any intention to repudiate my personal responsibility or that of the Financial Department of the Government for the failure of the war estimates I think it necessary to make it clear, at once, that for the ignorance of the war expenditure actually incurred to which this failure is due, it is in the first instance to the Account Department rather than to the Secretariat in either the Military or Financial Department, that we must look for an explanation And although I am most anxious not, prematurely, to award blame to any individual officer, I think it right to state in the plainest terms my conviction that no mere defects of system can possibly explain away the ignorance in which the Government has been left The Government of India cannot take refuge in generalities, or attempt to make it appear that such gross errors can occur, and, nevertheless, that nobody is to blame There must have been extreme negligence, or extreme want of intelligence, somewhere among the responsible officers and the Government will not shrink from the duty of calling to strict account the officers concerned whatever may be their position, and whatever may be their previous services or high character

Whether the Government of India itself took all the steps which it ought to have taken to acquaint itself in some summary way with the general progress of the cost of the chief military operations whether the Military or Financial Department ought not, at an earlier date to have mistrusted the military estimates, and whether we should not sooner have taken into our own hands the duty of ascertaining the facts, and testing the correctness of those estimates by exceptional and unusual methods is another question The confidence that misled the Government is certainly reproved by the facts now known to us, which show that the Military Department was ignorant of facts which it ought to have known and that the Financial Department should not have taken the war estimates on trust I in no way wish to extenuate my own responsibility or that of the Financial Department for our erroneous reliance on those estimates We were so completely misled by the apparent correspondence of the estimates of past expenditure with the expenditure actually brought to account, that, in spite of the doubts freely expressed on various occasions in public criticisms, we entertained no misgiving as to their soundness. At that time, the Financial Department had discovered no data whatever which could have justified interference with the estimates prepared by the responsible officers

I do not say this by way of apology It is clear to me that it is quite impossible, and would be altogether unfair, to throw the whole fault either on the system or on the Offices of Account The Military Department of the Government must accept the blame of having recommended to the Financial Department totally inadequate estimates, and the Financial Department must accept the blame of having adopted them If the system was bad, it was the business of the Government to have found this out and to have amended it Our responsibility is indisputable, it cannot be extenuated, nor must it be obscured by any investigations which are made either into the system of accounts or into the conduct of individual officers

But whatever blame may attach to the Government, or to any of its officers, for this want of precaution and foresight this, at least, is clear, that the occurrence of an error of the magnitude now discovered shows, beyond the possibility of doubt, not only that there is something radically wrong in our system of accounts but also, in my opinion, that this system cannot have been applied with proper care and intelligence It is our obvious duty to probe this matter to the bottom

27 The nature of our failure was not ascertained immediately upon our confidence in the estimates being disturbed Enquiries were, indeed, promptly instituted and as the result has proved, in the right direction But, although the figures in Statement C were obtained from the Civil Account Offices with a speed which is creditable to their efficiency, it took time to verify them in the Military Account Department Thus, we could not, at first, feel quite sure that we had discovered the true character of our error The gradual process by which we have satisfied ourselves on this point will explain some apparent inconsistencies between this Minute and our telegrams to the Secretary of State at different dates as well as some want of harmony between Sir Edwin Johnson's Minute of the 1st May and the Despatch No 143 with which it was sent to Her Majesty's Government In that Despatch our principal error was plainly indicated though not in such detail, or with such an absence of all hesitation, as in this Minute

28 My conclusion, then, is, that the failure of our estimate is due to our ignorance of the actual expenditure on the Army, rather than to an inadequate à priori appreciation of the probable cost of the field operations

In the absence of any independent investigations of their own it is not surprising that the advisers of the Government in either the Military or the Financial Department, should have failed to frame any approximately accurate estimate of the cost of the war, seeing that, as we now know was the case, not only were they without the assistance of accounts punctually completed, but the facts which appeared on the face of the accounts were, taken alone, wholly misleading Personally I never doubted that the estimates which I presented were framed upon a full and correct knowledge of our actual expenditure to a comparatively recent date As they were not so, I do not wonder that they have proved fallacious

29 I have, at the present moment, nothing more to say as to the past, except to express my great regret that so great an error should have found its way into the Budget

30 It is more satisfactory to turn to the future I cannot say whether our enquiries will result in the Government of India thinking it desirable to alter the record, in the Finance and Revenue Accounts of our military receipts and expenditure in the manner which I have indicated, or whether if the Government of India should advocate such an alteration, it will be acceptable to Her Majesty's Government I am aware that the obstacles in the way of this alternative, are formidable Among them is the impossibility of reconciling accounts based directly upon the treasury transactions with the classified and detailed record of the cost of the Army, which forms an important section of the Finance and Revenue Accounts as now presented to Parliament These are questions which require careful consideration, and they must be treated separately It is plainly the immediate duty of the Government to subject them to the most thorough investigation. But I may, at once, say that, if the change in question be found practicable, it will, in my opinion, be highly desirable to make it, for the existing system is essentially defective

31 Whether, however, that system be maintained or altered, we are, I believe, now secure against being again surprised and discredited A simple check is already in operation which will effectually save us from such ignorance as that from which we have now suffered

Experience shows that it is no easy matter to reconcile in detail the transactions at the civil treasuries with the military accounts The Report of the English Commission in 1864 contains serious animadversions on the neglect of this duty in the past, and we are aware that the difficulty still continues The work involves tiresome, detailed, and apparently unimportant correspondence, which is apt to be neglected or overlooked, and, although much attention is constantly given to the subject, there are arrears of this kind now, as there were in 1864 But there is nothing to prevent the Government of India in the Military and Financial Departments being made acquainted soon after the end of each month, with the actual amounts disbursed to the Military Department from all the treasuries all over India Arrangements have accordingly, been made for the prompt and regular compilation of these figures, and for their communication to the Accountant General, Military Department upon whom will devolve in future, the duty of comparing the expenditure of the Military Department with the departmental transactions at the civil treasuries throughout India

32 It will not, indeed be possible to ascertain by this method, the exact cost of any particular military operation or of any branch of the military service But, with such a return before itself and the proper Account officers, the Government of India may I think, be assured that any very large divergence between the estimates and the facts can never, again, evade prompt detection, and that the Government will be as well protected from a sudden surprise in respect to the military expenditure as I believe it to be already protected from any like surprise in respect to any of the civil revenues or expenditure No system can ensure us absolutely against the failure of one estimate or another but we ought to be secure against such a failure happening, as it has happened on this occasion, without our immediately discovering it and I believe I may safely promise this degree of immunity from error in the military estimates in future

33 To sum up the whole matter the error in the estimate is, in my judgment, mainly due, not to any misapprehension as to the extent or character of the military operations but to the fact that we were ignorant of the actual current cost of the war I attribute this ignorance mainly to the defect which I have described in the military accounts, which although themselves perfectly correct, failed to give to the Government timely information of the expenditure which was really going on In this respect the whole history furnishes a fresh illustration of the fact that in regard to such matters as keeping accounts and framing estimates it is never safe to assume that the care and intelligence of individuals will afford sufficient safeguards against the dangers of a defective system

I admit that if instead of depending according to custom on the accounts alone, the Government of India had itself watched the current cost of the war, it might have, to a great extent, avoided the error into which it has fallen But I place the defect in the system of the military accounts in the forefront, because, but for that defect, no oversight omission or negligence by Departments or individual officers, whether in the Secretariat or in the Account Offices, could have prevented the earliest possible knowledge of the facts, and because such knowledge would itself have neutralised all individual and minor failures

The 20th May 1880

APPENDIX A (I).

Extracts from the Report of the English Commission of Enquiry into Indian Accounts, dated 30th August 1864.

31. The Paymaster of each Circle is furnished by the Regimental Paymaster or other Disbursing Officer with an Estimate of the amount required during the ensuing month, for the payment of the Troops; this Estimate is certified by the Officer Commanding the Regiment or Battery. The Circle Paymaster compiles these Estimates into a general Return, adding thereto the amount he requires for the payment of Staff and other allowances; and he specifies the sum that he will require to draw upon each Treasury. This document is furnished to the Military Accountant on the 1st of the month for the ensuing month's payments, in whose Office the Returns from the several Circle Paymasters and other Accountants are compiled into a general Statement showing the amount to be drawn during the month at each Treasury in the several Presidencies. This Statement is forwarded to the Controller, who transmits it to the Civil Department, from whence the necessary authority is issued to the Treasury Officers.

* * * * * * * *

70. The aggregate amount of the Inefficient Balance was, on the 31st of March 1864, as follows, viz.:—

	Rs.
Presidency Circle	2 81 819
Allahabad ,,	2 82 936
Lucknow ,,	3 89 101
Meerut ,,	5 63 000
Lahore ,,	2 39 211
Trans Ravi ,,	2 69 689
Hyderabad Contingent	56 683
Total	20 8[illegible] 799

71. The amount of the Inefficient Balance in the Madras Presidency is 8½ lakhs, and in the Bombay Presidency it is 9 lakhs, or in all no less than upwards of 38 lakhs.

72. The Inefficient Balance is an exceedingly embarrassing item in the Military Accounts, and leads to great difficulties in adjusting them at the end of the year; for whilst the Annual Account of Receipts and Disbursements made up by the Military Department exhibits the audited expenditure only, the Account of Military Expenditure compiled by the Financial Department for the information of the Home Government shows the audited expenditure plus the amount of Inefficient Balance at the end of the year, minus the amount of that item at the commencement of the year. The two Accounts can never agree, and it is always a matter of opinion, and not one of fact, as to what has been the Military expenditure for any one year; moreover, the "Inefficient Balance" is differently treated in each Presidency.

74. We are in possession of a copy of the "Preliminary Rules and Instructions for conducting the duties of the Military Finance Department," dated 18th October 1861; it is therein stated, article VII, p. 19—"The Military Accountant will also take care that outstandings are not allowed to remain unsettled, and he will carefully scrutinise the state of all Inefficient Balances."

III.—ADVANCES FROM LOCAL TREASURIES.

211. The course pursued in regard to supplying the Disbursing Officers with funds has already been described in paragraph 31. We would here wish to draw attention to the manner in which a settlement is effected in regard to these advances between the Military and Civil Departments.

212. The adjustment of the advances from Civil Treasuries for Military Services is a duty that appertains to the Military Accountants. They alone have the information upon which the amount drawn by Disbursing Officers can be checked, and they alone can certify that the sums claimed by Civil Treasuries on account of Military advances have been duly acknowledged by the officers to whom the advances have been made.

213. Knowing the importance of a prompt settlement in regard to these transactions, we enquired very minutely into the course pursued in the office of the Military Accountant. We found it unsatisfactory in the extreme. The adjustment with the Deputy Auditor and Accountant General was considerably in arrear, and no adjustment had been effected in regard to the advances from the Bengal Treasuries since April 1869.

214 It would appear, from papers referred to us, that this important part of the business of Military Accountant is in an equally unsatisfactory state in the Presidencies of Madras and Bombay The papers to which we allude contained a Report from the Deputy Auditor and Accountant General Bombay, complaining that he had not received from the Military Accountant any Statement of Civil charges incurred in the Military Department, nor the reports of the result of the examination of the Statements furnished in regard to Military remittances

215 On the papers in question we suggested that the Deputy Auditor and Accountant Generals of the several Presidencies and Provinces should be called upon to report—

I —The period to which the Statement of advances from Civil Treasuries on account of Military charges has been rendered to the Military Accountant

II —The period to which the Accounts between the two Departments have been adjusted

III —The differences if any that exist between the record in the Military Books and that in the Books of the Civil Department

IV —What steps have been taken to reconcile the differences

216 The replies to these enquiries are worth a careful perusal as they plainly indicate that the system adopted in the Military Department at least in regard to this important element has entirely broken down

* * * * * * * *

312 Before we proceed to the explanation we have to submit in regard to the record of the expenditure and the Books that should be kept we would direct attention to what we consider one of the most important elements in the Military Account

313 The funds necessary for carrying on the Military Service throughout the country are for the most part furnished from Civil Treasuries The manner in which Disbursing Officers draw upon the Civil Treasuries has already been described in paragraph 31 There can be no doubt that unless the Accounts between the Civil and Military Departments in regard to these transactions are promptly and regularly adjusted inextricable confusion will take place the whole system of Accounts will be compromised and frauds to a large extent might remain undetected

351 The following arrangements are submitted with the view of obtaining a prompt settlement of the amount drawn by Disbursing Officers on the Civil Treasuries —

352 I —The Deputy Auditor and Accountant General of each Presidency or Province should so soon as the Monthly Accounts of the several Treasury Officers shall have been received transmit to the Military Account Department Bengal Madras or Bombay as the case may be an Abstract List (see Appendix No 22) of all advances for Military Service in the previous month This list should be supported by copies of the original details furnished by the Officer in charge of each Treasury and by the original Drafts or Orders

353 II —The Disbursing Officer should debit himself in his Monthly Account Current or Pay List with the amount that he has drawn upon the several Civil Treasuries and he should transmit a list of all the Drafts or Orders drawn by him on the form given in Appendix No 20

354 The course to be adopted in order to record these transactions in the Books of the Accountant General may be as follows —

355 I —The Disbursing Officer will be debited in the principal Books with the amount stated by him as having been drawn during the month The aggregate amount drawn by Disbursing Officers will be passed to their debit and to the credit of an Account to be opened in the principal Ledger to be entitled Advances from Civil Treasuries

356 II —The Monthly List forwarded by the Deputy Auditor and Accountant Generals of the several Presidencies or Provinces will be examined by the Accountant General Military Department so far as Bengal is concerned with the original Orders Drafts &c forwarded in support of the charges To facilitate this operation a Register as per form Appendix No 21, should be kept showing the amount that has been drawn from each Civil Treasury

357 III —The differences between the amount drawn by Disbursing Officers and that paid by the Civil Treasuries should be explained in detail monthly A copy of this explanation which should show all Drafts or outstanding Orders should be rendered to the Deputy Auditor and Accountant General of each Presidency or Province (See Appendix No 23)

358 IV —In concluding this subject we would suggest that there should be established under the immediate direction and control of the principal Book keeper a section of the Accountant General's Office specially charged with the duty of regulating and adjusting the entire transactions relating to cash advances from the several Treasuries

* * * * * * * *

Appendix No. 13.

362. In this Book would be recorded all claims after they have been examined, which are made wholly payable by orders signed by the Accountant General on Mofussil Treasuries. This is also a branch of the business hitherto conducted by the Presidency Paymaster. The course to be followed in regard to the final record is similar to that suggested in regard to Register No. 1. The account to be opened in the Ledger instead of being styled "Orders Payable" should be denominated "Advances from Civil Treasuries." It must be distinctly understood that these Orders have no connexion with the Drafts or Orders drawn by Disbursing Officers on the Treasuries in question. The Treasury Officers need however send to the Civil Department but one general list for all Drafts or Orders discharged during the month. The due appropriation of the Orders to the debit of the Accounts concerned would be conducted in the office of the Accountant General.

* * * * * * * *

X.—REGISTER FOR THE RECORD AND ADJUSTMENT OF ADVANCES FROM CIVIL TREASURIES.
Appendix No. 21.

375. In this Book will be recorded the particulars of every Draft drawn or Order issued by the several Disbursing Officers upon the Civil Treasuries. The orders will be carefully compared with the Returns furnished by the Deputy Auditor and Accountant General and the transactions should be adjusted monthly on the Adjustment Sheet prepared for that purpose.

* * * * * * * *

408. We would again direct particular attention to the importance of adjusting every separate Account now standing unadjusted in the Deposit and Advances Repayable Ledger. The Military Accountant should be directed to report the total number of unsettled Accounts, and a Monthly Return should then be forwarded by that officer to the Accountant General, showing the number of these Accounts which have been adjusted month by month.

409. The adjustment of the advances from Civil Treasuries on account of Military Services is another subject that should demand the immediate and earnest attention of the Military Accountants of the three Presidencies. No time should be lost in obtaining a complete explanation in regard to every item of difference that may exist between the Military and Civil Books, and the Accounts should be adjusted to the latest date.

410. We regret that we have not had an opportunity of personally inspecting the Books and Accounts kept in the Military Account Offices of Madras and Bombay. It would appear that so far as relates to the adjustment of the advances from Civil Treasuries there is every reason to apprehend that the Books are in an unsatisfactory state. This however cannot be fully ascertained unless they are subjected to a searching investigation by an officer totally unconnected with the Department. This, so soon as an opportunity should arise, we would suggest should be done.

CONCLUSION.

417. We will now proceed to summarise the principal recommendations contained in this Report.

* * * * * * * *

Disbursing Officers should render Monthly Statements of the Drafts or Orders drawn by them on the Civil Treasuries, and the Deputy Auditor and Accountant Generals of the several Presidencies or Provinces should render corresponding Statements to the Accountant General, Military Department, in Bengal, and to the Controllers at Madras and Bombay respectively.

* * * * * * * *

The greatest importance should be attached to a prompt and careful adjustment of the advances from Civil Treasuries on account of Military Services. A separate section of the Book-keeper's branch of the Office should be established with the view of making these adjustments.

APPENDIX A (II).

20. The main object to which all the changes of system introduced by the English Commissioners have converged is the timely rendering of the account in a classified and intelligible form, and as these are required to be based on deliberately audited transactions, there is presumedly imparted to them a reliability which was wanting in the former system. This quality of reliability however does not pervade all the transactions exhibited, but only extends to the classified charges as set forth therein, they being merely that portion of the entire charges which on investigation has been found unobjectionable.

21. On the most favourable estimate of the present system it cannot be said either to give the charges under the prescribed classified head complete for the year, or to ensure accuracy of description or certainty in respect of amounts in the accounts of the transactions of the year

This remark may need further explanation One of the fundamental principles of the present system of accounts is, that the Annual Receipts exhibited shall be the sums which come in course of receipt during the year and that the Annual Expenditure that is the charges falling against the budget grants shall be the sums which come in course of payment during the year But, in order to expedite the compilation of the monthly accounts, two courses are adopted—

1st —When disbursing officers are unable to produce complete vouchers for services involving cash disbursements —for instance monies advanced to commissariat agents for purchases &c —they are permitted to charge such disbursements to the head "Advances Recoverable" subject to future adjustment

2nd —When vouchers for services said to have been completed are found by the Auditors to be insufficient the amount is disallowed and deducted from the disbursements taken credit for by the executive officer and this sum also passes under the head Advances Recoverable The classified charges therefore are exclusive of these transactions and to that extent incomplete As however these unaudited or unauthorized disbursements under the head Advances Recoverable (to be afterwards adjusted) are necessarily admitted in the accounts of the year as a set off against the cash receipts from the civil treasuries, &c they form the uncertain element adverted to in the preceding paragraph

22 By this arrangement it will be perceived that there is a certain sum disbursed within the year that is neither a charge against the budget nor a balance not being practically treated as an asset of the Government The effect of this arrangement on the classified and recorded charges of a year may be favorable or unfavorable If the previous year had closed with a larger sum under the head Advances Recoverable and the following year with a smaller sum the difference which must necessarily have been adjusted in the interim will tend to swell the classified charges of that particular year and vice versa At the close of the last official year the amount standing to credit and debit of this head in the three Presidencies was

as noted in the margin indicating that the legitimate charges of the year were increased by a sum of Rs 9 [illegible]9 [illegible]62 appertaining properly to the charges of previous years In this instance the percentage of increase is small being only 06 per cent of the aggregate amount of charges but with any relaxation of audit or during extensive field operations the result might probably be inconvenient It may be as well to observe also that the amount disbursed in March last and exhibited under this head at the date of the closing of the accounts of the year 1866 67 was Rs 16 31 116 in the three Presidencies indicating that expenditure to this extent had remained unpassed and unclassified but which will appear as classified charges in the succeeding year's accounts

23 Without the slightest desire to revive previous objections or to criticise the present system in any carping spirit the undersigned feel bound to point out that the new head of "Advances Recoverable" is in reality the much abused "Insufficient Balance" under a new name with the same inconvenience and with no actual diminution of amount

* * * * * * * *

25 A perfect system is not to be hoped for and in noticing these drawbacks or defects the undersigned has no desire to suggest any change or modification in that so recently adopted The defect referred to being inherent could only be removed by a complete reorganisation and of late the changes have been so many and their effects so unsettling and embarrassing that any further measures of the kind are greatly to be deprecated Moreover the present system has been introduced under special advantages A prominence was given to the question which no previous discussion of plans of accounting was ever fortunate enough to secure and this has been attended with energy of action and no little expenditure of money and labor The disruption of former modes of procedure has been radical establishments have been re formed and re constituted printed forms reducing the duties to a definite and regular routine and prepared at considerable cost have been prescribed and all other of military account have been or are being arranged in adaptation to the system It is very desirable therefore that it should be regarded as one of a permanent nature But while the undersigned conceives it his duty to make this recommendation in the interests of Government and zealously to act on it he believes it to be no less his duty to indicate the obvious but inseparable defect of the system It has struck him that in its arrangements despatch has been considered of more importance than accuracy and that a rigid check has been subordinated to the advantages anticipated from a combination of duties or as it is termed a systematic allotment of work and further that being a graft of the War Office system the difference between the character and qualifications of the subordinate agency available in India and England has not been sufficiently considered in the changes made

26 The fact however of being alive to the defects is next to their removal the best means of obviating evil results and by care and constant watchfulness the greater evil* may be guarded against, and the lesser one mitigated

* NOTE —By the greater evil Colonel Broome here means the evil described in paragraphs 20 to 23 above

Minute by HIS EXCELLENCY THE VICEROY, dated 26th May 1880

1 I circulate herewith a Minute by the Hon'ble Sir John Strachey, on the failure of the Military Estimates for 1879 80 and 1880 81

2 Beyond the acknowledgment due to the clearness with which he has stated it I have but very few remarks to make on the case, as it now stands I must first however refer to the Minute written upon this subject by Sir Edwin Johnson on the 1st instant which reached my hands on the 4th instant, when it was forwarded to the Secretary of State, with our Despatch of that date

3 I could not with advantage make any comment on Sir Edwin Johnson s abovementioned Minute pending the completion thus far, of enquiries which the Financial Department had then in hand and of which the result has now been laid before us by Sir John Strachey I fully appreciate the chivalrous impulse of our Military Colleague in taking to himself personally whatever responsibility might rest on his Department But it is now obvious that both the impressions which inspired, and the explanations which accompanied, that Minute are inapplicable to the facts established by subsequent enquiry, and unknown to Sir Edwin Johnson when he wrote it

4 In whatever manner or degree, responsibility for the failure that has occurred may, hereafter be apportioned between persons or departments the immediate duty involved in the responsibility which rests collectively with the Government of India is to search out the whole matter down to the root of it, by prosecuting energetically and impartially the investigations initiated by Sir John Strachey and to lay before the Secretary of State, as soon as we can confidently do so, a complete statement of the final result of these investigations

5 What we have now to ascertain, with the utmost possible precision, is how and why this failure has occurred the extent to which the evil has reached, and the most effectual means of preventing its recurrence

6 It is, clearly, not to be explained by reference only to the defects of a system, or to the errors of individual subordinate officers whatever those errors or defects may have been Enquiry must also be directed towards every other aspect of the subject in connection with which a more active exercise of intelligence could have prevented what has occurred

7 The statements contained in Sir John Strachey s Minute appear to me as complete as they can possibly be, pending the replies still awaited by this Government to the references already made, on the subject of them, to its Officers of Account and Control

8 The absence of those replies need not meanwhile, delay the submission of our further report to Her Majesty s Government Nor do I think that the failure in the War Estimates serious and extensive though it is, can materially affect that real and substantial improvement in the Government of India s general financial position, which Sir John Strachey described in his late Financial Statement

9 Neither does this failure in any way affect the soundness of the general principles of our financial policy It has, however, misled the Government of India and it has caused us to mislead the Government of Her Majesty, as to the cost of the Afghan War For this we owe to the Secretary of State the expression of an unqualified regret But, in contemplating every other aspect of what has occurred, the Government should, I think, be upon its guard against premature assumptions, or exaggerated apprehensions

10 Whether, apart from the seriously mistaken estimate of it, the actual expenditure incurred on account of the Afghán War has been as reasonable and economical as we have striven to render it, and believed it to be, is a question which cannot now be determined It is one, however, which, in my opinion will hereafter demand searching and independent investigation on the part of the Government of India

11 Such an enquiry cannot be opened while military operations are still in active progress, and while our knowledge of the expenditure actually incurred, or to be incurred is necessarily imperfect But if, hereafter, conducted with wisdom and impartiality, it will not only give to the Government valuable information in regard to the past, but will also furnish means for utilising the lessons of the past, to the best advantage, for the guidance of the future

PETROLEUM BILL

The Hon'ble MR STOKES moved for leave to introduce a Bill to regulate the importation possession and transport of petroleum and other substances of a like nature He said that for some time past the dangerous nature of the inflammable oils which are being imported into this country had engaged the attention of Government In November, 1878, the notice of the Governor General in Council was first drawn to the subject by the Government of Bombay with a view if necessary to legislation being resorted to to check the importation of dangerous oils On a reference being made to the Government of Bengal as to the expediency of such legislation it was found that the subject had already been for some time before that Government, and that a Committee had been appointed for the purpose of considering the question of these oils in all its bearings This Committee which was composed of officials, experts and gentlemen interested in the trade, had presented its report, in which it strongly urged the necessity for legislation and put forward certain recommendations as to the lines on which, in its opinion, such legislation should proceed

These recommendations followed with certain modifications, introduced to meet the special climatic and other circumstances of India the lines of 34 & 35 Vic, cap 105 (since amended by 42 & 43 Vic, cap 47), which was the principal Act governing this subject in the United Kingdom They appeared well adapted to carry out the object which the Committee had in view namely practical security of life and property with the minimum of restrictions on an important and rapidly developing trade which had grown, from 211 000 gallons imported in 1875 76, to 1,185,000 gallons imported in about eleven months of 1878 79

He would now state the general substance of the conclusions of the Committee —

First, they said that all petroleum should be divided into three classes, namely,—

Secondly, they recommended that all petroleum should be tested by Abel's close test, which had recently been adopted in the United Kingdom (sec 42 & 43 Vic, cap 47, the Petroleum Act, 1879,) for the purposes of the Petroleum Act, 1871, in preference to the old or open test which was fixed by that Act The necessity for introducing an improved test had been recently shewn by a case which Hon'ble Members might have seen in the Englishman about a fortnight ago Two American ships, freighted respectively with forty and sixty thousand cases of kerosine oil, were consigned to two firms in Calcutta Immediately on their arrival the Police boarded the ships and secured samples of their freights which were examined by the Government Analyst, Dr Warden, by the old or open test The result of this gentleman's examination was that the oil was found to flash at considerably below 100 The landing was consequently stopped, with, it was believed great loss and inconvenience to the consignees These gentlemen, not being satisfied with the result arrived at by Dr Warden, placed a sample in the hands of another eminent analyst, Dr Waldie who, after careful testing made out the flashing point to be 105 and, in another experiment with the same sample 109 The consignees then applied to the Commissioner of Police to allow the cargo to be discharged This officer declined to comply with the application, but directed Dr Warden to make a second analysis, which he did with a result the same as his former one It was then thought advisable to refer the matter to a third person, Mr Pedler the Professor of Chemistry in the Presidency College The result was that Mr Pedler came to a different conclusion altogether, and found that the oil flashed at 101 and, in a second experiment with the same sample, at 103 The difference of opinion was, however eventually settled and the cargo passed, but the case showed how absolutely necessary it was to introduce a more scientific system of testing these oils

Thirdly, the Committee said that, as second class petroleum flashed only at a temperature of 83 or 10 higher than the temperature (73) at which petroleum was considered safe enough to be exempted from the provisions of the English Petroleum Act (see 42 & 43 Vic, cap 17) and might therefore be regarded as at all events fairly safe the importation storage and transport of such petroleum, as well as of first class petroleum should be left reasonably free while the importation storage and transport of dangerous petroleum should be subjected to such severe restrictions as practically to be prohibited for purposes of ordinary use The importation of the last mentioned oil might of course be wholly prohibited by notification under the Sea Customs Act section 19, but as petroleum of this class might be required for certain legitimate purposes, it was thought better to adopt the Committee's recommendation The necessity of taking some such precautions would appear from an event which had occurred not very long ago, in the Hugli Six cargo boats were conveying kerosine oil, from two American ships through the port to godowns near the Chitpore canal On board of two of these boats an explosion and fire took place The fire was a most serious one lasting three or four hours and had it not been for the fortunate concurrence of a southerly wind with an ebb tide, the consequences might have been disastrous As it was the sheet of flame was driven down the river and to the north shore The ghats and buildings of the Botanical gardens were in great danger The jetty at the Superintendent's house was thrice on fire, and he only saved his office by bringing all his men to keep down the blaze Two of the boatmen were missing, and two or three others were badly burnt

The Government of India had considered this report and was disposed to concur generally in its conclusions, and in the scheme of legislation contained in the Committee's recommendations As the Government of Madras and the Chief Commissioner of Burma as well as the Governments of Bombay and Bengal, were in favour of legislation the Government of India was willing to accept the recommendation of the Committee that the legislation to be undertaken should be in the Council of the Governor General, and accordingly the present Bill, which embodied generally the recommendations of the Committee, had been prepared

As it seemed desirable to check at once, and generally, the trade in dangerous petroleum, and it would be unfair if all ports were not put on the same footing as to the importation of first class and second class petroleum, the provisions of the Bill relating to dangerous petroleum and the importation of first class and second class petroleum extended to the whole of India, but the other provisions of the Bill were only applicable at the discretion of the Local Government

The details of the measure had been left in a great measure to rules to be framed by the Local Government with the sanction of the Governor General in Council as this seemed the most convenient course in a case of this sort, where the local circumstances and peculiar features of the trade of various places had to be considered

The Motion was put and agreed to

KAZI BILL

The Hon'ble SAYYAD AHMAD KHAN moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill for the appointment of persons to the office of Kazi be taken into consideration

The Motion was put and agreed to

His Excellency THE PRESIDENT said he should like to make an observation regarding one word in the Bill The Bill was very properly, of a permissive character and it conferred no official administrative or judicial powers upon the Kazis, but it was stated in clause (a) section 4 of the Bill, that it was not to confer any judicial or other powers on any Kazi or Naib Kazi appointed thereunder He thought it rather singular to enact that a man who was appointed should have no kind of power whatever

The Hon'ble MR STOKES remarked that the Bill would really only give religious or social powers

His Excellency THE PRESIDENT supposed that as the Kazi was to be appointed by the Government he was to have some sort of powers social or other He did not know whether it was worth while taking any notice of the matter but the point struck him on looking at the clause, which seemed to imply that no power of any kind was to be conferred

The Hon'ble MR STOKES thought that the substitution of the words "judicial, administrative or other legal powers" would meet the objection taken by His Excellency

His Excellency THE COMMANDER IN CHIEF doubted the advisability of giving legal powers under the Bill

His Excellency THE PRESIDENT remarked that he had no objection to the adoption of Mr Stokes amendment but he agreed with the Commander in Chief that the Bill should not confer legal powers

The Hon'ble MR STOKES thought that the words "judicial or administrative powers" would cover the whole ground

His Honour THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR believed that it was the intention of the Bill not to confer any powers

The Hon'ble MR STOKES remarked that the effect of his amendment would be to carry out that intention Every officer in India was supposed to be either judicial or administrative and the substitution in the clause of the word "administrative" for "other" would he thought quite meet the case

After some further discussion as to whether registration by a Kazi was an administrative act, the Hon'ble MR STOKES moved that in clause (a), section 4, for the word "other" the word "administrative" be substituted

The amendment was put and agreed to

The Hon'ble MR GIBBS said he might mention, with regard to this Bill, that the inconveniences of not having Kazis had been experienced on the Bombay side In former years before the Act, No XI of 1864 had been passed, there were Government Kazis appointed in all the principal places in Bombay, and they were often of great use in settling small disputes which might otherwise have troubled the Magistrates or Courts. He had never been able to make out why, in that Act, there was a clean sweep made of all Kázís in the country; but it had done harm in leaving the Muhammadans without any sort of head to whom they might refer their little domestic difficulties; and this want had been much felt, and had led often to their taking the law into their own hands and committing breaches of it. He was therefore glad to see that the present Bill had been brought in.

The Hon'ble SAYYAD AHMAD KHÁN moved that the Bill as amended be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

VACCINATION BILL.

The Hon'ble SAYYAD AHMAD KHÁN moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill for giving powers to prohibit the practice of inoculation, and to make the vaccination of children compulsory, in certain municipalities and cantonments, be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. GRANT said that as he had opposed the Bill when it was first brought before the Council he should, perhaps, now explain why he found himself able to withdraw that opposition. He thought then, and was still of opinion that the preferable course both in the interests of vaccination itself and for other weighty reasons would have been to trust to the constant and gradual exercise of executive influence and the spread of education for removing the obstacles which impeded the progress of vaccination rather than to risk exciting the ignorant prejudices which were always set on the alert by any attempt at compulsory legislation; and he was then able to refer to the opinions of all the Local Governments except Burma in support of his apprehension. He imagined however, that any opposition which might have been anticipated from the desire to legislate had been already aroused, and that the modifications which the Select Committee had introduced into the Bill would go far to allay it.

The Select Committee had proposed three very important safeguards against any abuse of the powers which the Bill conferred. In the first place those powers could not be evoked at all except at the instance of the municipality which represented the town. Then if it happened—as it sometimes did happen—that the municipality was not strictly representative in its character or that it was perhaps inclined to lean too much on authority, a full opportunity was afforded to the town population to send in within a period of six weeks from the date of publication of the Bill, any objections which they might have to urge against its introduction. As the Local Governments which the Bill would affect evidently realized to the full the responsibility which would be imposed upon them, we had every reason to be assured that those preliminary safeguards would not be allowed to sink into mere formalities. And lastly, when the Bill had been formally brought into operation, a further precaution was provided against its being injudiciously worked, in the section which entrusted mainly to Native Honorary Magistrates the powers and responsibilities necessary for enforcing the Bill. The Honorary Magistracies were generally held by leading and respectable members of the town communities, and he thought we might fairly look to them to introduce into the proceedings taken under the Act the sympathy which naturally flowed from minute local knowledge and acquaintance with the wants and feelings of the people. Perhaps too when by means of practical experience they had thus become alive to the advantages of the Bill they would convey their impressions to their more ignorant neighbours and in course of time the municipalities of Upper India would follow the enlightened example of Calcutta and Bombay. At first, perhaps, we should not be too hopeful of rapid progress, but should content ourselves with the knowledge that we had made an important advance, and should allow time to the people to follow in our footsteps.

His Honour THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR said that the Bill as amended by the Select Committee had been modified to an extent which enabled him to withdraw the opposition to it expressed by him when the measure was introduced He had not changed his opinion that the time was not yet come for the introduction of compulsory vaccination into the Panjab but as the extension of the provisions of the Act would rest with the Local Governments it seemed to him that it might be safely allowed to pass and to come into operation in places where its action was expected to be beneficial He did not wish to extend it to any place in the Panjab, but as it was an Act of general application he did not wish to oppose its being passed and he trusted to its provisions to enable him to prevent its being introduced into any part of the Province over which he had the honour to preside until such time as the public mind was more fully prepared to receive such a measure

The Hon'ble MR GIBBS said that he had had this subject before him for some years and had introduced and passed two similar Bills while a Member of the Bombay Government The observations which had fallen from his hon'ble friends the Lieutenant Governor and Mr Grant, had been based chiefly on the alterations made by the Select Committee in the Bill by which its introduction became optional and also by which were provided considerable safeguards for preventing the Bill being introduced into any municipality where the people in contradistinction to the municipality itself, were not anxious to have it He might mention that with regard to the city of Bombay, the matter had been taken up some ten years ago by the Bombay Association, which was composed of the principal Native gentlemen of Bombay who met for the purpose of communicating from time to time to the Government their views on different political questions The then President was the late Hon'ble Jagannath Sankarsett, also a Member of the Legislative Council of Bombay and a leading man among the Natives, though a very strict indeed bigotted Hindu, but from what he had read of the progress of vaccination in other countries he was led to suggest to the Association the propriety of considering whether compulsory vaccination would not be beneficial in Bombay where every year large and increasing numbers of the population were cut off by small pox The Association asked the Government to assist them by appointing some officer who had made vaccination his study to advise them and the present Sanitary Commissioner was asked by Government to undertake the task He prepared a very able report on the subject which was duly laid before the Association and the result was that they passed an unanimous resolution that it was advisable that the Government should introduce a Bill for compulsory vaccination in the city of Bombay Communication was then made to the Bombay Municipality who unanimously approved of the proposal of the Bombay Association and expressed their readiness to find the means for putting it into effect This Bill was then introduced and discussed by the Bombay Council but the then Viceroy considered that the Council were going too far ahead and further reports were called for Much correspondence ensued and it ended in his (MR GIBBS) having in the year 1876 77 to re introduce the measure into the Council and he might mention that the only question raised at the time was as to whether the vaccination should be from arm to arm or from animal lymph The Select Committee heard everything that could be said on the subject and the result was that compulsory vaccination was to be conducted in the city of Bombay from animal lymph Up to the present time there had been no failure of animal lymph and from the latest accounts from Bombay it appeared that the Act had been working very well

The next occasion on which he (MR GIBBS) had to deal with the subject was that in which a petition was presented from Karachi in Sindh, requesting that a similar measure might be passed for the town of Karachi where also the deaths from small pox were every year becoming more alarming A Bill was accordingly introduced into the Council by him, which received the assent of the Viceroy and became law

He mentioned those instances to show that compulsory vaccination had been introduced into large places with the perfect consent of the people concerned, and that it was in consequence of his having urged that fact very strongly in the Select Committee that some of the alterations had been made in the present Bill. Those alterations, so far as the introduction of the Act was concerned, left it wholly and solely at the will of the people affected, and he thought that, with such a safeguard, the Bill might safely be passed. He trusted that the result of its introduction into a large city like Bombay, and more especially into Karachi, which was comparatively a small place, might lead other municipalities and towns by degrees to see the advantages of this system, and to apply for the Act to be put into force.

With regard to the Note of one of our hon'ble colleagues not here to-day—the Raja of Jhind—he seemed to have overlooked or forgotten that vaccination from animal lymph was compulsory in many European countries, where compulsion as regards this matter was not regarded in the same light as it would be in regard to other important matters.

His Excellency THE PRESIDENT remarked that what Mr. Gibbs had said afforded very satisfactory evidence that a similar measure to that now proposed had been introduced into a large city and into very small places with success, and with the approval of the people concerned. He was glad to see that the Bill had been amended and put into the shape in which it now stood. He thought that in legislation of this kind, particularly in India, it was very desirable to proceed in a cautious and tentative manner. In England we had had for a considerable time a Vaccination Act. There was a certain and rather increasing movement against it, and cases were cropping up from time to time in which even persons in a respectable position in life absolutely refused to comply with its provisions. He might mention a case in point which occurred within his own knowledge, that of the organist of Ripon Cathedral, who had positively refused to allow his children to be vaccinated, had been fined from time to time, had regularly paid the fines, but continued to refuse compliance with the provisions of the Act on the ground that one of his children had died, and he attributed its death to vaccination. Cases of this kind, where such feelings were evoked, required to be very carefully dealt with, and of course if in this country any religious feelings were roused, there again was a very delicate matter which we should touch with a very light hand. It seemed, however, to HIS EXCELLENCY that the Bill as it now stood was so entirely of a permissive character, and gave such a complete opportunity to the inhabitants of each locality to state their objections if they entertained any, that the measure itself being extremely desirable might be safely passed into law; and he thought that the Council was very much indebted to the Hon'ble Sayyad Ahmad for having taken up the question and brought to notice that in generally extending vaccination we would be conferring the greatest possible benefit upon the people of India. HIS EXCELLENCY was inclined to think that when the Bill was passed it might be advisable to consider, as an executive measure, whether a circular should not be issued to the Local Governments impressing upon them the necessity of proceeding very cautiously and tentatively, of strictly conforming to the intentions of the Act, and seeing that not merely the views of the municipalities, but the feelings of the populations concerned, should be carefully considered.

There was one point to which he would wish to draw the attention of the Council, namely, the amount of penalty which it was proposed to inflict for continued non-compliance with the order for vaccination. Under section 22, sub-section (d), of the Bill it was provided that whoever—

(d) neglects without just cause to obey an order made under section eighteen after having been previously convicted of neglecting to obey a similar order made in respect of the same child, shall be punished as follows (that is to say):—

in the case of the offence mentioned in clause (d) with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

HIS EXCELLENCY was not sufficiently acquainted with Indian legislation to know what was regarded as ordinary severity in this country, but he certainly thought a punishment of six months imprisonment rather severe, and, if his memory served him right, there was no similar power taken in the English law You could prosecute from time to time for continued disobedience, but there was no power that he was aware of for imprisonment

The Hon'ble MR GIBBS explained that the section in question had been taken from the Bombay Act It had been found necessary to put in the provision to meet some cases that had occurred, of people who did not take the trouble to observe the requirements of the law and of others who, without any just cause, religious scruples, or any other reason, refused to obey the orders There was a good deal of discussion on the section at the time and it was unanimously agreed both by the Native members of the Council and by everybody else, that the best way of meeting the difficulty was by providing for it in this way It had been proposed that when the Magistrate gave the order, the child should be vaccinated, but no one could see how that could be done

The Hon'ble SIR EDWIN JOHNSON was inclined to agree with the remarks of His Excellency the President and thought that we ought not to go beyond the maximum punishment allowed by the English law

His Excellency THE PRESIDENT remarked that his only doubt was whether six months was not a very severe punishment

The Hon'ble MR STOKES said that the provision in the Indian law most analogous to that now under discussion was section 291 of the Penal Code which provided against the continuance of a nuisance after an injunction had been made to discontinue it In that case the penalty was simple imprisonment for a term which might extend to six months or fine or both Under the Bill however as the General Clauses Act No 1 of 1868 section 2 clause 18, would apply, the 'imprisonment would be either simple or rigorous

His Excellency THE PRESIDENT thought that simple imprisonment as provided for under clause (a) of the section was of itself a very serious matter but the penalty under clause (d) now that Mr Stokes had pointed it out became more severe

The Hon'ble MR STOKES suggested the insertion of the word simple' before imprisonment in the last clause of section 22 of the Bill That he thought would remove His Excellency's objection on the ground of extreme severity

His Excellency THE PRESIDENT and the Hon'ble SAYYAD AHMAD KHAN having agreed to the proposed amendment —

The Hon'ble MR STOKES moved that in the last clause of section 22 of the Bill, the word simple be inserted before the word imprisonment

The Motion was put and agreed to

The Hon'ble SAYYAD AHMAD KHAN moved that the Bill as amended be passed

The Motion was put and agreed to

BOMBAY REVENUE JURISDICTION BILL

The Hon'ble MR COLVIN introduced the Bill to amend the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act 1876 and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Messrs Stokes and Gibbs and the Mover

The Motion was put and agreed to

He also moved that the Bill be published in the Bombay Government Gazette in English and in such other languages as the Local Government thought fit

The Motion was put and agreed to

ADMINISTRATOR GENERAL'S BILL

The Hon'ble MR STOKES introduced the Bill to exempt Parsis from certain provisions of the Administrator General's Act, 1871, and moved that it be u

referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Messrs Colvin and Grant and the Mover

The Hon'ble Mr GIBBS was not aware whether this was the proper time for him to offer an observation regarding the Bill, but he might perhaps be allowed to state with regard to what his hon'ble friend Mr Stokes had said when he asked for leave to introduce the Bill, that one difficulty which had arisen—and it was the principal one which brought the matter up—was this It was the custom when a Parsi died in the mufassal, for the Administrator General to move through the Police and it was found that in one or two cases the Police had entered a house where a Parsi had died and had taken inventories of the property much to the distress of the family in the house It was a case that took place in the Surat district which had led first of all to steps being taken for the present measure He did not know if his hon'ble friend Mr Stokes was aware of that circumstance

The Hon'ble Mr STOKES said he had now heard it for the first time It was only another illustration of what he had often found to be the case, that much of the unpopularity of the Legislative Department and its measures was due to the action of the Executive

The Hon'ble Mr STOKES moved that the Bill be published in the local official Gazettes in English, and in such other languages as the Local Governments thought fit

The Motion was put and agreed to

The Council adjourned till Friday, the 23rd July, 1880

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 13TH JULY 1880

GENERAL REMARKS.—The rainfall of the week has been on the whole good and general but in parts of the Burdwan and Patna divisions in Bengal, of the Deccan and of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh the rain has been insufficient. There was no rain in the Peshawar and Dera Ismail Khan districts of the Punjab where it is required. In the Central Provinces a break is still desired in some districts. In Burma the N[illegible]woon embankment has been breached and the floods have done some damage to paddy nurseries.

Prospects on the whole remain satisfactory.

NOTIFICATIONS

Simla, the 24th June 1880

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

With effect from the 1st August 1880, the rates of commission charged on the realization of the value of parcels and registered book packets sent under the value payable' system, will be reduced to half what they now are, and thereby assimilated to the rates of commission charged on the issue of money orders The new rates will be as follows —

25	0	4
50	0	8
125	1	4
150	1	8

and 4 annas for every additional Rs 25 or fraction thereof

The value of the contents of a value payable article will be limited to Rs 600

Value payable articles may be addressed only to Post Offices which are Money Order Offices and they may be posted only in Post Offices which are Money Order Offices The former restriction limiting the posting of value payable articles in Disbursing Post Offices is superseded

The amounts realized from the addressees of value payable articles less the commission chargeable thereon will be paid to the senders by means of money orders

When a value payable article is presented at a Post Office it must be accompanied by a memo randum prepared by the sender in the prescribed form, printed copies of which may be obtained from the Post Office on application

UTILIZATION OF CITY REFUSE AS MANURE

The following papers regarding the utilization of night-soil and city sweepings by the Poona Municipality are published in continuation of papers regarding similar arrangements at Amritsar, printed in the Supplement to the Gazette of India, dated 19th May 1877 —

No 1151 dated Poona the 31st March 1880
Endorsed by J H E Hart Esq C E Superintending Engineer for Irrigation

Submitted for the information of Government in the Public Works Department, Irrigation, with a copy of this office No 5026, dated 12th November 1879, and Government Resolution No 3222, dated 20th November 1879 (General Department)

2 The Superintending Engineer for Irrigation is induced to draw the special attention of Government in the Irrigation Department to the importance of the information furnished in these reports by the officers of the Poona Municipality on the subject of the use of poudrette as a manure

3 The précis of correspondence, circulated under Government memorandum (General Department) No 2633, dated 31st August 1875 shows that the use of poudrette was up to that time almost entirely unknown in this Presidency, except on a restricted scale in a few places

4 The development of the revenue realized by the Poona Municipality from the sale of poudrette, since the opening of the Mutha Canals, is of great importance The manure supplies a want essential to any great extension of garden cultivation and the revenue realized by the Municipality is so considerable that it may fairly be hoped other Municipalities will make some endeavour to turn to account the sewage of their towns, more specially in places like Sholapur, Káiár, Sátára &c, situated in the vicinity of large irrigation works It is believed that at the instigation of Mr Burke the manufacture and sale of poudrette has been taken in hand by the Sholapur Municipality within the last few years and with satisfactory results Detailed reports on the subject might be asked for

5 It appears from the papers that originally a system of preparing the poudrette by heating the night soil in furnaces was experimentally tried at Poona, but was subsequently abandoned as being too elaborate The "sun drying" process was then resorted to, and the result is approved both by Sanitary and Medical officers and by the purchasers It may be noted that this process is almost exactly that described as followed in Nasik, vide the précis referred to in para 3

6 The following are some of the most important matters on which information is obtainable in connection with the manufacture and sale of poudrette in Poona —

Population of City 90,436

Night soil 41 cart loads = 575 cubic feet per day This shrinks in drying to 430 cubic feet

Street sweepings 65 to 75 cart loads = 1,950 cubic feet per day When burnt and sifted produce is 300 cubic feet of ashes

Poudrette 430 cubic feet of night soil mixed with 300 cubic feet of ashes produce 730 cubic feet of poudrette per day or 2 66,450 cubic feet per annum

The price realized is 1 rupee per cubic yard or 27 cubic feet The annual value of the poudrette is thus Rs 9,870 at current rates This is incorrectly stated by the Secretary, Poona Municipal Committee, as Rs 4 934

The cost of conveying night soil and sweepings to the depôt is shown as Rs 11,736 The cost of manufacturing the poudrette is stated as Rs 6,264 The cost of conveyance has of course to be incurred in any case The manufacture of the poudrette will yield a very handsome profit to the Municipality The Municipal Secretary notes that the price of the manure is susceptible of increase and the cost of manufacture of reduction

The revenue from the sale has increased from Rs 766 in 1874 75 to Rs 7,438 during the first 9 months of the current year (1879 80)

7 The remarks in para 10 of the Secretary's letter are worthy of particular attention He states that 5 years ago cultivators "would not touch the poudrette" and "could not be induced to take it away at even a nominal charge At the present moment the outturn of manure is not enough to keep pace with the demand, and it has become necessary to take special precautions that the poudrette is not taken away in its raw state, which the cultivators sometimes attempt to do They frequently pay for manure to the Municipality from 4 to 6 months in advance in order to ensure a timely supply "

8 The Superintending Engineer recommends that Mr Plunkett's letter and the report by Mr Narso Ramchandra, Secretary, Poona Municipal Committee, be printed, and copies circulated to all Presidents of Municipalities and to Cantonment Committees Also that the papers be printed in the Government Gazette Copies might also be furnished to the Government of India vide Government Resolution (General Department), No 850 of 23rd March 1880, and to the Inspector General of Prisons

Superintending Engineer for Irrigation

No 98 dated Poona Municipal Office the 14th January 1880
From—A H PLUNKETT Esq City Magistrate and Chairman Poona Municipality
To—J B RICHEY Esq C S I Collector and President Municipality Poona

With reference to Government Resolution No 2222 of the 20th of November last, in the General Department, I have the honour to report that the following sums were realised by the sale of poudrette manufactured by the Poona Municipality during the past five years —

YEARS	Approximate quantity manufactured in cubic feet	Amount realised in Rupees	REMARKS
1874 75	60,000	766	All sold during the year
1875 76	90 000	1,308
1876 77	120 000	2 632
1877 78	1[illegible]0 000	2 840	About 2 500 cubic feet remained unsold
1878 79	220,000	4,356	About 100 000 cubic feet remained unsold The selling price was increased 50 per cent
1879 80 (up to 1st January 1880, 9 months)	200,000	7,438	About Rs 2,300 were obtained from the sale of old stock

2 The mode of preparing the poudrette advocated by Rao Bahádur Professor Keru Luxman Chhatre in his report (copy of which is appended for ready reference),* was abandoned as too elaborate and expensive after a very short trial The mode now adopted is described in the accompanying report of the Municipal Secretary

* Not printed

3 I beg to remark that the present mode of preparing the poudrette has the approval of the Medical profession and the Sanitary Commissioner of Bombay, and to add that the value of the poudrette as a manure is recognised by the agricultural classes the demand for it being steadily on the increase since the opening of the Mutha Canals

Report on the disposal of the night soil of the City of Poona and its preparation into Poudrette

1 The process adopted may be called the "sun drying process" It consists in exposing night soil in shallow beds covered with ashes to the sun to dry, and when perfectly dried in heaping it away to be sold to agriculturists for manure

Night soil

2 About forty four cart-loads of night soil are daily collected in the city and carted out to a depôt at the village of Dhankodi, 2½ miles away to the south of the city from its extreme limits Twenty two carts each of a capacity of 18 cubic feet are employed They make two trips a day They are barrel shaped (5′ 9 long and 2′ diameter) and are perfectly air tight They have a mouth for filling on the top at the fore end covered with an air tight trap lid and an opening at the left end at bottom for emptying, covered by a close fitting short piston, which is worked up and down by a screw worked from the top of the cart

3 The carts are taken away three fourths full, each containing about thirteen cubic feet of matter The space left vacant is required partly for the location of the gas which is generated in the night soil when exposed to the sun and stirred by the jolting of the carts and partly for preventing the night soil from spilling or overflowing as it rises while fermenting and while the gas is produced

4 The night soil collected is in a semi liquid state, as a great quantity of water used by people for ablution, mixes with it, from which it cannot be separated About 575 cubic feet of such soil is collected daily

Ashes

5 Street and house sweepings collected from the dust bins of the city are carted out and burnt into ashes, which are afterwards carted out to the depôt referred to in para 2 above The carts are of open box form, 5 feet long 3 feet broad and 2 feet deep which make a capacity of 30 cubic feet 25 carts are employed, and they make three trips daily Allowing for stoppages, accidents, &c, about 65 cart loads of sweepings consisting of house ashes stable litter, sweepings, and a quantity of road dust and brick bats are taken out daily The total refuse thus taken out is about 1 950 cubic feet When burnt, it is reduced to $\frac{2}{13}$ths of its bulk, or about 300 cubic feet of pure ashes

Deodorisation

6 At the depôt beds are formed with a floor made of moorum or other hard substance to receive the night soil, the beds are 18 feet square and 1 foot deep A layer of ashes one inch thick is first spread over the floor of the beds, night soil is then poured on about 5 inches deep and is covered over with a layer of ashes also an inch deep It is then allowed to remain for 24 hours in the sun during the fair season and for three days under sheds during the rainy season The night soil is after the lapse of the time mentioned above stirred and well mixed with the ashes spread above and below it, and a fresh layer of the latter ½ inch thick put on when it is allowed to lie for 3 days further in the fair season and 8 days during the rains The mixture is then again stirred, taken out of the beds, and spread on dry open ground exposed to the sun to complete its drying It is then stored in heaps for sale, and is in dry weather fit for immediate use

7 In the rainy season the drying has occasionally to be done under cover, and consequently the process occupies as many as 12 days, whereas in the cold season it takes 6 days and in the hot season only 4 days

Remarks

8 Experience has shown that ashes form the most efficient and cheapest deodoriser of the noxious gases generated from night soil, and the depôt when there is no uncovered night soil in it, is free from stinks at a distance of 50 yards on its windward and not more than 150 yards on its lee ward side, provided always that the supply and use of ashes is sufficient

9 It will be observed that 575 cubic feet of semi liquid night soil is obtained daily from the city, and only 300 cubic feet of ashes, that is, the latter is a little over one half of the former Experience has shown that to ensure thorough deodorisation, complete freedom from stink, and the best poudrette, the proportion of ashes to night soil should be about equal, and the Municipality are trying to augment their collection of ashes to the required quantity

Poudrette

10 The manure prepared in this manner is much valued by cultivators, and is in great demand Applications for the manure have been increasing since the opening of the Mutha Canals, and consequent extension of wet cultivation Five years ago, agriculturists would not touch the poudrette then prepared, and could not be induced to take it away at even a nominal charge At the present moment the outturn of manure is not enough to keep pace with the demand, and it has become necessary to take special precautions that the poudrette is not taken away in its raw state which the cultivators some times attempt to do They frequently pay for manure to the Municipality from four to six months in advance in order to ensure a timely supply

11 The poudrette manufactured by the Municipality is clean and free from brick bats, broken glass and other rubbish, or common earth This is secured by the ashes being sifted before being mixed with night soil

12 It may not be out of place here to quote a paragraph from a letter No 618 T, dated 8th November 1879, from the Sanitary Commissioner of Bombay, on the mode of preparing the poudrette now followed by the Poona Municipality —

Before the depot is removed it is only fair to place on record that hitherto its manage ment reflects the highest credit on all concerned I have visited it often and unexpectedly, and remembering how rude are the means as they generally are in India I can answer for it that every process is very carefully conducted

Quantity manufactured

13 575 cubic feet of semi liquid night soil and 300 cubic feet of ashes are collected daily at the depôt and mixed together The night soil shrinks in drying to $\frac{3}{4}$ths its bulk or about 430 cubic feet The daily outturn of pou drette is therefore $430 + 300 = 730$ cubic feet, or 266,450 cubic feet in the year

Financial results

14 Before concluding this report, it will be of interest to note the finan cial results of this branch of work of the Poona Municipality—

44 cart loads of night soil conveyed daily to the depôt by 22 pairs of bullocks at Rs 24 per pair with driver per month, cost per annum	Rs	6,3 6
65 to 75 cart loads of street sweepings conveyed daily to the depôt by 25 pairs of bullocks at Rs 18 per pair with driver per month cost per annum	„	5 400
Cost of sifting refuse, burning preparing ashes mixing night soil and preparing poudrette per annum	„	2,664
Maintenance of sheds and beds at the depôt, per annum	„	900
Repairs to night soil and refuse carts, per annum	„	2,500
Tools, plant and contingencies	„	200
Total cost per annum	Rs	18,000

15 The poudrette is now sold at 27 cubic feet forming 96 ordinary iron baskets full for a rupee, the annual revenue from the 266,450 cubic feet of poudrette prepared is Rs 4,934 say 5 000

16 There is thus at the present moment a net loss to the Municipality of Rs 13,000 per annum It should be borne in mind that the Municipality would have as its first duty to remove the night soil and refuse of the city in some way or other, what therefore has been mentioned as a net loss to the Municipality is only what it costs them to get rid of the filth of the city in the best manner possible The price of poudrette is yet susceptible of increase and the cost of preparing it of decrease, and it is possible that the cost to the Municipality might be reduced in three or four years to Rs 7,500 only by reducing charges from 18 000 to 15,000 and increasing sale proceeds of pou drette to Rs 7,500 The sale of poudrette will thus pay half the cost of the removal from the city of its night soil and street and house sweepings

[Third publication]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 9th July 1880 and is hereby promulgated for general information —

An Act for the appointment of persons to the office of Kázi

WHEREAS by the preamble to Act No XI of 1864 (An Act to repeal the law relating to the offices of Hindu and Muhammadan Law Officers and to the offices of Kázi-ul-Kuzát and of Kázi and to abolish the former offices) it was (among other things) declared that it was inexpedient that the appointment of the Kázi-ul-Kuzát or of City Town or Pargana Kázis should be made by the Government and by the same Act the enactments relating to the appointment by the Government of the said officers were repealed and whereas by the usage of the Muhammadan community in some parts of British India the presence of Kázis appointed by the Government is required at the celebration of marriages and the performance of certain other rites and ceremonies and it is therefore expedient that the Government should again be empowered to appoint persons to the office of Kázi It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title

1 This Act may be called The Kázis Act, 1880,

Commencement.

Local extent

It extends in the first instance only to the territories administered by the Governor of Fort St George in Council But any other Local Government may from time to time by notification in the official Gazette extend it to the whole or any part of the territories under its administration

[illegible]

2 Whenever it appears to the Local Government that any considerable number of the Muhammadans resident in any local area desire that one or more Kázis should be appointed for such local area the Local Government may if it thinks fit after consulting the principal Muhammadan residents of such local area select one or more fit persons and appoint him or them to be Kázis for such local area

If any question arise whether any person has been rightly appointed Kázi under this section the decision thereof by the Local Government shall be conclusive

The Local Government may if it thinks fit suspend or remove any Kázi appointed under this section who is guilty of any misconduct in the execution of his office or who is for a continuous period of six months absent from the local area for which he is appointed or leaves such local area for the purpose of residing elsewhere or is declared an insolvent or desires to be discharged from the office or who refuses or becomes in the opinion of the Local Government unfit or personally incapable to discharge the duties of the office

Naib Kázi

3 Any Kázi appointed under this Act may appoint one or more persons as his naib or naibs to act in his place in all or any of the matters appertaining to his office throughout the whole or in any portion of the local area for which he is appointed and may suspend or remove any naib so appointed

When any Kázi is suspended or removed under section two, his náib or naibs (if any) shall be deemed to be suspended or removed, as the case may be

4 Nothing herein contained and no appointment made hereunder shall be deemed—

Nothing in Act to confer judicial or administration powers or

(a) to confer any judicial or administrative powers on any Kázi or Naib Kází appointed hereunder, or to render the presence of Kází necessary or

(b) to render the presence of a Kází or Náib Kází necessary at the celebration of any marriage or the performance of any rite or ceremony, or to prevent any one acting as Kázi

(c) to prevent any person discharging any of the functions of a Kázi

9 When any unprotected child having attained the age of six months has resided for a period of one month during the vaccination season in any local area to which the provisions of this Act apply and has not at the expiration of such period attained the age, if a boy, of fourteen years, and if a girl of eight years, the parent or guardian of such child shall take it or cause it to be taken to a vaccinator to be vaccinated or send for a vaccinator to vaccinate it

Vaccinator to vaccinate children or deliver certificate of postponement

Such vaccinator shall vaccinate the child and deliver to its parent or guardian a memorandum stating the date on which the vaccination has been performed and the date on which the child is to be inspected in order to ascertain the result of the operation, or shall if he finds such child in a state unfit for vaccination deliver to its parent or guardian a certificate under his hand to the effect that the child is in a state unfit for vaccination for the whole or part of the current vaccination season

10 The parent or guardian of every child which has been vaccinated under section nine shall on the date of inspection stated in the memorandum take the child or cause it to be taken to a vaccinator for inspection or get it inspected at his own house by a vaccinator, and

such vaccinator shall then append to the memorandum a certificate stating that the child has been inspected and the result of such inspection

Procedure when vaccination successful

11 When it is ascertained at the time of inspecting a child under section ten that the vaccination has been successful, a certificate shall be delivered by the vaccinator to the parent or guardian of such child to that effect and such child shall thereafter be deemed to be protected

Procedure when vaccination is unsuccessful

12 When it is ascertained as aforesaid that the vaccination has been unsuccessful the parent or guardian shall if the vaccinator so direct cause the child to be forthwith again vaccinated and subsequently inspected in manner hereinbefore provided

Procedure when child is unfit for vaccination

13 A certificate granted under section nine showing the unfitness of a child for vaccination shall remain in force for the period stated therein and on the termination of that period, or if that period terminates after the vaccination season is over when the next vaccination season begins the parent or guardian of such child shall take the child or cause it to be taken to a vaccinator to be vaccinated or procure its vaccination at his own house by a vaccinator

Renewal of postponement certificates

Provided that if the child is still found to be in a state unfit for vaccination, the certificate granted under section nine shall be renewed

Certificates of insusceptibility of successful vaccination

14 If the Superintendent of vaccination is of opinion that a child which has been three times unsuccessfully vaccinated is insusceptible of successful vaccination, he shall deliver to the parent or guardian of such child a certificate under his hand to that effect and the parent or guardian shall thenceforth not be required to cause the child to be vaccinated

What lymph to be used

15 The vaccination of a child shall ordinarily be performed with such lymph as may be prescribed by the rules to be made under this Act

Provided that,

2nd if in any local area in which animal lymph is procurable human lymph is so prescribed and the parent or guardian of any child desires that such child should be vaccinated with animal lymph and tenders to the vaccinator the amount of such fee not exceeding one rupee as may be fixed by such rules in this behalf such child shall be so vaccinated

16 No fee shall be charged by any vaccinator except a private vaccinator to the parent or guardian of any child for any of the duties imposed on such vaccinator by or under the provisions of this Act

Proviso

Provided that it shall be lawful for a vaccinator to accept a fee for vaccinating a child by request of the parent or guardian elsewhere than in the circle for which such vaccinator is appointed

Duty of Superintendent of Vaccination

17 The Superintendent of Vaccination in addition to the other duties imposed on him by or under the provisions of this Act shall ascertain whether all unprotected children under the age of fourteen years if boys and under the age of eight years if girls within the local area under his superintendence have been vaccinated and if he has reason to believe that the parent or guardian of any such child is bound by the provisions hereinbefore contained to procure the vaccination of such child or to present it for inspection and has omitted so to do he shall personally

Notice to parent or guardian neglecting to comply with Act

go to the house of such parent or guardian and there make enquiry and shall if the fact is proved forthwith deliver to such parent or guardian or cause to be affixed to his house a notice requiring that the child be vaccinated or (as the case may be) that it be presented for inspection at a time and place to be specified in such notice

18 If such notice is not complied with the Superintendent of Vaccination shall report the matter to the Magistrate of the District or such Magistrate as the Local Government or the Magistrate of the District may from time to time appoint in this behalf, and the Magistrate receiving such report shall summon the parent or guardian of the child and demand his explanation and shall if such explanation is not satisfactory make an order in writing directing such parent or guardian to comply with the notice before a date specified in the order

Procedure when order not obeyed

If on such date the order has not been obeyed, the Magistrate shall summon the parent or guardian before him and unless just cause or excuse is shown, shall deal with the disobedience as an offence punishable under section twenty two

Magistrates to be non official natives

The Magistrates appointed under this section shall as far as is conveniently practicable be natives of India, and not paid servants of the Government

Power to make rules for municipalities

19 When this Act has been applied to any municipality or any part thereof the Municipal Commissioners may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act for the proper enforcement of this Act within the limits to which it applies Such rules shall be made in the manner in which under the law for the time being in force, the Commissioners make rules or bye laws for the regulation of other matters within the limits of the municipality and shall when confirmed by the Local Government and published in the official Gazette have the force of law

Provided that the Local Government may at any time rescind or modify any such rule

Power to make rules for cantonments

20 When this Act has been applied to any cantonment or any part thereof the Local Government may from time to time subject to the control of the Governor General in Council make such rules

What rules under sections 19 and 20 may provide for

21 The rules to be made for any local area under sections nineteen or twenty may among other matters provide for—

(a) the division of such local area into circles for the performance of vaccination

(b) the appointment of a place in each vaccination circle as a public vaccine station and the posting of some distinguishing mark in a conspicuous place near such station

(c) the qualifications to be required of public vaccinators and Superintendent of vaccination

(d) the authority with which their appointment, suspension and dismissal shall rest

(e) the times of attendance of public vaccinators at the vaccine stations and their residence within the limits of the vaccination circles

[Third publication]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 9th July 1880 and was referred to a Select Committee —

No 9 of 1880

A Bill to amend the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act 1876

Preamble

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act 1876, in manner hereinafter appearing, and to make further provision for the recovery of certain advances made in the territories administered by the Governor of Bombay in Council for purposes other than those specified in the Land Improvement Act 1871 It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title

1 This Act may be called The Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act 1880

Commencement

and it shall come into force at once

Repeal of sections 8 9 10 and 17 of Act No X of 1876

2 Sections eight, nine, ten and seventeen of the said Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act 1876, are hereby repealed

Proviso as to second paragraph of section 17

Provided that the repeal of the second clause of the said section seventeen shall not be deemed to render invalid or illegal anything made valid or legal by the said clause

Add[illegible] t[illegible] n 32 of Act N[illegible] XIV f 18[illegible] [illegible] by [illegible] 1 of Act No X f 1876

3 To section thirty two of the Bombay Civil Courts Act No XIV of 1869 as amended by section fifteen of the said Act the following words shall be added —

Pr[illegible]

Provided that nothing in this section shall be deemed to apply to any suit merely because a municipal corporation constituted under Bombay Act No VI of 1873 or any other enactment for the time being in force is a party to such suit and an officer of Government is in his official capacity a member of such corporation"

[illegible] specified [illegible] No XXVI f 1871

4 The Governor of Bombay in Council may from time to time with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council prescribe rules as to advances to be made in the territories administered by the said Governor in Council to owners and occupiers of arable land for the relief of distress, the purchase of seed or cattle or any other purpose not specified in the Land Improvement Act 1871, but connected with agricultural objects Act X of 187[illegible] s 3

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette

Recovery of such advances

5 Every advance for any such purpose which may heretofore have been made by or on behalf of the Government in the said territories and every advance which may hereafter be made under such rules shall when it becomes due be recoverable from the person to whom it was made or from any person who has become surety for the repayment thereof as if it were an arrear of land revenue due by the person to whom the advance was made or by his surety Act X of 1879 s 3

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

THE passing of the Bombay Land Revenue Code (Bombay Act No V of 1879) has rendered certain of the provisions of the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act (No X of 1876) superfluous Thus, sections 9 and 10 of that Act, which provide for appeals from the proceedings of Revenue officers and for review of the orders passed on such appeals in certain specified cases are covered by the provisions of the Code which provide for such appeals and reviews generally Again, the need for paragraph 1 of section 17 of the Act is removed by section 151 of the Code whilst Bombay Regulation XVII of 1827 to which the second paragraph of the same section refers is entirely repealed by the Code sections 45 and 48 of which render lands within the sites of villages, towns and cities liable to assessment to the land revenue

2 The present Bill repeals all these provisions of the Revenue Jurisdiction Act Care, however has been taken when repealing the second clause of section 17, to add a proviso maintaining the validity which that clause gives to things done before the Act was passed

3 The opportunity has been taken to make one or two other amendments in connection with the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act which have been suggested by the Bombay Government

4 Section 8 of the Act had an intelligible meaning as it stood with its original context in Bombay Regulation V of 1830 section 1 clause 6 but as it stands alone in the Act, its correct interpretation is by no means clear and as the Bombay Government state that in practice its provisions are a dead letter, it has been thought advisable to repeal it altogether by the present Bill

5 It has recently been held by the Bombay High Court (Melvill J and Kemball J), in the case of the Ahmadabád municipality (I L R 3 Bom p 146), that in a suit by or against a municipality constituted under the Bombay Municipal Act (No VI of 1873) every individual Commissioner must be regarded as a party within the meaning of section 15 of the Revenue Jurisdiction Act 1876 and that consequently if any officers of Government are in their official capacity Commissioners such a suit can be entertained by the District Judge alone A large number of the suits in which municipalities are concerned are of a trifling nature and there appears to be no adequate reason for depriving the Subordinate Judges and the Judges of the Small Cause Courts of jurisdiction with regard to them, whilst the result of confining such suits to the Court of the District Judge is to impede that officer in the disposal of the more important suits and which properly fall within the jurisdiction of his Court A proviso has therefore been added to section 34 of the Bombay Courts Act (No XIV of 1869) as amended by section 15 of the Revenue Jurisdiction Act saving from the provisions of the section suits by or against municipalities in cases in which Government officials are as such members of such municipalities

6 Lastly the third paragraph of section 17 of the Revenue Jurisdiction Act, though rendering advances made by Government for purposes other than those specified in the Land Improvement Act 1871, recoverable as arrears of land revenue is restricted in its operation to the case of the persons to whom such advances have been made, and does not extend to the sureties of such persons This is an evident defect in the law Instead however of merely amending the paragraph it has been thought more expedient to repeal it altogether and to enact a new provision based on section 3 of the Northern India Takkávi Act, 1879

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 9th July, 1880, and was referred to a Select Committee —

No 10 of 1880

A Bill to exempt Parsis from certain provisions of the Administrator General's Act, 1874

Preamble

WHEREAS Hindus, Muhammadans and Buddhists are exempted from the operation of certain provisions of the Administrator General's Act (No II) 1874 but are subject to the operation of certain other provisions of the said Act

and whereas it is expedient that Pársís should be exempted from and be subject to the operation of the said Act to the same extent as Hindus Muhammadans and Buddhists It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title

1 This Act may be called "The Administrator General's Act, 1880"

Commencement.

Amendment of sections 16 17 18 36 and 64 of Administrator General's Act 1874

2 In sections 16, 17 18 36 and 64 respectively of the said Act between the word Muhammadan and the words or Buddhist wherever they occur the word "Pársí shall be inserted

Saving of letters and certificates already granted

3 Nothing herein contained shall affect any letters of administration or certificate granted under the said Act before the passing of this Act

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

1 As the law now stands all the provisions of the Administrator General's Act (No II of 1874) apply to Parsis to the same extent as to their European and Christian fellow subjects On the other hand Hindus Muhammadans and Buddhists though subject to certain portions of the Act which are expressly declared applicable to all persons without exception, are by the terms of the Act itself exempted from some of its most important provisions

2 So far as can be gathered from various memorials and communications on the subject which have been received the Pársís are almost unanimous in their desire to be exempted from the provisions of the Act in the same manner and to the same extent as Hindus, Muhammadans and Buddhists

3 Briefly stated the chief grounds on which the Pársís base their claim to exemption appear to be first that there is no necessity for such an Act in their case secondly, that in its operation the Act is oppressive and burdensome to them and repugnant to their social and religious customs

4 With regard to the former ground there is no doubt that the Act was originally designed to meet the case of Europeans and other foreigners similarly situated in this country whereas Pársís are distinctly Asiatics with an Indian domicile They have always relatives or friends willing to take charge of their property and to enforce its proper administration It is thus clear that Pársís are in a totally different position from those for whose benefit the Act was intended and it would accordingly seem that there is a great deal to be said in favour of the arguments of the Pársís on this ground

5 As to the second ground it could scarcely be contended that the provisions of the Administrator General's Act are in themselves either oppressive or burdensome but looking to the repugnance with which Parsís regard such an exposure of their family affairs and resources as would sometimes result if the Act were enforced in their case it may be admitted that this second ground is not altogether without foundation

6 The present Bill, by a slight alteration of the Administrator General's Act 1874 puts Pársís in exactly the same position with regard to that Act as Hindus Muhammadans and Buddhists

Where there is but one class of proprietors in a mahál and none of them are willing to accept in manner required by section fifty-five the assessment offered, the Settlement-officer may, with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, exclude them from settlement and may settle the mahál with any other persons or may take it under direct management:

Provided that the period of exclusion under this section shall in no case exceed the term of settlement.

B 95 — Act XIX of 1873 s 49. — Procedure when only some proprietors accept assessment.

59. If some of the proprietors are willing and others are not willing to accept the assessment offered, the Settlement-officer may, if the interest of the recusant proprietors in the lands taken into account in the assessment consist entirely of lands held by them separately from the other proprietors, form such lands into a separate mahál and deal with such mahál under section fifty-eight:

Provided that the settlement of such separate mahál shall be offered in the first instance to the proprietors who were willing to accept the assessment originally offered.

In other cases the settlement of the entire mahál shall be offered to the proprietors who were willing to accept the settlement when originally offered, and if they refuse it the mahál shall be dealt with under section fifty-eight.

B 96 — Act XXXIII of 1871 s 30; Settlement Code p 51. — Procedure on refusal of assessment in village in which superior and inferior proprietors exist.

60. When an assessment is offered in a mahál in which both superior and inferior proprietors exist—

(a) if all the proprietors of the class with which the Settlement-officer proposes to make the settlement are unwilling to accept as aforesaid the assessment offered, the settlement shall be offered to the other class, and if all the proprietors of such class refuse the settlement the Settlement-officer shall proceed as in section fifty-eight;

(b) if some only of the proprietors of the class with which the Settlement-officer proposes to make the settlement refuse the assessment, he may either proceed as if all refused or may deal with the mahál under section fifty-nine:

Provided that, if, in the latter case, the proprietors who were willing to accept the assessment when originally offered refuse to accept it, such settlement shall be offered to the other class of proprietors in preference to any other persons.

B 97 — See s 54, N W P. — Procedure on refusal of sub-settlement by inferior proprietors.

61. If all the inferior proprietors refuse any sub-settlement offered under section fifty-one, the Settlement-officer may assign the proprietary management and profits of the mahál to the superior proprietor for any term not exceeding the term of settlement.

If some only of the inferior proprietors refuse the sub-settlement, the Settlement-officer may in his discretion either—

(a) proceed as if all had refused it, or

(b) deal with the mahál under section fifty-nine as if the sub-settlement had been a settlement.

B 98 — Act XIX of 1873 ss 48, 51; Act XXXIII of 1871 s 37; No 3 ¶ 10. — Allowance to excluded proprietors.

62. Any proprietor excluded from settlement under section fifty-eight or section sixty, clause (a), shall be entitled to receive, from the Government, an annual allowance, the amount of which shall be fixed by the Chief Commissioner, but which shall not be less than five per cent or more than ten per cent on the amount of the assessment offered to him by the Settlement-officer.

Act XIX of 1873 s 50; No 3 ¶ 10. — Excluded proprietors' rights in sír land.

63. Any proprietor excluded from settlement under sections fifty-eight to sixty-one inclusive shall be entitled to retain possession of his sír land (if any) as if he were an absolute occupancy tenant, and the rent to be paid by him for such land during the term of his exclusion shall be fixed by the Settlement-officer accordingly.

Act XIX of 1873 s 56. — Sub-settlement with málik makbuzas and other like proprietors.

64. The Settlement-officer may make on behalf of málik makbuzas or other like holders of land such a sub-settlement as shall secure to them from the proprietors of the mahál their existing rights, and may provide that, in addition to the land revenue payable by them, they shall pay to the proprietors such percentage thereon, not exceeding twenty per cent, as may in his opinion be sufficient to compensate the said proprietors for their responsibility in respect of the Government land revenue, and to meet fees to lambardárs and mukaddams

B 99 — 65 The amount of revenue payable under a sub settlement shall be a first charge upon all the land comprised in such sub settlement

Revenue payable under sub settlement to be first charge on land

OF CERTAIN ADDITIONAL POWERS AND FUNCTIONS OF REVENUE OFFICERS

133 The Deputy Commissioner shall when a settlement is not in progress exercise the powers conferred by this Act on Settlement officers for the following purposes —

Purposes for which when settlement is not in progress Deputy Commissioner shall exercise Settlement officer's powers

(b) assessing land revenue on lands which are liable to assessment, but have not been assessed

B. 165

(c) forming new mahále from land not previously settled

(d) settling lands from which the proprietors were excluded at settlement and to which they have been or are about to be readmitted,

(e) settling mahále in respect of which an application has been made under the third proviso to section fifty seven

(f) dealing with claims to hold land wholly or partially free from revenue as against the malguzárs,

(g) assessing lands gained by alluvion,

(h) ascertaining and recording village cesses which are levied at the time of the passing of this Act but have not been recorded at the settlement

134 The Chief Commissioner may during the currency of a settlement in vest any officer with the powers conferred on a Settlement officer by sections forty forty one and forty two or with the sanction of the Governor General in Council with any other of the powers which are by this Act conferred on a Settlement officer but not so as to enable him to enhance the amount of an assessment in force under section fifty seven B 166 Act XIX of 1873 s 93

Purposes for which officer may be invested with Settlement officer's powers

135 Any person wilfully erasing removing or damaging a boundary mark may be ordered by the Deputy Commissioner or by a Tahsildar or Naib Tahsildar empowered by the Chief Commissioner in this behalf to pay such sum not exceeding fifty rupees as may in the opinion of the officer making the order be necessary to defray the expense of restoring the same, and of rewarding the person (if any) who gave information of such erasure damage or removal B 159 B 10 Act XIX of 1873 s 142.

Cognizance of and penalty for offence of injuring boundary marks

136 Whenever the person erasing removing or damaging such mark cannot be discovered or if for any other reason it is found impracticable to recover from him the sum which he has been ordered to pay the mark shall be re erected or repaired at the cost of the proprietors mortgagees or farmers of such one or more of the adjoining lands as the Deputy Commissioner thinks fit B 160 Act XIX of 1873 s 143

Procedure when person injuring cannot be found

137 Any málguzárs of a mahál who are not co sharers with the other malguzárs of such mahal in any lands of such mahal except such lands as are under the law relating to partition for the time being in force indivisible may apply to the Deputy Commissioner to make the lands held by them separately from such other malguzárs a separate mahál and the Deputy Commissioner shall thereupon make such lands and the lands held separately by the remaining malguzárs separate mahals and shall apportion between the two new mahals thus constituted the entire revenue assessed upon the original mahal New

VILLAGE OFFICERS AND PATWARIS

138 The Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules regulating the appointment remuneration and dismissal of lambardárs sub lambardárs and mukaddams B. 204.

Power to make rules as to officers

Provided that proprietors other than málik makbúzás shall not be liable to pay on account of the aggregate remuneration of lambardárs or sub-lambardárs and mukaddams a sum exceeding five per cent on the land revenue which is No 1 ¶ 38 Settlement Code, p 26, para. 43

assessed on their land or which when their land is revenue-free would, in the judgment of the Deputy Commissioner, be assessed on their land if it was subject to assessment

In framing rules for the appointment of lambardárs and sub lambardárs under this section, the Chief Commissioner shall have regard among other matters to local custom and hereditary claims, and to entries on the subject in the Record of rights of any mahál

B. 205 — Duties of lambardárs

139 It shall be the duty of every lambardár and sub lambardár—

(a) to collect and pay into the Government treasury so much of the land revenue as may under section seventy be payable through him either solely or jointly with other lambardárs or sub lambardárs

(b) to collect and pay to the mukaddam or into the Government treasury as the Deputy Commissioner may direct all sums payable through him either solely or jointly with other lambardárs or sub lambardárs from the mahál to which he is appointed, on account of cash allowances to patwárís or village watchmen or on account of any expenses which the mukaddam is authorized to incur and to recover from such mahál

(c) to assist the mukaddam in obtaining all particulars which he is bound to enter in the annual village papers, or to report under this Act

B 205: Settlement Code, p 26, para 43 — Lambardárs may recover fees and other charges from proprietors

140 Lambardárs and sub lambardárs may recover from the proprietors whom they represent along with the land revenue—

(a) any remuneration to which they are entitled

(b) the sum which under section one hundred and thirty nine they are bound to pay to mukaddams

Provided that no such recovery shall be made from málik makbuzas paying a percentage which includes remuneration to mukaddams and lambardárs

B 168 — Deputy Commissioner may alter channel through which málik makbuzá pays revenue

141 On the application of any málik makbuzá or other like holder of land or of the lambardár or sub lambardár through whom such málik makbuzá or other holder of land pays the revenue assessed on his holding the Deputy Commissioner may for sufficient cause shown direct that such revenue be paid through any other lambardár or sub lambardár or that it be paid direct into the Government treasury

Effect of order for payment of revenue direct to Government

When the Deputy Commissioner orders such payment to be made direct into the treasury such portion of percentage fixed under section sixty four as the Deputy Commissioner subject to the control of the Chief Commissioner, may determine shall be paid to the Government and the málik makbúzá or other person shall pay the rest to the mukaddams on account of fees to mukaddams and other village expenses

Duties of mukaddams — B 206 No. 1 ¶¶ 35 et seq No 2, ¶¶ 60-68

142 It shall be the duty of every mukaddam—

(a) to control and superintend the village-patwári and watchmen, to report their deaths or absence from duty, to maintain them in the possession of any lands appertaining to their office to recover and pay to them any cash allowances to which they may be entitled, and to take such steps as may be necessary to compel them to perform their duties,

(b) to furnish reports regarding the state of the village, at such places and times as the Deputy Commissioner fixes in this behalf

(c) to prevent or report encroachments on public paths and roadways

(d) to preserve such stations and marks erected by any Government surveyor as may be made over to his care

(e) subject to any rules issued by the Chief Commissioner to keep his village in good sanitary condition

(f) to report the deaths of all persons holding lands wholly or partially free from revenue and of Government pensioners

(g) to report violations of any rules which the Chief Commissioner may make for the preservation of underwood forests and trees growing on the village lands and for securing to persons entitled to cut wood, and enjoy other privileges in the waste lands of the village the rights to which they are entitled

(h) to collect or aid in the collection of, all Government taxes and dues

The Chief Commissioner may from time to time, make rules—

(1) varying or adding to the list of duties which a mukaddam is required to perform under this section, and B 207

(2) regulating the liability of persons residing in any village for charges necessarily incurred by mukaddams in the performance of the duties specified in clause (e) in respect of such village and for apportioning such charges among such persons

Liabilities imposed by law on landholders to attach to mukaddams

143 When by any enactment for the time being in force any public duties are imposed on, or public liabilities are declared to attach to, landholders their managers and agents and the like, such duties shall be deemed to be imposed on, and such liabilities shall be held to attach to, mukaddams appointed under this Act B 206.

Provided that nothing herein contained shall discharge landholders their managers or agents or the like from any liabilities imposed upon them by law No 3 ¶ 24.

Power to mukaddams to recover certain expenses incurred

144 Every mukaddam may recover from the lambardárs or sub lambardárs of the village to which he is appointed his own remuneration together with any expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of his duties B 206

Chief Commissioner may make rules as to patwáris — B 208 Act XXXIII of 1871 s 6.

145 The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, make rules—

(a) regulating the manner in which patwáris are to be selected, prescribing the condi tions under which they may be appointed, and fixing the limits of their circles and the nature, mode and amount of their remuneration,

(b) prescribing the conditions under which substitutes may be appointed for persons having hereditary claims to the office of patwári, when they are unable to act themselves,

(c) prescribing the fines which may be imposed on patwárís and their substitutes for neglect of their duty and stating the circumstances under which they may be dismissed

Provided that, except in the case hereinafter mentioned, no proprietor shall be compelled to pay as remuneration to patwaris a sum exceeding six per cent on the revenue assessed on his land or which when his land is revenue free would in the judgment of the Deputy Commissioner be assessable on his land if it were liable to assessment

In framing rules regard to be had to hereditary claims &c

146 In making rules under section one hundred and forty five the Chief Commissioner shall have regard to conditions and customs recorded in administration papers and to hereditary claims to the office of patwaris but in no case shall such conditions or custom or claims be deemed to require the appointment of any patwári who would otherwise be ineligible for appointment or to prevent the dismissal of any patwári who would otherwise be liable to dismissal

Chief Commissioner may make rules for guidance of Deputy Commissioners in certain matters

147 The Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules for the guidance of Deputy Commissioners in dealing with cases where at the time of the last preceding settlement the maintenance of a patwari was made optional and the persons settled with are unable to agree as to whether a patwári should be maintained and for dealing with cases where no patwári is under such option maintained and the mukaddams or proprietors have made default in the performance of the duties of a patwári

Such rules may empower the Deputy Commissioner in the latter class of cases—

(a) to impose fines on such mukaddams or proprietors, and therefrom to make provision for the temporary performance of the duties in respect of which they have made default

(b) to appoint patwárís in the villages of such proprietors, either for the term of the settlement or for any shorter term and to fix the remuneration of such patwárís

Chief Commissioner may define duties of patwárís

148 The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time make rules prescribing the duties of patwárís—

(a) towards the Government, and may in such rules determine the registers, returns or other papers which they shall keep or furnish, the forms and language in which such registers and returns are to be prepared, the mode of their preparation and attestation and the dates on which they are to be furnished,

(b) towards the members of the village community, and may in such rules fix the remuneration, if any, other than the fixed emoluments of their office, which the patwárís may demand in respect of the performance of such duties

Patwárís papers to be public documents

All records and documents which patwárís are required to prepare or keep by any rule made by the Chief Commissioner under this section shall be deemed to be public documents and to be the property of Government

B 212 Act XVIII of 1873 s 95 (b)

Patwári to produce papers for inspection and to deliver them to persons entitled

149 Patwaris shall produce at all reasonable times, for the inspection of all persons interested therein, all records and papers which they are so required to prepare or keep

Existing officers confirmed

150 All existing lambardars, sub lambardárs, mukaddams and patwárís shall unless the Chief Commissioner otherwise directs, be deemed to have been appointed under this Act Any sums which officers of these classes are entitled to recover or demand under this chapter may if the Deputy Commissioner so directs be recovered in the same manner as an arrear of revenue payable directly to the Government

Holders of sir land in Sambal pur to provide for remuneration of mukaddams

151 In each village of the district of Sambalpur all persons other than mukaddams, holding sir land are bound to provide for the due remuneration of the mukaddam of the village and the Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules for the enforcement of this obligation

ENACTMENTS REPEALED

Number and year of Regulation order &c	Title	Extent of repeal
Act XII of 1841	For amending the Bengal Code in regard to sales of land for arrears of revenue	So much as has not been repealed
Act I of 1847	For the establishment and maintenance of boundary marks in the North Western Provinces and Bengal	The whole
Act XXXI of 1858	To make further provision for the settlement of land gained by alluvion in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal	The whole

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

1 The Land revenue Administration of the Central Provinces as at this moment carried on rests on an insufficient legal basis Throughout a considerable portion of the country there is little or no law regarding the settlement and collection of the revenue beyond that which may be considered to be established by ancient usage In some parts it is doubtful how far any written law applies, and elsewhere the only law is either the spirit of certain old Regulations of the Bengal Code, or half forgotten rules which owe their binding force to the Indian Councils Act

2 No inconvenience in practice was felt from this state of things in the earlier days of our rule when the people scarcely realized the possibility of their having any rights as against their rulers but of late years the diffusion of legal ideas has placed the landholders and the Government more at arms length the old state of things has shown clear signs of giving way and the want of a definite system of revenue law, such as exists in all the other settled Provinces of the empire has come to be felt

3 To supply this want the present Bill has been prepared It follows the main lines of the similar laws in force in the North Western Provinces and elsewhere except that it is confined as closely as possible to the subject of the land revenue administration strictly so called to the exclusion of certain subjects such as partition and Courts of wards which it has been the practice in other Provinces to include in Land revenue Acts

It seems unnecessary here to enter into any description of its provisions in so far as they are borrowed from Acts like the North Western Provinces and Oudh Land revenue Acts which have been passed so recently and after so much discussion and the following remarks will accordingly be confined to such of the leading points of the Bill as are in some sense novel or otherwise appear to require special notice

4 It will be observed that the repealing clause (section 2) has been drawn so as to fit in with the similar clause in the Central Provinces Laws Act of 1875 and to sweep away the indefinite mass of old rules and regulations relating to the settlement and collection of the land revenue which were saved by it and [illegible] would if kept alive be apt to escape notice and perhaps ultimately lead to complication and difficulty the clause which is commonly inserted in such Bills maintaining existing rules in so far as they are consistent with the new law has been omitted It is believed that this omission will give rise to no difficulty [illegible] with the Government to fix the date on which the Act will come into operation and that date need not be fixed until all rules which it is necessary to make under the Act are ready for issue

5 Chapter II relating to Revenue officers their powers and procedure it will be seen contains no such detailed rules of procedure as are to be found in the North Western Provinces Act Most of the Revenue officers in the Central Provinces preside over Civil Courts and all have had more or less experience in working under the Code of Civil Procedure The provisions of that Code though [illegible] simple and [illegible] and it [illegible] the most convenient course [illegible] the procedure [illegible] in sections [illegible] and [illegible] of the Bill power being given to the Chief Commissioner to modify and supplement its provisions as he may think necessary

6 In [illegible] of the [illegible] system of empowering the Local Government to invest Settlement officers with the powers of Civil Courts for the disposal of suits relating to land has been followed but the ultimate appeal in such [illegible] will lie to the Judicial Commissioner

7 Section 49 following the principle which it is believed has from a remote period been recognized throughout India and which will be found embodied in the preamble to Regulation XXXVII of 1793 and elsewhere in the Bengal Code declares that all land with certain definite exceptions is liable to be assessed to land revenue An express provision of this sort is considered necessary in the Central Provinces where a question has been recently raised as to whether land would not become exempt by being occupied for habitation There is of course no general intention of assessing the land in towns or old village sites They will be ordinarily excluded from assessment under the power conferred by section 11 but it is obviously desirable that where lands at present cultivated and assessed are built upon and yield as they probably would a larger profit to their owners than before they should still remain liable to assessment

8 In sections 78 and [illegible] an attempt is made to [illegible] the acts and decisions of a Settlement officer which may be called in question in a Civil Court all [illegible] such acts and decisions being by section [illegible] protected from being so challenged and as when a matter is held to be taken in the [illegible] to a Civil Court it would be waste of time for the Settlement officer to enter upon any very elaborate inquiry regarding it section 78 provides that the investigation in the case to which it refers shall be a summary one the Settlement officer being required to make only such inquiry as he thinks fit and not being bound to hear any party concerned or receive any evidence tendered

9 Sections 88 and 89 deal with cases in which at settlements made before the passing of the Act the proprietary right has been awarded by a Settlement officer to some person on the ground that he was the person who of all others had the interest in the land most nearly approaching to ownership They provide that no person whose claims to such land were considered and rejected by the Settlement officer shall be permitted to impeach his award but that any one whose claim was not so considered may institute a suit to establish it and that if he can prove that he was entitled to an interest in the land similar to that in consideration of which the proprietary right was awarded the Court may declare him to be a proprietor

10 Section 108 states somewhat differently from the Land revenue Acts at present in force, the nature of the estate taken by a purchaser of land sold for arrears of revenue due upon it The interest taken by such a purchaser is described to be "the full proprietorship, or superior or inferior proprietorship as the case may be free from all liens, leases and incumbrances," &c but among other matters saved by the clause which follows are "the rights of any proprietor "superior or inferior to the defaulters or of any málik makbuzá or occupancy tenant, who does not "derive his rights as such from express contract with such defaulters or any person through "whom they claim

11 Section 116 following and enlarging upon section 158 of the Oudh Land revenue Act, 1876 provides that any lambardar entitled to recover an arrear of Government revenue, or any málguzar entitled to recover an arrear due under a sub settlement may, instead of instituting a suit to recover such arrear apply to the Deputy Commissioner to recover it on his behalf by any of the processes provided by the Act for the recovery of revenue on behalf of the Government It will be in the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner to comply with such application or not as he thinks fit and he will probably comply with it as a rule in cases where the applicant has done his best to collect the arrear and undue trouble and expense would be caused to him by instituting a suit to recover it

12 Section 117 deals somewhat differently from the North Western Provinces Act with the important question of the right of the malguzars to resume revenue free grants made by them or their predecessors in interest It is quite conceivable that an improvident proprietor might by such grants alienate so much of the revenue which he was entitled to collect as to put it beyond his power in a bad year to meet the demands of the Government against him The Government revenue might no doubt ultimately be secured by the sale of the mahál but it is obviously desirable to devise some means of avoiding so trenchant a process

There would be a difficulty about refusing to recognize grants heretofore made perhaps for a valuable consideration but it is believed that such grants are not very numerous in the Central Provinces and may safely be left to their operation As regards grants made after the Bill becomes law there need be no hesitation in declaring them voidable, and this is in effect what the Bill does

13 Section 119 of the Bill follows the 118th section of the North Western Provinces Act in providing that no interest shall be charged on an arrear of Government revenue, but it allows a Court to award interest on an arrear of revenue due under a sub settlement

14 Section 123 which empowers the Chief Commissioner to direct that any rule custom or condition entered in a Record of rights shall be enforced by fine is new It is believed that it will be found useful in many cases where the persons for whose benefit a provision in a Record of rights is intended might owing to their not being parties to such record or for some other reason not be in a position to enforce it or where in order to enforce such a provision by a suit it would be necessary to join perhaps all the inhabitants of a village as parties

15 Section 137 is the only section of the Bill dealing with partition and it is confined to the only species of partition which it is conceived can properly find a place in a Land revenue Act namely the separation into two separate mahals of two portions of a mahál which are held in severalty

When two parties in a mahál holding their lands in common desire to sever their joint and several liability for the revenue they must under the Bill as under the law at present in force in the North Western Provinces and elsewhere first obtain a partition of their lands but this partition is a matter with which the Revenue administration has no direct concern It might be and sometimes is sought like a partition of house property or any other property without any view to the dissolution of the joint and several liability to Government and accordingly though it is intended that partitions of revenue paying land should continue to be effected as heretofore through the Revenue officers as the authorities best qualified to undertake such an operation it has been determined to relegate these partitions to a separate Bill which it is hoped will shortly be placed before the Council and to deal in the present Bill only with dissolution of the joint and several obligations of the málguzárs

16 The office of mukaddam which the 12th chapter of the Bill proposes to establish is in most districts of the Central Provinces somewhat of a novelty Up to the period of the recent settlements villages in the Central Provinces were ordinarily held by a single málguzár or farmer with whom the Government could deal on behalf of the village but now as Mr Jones has observed the zamindari tenure with its single head will yearly give way to the pattidari with its several heads and the responsibility for the performance of the many duties incumbent on a village headman will thus become inconveniently split up Moreover in some districts large tracts of country are bought up by town capitalists and thus many villages are left without a responsible head at all To remedy this the Bill provides for the appointment for each village of a single representative headman (called a mukaddam) to whom the Government can look for the performance of the important duties which the custom of the country attaches to the land and to whom the community can refer as a head when united action is required of it When there are resident lambardárs the person appointed to the office of mukaddam would ordinarily but not necessarily, be one of them

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 23rd July, 1880, and was referred to a Select Committee —

THE PETROLEUM BILL, 1880

CONTENTS

PREAMBLE

Preliminary

SECTIONS

A Bill to regulate the importation, possession and transport of Petroleum and other substances of a like nature

Preamble

WHEREAS it is expedient to regulate the importation possession and transport of petroleum and other substances of a like nature, It is hereby enacted as follows —

Preliminary

Short title

Commencement

1 This Act may be called "The Petroleum Act, 1880",

and it shall come into force on the first day of January 1881 — Committee's recommendations para. 1

Local extent

The provisions of this Act relating to—

(a) dangerous petroleum and

(b) the importation of first class and second class petroleum

extend to the whole of British India The rest of this Act extends only to such local areas as the Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, direct

Repeal of enactments

2 The Indian Ports Act 1875 section thirty seven and Bengal Act No III of 1863 (to make better provision for the prevention of injury from fire in ports and to provide for the safe keeping of inflammable oils in ports and places within the Provinces under the control of the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal) are hereby repealed

Interpretation clause

3 In this Act unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context —

Petroleum

"Petroleum" includes also the liquids commonly known by the names of rock oil Rangoon oil Burma oil kerosine paraffine oil mineral oil petroline gasoline benzol benzoline benzine and any inflammable liquid that is made from petroleum coal schist shale peat or any other bituminous substance or from any products of petroleum — 34 & 35 Vic c 105 s 3 with additions from Committee's report

But does not include any oil ordinarily used for lubricating purposes and having its flashing point at or above two hundred and fifty degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer — Committee's recommendations para 3

Explanation —The flashing point of petroleum means the lowest temperature at which the petroleum yields a vapour which will burn with a momentary flash or flame when tested with the apparatus and in the manner described in the Schedule hereto annexed — Committee's recommendations para 4

First class petroleum

"First class petroleum" means petroleum having its flashing point at or above one hundred and three degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer — Committee's recommendations para 6

Second class petroleum

"Second class petroleum" means petroleum having its flashing point at or above eighty three but below one hundred and three degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer

Dangerous petroleum

"Dangerous petroleum" means petroleum having its flashing point below eighty three degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer

Import

"Import" means to bring into British India by sea or land

and "importation" means the bringing into British India as aforesaid

Transport

"Transport" means to remove from one place to another within British India

Ship

"Ship" includes anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or property

Master

"Master" includes every person (except a Pilot or Harbour Master) having for the time being the charge or control of a ship

Magistrate

"Magistrate" means in the Presidency towns a Presidency Magistrate and elsewhere a Magistrate of the first class or (when specially empowered by the Local Government to try cases under this Act) a Magistrate of the second class and

Owner

"Owner" includes also any agent to whom a ship is consigned

First class and second class Petroleum

Committee's recommendations paras 13 to 20

Power to make rules as to the importation of first and second class petroleum

4 The Local Government may from time to time make rules to regulate the importation of first class petroleum and second class petroleum and in particular—

(a) for ascertaining the quantity and description of any such petroleum on board a ship

(b) to provide for the delivery by the master of a ship of samples of such petroleum and for the testing thereof before such petroleum is landed from such ship

(c) to determine the places at which only such petroleum may be landed and

(d) to regulate the time and mode of and the precautions to be taken on, landing or transhipping any such petroleum

License required for transport of first and second class petroleum

5 No quantity of first class petroleum exceeding five hundred gallons and no quantity of second class petroleum exceeding forty gallons

shall be kept by any one person or on the same premises or shall be transported except under and in accordance with the conditions of a license granted under this Act

Power to make rules as to possession and transport

6 The Local Government may from time to time make rules as to the granting of licenses to possess or transport first and second class petroleum in cases where such licenses are by law required

Such rules may provide for the following among other matters that is to say—

in the case of licenses to possess petroleum—

(a) the nature and situation of the premises for which they may be granted and

(b) the inspection of licensed premises and the testing of petroleum found thereon

in the case of licenses to transport petroleum—

(c) the manner in which such petroleum shall be packed the mode of transit and the route by which it is to be taken and

(d) the stoppage and inspection of it during transit

in the case of both such licenses—

(e) the authority by which the license may be granted

(f) the fee to be charged for it

(g) the quantity of petroleum it is to cover

(h) the conditions which may be inserted in it,

(j) the time during which it is to continue in force, and

(k) the renewal of the license

Dangerous Petroleum

Dangerous petroleum in quantities exceeding 40 gallons

7 No quantity of dangerous petroleum exceeding forty gallons shall be imported or transported or kept by any one person or on the same premises except under and in accordance with the conditions of a license from the Local Government granted as next hereinafter provided

Application for license to import transport or possess such petroleum

Every application for such a license shall be in writing and shall declare—

(a) the quantity of such petroleum which it is desired to import transport or possess, as the case may be

(b) the purpose for which the applicant believes that such petroleum will be used and

(c) that petroleum other than dangerous petroleum cannot be used for such purpose

Power to grant license

If the Local Government sees reason to believe that such petroleum will be used for such purpose and that no petroleum other than dangerous petroleum can be used for such purpose it may grant such license for the importation transport or possession (as the case may be) of such petroleum absolutely or subject to such conditions as it thinks fit

Dangerous petroleum equal to or less than forty gallons

8 No quantity of dangerous petroleum equal to or less than forty gallons shall be kept or transported without a license

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply in any case when the quantity of such petroleum kept by any one person or on the same premises or transported does not exceed three gallons and such petroleum is placed in separate glass earthenware or metal vessels each of which contains not more than a pint and is securely stopped 34 & 35 Vic c 105 s 8

Application of sections 4 and 5

9 Except as hereinbefore provided the provisions contained in sections four and five in respect of first and second class petroleum shall apply also to dangerous petroleum

Petroleum generally

Vessels containing petroleum to be marked

10 All petroleum— 34 & 35 Vic c 105 s 6

(a) which is kept at any place after seven days from the date on which it is imported

(b) which is transported or

(c) which is sold or exposed for sale

shall be contained in vessels which shall bear an indelible mark or label in conspicuous characters stating what description of petroleum herein specified the same is Cf Act I 1878 s 9

Power to inspect and require dealer to sell samples

11 Any officer specially authorized in this behalf by the Local Government may require any dealer in petroleum to show him any place and any of the vessels in which any petroleum in his possession is stored or contained, to give him such assistance as he may require for examining the same and to deliver to him samples 34 & 35 Vic c 105 s 1x of such petroleum on payment of the value of such samples

Ibid

Notice to be given when officer proposes to test samples

12 When any such officer has, in exercise of the powers conferred by section eleven or by purchase obtained a sample of petroleum in the possession of a dealer he may give a notice in writing to such dealer informing him that he is about to test such sample or cause the same to be tested with the apparatus and in the manner described in the Schedule hereto annexed at a time and place to be fixed in such notice and that such person or his Agent may be present at such testing

Certificate as to result of such testing

13 On any such testing, if it appears to the officer or other person so testing that the petroleum from which such sample has been taken is first class second class or dangerous petroleum such officer or other person may certify such fact and the certificate so given shall be receivable as evidence in any proceedings which may be taken under this Act against the dealer in whose possession such petroleum was found and shall be prima facie proof of the fact stated therein

Penalties

Penalty for illegal importation &c of petroleum

14 Any person who, in contravention of this Act or of any rules made hereunder imports possesses or transports any petroleum and any person who otherwise contravenes any such rules or any condition contained in a license granted hereunder shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees or with both

34 & 35 Vic s 63

Penalty for keeping transporting exposing for sale petroleum in contravention of section 10

15 Any person keeping, transporting selling, or exposing for sale petroleum in vessels not marked as prescribed by section ten shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees

34 & 35 Vic c 105 s 1.

Penalty for refusing to comply with section 11

16 Any dealer in petroleum who refuses or neglects to shew to any officer authorized under section eleven any place or any of the vessels in which petroleum in his possession is stored or contained, or to give him such assistance as he may require for examining the same or to give him samples of such petroleum on payment of the value of such samples shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees

Cf Act I of 1878 s 11

Confiscation of petroleum

17 In any case in which an offence under section fourteen or section fifteen has been committed, the convicting Magistrate may direct that,—

(a) the petroleum in respect of which the offence has been committed, or

(b) where the offender is importing or transporting or is in possession of any petroleum exceeding the quantity (if any) which he is permitted to import, transport or possess, as the case may be, the whole of the petroleum which he is importing or transporting or is in possession of,

shall be confiscated

Miscellaneous

Rules when to have force of law

18 All rules made by the Local Government under this Act shall be published in the official Gazette and shall thereupon so far as they are consistent with this Act, have the force of law

Provided that no such rule shall be so published without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council

34 & 35 Vic. c 105 s 14.

Power to extend this Act to other substances

19 The Governor General in Council may from time to time by notification in the Gazette of India extend the whole or any portion of this Act to any inflammable substance other than petroleum, and may by such notification fix in substitution for the quantities of petroleum fixed by sections five seven and eight, the quantities of such substance to which these sections shall apply

The Governor General in Council may by a like notification cancel any notification issued under this section

THE SCHEDULE

Specification explanatory of the Test Apparatus

Committee's recommendations para. 5 and 42 & 43 Vic c 47

The oil cup consists of a cylindrical vessel 2" diameter $2\frac{1}{16}$ height (internal) with outward projecting rim $_{10}$ wide $\frac{3}{8}$ from the top and $1\frac{3}{8}$ from the bottom of the cup It is made of gun metal or brass (17 B W G) tinned inside A bracket consisting of a short stout piece of wire bent upwards and terminating in a point is fixed to the inside of the cup to serve as a gauge The distance of the point from the bottom of the cup is $1\frac{1}{2}$ The cup is provided with a close fitting overlapping cover made of brass (22 B W G) which carries the thermometer and test lamp The latter is suspended from two supports from the side by means of trunnions upon which it may be made to oscillate it is provided with a spout the mouth of which is $\frac{1}{16}$ in diameter The socket which is to hold the thermometer is fixed at such an angle and its length is so adjusted that the bulb of the thermometer when inserted to its full depth, shall be $1\frac{1}{2}$ below the centre of the lid

The cover is provided with three square holes one in the centre $\frac{5}{10}$ by $\frac{4}{10}$ and two smaller ones $\frac{3}{10}$" by $_{10}$ close to the sides and opposite each other These three holes may be closed and uncovered by means of a slide moving in grooves and having perforations corresponding to those on the lid

In moving the slide so as to uncover the holes, the oscillating lamp is caught by a pin fixed in the slide, and tilted in such a way as to bring the end of the spout just below the surface of the lid Upon the slide being pushed back so as to cover the holes, the lamp returns to its original position

Upon the cover in front of and in line with the mouth of the lamp, is fixed a white bead the dimensions of which represent the size of the test flame to be used

The bath or heated vessel consists of two flat-bottomed copper cylinders (24 B W G), an inner one of 3" diameter and $2\frac{1}{2}$" height and an outer one of $5\frac{1}{2}$" diameter and $5\frac{3}{4}$" height they are

soldered to a circular copper plate (20 B W G) perforated in the centre which forms the top of the bath, in such a manner as to inclose the space between the two cylinders but leaving access to the inner cylinder The top of the bath projects both outwards and inwards about ⅜ that is its diameter is about ⅜" greater than that of the body of the bath while the diameter of the circular opening in the centre is about the same amount less than that of the inner copper cylinder To the inner projection of the top is fastened by six small screws, a flat ring of ebonite the screws being sunk below the surface of the ebonite to avoid metallic contact between the bath and the oil cup The exact distance between the sides and bottom of the bath of the oil lamp is 1¼ A split socket similar to that on the cover of the oil cup but set at a right angle allows a thermometer to be inserted into the space between the two cylinders The bath is further provided with a funnel, an overflow pipe and two loop handles

The bath rests upon a cast iron tripod stand, to the ring of which is attached a copper cylinder or jacket (24 B W G) flanged at the top and of such dimensions that the bath while firmly resting on the iron ring just touches with its projecting top the inward turned flange The diameter of this outer jacket is 6¼ One of the three legs of the stand serves as support for the spirit lamp attached to it by means of a small swing bracket The distance of the wick holder from the bottom of the bath is 1

Two thermometers are provided with the apparatus the one for ascertaining the temperature of the bath the other for determining the flashing point The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the water has a long bulb and a space at the top Its range is from about 90° to 190 Fahrenheit The scale (in degrees of Fahrenheit) is marked on an ivory back fastened to the tube in the usual way it is fitted with a metal collar fitting the socket and the part of the tube below the scale should have a length of about 3¼ measured from the lower end of the scale to the end of the bulb The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the oil is fitted with collar and ivory scale in a similar manner to the one described It has a round bulb a space at the top and ranges from about 55 F to 150 F, it measures from end of ivory back to bulb 2¼"

Directions for applying the Test

1 The test apparatus is to be placed for use in a position where it is not exposed to currents of air or draughts

2 The heating vessel or water bath is filled by pouring water into the funnel until it begins to flow out at the spout of the vessel The temperature of the water at the commencement of the test is to be 130 Fahrenheit and this is attained in the first instance either by mixing hot and cold water in the bath or in a vessel from which the bath is filled, until the thermometer which is provided for testing the temperature of the water gives the proper indication or by heating the water with the spirit lamp (which is attached to the stand of the apparatus) until the required temperature is indicated

If the water has been heated too highly it is easily reduced to 130 by pouring in cold water little by little (to replace a portion of the warm water) until the thermometer gives the proper reading

When a test has been completed, this water-bath is again raised to 130° by placing the lamp underneath and the result is readily obtained while the petroleum cup is being emptied, cooled, and refilled with a fresh sample to be tested The lamp is then turned on its swivel from under the apparatus and the next test is proceeded with

3 The test lamp is prepared for use by fitting it with a piece of flat plaited candlewick and filling it with colza or rape oil up to the lower edge of the opening of the spout or wick tube The lamp is trimmed so that when lighted it gives a flame of about 0 15 of an inch diameter and this size of flame which is represented by the projecting white bead on the cover of the oil cup is readily maintained by simple manipulation from time to time with a small wire trimmer

When gas is available it may be conveniently used in place of the little oil lamp and for this purpose a test flame arrangement for use with gas may be substituted for the lamp

4 The bath having been raised to the proper temperature the oil to be tested is introduced into the petroleum cup being poured in slowly until the level of the liquid just reaches the point of the gauge which is fixed in the cup In warm weather the temperature of the room in which the samples to be tested have been kept should be observed in the first instance and if it exceeds 65, the samples to be tested should be cooled down (to about 60) by immersing the bottle containing them in cold water or by any other convenient method The lid of the cup with the slide closed is then put on and the cup is put into the bath or heating vessel The thermometer in the lid of the cup has been adjusted so as to have its bulb just immersed in the liquid and its position is not under any circumstances to be altered When the cup has been placed in the proper position, the scale of the thermometer faces the operator

5 The test lamp is then placed in position upon the lid of the cup the lead line or pendulum * which has been fixed in a convenient position in front of the operator is set in motion and the rise of the thermometer in the petroleum cup is watched When the temperature has reached about 66° the operation of testing is to be commenced the test flame being applied once for every rise of one degree in the following manner —

The slide is slowly drawn open while the pendulum performs three oscillations and is closed during the fourth oscillation

NOTE —If it is desired to employ the test apparatus to determine the flashing points of oils of very low volatility the mode of proceeding is to be modified as follows —

The air chamber which surrounds the cup is filled with cold water to a depth of 1½ inches, and the heating vessel or water bath is filled as usual, but also with cold water The lamp is then placed under the apparatus and kept there during the entire operation If a very heavy oil is being dealt with the operation may be commenced with water previously heated to 120, instead of with cold water

* This pendulum is two (2) feet in length from the point of suspension to the centre of gravity of the weight

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

FOR some time past the dangerous nature of the inflammable oils which are being imported into this country has been engaging the attention of Government In November, 1878, the notice of the Government of India was first drawn to the subject by the Government of Bombay with a view, if necessary to legislation being resorted to to check the importation of dangerous oils On a reference being made to the Government of Bengal as to the expediency of such legislation, it was found that the subject had already been for some time before that Government and that a Committee had been appointed for the purpose of considering the question of these oils in all its bearings This Committee which was composed of officials, experts and gentlemen interested in the trade has presented its report in which it strongly urges the necessity for legislation and puts forward certain recommendations as to the lines on which in its opinion such legislation should proceed

2 These recommendations follow, with certain modifications introduced to meet the special circumstances, climatic and otherwise of India the outlines of 34 & 35 Vic cap 105 (since amended by 42 & 43 Vic, cap 47), which is the principal Act governing this subject in the United Kingdom They appear well adapted to carry out the object which the Committee had in view, namely practical security of life and property with the minimum of restrictions on an important and rapidly developing trade

3 The following is the general substance of the conclusions of the Committee —

1st —All petroleum should be divided into three classes namely —

(a) first class petroleum with a flashing point at or above 103 F
(b) second class petroleum with a flashing point between 83 and 103 F
(c) dangerous petroleum with a flashing point below 83 F
} According to Abel's close test

2ndly —All petroleum should be tested by Abel's close test which has recently been adopted in the United Kingdom (see 42 & 43 Vic cap 47 the Petroleum Act 1879) for the purposes of the Petroleum Act 1871, in preference to the old or open test which was fixed by that Act

3rdly —As second class petroleum flashes only at a temperature of 83 or 10 higher than the temperature (73°) at which petroleum is considered safe enough to be exempted from the provisions of the English Petroleum Act (see 42 & 43 Vic Cap 47) and may therefore be regarded as at all events fairly safe the importation storage and transport of such petroleum as well as of first class petroleum should be left reasonably free while the importation storage and transport of dangerous petroleum if not actually prohibited should be subjected to such severe restrictions as practically to be so for purposes of ordinary use

4 The Government of India has considered this report and is disposed to concur generally in its conclusions and in the scheme of legislation contained in the Committee's recommendations As the Government of Madras and the Chief Commissioner of Burma as well as the Government of Bombay and Bengal are in favour of legislation the Government of India is willing to accept the recommendation of the Committee that the legislation to be undertaken should be in the Council of the Governor General and accordingly the present Bill which embodies generally the recommendations of the Committee has been prepared

5 As it seems desirable to check at once and generally the trade in dangerous petroleum (and it would be unfair if all ports were not put on the same footing as to the importation of first class and second class petroleum) the provisions of the Bill relating to dangerous petroleum and the importation of first class and second class petroleum are made to extend to the whole of India, but its other provisions are only applicable at the discretion of the Local Government

The details of the measure have been left in a great measure to rules to be framed by the Local Government with the sanction of the Governor General in Council as this seems the most convenient course in a case of this sort where the local circumstances and peculiar features of the trade of various places have to be considered

6 A section has been added to the Bill corresponding with section 14 of 34 & 35 Vic cap 105 enabling the Governor General in Council hereafter to extend the Act to substances other than petroleum and to adapt certain of the provisions of the Act to the case of such substances

7 The length of the pendulum which was by an oversight omitted from the description of Professor Abel's test in the first schedule to the 42 & 43 Vic cap 47 has been inserted in a foot note to the schedule of the Bill on information furnished by Mr Pedler

8 The opportunity has been taken to repeal the thirty seventh section of the Indian Ports Act relating to inflammable oils and Bengal Act No III of 1865 which regulates in Calcutta and Howrah the importation and storage of inflammable oils as the present Bill will make those enactments unnecessary

GENERAL REMARKS—In the North Western Provinces and Oudh, where the rainfall had hitherto been scanty it has now been fairly abundant In Guzerat and parts of the Central Provinces rain has been very heavy and a break would be welcome In parts of the Deccan and Berar, and in the Peshawar District of the Punjab, more rain is much needed Rain is also required in parts of Madras, Bengal and Mysore

Agricultural prospects and the public health remain good on the whole, though in some places there has been an insufficiency of rain

Presidency or Province and District	Rainfall for week preceding	State of agricultural prospects
Madras— (July 21st)—
Bellary	09 (average of three stations)	Ragi 28 10 standing crops generally good
Kurnool	30 (average of two stations)	Ragi 33 0 fever ulcers and guinea worm prevalent rain wanted throughout district
Ganjam	2 75 (average of thirteen stations)	Ragi 32 45
Kistna	92 (average of seven stations)	Ragi 33 0 river 6 5 feet over anicut crops fading
Chingleput (Madras)	20 (average of four stations)	Ragi 21 29 crops good water supply failing
Coimbatore	23 (average of six stations)	Ragi 23 87 crops generally fair except where withered in portions of three taluks harvest of cholum and cumboo in three taluks out turn poor
Tanjore		Ragi 23 96 crops generally good rivers 3 to 8½ feet rain wanted in four taluks
Madura	20 (average of three stations)	Ragi 25 77 paddy harvested in one taluk outturn average standing crops fading for want of rain
Malabar	4 19 (average of fourteen stations)	Ragi 21 6
Travancore	1 49
		General Remarks—General prospects tolerably fair
Bombay— (July 21st)—

POST OFFICE

Simla, the 24th June 1880

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

With effect from the 1st August 1880 the rates of commission charged on the realization of the value of parcels and registered book packets sent under the "value payable" system, will be reduced to half what they now are, and thereby assimilated to the rates of commission charged on the issue of money orders The new rates will be as follows:—

For sums not exceeding Rs	10	R 0	2
	50	0	8
	125	1	4
	150	1	8

and 4 annas for every additional Rs 25 or fraction thereof

The value of the contents of a value payable article will be limited to Rs 600

Value-payable articles may be addressed only to Post Offices which are Money Order Offices and they may be posted only in Post Offices which are Money Order Offices The former restriction limiting the posting of value payable articles in Disbursing Post Offices is superseded

The amounts realized from the addressees of value payable articles less the commission chargeable thereon will be paid to the senders by means of money orders

When a value-payable article is presented at a Post Office it must be accompanied by a memorandum prepared by the sender in the prescribed form, printed copies of which may be obtained from the Post Office on application

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

REPORT AND STATEMENT ON THE OPERATIONS OF THE DEPARTMENT OF ISSUE FOR THE YEAR 1878 79

No 117 dated Calcutta, the 19th April 1880

From—The Head Commissioner of the Department of Issue

To—The Secretary to the Government of India Department of Finance and Commerce

I HAVE the honor to submit, for the information of Government, the following Report and statements on the operations of the Department of Issue of Paper Currency for the year 1878 79 —

No I —Statement of the value of Government Currency Notes in circulation throughout India during 1878 79 and previous years

No II —Statement of Notes issued received and cancelled during 1878 79

No III —Statement of receipts and expenses of the Department of Issue of Paper Currency for the year 1878 79

CIRCULATION

2 —The maximum, minimum, and the average value of notes in circulation throughout India on the last day of any month during the last two years have been as follows, showing an increase in the minimum circulation, but a decrease in the other two —

Year	Maximum	Month	Minimum	Month	Average
	Rs		Rs		R
1877 78	15 63 56 690	January 1878	11 13 05 280	April 1877	13 25 02 472
1878 79	14 27 40 275	August	11 42 36 450	March 1879	13 19 05 084

The abnormal expansion caused by the famine and excessive importation of bullion has now passed away The circulation had returned to its ordinary level by the end of the year, and since June 1879 has been rising again by what seems to be its natural growth

The average value of the reserve held against this circulation will be found at paragraph 19 of this report

3 —The average circulation, dating from the commencement of currency operations, has been as follows —

	Rs		Rs
In 1862 63	4,41,94 285	In 1871 72	11 41 57 442
„ 1863 64	5 23 25 000	„ 1872 73	12,86 40,367
„ 1864 65	6 88,20 116	„ 1873 74	11,14 51 ·07
„ 1865 66	7,72 ·7 983	„ 1874 75	10 67,01 071
„ 1866 67	8 98,93,179	„ 1875 76	11,35 26,621
„ 1867 68	9,28 50 848	„ 1876 77	11 64,16 538
„ 1868 69	10 14 55 327	„ 1877 78	13,25,02 472
„ 1869 70	10 66 90,777	„ 1878 79	13,19 05,084
„ 1870 71	9,81,32,240

The average circulation of the Calcutta Circle of Issue for the year under review has been Rs 644 lakhs, while that of last year was Rs 613 lakhs

The circulation of the Madras Circle has fallen considerably, and the average is Rs 127 lakhs, against Rs 151 lakhs in the preceding year

The decrease is of course owing to improvement in the agricultural state of the Presidency, although the effects of the famine upon the Currency were still felt throughout the year under review

The decrease has taken place in both the Southern Circles of Issue, those of Madras and Calicut, but there has been a considerable increase in the Cocanada circulation, viz, from 16 to 25 lakhs of rupees This increase is attributed by the Deputy Commissioner of that Circle to the fact that the taluq treasuries and the Bank of Madras absorbed a large number of Notes during the year The Bank takes the Notes, as explained in my last report, for the purpose of remittance

The Bombay circulation on the 31st March 1879 was less by Rs 49 lakhs than it was on the 31st March 1878 It necessarily falls with the importation of bullion All bullion purchased at the Mint is paid for in Notes, so the transactions of the Currency Office and (for a time at least) the circulation largely depend on the bullion The average circulation of the year has been very nearly Rs 334 lakhs, that of 1877 78 was Rs 373 lakhs

The Deputy Commissioner of Currency, Nagpur, says that the apparent increase of the Nagpur circulation is explained by the large number of Notes required by bankers for remittance to Bombay

The circulation of other Circles does not call for any special remark

4 —A statement of the lowest amount in circulation, in lakhs of rupees, for the past ten years is subjoined The statement is arranged for the calendar year, and the month in course of which the weekly circulation was at the lowest is indicated by the figures in antique type

8 —The aggregate issues and receipts of the several denominations of Notes at both Offices of Issue and Agencies during the year were as follows —

	Number of Notes for Rupees								Total
	5	10	20	50	100	500	1 000	10 000	Number	Value.

It will be seen that the contraction is general, and, except of Ten rupee Notes, is in every case larger than the excess issue of last year, but the excess issues of Ten rupee Notes were so large, that the general result of the two years is a slight increase in the number of Notes in circulation—not, of course, in their value

9 —During the year, 5,979,325 Notes were received and 4,115,911 cancelled, being 68 83 per cent of the total number received, against 71 89 of last year

10 —The average number of Notes that passed over the counters of the undermentioned Offices on each working day during the past three years, and the daily average of cancellations during the same period, has been—

	Notes cashed			Notes issued			Notes cancelled

11 —It was ascertained and reported to Government that the above compilation was prepared in different ways in the three Circles The figures reported this year have been compiled on a uniform plan, and measures have been taken to obviate the recurrence of the irregularity noticed

12 —The following statement gives the act circulation of the several denominations in number and value on the 31st March 1879 and agrees with the circulation on that day as shown in Statement No 1 The total is curiously near to that of 1876 77 —

13 —Thus the average value of each Note in circulation for the past three years was in the—

	1876 77	1877 78	1878 79		1876 77	1877 78	1878 79
Calcutta Circle	38	44	36	Calicut Circle	40	52	43
Madras	57	67	65	Cocanada	127	176	69
Bombay	54	56	51	Nagpur	49	41	56
Allahabad	47	71	61	Kurrachee	43	60	52
Lahore	49	56	51	Akola	37	31	131

It will be observed that there is a falling off under every denomination except 100 rupee Notes, under which there is a slight increase, and that the total number of pieces is less by 83,600 and the value by Rs 2,15,11,050 than last year This large decrease is mainly owing to a fall in the circulation in Calcutta

Akola shows an average value exceeding, considerably, that of the other circles, owing to a larger number of Notes of all the higher denominations (50 rupee and upwards) being in circulation towards the close of the year especially the Notes of 10 000 Rupees, which are evidently taken merely for remittance purposes This was due, the Deputy Commissioner says, " to the late cotton crop and the absence of a demand for money

It will be noticed that the marked excess in the value of the Notes of the Cocanada Circle does not appear this year This is due I believe to an accidental decrease in the circulation as regards Notes of the higher values, on the 31st March 1879, compared with the circulation on the same date in the previous years, and not to any change in the practice of the Bank of Madras which continues to use these Notes as a medium of remittance

15 —In the above table, the amounts paid in fulfilment of the obligation imposed by the Currency Act, to pay at the Presidency Town, Notes issued at Circle Offices in the interior of each Presidency are marked with letter (c) the remaining amounts represent accommodation afforded to the public beyond the requirements of the law, which, during the year under review amounted to Rs 5 34 43 185 against Rs 6 01 08 380 of the preceding year

Thus under the requirements of the law the amount of Notes issued by each Sub Circle and cashed at its Head Office were in—

	Rs
Calcutta	88 43 16[illegible]
Madras	93 [illegible]7 11
Bombay	27,3[illegible],610
Giving an aggregate total of	2 09 38 190

16 —While Calcutta has fallen off in this respect owing to smaller supplies to the up country treasuries, the Cocanada Notes chiefly cashed at Madras by the Bank, and the Akola and Nagpore Notes sent to Bombay for the cotton trade, have increased largely

As explained in the report for the preceding year, the large number of Madras and Bombay Notes cashed at Calcutta are paid into the Bank of Bengal in payment of Government dues especially for opium, and as traffic earnings of the Guaranteed Railway Companies In the year 1878 79 the Foreign Notes cashed at the counters of the Calcutta Currency Office were less than the encashments of the previous year by Rs 96,12,715.

This is due, I think, to the falling off in the Madras demand for rice and to the restriction of the supplies of Notes to treasuries in the North Western Provinces and Punjab owing to the low balances of the year

Foreign Notes were received over the counters of the Bombay Office to the value of Rs 50,51,285, which is more by Rs 85,335 than in 1877 78 There was a balance at Bombay disposable for the encashment of Foreign Notes during the first eight months of the year only Nevertheless with careful watching the Currency Department were able to avoid diminishing in any way the accommodation hitherto given to the public Foreign Notes were consequently freely cashed at Bombay during the whole year

The amount of Foreign Notes encashed this year at Madras is Rs 35,01,630 in excess of the amount encashed last year, Cocanada shows an increase of Rs 9,07,045, and Calicut a falling off of Rs 2 90,680 The large accumulation of silver at Madras and Cocanada facilitated the encashment of a very large amount of Foreign Notes at these Circles

I found it necessary to prohibit the encashment of Foreign Notes absolutely at Allahabad, and with trifling exceptions at Lahore, while at Nagpur and Kurrachee this was very much restricted

The transactions at the other Offices of Issue do not call for special remark

RESERVE

17 —The amount invested in Government Securities held by the Department at the end of the year under report was Rs 5,99 91,175 being an increase of Rs 30 58,709 6 11 since the preceding year, when they stood at Rs 5 69 32 465 9 1

22.—The amount of outstanding Notes includes, besides those in circulation, all Notes held by the Department for re-issue, and also such as, having been withdrawn from circulation by other Offices than that of Issue, have not yet been cancelled in the registers of the Office of Issue. Under the system of accounts introduced from the 1st October 1878, the Notes withdrawn from circulation by other Offices than that of Issue are no longer detained by the Office which cashed the Notes, pending adjustment, but are remitted weekly to the Office of Issue. I estimate that nearly half the decrease in the total value of the Notes outstanding on the last day of December 1878 is due to the change of system noticed above.

23.—The proportion of Notes of each denomination held in the Government Treasuries of each Circle and in the Presidency Banks of Calcutta and Bombay, and in the Bank of Madras and its branches, on the 31st December 1878 is shown in the following table, in which the Treasuries directly under the Government of India are grouped with those of the nearest Circle. The Treasuries in Mysore are included in the Madras Circle.

The Secretary of State's despatch No. 39 (Statistics and Commerce), dated 22nd March 1877, which required this statement, asked for a return showing the proportion of each denomination held in the Government Treasuries of each Currency Circle, and also, if possible, in the Presidency Banks. The Notes held by the branches of the Banks of Bengal and Bombay have been accordingly incorporated with the Treasury Balances. In the report for next year the Notes held in the branches of the Bank of Madras will be similarly classed.

24.—In terms of para 2 of Financial Department, Government of India letter No 2968, dated 27th September 1879, the total contents of the Treasuries have been added to the table The proportion of Notes to Cash is also shown It will be noticed how very much higher this is in Bengal than elsewhere beyond the Presidency Towns —

Total value of 1877 78, Rs 1,23,175, and of 1876 77, Rs 99,855

26 —The total number and value of lost Notes paid under bond from the beginning of the system to the end of the year of report, and the total number and value of claims preferred during the year of report for the payment of notes thus discharged as well as of such claims made good, is as follows —

	Number	Amount
		Rs
Notes paid under Bond of Indemnity	23 606	14 35,750
Claims made this year to notes paid under Bond
Claims made good (amounts recovered from the losers of the notes)

27 —Under the authority delegated to me in your letter No 2998, dated 20th September 1878, to pay at my discretion the value of whole lost Notes, the payment of eight notes, amounting to Rs 1,320 in value, was made during the year under review The remaining Notes were paid under the direct orders of Government

ERRONEOUS PAYMENTS

28 —A case of overpayment at the counters of the Calcutta Currency Office in August 1878 was brought to my notice Twenty, in place of ten, notes of Rs 100 each were given in exchange for a Note for Rs 1,000 presented by the Sircar of a leading Calcutta firm The matter was placed in the hands of the Police, and the ten Notes paid in excess recovered The Sircar was sentenced by the Magistrate to four months' imprisonment

FORGED NOTES

29 —Six forged Notes, purporting to be of the Calcutta Circle—three of Rs 5 and three of Rs 10 each—were discovered during the year The Notes are very clumsy imitations in pen and ink on common paper, and are so rude as to be hardly worth classing as forgeries

The number of cases of forged Currency Notes in Bombay has very greatly increased A forgery of the old pattern of Note, which was discovered in the year under review is evidently the work of that gang of forgers which was broken up in Poona in 1867 Eleven other cases were brought to light, but the imitation is not sufficiently good to call for special remark The important feature of the year, however, is the appearance of 50 Rupee Notes of this Circle of the Series $\frac{M}{25}$ and $\frac{M}{35}$ These Notes are sufficiently well executed to pass current without much difficulty, and seem to mark a considerable advance on the part of the forgers

I am happy to say that the forger and utterer have been detected since the year closed

At Madras, a forged Note, purporting to be No $\frac{H}{11}$ 46986 for Rs 100, was presented for encashment by the Bank of Madras, who had received it as a part of a remittance from the Trichinopoly Treasury The Note was of the old pattern and bore the same number and serial as the forged Note presented for encashment by the Bank of Madras on 30th March 1870 It no doubt belonged to the same forgery, but whether it had been in circulation since 1870, or was uttered subsequently, was a question that could not be decided

An instance of a forged left half of a Government Currency Note of the Kurrachee Circle, for Rs 100, was brought to notice during the year That the forgery of the whole Note was not attempted is evident, I think, from the manner in which the forgery of the half was executed The left half was simply a very roughly executed and imperfect copy of the genuine right half of the Note to which it was attached so as to make the whole pass for a complete Note

A short history of the cases noticed in this Report is already before the Government

SMALL SILVER COIN AND COPPER

This, however, gives no idea of the effect of the order In some places it was in abeyance, in others, the Treasuries still held the coin and awaited a convenient opportunity before remitting it, while many remittances were made to the Mints direct

34 —The amounts remitted during the year by drafts and telegraphic transfers were as follows —

	Rs
From Allahabad to Calcutta	1,82,13,700
„ Lahore to „	82,67,000
„ Bombay to „	84,10,000

TOTAL	5 55,10 700

The amount of premium realized during the year was Rs 74,703

35 —The following remittances of specie took place during the year in connection with the Currency Department —

	Rs
From Bombay to Calcutta	50,00,000
„ „ to Allahabad	1 45 00 000
„ „ to Lahore	1,10 00,000
to Kurrachee	86 20 000
„ Nagpore to Allahabad	10 00 000
„ Akola to Nagpur	10,00 000
TOTAL	4 11,20,000

The following remittances were also made during the year by the Currency Department —

	Rs
From Bombay to Rangoon	40 00,000
„ Madras to „	19,50,000
„ Calicut to „	10 00 000
„ Cocanada to „	10 00,000
„ Bombay to Shikarpur	85 00,000
„ „ to Poona	3 00,000
„ Nagpur to Patna	10,00,000
TOTAL	1 77 50 000

The remittances to Rangoon were the surplus of the famine silver, now no longer required in the south The money was supplied under arrangements with various Banks which bore the cost of freight

The remittances to Kurrachee, Shikarpur, and part of that to Lahore, supplied silver for the Afghan war

The remittance to Calcutta was required to adjust the Notes issued against bullion in Bombay and remitted to Calcutta to pay for opium, &c , but a much larger amount was negotiated by means of bills and transfers

The remittance to Allahabad and the remainder of that to Lahore served the same purpose Bills were drawn in Calcutta against them at a rate which nearly, if not quite, paid for the carriage from Bombay The transfer from Allahabad to Bombay was a partial set off to this, made for the accommodation of the Bank—at a rate, of course, which repaid Government for the carriage

The general decrease is probably to be attributed to the famine coming to an end This is especially the case in the transactions of the Madras treasuries, but I think also in Bengal, the internal trade of which was greatly excited in the former year by the demand for rice The North Western Treasuries were still kept on low balances throughout the year under review Bombay and Burma are the only cases of increase That of the latter, at least, depends on the supplies allowed to the treasuries, for almost all Notes sent to them find their way back to Calcutta as remittances

39.—The usual facilities were given for cashing Notes at Revenue Treasuries as far as this could be done without inconvenience in other directions

Appendix IV shows all Treasuries which were able throughout the year to cash Notes at all times to the extent of the public demand on them, Appendix V contains the names of the Treasuries which were ordinarily able to cash Notes on presentation, and Appendix VI, the names of Treasuries at which this accommodation could not usually be given

The accommodation was restricted in the North Western Provinces and increased elsewhere, though with some exceptions in Bengal and Madras, and a few in Bombay

AGENCY TRANSACTIONS.

40.—No new Agencies were opened or existing ones closed during the year under review

The issues and receipts of Notes in exchange for coin and other Notes in the Agencies of the different Circles of Issue during the year are shewn in the following table —

	Issues	Receipts
	Rs	Rs
Agencies of the Calcutta Circle	10 25 500	9 64 000
Allahabad	1 77,000	2 58 385
Lahore	35 74,000	8 65 000
Coconada	2 80 000	1 30 000
TOTAL	50 56 500	22 17 385

41.—The receipts of the Department amounted to Rs 23,95,495 12 2, as shewn in Statement III, being less than last year by Rs 54,152 0 1, owing mainly to a delay in realising interest to the extent of Rs 47,171, and to premium paid on purchases being deducted from interest, and not shown as a charge per contra The disbursements amounted to Rs 5,18,910 3 4, being an increase over the expenditure of last year of Rs 33,917 3 11 The cost of Note forms in 1878 79 exceeded the amount paid in 1877 78 by Rs 50,868 14 8 but the charges for the remittance of treasure were less by Rs 36,226 7 The cost of establishment was slightly in excess of that for the previous year and also the cost of repairs

The net profit for the year amounted to Rs 18,76,585 8 10, against Rs 19,64,654 12 10 in the previous year, shewing a decrease this year of Rs 88,069 4

42.—But there is another indirect profit derived by the State, from the management of the Currency Balances, which became important in the year under review, and has been still more so in 1879 80

I think it may be safely assumed that the circulation is not likely again to fall to eleven crores which it last surmounted in June 1876, while only six crores of the value can by law be invested The remaining five crores and upwards sufficed to provide for the perfect convertibility of the Notes, in addition to purchasing the enormous amounts of bullion imported in 1877 78 When there is no such abnormal strain upon the reserve, there is a very large sum which cannot be really wanted until the Head Commissioner has had ample warning of an approaching pressure, and time to strengthen the threatened post

Until then, the reserve, provided it is kept intact and solely under the orders of the Currency Officers, may safely remain in any part of India that happens to be convenient This is made useful in two ways first, passively, as, for instance, the revenues of the Madras East Coast come in after the crops are harvested and purchased, the silver is not required on the spot until next year, nor can it be removed except at considerable cost, but Government cannot afford to let the balance lie idle—it is therefore paid into the Cocanada

Currency Office, and the Head Commissioner, on being advised of the credit, pays a corresponding amount into the Calcutta Treasury When silver is again wanted by the Madras merchants, they pay the Madras Currency Commissioner, who gives them bills on the Cocanada Sub Circle, or, if the silver is not needed on the spot, the Comptroller General can pay money into the Calcutta Currency Office, and obtain an order for Cocanada to ship silver for Rangoon, where it can be sold at a profit which will cover the cost of freight Again the Behar revenues, collected from the cold weather crops, will be wanted on the spot in spring for Opium payments They must therefore lie there idle, or bear the expense of carriage to Calcutta and back again They are paid into the Behar Currency chests, and the Calcutta Treasury gets the use of an equivalent from the Head Commissioner repaying the Currency Department when the Opium season comes round, upon which the Head Commissioner can give an assignment on one of his Branch chests

The second mode of assisting the revenues is active The Head Commissioner despatches a large portion of his surplus to any province in which he expects large expenditure, such as Sindh or the Punjab When money is needed, the Accountant General telegraphs his wants The Comptroller General pays a corresponding sum into the Calcutta Currency, and the Head Commissioner telegraphs to his Deputy to issue the sums required This arrangement is amply safe if carefully managed, for almost all the offices are connected by Railways, and money can, on any emergency, be called in and concentrated, while but for this assistance, the Treasury business of the State could not have been carried on this year without a far larger cash balance than would have been easily provided

43 —On the eve of making over charge of my office, I desire to record my acknowledgments to my Calcutta Assistant, Mr Sterndale for steady and excellent work, and for valuable advice which his departmental experience enables him to give on all difficult questions I am perfectly satisfied also with Mr Wells' management of his heavy charge at Bombay, as well as with Mr Greenway and the other officers whose work is less entirely occupied by this Department

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Land-revenue and the powers of Revenue-officers in the Central Provinces

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to land-revenue and to the powers of Revenue-officers in the Central Provinces: It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PART I

PRELIMINARY

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Central Provinces Land-revenue Act, 1880."

B 1 Local extent. It extends to all the territories for the time being under the administration of the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces, except those specified in Part VI of the first schedule of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874;

Commencement. and it shall come into force on such date as the Chief Commissioner, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may appoint in this behalf.

B 2 Cf. Act XX of 1875, s. [illegible], proviso. Enactments repealed. 2. The enactments mentioned in the second schedule hereto annexed and all rules and regulations and enactments relating to the settlement and collection of the land-revenue are repealed.

B 3 Land-proceedings brought under Act. 3. All proceedings relating to matters dealt with by this Act and pending at the time this Act comes into force before officers by whom they would be cognizable under this Act shall be deemed as far as may be to have been commenced hereunder.

B 4 Interpretation-clause. 4. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context, the following words and phrases shall be construed as next hereinafter provided, that is to say:—

Assistant Commissioner. (1) "Assistant Commissioner" includes Extra Assistant Commissioner:

Legal Practitioner. (2) "Legal Practitioner" means an advocate, vakil or attorney of any High Court, a pleader, mukhtar or revenue-agent: Act XVIII of 1879, s. 3.

2ndly—the Governor General in Council may rescind any assessment submitted to him for confirmation;

Malguzár may decline to continue settlement after expiry of term.

XIII of s 4 3rdly—if any malguzár six months before the expiry of the term fixed under section forty-eight applies to the Deputy Commissioner stating that he is unwilling that the assessment should continue in force beyond the expiry of such term, the assessment shall on the expiry of such term cease to be in force;

Saving of right to partition of mahál.

4thly—nothing herein contained shall affect the right of any person holding any portion of a mahál in severalty to have such portion constituted a separate mahál under the provisions hereinafter contained.

Procedure when all proprietors decline assessment.

XIX of s 48 58 Where there is but one class of proprietors in a mahál and none of them are willing to accept in manner required by section fifty-five the assessment offered, the Settlement-officer may, with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, exclude them from settlement and may settle the mahál with any other person or may take it under direct management:

Provided that the period of exclusion under this section shall in no case exceed the term of settlement.

Procedure when only some proprietors accept assessment.

XIX of s 49 59 If some of the proprietors are willing, and others are not willing, so to accept the assessment offered, the Settlement-officer may, if the interest of the recusant proprietors in the lands taken into account in the assessment consist entirely of lands held by them separately from the other proprietors, form such lands into a separate mahál and deal with such mahál under section fifty-eight:

Provided that the settlement of such separate mahál shall be offered in the first instance to the proprietors who were willing to accept the assessment originally offered.

In other cases the settlement of the entire mahál shall be offered to the proprietors who were willing to accept the settlement when originally offered, and if they refuse it the mahál shall be dealt with under section fifty-eight.

Procedure on refusal of assessment in mahál in which superior and inferior rights exist.

60 When an assessment is offered in a mahál in which both superior and inferior proprietors exist— B 96 Act XXXIII of 1871 s 30 Settlement Code p 51

(a) if all the proprietors of the class with which the Settlement-officer proposes to make the settlement are unwilling to accept as aforesaid the assessment offered, the settlement shall be offered to the other class, and if all the proprietors of such class refuse the settlement, the settlement-officer shall proceed as in section fifty-eight;

(b) if some only of the proprietors of the class with which the Settlement-officer proposes to make the settlement refuse the assessment, he may either proceed as if all refused or may deal with the mahál under section fifty-nine.

Provided that, if in the latter case, the proprietors who were willing to accept the assessment when originally offered refuse to accept it, such settlement shall be offered to the other class of proprietors in preference to any other persons.

Procedure on refusal of sub-settlement by inferior proprietors.

61 If all the inferior proprietors refuse any sub-settlement offered under section fifty-one, the Settlement-officer may assign the proprietary management and profits of the mahál to the superior proprietor for any term not exceeding the term of settlement. B 97 See s 54, N W 1

If some only of the inferior proprietors refuse the sub-settlement, the Settlement-officer may in his discretion either—

(a) proceed as if all had refused it, or

(b) deal with the mahál under section fifty-nine as if the sub-settlement had been a settlement.

Allowance to excluded proprietors.

62 Any proprietor excluded from settlement under section fifty-eight or section sixty, clause (a), shall be entitled to receive from the Government an annual allowance, the amount of which shall be fixed by the Chief Commissioner, but which shall not be less than five per cent or more than ten per cent on the amount of the assessment offered to him by the Settlement-officer. B 176: Act XIX of 1873 s 155

100 During the continuance of an attachment under section ninety nine, the defaulters shall be excluded from possession of the land attached and the agent appointed by the Collector shall stand for all purposes in their position being bound by all their liabilities to any subordinate proprietors incumbrancers or tenants of, or on such land

101 The surplus profits of such land after defraying the cost of attachment and management shall be applied first to the payment of any revenue or provincial cesses falling due upon such land during the attachment, and next, to discharging the arrear

Profits of land how applied

B 176 177 Act XIX of 1873 s 156

102 The attachment shall continue until the arrear is paid or realized from the profits of the land or the Collector thinks fit to reinstate the defaulters in possession

Attachment when to cease

Provided that no attachment shall continue beyond five years from the first day of the agricultural year next following its commencement

B. 178.

103 When it is proposed to execute the process mentioned in section ninety five clause (d) the persons to whom the share or land is to be transferred shall be required to pay the arrear or to secure its payment to the satisfaction of the Deputy Commissioner

Transfer under section 95 (d)

No such transfer shall be made for a term exceeding fifteen years from the first day of the agricultural year next after the date on which it is sanctioned by the Chief Commissioner

No proceedings taken under this section shall affect the joint and several liability of the malguzars of the estate for arrears accruing on such estate subsequently to the transfer of the holding except that as regards all such arrears the transferee shall stand in the place of the málguzár whose holding is transferred

Joint and several liability not affected by transfer

104 When the Chief Commissioner sanctions the annulment of the settlement of any mahal the Deputy Commissioner shall proclaim such annulment and may then exclude the defaulters from the possession and either manage the mahál or any portion thereof himself or through an agent or let it in farm for such term and on such conditions as the Chief Commissioner directs and all liens leases and other incumbrances created upon the land so managed or farmed by the defaulters, or by any person through whom they claim, may, at the option of the Deputy Commissioner, be cancelled

Procedure after receipt of sanction to annulment of settlement

Provided that no farm or management under this section shall continue for a longer period than fifteen years from the first day of the agricultural year next after the proclamation of annulment of settlement

105 After the expiration of the period of management or farm, the Deputy Commissioner shall offer to the persons entitled to be settled with under section fifty a new settlement of the land on such conditions as the Chief Commissioner may direct for the remainder of the term of the settlement of the local area in which such land is situate and, if such offer is refused, may with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, let such land in farm for the remainder of the term of settlement to some other person, or manage it himself or through an agent for such period

Settlement on expiry of farm or management

106 When a portion only of the mahál is taken under management or farmed under section one hundred and four the rest of such mahál shall be separately re settled for the remainder of the term of settlement

New

Case of a portion of a mahal being farmed or managed

107 Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained no defaulter shall be deprived of the possession of his sir land in the execution of any of the processes mentioned in section ninety five, clauses (c) (d) and (e), but any such defaulter shall while such process is being enforced be entitled to retain possession of and pay rent for, such land as if he were an absolute occupancy tenant

Act XIX of 1873 s 190

Saving of rights in sir land.

114 Notwithstanding anything contained in section ninety three when proceedings are taken under this Act for the recovery of an arrear payable directly to Government the person against whom such proceedings are taken may if he denies the arrear or any part thereof to be due pay the same under protest made at the time of payment and duly signed by him or by his agent and file a suit in the Civil Court for the recovery of the amount which he denies to be due B 195. Act XIX of 1873 s 189.

Remedies open to person denying that the amount claimed as an arrear is due

Of the Realization of Revenue by Málguzárs

115 In a suit for the recovery of an arrear of revenue not being Government revenue or a suit brought by a lambardar to recover the amount of any Government revenue or provincial cess payable through him the defendant shall not except with the permission of the Court,— B 190.

Limitation of right to set off &c in suit for arrears

(a) set off against the plaintiff's demand any sum of money recoverable by him from the plaintiff or

(b) claim credit for any payment purporting to have been made on account when such payment was made before the date on which the amount thereof became due

116 Any lambardar or sub lambardár entitled to recover an arrear of revenue or any málguzar to whom such an arrear is due under a sub settlement may instead of instituting a suit for the recovery thereof apply to the Deputy Commissioner to recover such arrear on his behalf as if it were an arrear of Government revenue B 192 Act XVII of 1876 s 158.

Recovery of arrear through Deputy Commissioner instead of by suit

The Deputy Commissioner may if he thinks fit comply with such application, but shall before compliance therewith give to the persons who would be defendants if a suit were brought opportunity to show cause against the order which he proposes to make

The Deputy Commissioner shall not be made a defendant to any suit instituted under section one hundred and fourteen to contest an arrear in respect of which an order has been made under this section.

Persons on whose account the Deputy Commissioner proceeds under this section to recover arrears shall not thereby be relieved of their responsibility for such arrears and shall forfeit their claim to the collection charge or if no separate collection charge has been fixed to such percentage on the sum collected as the Chief Commissioner may authorise by rules framed in this behalf and such charge or percentage shall be collected and credited to the Government.

117 Nothing in the Indian Limitation Act 1877, and no agreement made after the passing of this Act shall bar the right of the málguzárs of any mahál assessed to land revenue to demand revenue in respect of any land which, having been taken into account in such assessment has been held by any person without payment of revenue but the Chief Commissioner may in his discretion exempt any case from the operation of this section.

Saving of right of proprietor to demand revenue of land assessed to revenue and held free

118 The period of limitation in suits for the recovery of revenue payable under a settlement or sub settlement shall be three years reckoned from the date on which such revenue becomes payable.

(d) that being founded on such decree or order, the order or decision has subsequently been modified on appeal or review or has been revised by the Chief Commissioner.

121 The Deputy Commissioner may revise a Record of rights when such revision is provided for in such record.

Revision of record in accordance with provision therein contained

122 When the Deputy Commissioner takes proceedings for the correction or revision of any entry in the Record of rights, he shall exercise with respect to the matter to which such entry relates all the powers which the Chief Settlement officer might have exercised if the proceedings had been taken whilst the settlement was in progress.

Powers of Deputy Commissioner as to correction or revision of record

123 The Chief Commissioner may direct that any rule custom or condition entered in the Record of rights of any village shall be enforced by the Government. B 155 156 No. 2 ¶¶ 46 48.

Power to direct that rule custom entered in Record of rights shall be enforced by Government

If any of the persons with whom a settlement or sub settlement has been made violate or neglect any rule, custom or condition with respect to which the Chief Commissioner has made a direction under this section, the Deputy Commissioner may if no penalty is provided in this or in the Central Provinces Tenancy Act 1880 for such violation or neglect impose upon such person a fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Punishment for violation of rule or custom

124 The Chief Commissioner may—

Power of Chief Commissioner to direct registration of changes after preparation of Record of rights

(a) direct that the mukaddam of each village shall for the purpose of showing the changes occurring subsequently to the preparation of the Record of rights prepare or where there is a patwari, cause to be prepared and furnish annually for such village papers in such form at such time, containing such particulars and attested in such manner as the Chief Commissioner may, from time to time prescribe. B 147 201; No 3 ¶ 24.

(b) prescribe the procedure to be followed in order to ascertain that a change has occurred and the nature of such change.

All changes referred to in this section shall be recorded in such registers as the Chief Commissioner appoints and not in the Record of rights, and the Chief Commissioner may direct that before any specified changes are recorded the order of a specified Revenue officer shall be obtained.

125 All persons obtaining possession of proprietary rights and interests in land shall at once give notice of the same to the tahsíldár of the tahsíl in which such land is situated. Act XIX of 1873 s 97

Possession of proprietary rights to be notified

If any question arises whether any right or interest is a proprietary right or interest within the meaning of this section the decision thereof by the Chief Commissioner shall be final.

126 Any person neglecting to give the notice required by section one hundred and twenty five shall be liable at the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner or Assistant Commissioner to fine which may extend to fifty rupees for each day during which such neglect continues. Act XIX of 1873 s 100.

Fine for neglect to give notice of possession

127 All persons having proprietary rights in land are on the requisition of the Deputy Commissioner bound to prepare or cause to be prepared such papers and furnish such information as may be required for the preparation of the village papers prescribed under section one hundred and twenty four

Obligation to aid in preparation of village papers

128 The Chief Commissioner may direct that fees shall be leviable when changes are recorded under the last clause of section one hundred and twenty four, and may fix the amount of such fees

S 200 Act XIX of 1873 s 96. Fees for mutations.

129 All fees leviable under section one hundred and twenty eight shall be levied from the person in whose favour the change takes place

From whom levied

130 The Deputy Commissioner shall make enquiry annually regarding all cases in which land has been released conditionally or for a time from the payment of revenue and if the term of any grant has expired or (when the grant is for a life or lives) if the person last entitled to hold revenue free or at less than full revenue rates has died shall assess the same and shall report his proceedings through the Commissioner of the Division for the sanction of the Chief Commissioner

S 169 Act XIX of 1873 s 101. Annual enquiry regarding revenue free holdings. Procedure on expiry of term of grant

131 If it appears to the Deputy Commissioner that the conditions of any grant have been broken by the grantee he shall report the case through the Commissioner of the Division for the orders of the Chief Commissioner who may direct that the land be assessed or may pass such other order as he thinks fit

S 169 Act XIX of 1873 s 101. Procedure on breach of conditions of grant

132 All records kept under this Chapter shall be open to public inspection at such times and on such conditions as to fees or otherwise as the Chief Commissioner from time to time directs

S 203 Act XIX of 1873 s 106. Inspection of revenue records

OF CERTAIN ADDITIONAL POWERS AND FUNCTIONS OF REVENUE OFFICERS

133 The Deputy Commissioner shall when a settlement is not in progress exercise the powers conferred by this Act on Settlement officers for the following purposes —

Purposes for which when settlement is not in progress Deputy Commissioner shall exercise Settlement officer's powers

assessed on their land or which when their land is revenue free would in the judgment of the Deputy Commissioner be assessed on their land if it was subject to assessment

In framing rules for the appointment of lambardárs and sub-lambardárs under this section the Chief Commissioner shall have regard among other matters to local custom and hereditary claims and to entries on the subject in the record of rights of any mahál

B 205 Duties of lambardars. 139 It shall be the duty of every lambardár and sub-lambardár—

(a) to collect and pay into the Government treasury so much of the land revenue as may under section seventy be payable through him either solely or jointly with other lambardárs or sub-lambardárs

(b) to collect and pay to the mukaddam or into the Government treasury as the Deputy Commissioner may direct all sums payable through him either solely or jointly with other lambardárs or sub-lambardárs from the mahál to which he is appointed on account of cash allowances to patwáris or village watchmen or on account of any expense which the mukaddam is authorized to incur and to recover from such mahál

(c) to assist the mukaddam in obtaining all particulars which he is bound to enter in the annual village papers or to report under this Act

B 205 Settlement Code p 26 para 48 Lambardárs may recover from proprietors . . . 140 Lambardárs and sub-lambardárs may recover from the proprietors whom they represent along with the land revenue —

(a) any remuneration to which they are entitled

(b) the sum which under section one hundred and thirty nine they are bound to pay to mukaddams

Provided that no such recovery shall be made from malik makbuza paying a percentage which includes remuneration to mukaddams and lambardárs

B 168. Deputy Commissioner may allow malik makbuza . . . 141 On the application of any malik makbuza or other like holder of land or of the lambardár or sub-lambardár through whom such malik makbuza or other holder of land pays the revenue assessed on his holding the Deputy Commissioner may for sufficient cause shown direct that such revenue be paid through any other lambardár or sub-lambardár or that it be paid direct into the Government treasury

When the Deputy Commissioner orders such payment to be made direct into the treasury such portion of the percentage fixed under section sixty four as the Deputy Commissioner subject to the control of the Chief Commissioner may determine shall be paid to the Government and the málik makbuzá or other person shall pay the rest to the mukaddams on account of fees to mukaddams and other village-expenses

Duties of mukaddams. 142 It shall be the duty of every mukaddam— B 206 No 1 ¶¶ 35 et seq No 2 ¶¶ 60-62

(a) to control and superintend the village patwári and watchmen to report their deaths or absence from duty to maintain them in the possession of any lands appertaining to their office to recover and pay to them any cash allowances to which they may be entitled and to take such steps as may be necessary to compel them to perform their duties

(b) to furnish reports regarding the state of the village at such places and times as the Deputy Commissioner fixes in this behalf

(c) to prevent or report encroachments on public paths and roadways

(d) to preserve such stations and marks erected by any Government surveyor as may be made over to his care

(e) subject to any rules issued by the Chief Commissioner to keep his village in good sanitary condition

(f) to report the deaths of all persons holding lands wholly or partially free from revenue and of Government pensioners

(h) to collect or aid in the collection of all Government taxes and dues

The Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules—

(1) varying or adding to the list of duties which a mukaddam is required to perform under this section and B 207

(2) regulating the liability of persons residing in any village for charges necessarily incurred by mukaddams in the performance of the duties specified in clause (e) in respect of such village and for apportioning such charge among such persons

143 When by any enactment for the time being in force any public duties are imposed on or public liabilities are declared to attach to landholders their managers and agents and the like such duties shall be deemed to be imposed on and such liabilities shall be held to attach to, mukaddams appointed under this Act B 206

Liabilities imposed by law . . . to attach to mukaddam.

Provided that nothing herein contained shall discharge landholders their managers or agents or the like from any liabilities imposed upon them by law No 3 ¶ 24.

144 Every mukaddam may recover from the lambardárs or sub-lambardárs of the village to which he is appointed his own remuneration together with any expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of his duties B 206

Power of mukaddams to recover remuneration and expenses.

Chief Commissioner may make rules as to patwáris 145 The Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules— B 208 Act XXXIII of 1871 s 6

(a) regulating the manner in which patwáris are to be selected, prescribing the condi tions under which they may be appointed and fixing the limits of their circles and the nature, mode and amount of their remuneration

(b) prescribing the conditions under which substitutes may be appointed for persons having hereditary claims to the office of patwari when they are unable to act themselves

(c) prescribing the fines which may be imposed on patwaris and their substitutes for neglect of their duty and stating the circumstances under which they may be dismissed

Provided that except in the case hereinafter mentioned no proprietor shall be compelled to pay as remuneration to patwari a sum exceeding six per cent on the revenue assessed on his land or which when his land is revenue free would in the judgment of the Deputy Commissioner be assessable on his land if it were liable to assessment

XXXIII of ... s 6

146 In making rules under section one hundred and forty five the Chief Commissioner shall have regard to conditions and customs recorded in administration papers and to hereditary claims to the office of patwari but in no case shall such condition or custom or claim be deemed to impair the appointment of any patwari who would otherwise be ineligible for appointment or to prevent the dismissal of any patwari who would otherwise be liable to dismissal

210

147 The Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules for the guidance of Deputy Commissioners in dealing with cases where at the time of the last preceding settlement the maintenance of a patwari was made optional and the persons settled with are unable to agree as to whether a patwari should be maintained and for dealing with cases where no patwari is under such option maintained and the mukaddams or proprietors have made default in the performance of the duties of a patwari

Chief Commissioner may make rules for guidance of Deputy Commissioners in certain matters

Such rules may empower the Deputy Commissioner in the latter class of cases—

(a) to impose fines on such mukaddams or proprietors and therefrom to make provision for the temporary performance of the duties in respect of which they have made default

(b) to appoint patwaris in the villages of such proprietors either for the term of the settlement or for any shorter term and to fix the remuneration of such patwaris

148 The Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules prescribing the duties of patwaris—

Chief Commissioner may define duties of patwaris

(a) towards the Government and may in such rules determine the registers, returns or other papers which they shall keep or furnish the forms and language in which such registers and returns are to be prepared the mode of their preparation and attestation and the dates on which they are to be furnished,

(b) towards the members of the village community, and may in such rules fix the remuneration, if any, other than the fixed emoluments of their office which the patwaris may demand in respect of the performance of such duties

All records and documents which patwaris are required to prepare or keep by any rule made by the Chief Commissioner under this section shall be deemed to be public documents and to be the property of Government

Patwaris' papers to be public documents

149 Patwaris shall produce at all reasonable times for the inspection of all persons interested therein all records and papers which they are so required to prepare or keep

Act XVIII of 1873 s 9 (b)

150 All existing lambardars sub lambardars mukaddams and patwaris shall unless the Chief Commissioner otherwise directs, be deemed to have been appointed under this Act

Any sum which officers of these classes are entitled to recover or demand under this chapter may if the Deputy Commissioner so directs be recovered in the same manner as an arrear of revenue payable directly to the Government

151 In each village of the district of Sambalpur all persons other than mukaddams holding such land are bound to provide for the due remuneration of the mukaddam of the village and the Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules for the enforcement of this obligation

Number and year of Regulation, Order, &c	Title	Extent of repeal
Act XII of 1841	For amending the Bengal Code in regard to sales of land for arrears of revenue	So much as has not been repealed
Act I of 1847	For the establishment and maintenance of boundary marks in the North Western Provinces and Bengal	The whole
Act XXXI of 1858	To make further provision for the settlement of land gained by alluvion in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal	The whole

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

1 The Land revenue Administration of the Central Provinces as at this moment carried on rests on an insufficient legal basis Throughout a considerable portion of the country there is little or no law regarding the settlement and collection of the revenue beyond that which may be considered to be established by ancient usage In some parts it is doubtful how far any written law applies and elsewhere the only law is either the ' spirit ' of certain old Regulations of the Bengal Code, or half forgotten rules which owe their binding force to the Indian Councils' Act

2 No inconvenience in practice was felt from this state of things in the earlier days of our rule when the people scarcely realized the possibility of their having any rights as against their rulers but of late years the diffusion of legal ideas has placed the landholders and the Government more at arm's length the old state of things has shown clear signs of giving way and the want of a definite system of revenue law, such as exists in all the other settled Provinces of the empire has come to be felt

3 To supply this want the present Bill has been prepared It follows the main lines of the similar laws in force in the North Western Provinces and elsewhere except that it is confined as closely as possible to the subject of the land revenue administration strictly so called to the exclusion of certain subjects such as partition and Courts of wards which it has been the practice in other Provinces to include in Land revenue Acts

It seems unnecessary here to enter into any description of its provisions in so far as they are borrowed from Acts like the North Western Provinces and Oudh Land revenue Acts, which have been passed so recently and after so much discussion and the following remarks will accordingly be confined to such of the leading points of the Bill as are in some sense novel or otherwise appear to require special notice

4 It will be observed that the repealing clause (section 2) has been drawn so as to fit in with the similar clause in the Central Provinces Laws Act of 1875 and to sweep away the indefinite mass of old rules and regulations relating to the settlement and collection of the land revenue which were saved by it and as any remnant of these old rules and regulations would if kept alive be apt to escape notice and perhaps ultimately lead to complication and difficulty the clause which is commonly inserted in such Bills maintaining existing rules in so far as they are consistent with the new law has been omitted It is believed that this omission will give rise to no difficulty as it will rest with the Government to fix the date on which the Act will come into operation and that date need not be fixed until all rules which it is necessary to make under the Act are ready for issue

5 Chapter II relating to Revenue officers their powers and procedure it will be seen, contains no such detailed rules of procedure as are to be found in the North Western Provinces Act Most of the Revenue-officers in the Central Provinces preside over Civil Courts and all have had more or less experience in working under the Code of Civil Procedure The provisions of that Code though copious are simple and untechnical and it accordingly seems the most convenient course to adopt it as a basis for the procedure of Revenue officers as has been done in sections 15(a) and 19 of the Bill power being given to the Chief Commissioner to modify and supplement its provisions as he may think necessary

6 In section 34 the Panjab system of empowering the Local Government to invest Settlement-officers with the powers of Civil Courts for the disposal of suits relating to land has been followed, but the ultimate appeal in such suits will lie to the Judicial Commissioner

7 Section 49 following the principle which it is believed has from a remote period been recognized throughout India and which will be found embodied in the preamble to Regulation XXXVII of 1793 and elsewhere in the Bengal Code declares that all land with certain definite exceptions is liable to be assessed to land revenue An express provision of this sort seems desirable in the Central Provinces where a question has been recently raised as to whether land would not become exempt by being occupied for habitations There is of course no general intention of assessing the lands in towns or old village sites They will be ordinarily excluded from assessment under the power conferred by section 44 but it is obviously desirable that where lands at present cultivated and assessed are built upon and yield as they probably would a larger profit to their owners than before they should still remain liable to assessment

8 In sections 78 and 83 an attempt is made to specify the acts and decisions of a Settlement officer which may be called in question in a Civil Court, all other such acts and decisions being by section 152 protected from being so challenged and as when a matter is liable to be taken in the last resort before a Civil Court it would be waste of time for the Settlement officer to enter upon any very elaborate inquiry regarding it, section 78 provides that the investigation in the cases to which it refers shall be a summary one, the Settlement officer being required to make only such inquiry as he thinks fit, and not being bound to hear any party concerned or receive any evidence tendered

9 Sections 88 and 89 deal with cases in which at settlements made before the passing of the Act the proprietary right in land has been awarded by a Settlement officer to some person on the ground that he was the person who of all others had the interest in the land most nearly approaching to ownership They provide that no person whose claims to such land were considered and rejected by the Settlement officer shall be permitted to impeach his award, but that any one whose claim was not so considered may institute a suit to establish it and that if he can prove that he was entitled to an interest in the land similar to that in consideration of which the proprietary right was awarded, the Court may declare him to be a proprietor

10 Section 108 states, somewhat differently from the Land revenue Acts at present in force, the nature of the estate taken by a purchaser of land sold for arrears of revenue due upon it The interest taken by such a purchaser is described to be " the full proprietorship, or superior or inferior proprietorship as the case may be free from all liens, leases and incumbrances," &c , but among other matters saved by the clause which follows are " the rights of any proprietor " superior or inferior to the defaulters, or of any málik makbuzá or occupancy tenant who does not " derive his rights as such from express contract with such defaulters or any person through whom they claim "

11 Section 116 following and enlarging upon section 158 of the Oudh Land revenue Act, 1876 provides that any lambardar entitled to recover an arrear of Government revenue or any málguzar entitled to recover an arrear due under a sub settlement, may instead of instituting a suit to recover such arrear, apply to the Deputy Commissioner to recover it on his behalf by any of the processes provided by the Act for the recovery of revenue on behalf of the Government It will be in the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner to comply with such application or not as he thinks fit and he will probably comply with it as a rule in cases where the applicant has done his best to collect the arrear, and undue trouble and expense would be caused to him by instituting a suit to recover it

12 Section 117 deals somewhat differently from the North Western Provinces Act with the important question of the right of the málguzars to resume revenue free grants made by them or their predecessor in interest It is quite conceivable that an improvident proprietor might by such grant alienate so much of the revenue which he was entitled to collect as to put it beyond his power in a bad year to meet the demands of the Government against him The Government revenue might no doubt ultimately be secured by the sale of the mahal but it is obviously desirable to devise some means of avoiding so trenchant a process

There would be a difficulty about refusing to recognize grants heretofore made perhaps for a valuable consideration but it is believed that such grants are not very numerous in the Central Provinces and may safely be left to their operation As regards grants made after the Bill becomes law there need be no hesitation in declaring them voidable and this is in effect what the Bill does

13 Section 119 of the Bill follows the 148th section of the North Western Provinces Act in providing that no interest shall be charged on an arrear of Government revenue, but it allows a Court to award interest on an arrear of revenue due under a sub settlement

14 Section 123 which empowers the Chief Commissioner to direct that any rule custom or condition entered in a Record of rights shall be enforced by fine is new It is believed that it will be found useful in many cases where the person for whose benefit a provision of a Record of rights is intended might owing to their not being parties to such record or for some other reason not be in a position to enforce it or where in order to enforce such a provision by a suit it would be necessary to join perhaps all the inhabitants of a village as parties

15 Section 137 is the only section of the Bill dealing with partition and it is confined to the only species of partition which it is conceived can properly find a place in a Land revenue Act namely the separation into two separate mahals of two portions of a mahal which are held in severalty

When two parties in a mahal holding their lands in common desire to sever their joint and several liability for the revenue they must under the Bill as under the law at present in force in the North Western Provinces and elsewhere first obtain a partition of their lands but this partition is a matter with which the Revenue administration has no direct concern It might be and sometimes is sought like a partition of house property or any other property without any view to the dissolution of the joint and several liability to Government and accordingly, though it is intended that partitions of revenue paying land should continue to be effected as heretofore through the Revenue officers as the authorities best qualified to undertake such an operation it has been determined to relegate these partitions to a separate Bill which it is hoped will shortly be placed before the Council and to deal in the present Bill only with dissolution of the joint and several obligations of the málguzars

16 The office of mukaddam which the 12th chapter of the Bill proposes to establish, is in most districts of the Central Provinces somewhat of a novelty Up to the period of the recent settlements, villages in the Central Provinces were ordinarily held by a single málguzár or farmer with whom the Government could deal on behalf of the village but now as Mr Jones has observed the zamindari tenure with its single head will yearly give way to the pattidari with its several heads and the responsibility for the performance of the many duties incumbent on a village headman will thus become inconveniently split up Moreover, in some districts large tracts of country are bought up by town capitalists and thus many villages are left without a responsible head at all To remedy this the Bill provides for the appointment for each village of a single representative headman (called a ' mukaddam) to whom the Government can look for the performance of the important duties which the custom of the country attaches to the land and to whom the community can refer as a head when united action is required of it When there are resident lambardars the person appointed to the office of mukaddam would ordinarily, but not necessarily be one of them

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 23rd July, 1880, and was referred to a Select Committee —

No 12 of 1880

THE PETROLEUM BILL, 1880

CONTENTS

A Bill to regulate the importation, possession and transport of Petroleum and other substances of a like nature

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to regulate the importation possession and transport of petroleum and other substances of a like nature It is hereby enacted as follows —

Preliminary

Short title. 1 This Act may be called "The Petroleum Act 1880",

Commencement. and it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1881 (Committee's recommendations, para. 1)

Local extent. The provisions of this Act relating to—

(a) dangerous petroleum, and

(b) the importation of first class and second class petroleum,

extend to the whole of British India The rest of this Act extends only to such local areas as the Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, direct

Repeal of enactments. 2 The Indian Ports Act, 1875 section thirty seven and Bengal Act No III of 1869 (to make better provision for the prevention of injury from fire in ports and to provide for the safe keeping of inflammable oils in ports and places within the Provinces under the control of the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal) are hereby repealed

Interpretation clause. 3 In this Act unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context —

Petroleum. "Petroleum" includes also the liquids commonly known by the names of rock oil Rangoon oil Burma oil, kerosine paraffine oil mineral oil petroline gasoline benzol benzoline benzine and any inflammable liquid that is made from petroleum coal, schist shale peat or any other bituminous substance or from any products of petroleum (34 & 35 Vic c 105 s with addition from Committee's report.)

But does not include any oil ordinarily used for lubricating purposes and having its flashing point at or above two hundred and fifty degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer (Committee's recommendations para.)

Explanation —The flashing point of petroleum means the lowest temperature at which the petroleum yields a vapour which will burn with a momentary flash or flame when tested with the apparatus and in the manner described in the Schedule hereto annexed (Committee's recommendations para. 4)

First class petroleum. "First class petroleum" means petroleum having its flashing point at or above one hundred and three degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer (Committee's recommendations para. 6)

Second class petroleum. "Second class petroleum" means petroleum having its flashing point at or above eighty three but below one hundred and three degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer

Dangerous petroleum. "Dangerous petroleum" means petroleum having its flashing point below eighty three degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometer

Import. "Import" means to bring into British India by sea or land

and "importation" means the bringing into British India as aforesaid

Transport. "Transport" means to remove from one place to another within British India

Ship. "Ship" includes anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or property

Master. "Master" includes every person (except a Pilot or Harbour Master) having for the time being the charge or control of a ship

Magistrate. "Magistrate" means in the Presidency towns, a Presidency Magistrate, and elsewhere a Magistrate of the first class or (when specially empowered by the Local Government to try cases under this Act) a Magistrate of the second class and

Owner. "Owner" includes also any agent to whom a ship is consigned

First class and second class Petroleum

Committee's recommendations paras 12 to 20

Power to make rules as to the importation of first and second class petroleum. 4 The Local Government may from time to time make rules to regulate the importation of first class petroleum and second class petroleum, and in particular—

(a) for ascertaining the quantity and description of any such petroleum on board a ship

(b) to provide for the delivery by the master of a ship of samples of such petroleum and for the testing thereof before such petroleum is landed from such ship

(c) to determine the places at which only such petroleum may be landed and

(d) to regulate the time and mode of and the precautions to be taken on, landing or transhipping any such petroleum

Possession and transport of first and second class petroleum. 5 No quantity of first class petroleum exceeding five hundred gallons and no quantity of second class petroleum exceeding forty gallons

shall be kept by any one person or on the same premises or shall be transported except under and in accordance with the conditions of a license granted under this Act

Power to make rules as to such possession and transport. 6 The Local Government may from time to time make rules as to the granting of licenses to possess or transport first and second class petroleum in cases where such licenses are by law required

in the case of licenses to possess petroleum—

(a) the nature and situation of the premises for which they may be granted and

(b) the inspection of licensed premises and the testing of petroleum found thereon

in the case of licenses to transport petroleum—

(c) the manner in which such petroleum shall be packed the mode of transit and the route by which it is to be taken, and

in the case of both such licenses—

(e) the authority by which the license may be granted,

(f) the fee to be charged for it

(g) the quantity of petroleum it is to cover

(h) the conditions which may be inserted in it,

(j) the time during which it is to continue in force, and

(k) the renewal of the license

Dangerous Petroleum

Dangerous petroleum in quantities exceeding 40 gallons. 7 No quantity of dangerous petroleum exceeding forty gallons shall be imported or transported, or kept by any one person or on the same premises, except under, and in accordance with the conditions of a license from the Local Government granted as next hereinafter provided

Application for license to import transport or possess such petroleum. Every application for such a license shall be in writing and shall declare—

(a) the quantity of such petroleum which it is desired to import, transport or possess, as the case may be

(b) the purpose for which the applicant believes that such petroleum will be used, and

Power to grant license. If the Local Government sees reason to believe that such petroleum will be used for such purpose and that no petroleum other than dangerous petroleum can be used for such purpose it may grant such license for the importation transport or possession (as the case may be) of such petroleum absolutely or subject to such conditions as it thinks fit

Dangerous petroleum in quantities not exceeding 40 gallons. 8 No quantity of dangerous petroleum equal to or less than forty gallons shall be kept or transported without a license

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply in any case when the quantity of such petroleum kept by any one person or on the same premises or transported does not exceed three gallons and such petroleum is placed in separate glass earthenware or metal vessels each of which contains not more than a pint and is securely stopped 34 & 35 Vic c 105 s 8

Application of sections 4 and 6. 9 Except as hereinbefore provided, the provisions contained in sections four and six in respect of first and second class petroleum shall apply also to dangerous petroleum

Petroleum generally

Vessels containing petroleum to be marked. 10 All petroleum— 34 & 35 Vic c 105 s 6

(a) which is kept at any place after seven days from the date on which it is imported,

(b) which is transported or

shall be contained in vessels which shall bear an indelible mark or label in conspicuous characters stating what description of petroleum herein specified the same is. Cf Act I of 1878, s 9

Power to inspect and require dealer to sell samples. 11 Any officer specially authorized in this behalf by the Local Government may require any dealer in petroleum to show him any place and any of the vessels in which any petroleum in his possession is stored or contained to give him such assistance as he may require for examining the same and to deliver to him samples 34 & 35 Vic c 105 s 11

34 & 35 Vic c. 105, s. 11

Notice to be given when officer proposes to test samples.

12 When any such officer has, in exercise of the powers conferred by section eleven, or by purchase obtained a sample of petroleum in the possession of a dealer, he may give a notice in writing to such dealer informing him that he is about to test such sample or cause the same to be tested with the apparatus and in the manner described in the Schedule hereto annexed at a time and place to be fixed in such notice, and that such person or his Agent may be present at such testing

Ibid

Certificate as to result of such testing

13 On any such testing if it appears to the officer or other person so testing that the petroleum from which such sample has been taken is first class second class or dangerous petroleum such officer or other person may certify such fact and the certificate so given shall be receivable as evidence in any proceedings which may be taken under this Act against the dealer in whose possession such petroleum was found and shall be prima facie proof of the fact stated therein

Penalty for illegal importation &c of petroleum

14 Any person who in contravention of this Act or of any rules made hereunder imports possesses or transports any petroleum and any person who otherwise contravenes any such rules or any condition contained in a license granted hereunder shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both

34 & 35 Vic 105 s 63

Penalty for keeping transporting &c for sale petroleum in contravention of section 10

15 Any person keeping transporting selling or exposing for sale petroleum in vessels not marked as prescribed by section ten shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees

34 & 35 Vic 105 s 12

Penalty for refusing to comply with section 11

16 Any dealer in petroleum who refuses or neglects to show to any officer authorized under section eleven any place, or any of the vessels, in which petroleum in his possession is stored or contained, or to give him such assistance as he may require for examining the same or to give him samples of such petroleum on payment of the value of such samples shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees

Cf Act I of 1878, s 11

Confiscation of petroleum

17 In any case in which an offence under section fourteen or section fifteen has been committed, the convicting Magistrate may direct that—

(a) the petroleum in respect of which the offence has been committed, or

(b) where the offender is importing or transporting or is in possession of any petroleum exceeding the quantity (if any) which he is permitted to import transport or possess, as the case may be, the whole of the petroleum which he is importing or transporting, or is in possession of,

shall be confiscated

Miscellaneous

Rules when to have force of law

18 All rules made by the Local Government under this Act shall be published in the official Gazette and shall thereupon so far as they are consistent with this Act have the force of law

Provided that no such rule shall be so published without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council

Power to extend this Act to other substances

19 The Governor General in Council may from time to time by notification in the Gazette of India extend the whole or any portion of this Act to any inflammable substance other than petroleum and may by such notification fix in substitution for the quantities of petroleum fixed by sections five seven and eight the quantities of such substance to which these sections shall apply

34 & 35 Vic c. 105 s 14

The Governor General in Council may by a like notification cancel any notification issued under this section

THE SCHEDULE

Specification explanatory of the Test Apparatus

Committee's recommendations para 5 and 42 & 43 Vic c. 47

The oil cup consists of a cylindrical vessel 2″ diameter $2\frac{1}{10}$″ height (internal) with outward projecting rim $\frac{1}{10}$″ wide $\frac{3}{8}$″ from the top and $1\frac{3}{8}$″ from the bottom of the cup It is made of gun metal or brass (17 B W G) tinned inside A bracket consisting of a short stout piece of wire bent upwards and terminating in a point is fixed to the inside of the cup to serve as a gauge The distance of the point from the bottom of the cup is $1\frac{1}{2}$″ The cup is provided with a close fitting overlapping cover made of brass (22 B W G) which carries the thermometer and test lamp The latter is suspended from two supports from the side by means of trunnions upon which it may be made to oscillate it is provided with a spout the mouth of which is $\frac{1}{16}$″ in diameter The socket which is to hold the thermometer is fixed at such an angle and its length is so adjusted that the bulb of the thermometer when inserted to its full depth shall be $1\frac{1}{2}$″ below the centre of the lid

The cover is provided with three square holes one in the centre $\frac{5}{10}$″ by $\frac{4}{10}$″ and two smaller ones $\frac{3}{10}$″ by $\frac{2}{10}$″ close to the sides and opposite each other These three holes may be closed and uncovered by means of a slide moving in grooves and having perforations corresponding to those on the lid

In moving the slide so as to uncover the holes the oscillating lamp is caught by a pin fixed in the slide and tilted in such a way as to bring the end of the spout just below the surface of the lid Upon the slide being pushed back so as to cover the holes, the lamp returns to its original position

Upon the cover, in front of and in line with the mouth of the lamp is fixed a white bead the dimensions of which represent the size of the test flame to be used

The bath or heated vessel consists of two flat bottomed copper cylinders (21 B W G) an inner one of 3″ diameter and $2\frac{1}{2}$″ height, and an outer one of $5\frac{1}{2}$″ diameter and $5\frac{3}{4}$″ height they are

soldered to a circular copper plate (20 B. W. G.) perforated in the centre, which forms the top of the bath, in such a manner as to enclose the space between the two cylinders, but leaving access to the inner cylinder. The top of the bath projects both outwards and inwards about ⅜", that is, its diameter is about ¾" greater than that of the body of the bath, while the diameter of the circular opening in the centre is about the same amount less than that of the inner copper cylinder. To the inner projection of the top is fastened, by six small screws, a flat ring of ebonite, the screws being sunk below the surface of the ebonite, to avoid metallic contact between the bath and the oil cup. The exact distance between the sides and bottom of the bath of the oil lamp is ½". A split socket similar to that on the cover of the oil cup, but set at a right angle, allows a thermometer to be inserted into the space between the two cylinders. The bath is further provided with a funnel, an overflow pipe, and two loop handles.

The bath rests upon a cast iron tripod stand, to the ring of which is attached a copper cylinder or jacket (24 B. W. G.) flanged at the top, and of such dimensions that the bath, while firmly resting on the iron ring, just touches with its projecting top the inward turned flange. The diameter of this outer jacket is 6". One of the three legs of the stand serves as support for the spirit lamp attached to it by means of a small swing bracket. The distance of the wick holder from the bottom of the bath is 1".

Two thermometers are provided with the apparatus, the one for ascertaining the temperature of the bath, the other for determining the flashing point. The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the water has a long bulb and a space at the top. It ranges from about 90° to 190° Fahrenheit. The scale (in degrees of Fahrenheit) is marked on an ivory back fastened to the tube in the usual way. It is fitted with a metal collar fitting the socket, and the part of the tube below the scale should have a length of about 2" measured from the lower end of the scale to the end of the bulb. The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the oil is fitted with a collar and ivory scale in a similar manner to the one described. It has a round bulb, a space at the top, and ranges from about 55° F. to 150° F. It measures from end of ivory back to bulb 2¼".

NOTE.—A model apparatus is deposited at the office of the Master of the Mint, Calcutta.

Directions for applying the Test.

1. The test apparatus is to be placed for use in a position where it is not exposed to currents of air or draughts.

2. The heating vessel or water bath is filled by pouring water into the funnel until it begins to flow out at the spout of the vessel. The temperature of the water at the commencement of the test is to be 130° Fahrenheit, and this is attained in the first instance either by mixing hot and cold water in the bath, or in a vessel from which the bath is filled, until the thermometer which is provided for testing the temperature of the water gives the proper indication, or by heating the water with the spirit lamp (which is attached to the stand of the apparatus) until the required temperature is indicated.

If the water has been heated too highly it is easily reduced to 130° by pouring in cold water little by little (to replace a portion of the warm water) until the thermometer gives the proper reading.

When a test has been completed, this water bath is again raised to 130° by placing the lamp underneath, and the result is readily obtained while the petroleum cup is being emptied, cooled, and refilled with a fresh sample to be tested. The lamp is then turned on its swivel from under the apparatus and the next test is proceeded with.

3. The test lamp is prepared for use by fitting it with a piece of flat plaited candlewick, and filling it with colza or rape oil up to the lower edge of the opening of the spout or wick tube. The lamp is trimmed so that when lighted it gives a flame of about 0·15 of an inch diameter, and this size of flame, which is represented by the projecting white bead on the cover of the oil cup, is readily maintained by simple manipulation from time to time with a small wire trimmer.

When gas is available it may be conveniently used in place of the little oil lamp, and for this purpose a test flame arrangement for use with gas may be substituted for the lamp.

4. The bath having been raised to the proper temperature, the oil to be tested is introduced into the petroleum cup, being poured in slowly until the level of the liquid just reaches the point of the gauge which is fixed in the cup. In warm weather the temperature of the room in which the samples to be tested have been kept should be observed in the first instance, and if it exceeds 65°, the samples to be tested should be cooled down (to about 60°) by immersing the bottles containing them in cold water or by any other convenient method. The lid of the cup with the slide closed is then put on, and the cup is put into the bath or heating vessel. The thermometer in the lid of the cup has been adjusted so as to have its bulb just immersed in the liquid, and its position is not under any circumstances to be altered. When the cup has been placed in the proper position the scale of the thermometer faces the operator.

5. The test lamp is then placed in position upon the lid of the cup, the lead line or pendulum,* which has been fixed in a convenient position in front of the operator, is set in motion, and the rise of the thermometer in the petroleum cup is watched. When the temperature has reached about 66° the operation of testing is to be commenced, the test flame being applied once for every rise of one degree in the following manner:—

The slide is slowly drawn open while the pendulum performs three oscillations, and is closed during the fourth oscillation.

NOTE.—If it is desired to employ the test apparatus to determine the flashing points of oils of very low volatility, the mode of proceeding is to be modified as follows:—

The air chamber which surrounds the cup is filled with cold water to a depth of 1½ inches and the heating vessel or water bath is filled as usual but also with cold water. The lamp is then placed under the apparatus and kept there during the entire operation. If a very heavy oil is being dealt with the operation may be commenced with water previously heated to 120°, instead of with cold water.

* This pendulum is two (2) feet in length from the point of suspension to the centre of gravity of the weight.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

FOR some time past the dangerous nature of the inflammable oils which are being imported into this country has been engaging the attention of Government In November, 1878 the notice of the Government of India was first drawn to the subject by the Government of Bombay with a view if necessary to legislation being resorted to to check the importation of dangerous oils On a reference being made to the Government of Bengal as to the expediency of such legislation it was found that the subject had already been for some time before that Government, and that a Committee had been appointed for the purpose of considering the question of these oils in all its bearings This Committee which was composed of officials experts and gentlemen interested in the trade has presented its report, in which it strongly urges the necessity for legislation and puts forward certain recommendations as to the lines on which in its opinion such legislation should proceed

2 These recommendations follow with certain modifications introduced to meet the special circumstances climatic and otherwise, of India the outlines of 34 & 35 Vic cap 105 (since amended by 42 & 43 Vic cap 47) which is the principal Act governing this subject in the United Kingdom They appear well adapted to carry out the object which the Committee had in view, namely practical security of life and property with the minimum of restrictions on an important and rapidly developing trade

1st —All petroleum should be divided into three classes namely —

(a) first class petroleum with a flashing point at or above 103 F
(b) second class petroleum with a flashing point between 83 and 103 F
(c) dangerous petroleum with a flashing point below 83 F
} According to Abel's close test

2ndly —All petroleum should be tested by Abel's close test which has recently been adopted in the United Kingdom (see 42 & 43 Vic cap 47 the Petroleum Act 1879) for the purposes of the Petroleum Act 1871 in preference to the old or open test which was fixed by that Act

3rdly —As second class petroleum flashes only at a temperature of 83 or 10 higher than the temperature (73) at which petroleum is considered safe enough to be exempted from the provisions of the English Petroleum Act (see 42 & 43 Vic cap 47) and may therefore be regarded as at all events fairly safe the importation storage and transport of such petroleum as well as of first class petroleum should be left reasonably free while the importation storage and transport of dangerous petroleum if not actually prohibited should be subjected to such severe restrictions as practically to bar it for purposes of ordinary use

4 The Government of India has considered this report and is disposed to concur generally in its conclusions and in the scheme of legislation contained in the Committee's recommendation As the Government of Madras and the Chief Commissioner of Burma as well as the Governments of Bombay and Bengal are in favour of legislation the Government of India is willing to accept the recommendation of the Committee that the legislation to be undertaken should be in the Council of the Governor General and accordingly the present Bill which embodies generally the recommendations of the Committee has been prepared

5 As it seems desirable to check at once and generally the trade in dangerous petroleum (and it would be unfair if all ports were not put on the same footing as to the importation of first class and second class petroleum) the provisions of the Bill relating to dangerous petroleum and the importation of first class and second class petroleum are made to extend to the whole of India but its other provisions are only applicable at the discretion of the Local Government

The details of the measure have been left in a great measure to rules to be framed by the Local Government with the sanction of the Governor General in Council as this seems the most convenient course in a case of this sort where the local circumstances and peculiar features of the trade of various places have to be considered

6 A section has been added to the Bill corresponding with section 11 of 34 & 35 Vic cap 105 enabling the Governor General in Council hereafter to extend the Act to substances other than petroleum and to adapt certain of the provisions of the Act to the case of such substances

7 The length of the pendulum which was by an oversight omitted from the description of Professor Abel's test in the first schedule to the 42 & 43 Vic cap 47 has been inserted in a foot note to the schedule of the Bill on information furnished by Mr Redler

8 The opportunity has been taken to repeal the thirty seventh section of the Indian Ports Act relating to inflammable oil and Bengal Act No III of 1869 which regulates in Calcutta and Howrah the importation and storage of inflammable oil, as the present Bill will make those enactments unnecessary

The Council met at Government House on Friday, the 23rd July, 1880

PETROLEUM BILL

The Hon'ble MR STOKES introduced the Bill to regulate the importation, possession and transport of petroleum and other substances of a like nature He said that a section had been added to the Bill corresponding with section 14 of 34 & 35 Vic Cap 105, enabling the Governor General in Council hereafter to extend the Act to substances other than petroleum, and to adapt certain of the provisions of the Act to the case of such substances

The schedule to the Bill contained a description of Professor Abel's test, and was identical with the first schedule to 42 & 43 Vic, Cap 47 save that it supplied an accidental but serious omission in the English law When the oil to be tested had been placed in the petroleum cup the schedule directed that the lid of the cup, with the slide closed, should be put on, and the cup be placed in the bath or heating vessel The test lamp was then placed on the lid of the cup a pendulum was set in motion, and when the temperature had reached about 66 the test flame was applied (once for every rise of one degree) by drawing the slide slowly open and thus exposing the vapour of the oil to the flame of the lamp while the pendulum performed three oscillations As a short pendulum would oscillate in a given time much more frequently than a long one, it was obvious that the time thus indicated depended on the length of the pendulum But this essential detail was omitted from the English schedule We had been informed by Mr Pedler, the Professor of Chemistry in the Presidency College Calcutta that the proper length of the pendulum was two feet from the point of suspension to the centre of gravity of the weight, and a footnote to this effect had accordingly been inserted in the schedule to the Bill

He had only to add that the opportunity would be taken to repeal the thirty seventh section of the Indian Ports Act relating to inflammable oils and Bengal Act No III of 1865 which regulated in Calcutta and Howrah the importation and storage of inflammable oils, as the present Bill would make those enactments unnecessary

The Hon'ble MR STOKES also moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Messrs Gibbs, Aitchison and Colvin and the Mover

The Motion was put and agreed to

The Hon'ble MR STOKES also moved that the Bill be published in the local official Gazettes in English, and in such other languages as the Local Governments thought fit

The Motion was put and agreed to

CENTRAL PROVINCES LAND REVENUE BILL

The Hon'ble MR GRANT moved that the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to land revenue and the jurisdiction of Revenue officers in the Central Provinces be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Messrs Stokes Aitchison and Colvin and the Mover

The Motion was put and agreed to

The Hon'ble MR GRANT also moved that the Bill be published in the Central Provinces Gazette in English, and in such other languages as the Local Government thought fit

The Motion was put and agreed to

TAJ MAHAL'S PENSION BILL

The Hon'ble MR COLVIN moved for leave to introduce a Bill for the determination of claims to certain pensions in Oudh He said that the Bill was in the nature of a private Bill and that in order to make the object of it intelligible to the Council he must give a brief sketch of the facts out of which the necessity for legislation had arisen

In the year 1829 the East India Company accepted a loan of Sikka Rs 62,40,000 from the King of Oudh It was agreed that interest should be paid upon this sum at the rate of five per cent per annum to certain persons during life in specified proportions One of these persons known as Nawab Taj Mahal, was one of the King's wives, and the portion of the interest assigned to her was Rs 6,000 per mensem It was further stipulated by article 4 of the treaty that upon the death of any of the said pensioners leaving an heir or heirs the English Government might continue as before the pension to the heirs of the deceased or make over to them the principal sum proportionate to the pension in question according to the rate before mentioned

In the year 1847, after the death of her first husband the King of Oudh Nawab Taj Mahal was said to have married one Saiyad Kalb Hossein, and to have had two daughters by this second marriage Of those two daughters, it appears that one died young and without children The other known as the Muzhurra Begum was alleged to have married a relation of her step father's, and to have had by him a daughter, who was now alive This young lady who was known as Kulsumnissa Begam and also as Shamsunnissa Begam, was now living in the neighbourhood of Baghdad, to which place her grandmother Taj Mahal migrated with all her family after the troubles of 1857, in order to pass the remainder of her life near the shrine of Karbala

As long as Nawab Taj Mahal lived the interest due under the treaty was paid to her But in 1875 she died, and upon her death disputes arose regarding the right to succeed her The first of those disputes was between Kulsumnissa Begam and a claimant named Ramzan Ali, who is stated to have been a brother of Nawab Taj Mahal's This dispute was brought before the Court of the Civil Judge of Lucknow The suit was decided in favour of Begam Kulsumnissa, and on appeal the decision of the Court of first instance was affirmed The ordinary term for preferring a further appeal from the Superior Court in Lucknow had now elapsed but as the Privy Council could if good and sufficient cause were shown, admit an appeal after that period it could not be said that the litigation even in respect of this first claim had yet been finally closed But the claims to Nawab Táj Mahal's succession were not confined to those made by these two litigants Other persons had come forward with allegations to the effect that Begam Kulsumnissa was not Nawab Táj Mahal's grand daughter, and had advanced claims hostile to hers So far as MR COLVIN was aware, no judicial decision had yet been pronounced on those claims It was possible that other persons as yet unknown might come forward hereafter, for the family was so scattered, and the facts connected with its history so obscure, that there was no saying from what quarter a claimant might not appear This being the case, the final determination of the issues affecting the right of succession to Nawab Táj Mahal could not be reached until after the last of the actual and possible suits had been decided by the last Court into which an appeal could be carried The difficulty of a final adjudication was increased by the fact that Begam Kulsumnissa, who had been the first if she was not the best, claimant was a female, that she was, or had been till very lately, a minor and that she was living in Turkish Arabia at a great distance from the Courts by which the claims to the money in dispute must be ultimately determined There was every prospect, therefore, of great delay and it was scarcely necessary to explain that such delay was extremely inconvenient to all the parties concerned The Government of India could not, in common prudence, and with due regard to the public purse, pay away money to a person who might possibly be declared afterwards to have had no right to it it must have a reasonable assurance that the person claiming payment was entitled to receive it As soon as such assurance was given it would be the interest of the Government to release itself from its present obligations under the treaty as quickly as possible because it was paying at present a higher rate of interest than would otherwise be necessary upon a sum of £140 000 or £150 000, which represented the portion of the King of Oudh s loan that had been allotted to Nawab Táj Mahal Again it was most desirable, in the interest of the rightful heir of Nawab Táj Mahal —whoever that might be —that such indefinite claims as he had described should not be kept hanging over his or her head for an uncertain period during which the heir might be put to great inconvenience by being kept out of possession of this very considerable sum of money It would be plain however from what he had said that as things stood there was no possible solution of the difficulties which hindered a speedy settlement of the question, and no possible relief for the parties concerned unless legislation were resorted to

The Bill which he was now asking for leave to introduce was intended to remove the difficulties and to afford that relief It would provide if introduced, for due notice being given on application made to all persons claiming to have a better right than the applicant to succeed to Nawab Táj Mahal s rights under the treaty directing them to come forward and make good their claims if they could Upon any one of those persons establishing his claim, a certificate would be issued which would entitle such claimant to receive payment, and at the same time would secure to the Government complete indemnity for all payments made to the person holding it The rights of third parties against certificate holders would be carefully guarded and any previous decisions affecting the right to succeed Nawab Táj Mahal, which might have already been made by a competent Court would of course not be interfered with Power would also be given to the Government to relieve itself immediately of the payment of interest at 5 per cent The Government, under the terms of the treaty was entitled at any time to pay off the principal of its debt and would doubtless do so at once if any person could be found competent to give a valid receipt for the money paid It was not reasonable that it should be hindered in the exercise of this undoubted right by the disputes which had arisen among the members of its creditor s family

There was only one other point on which explanation was necessary The Bill which he was asking for leave to introduce was described in the list of business as a Bill for the determination of claims to certain pensions in Oudh There were certain other pensions besides that of Nawab Táj Mahal s which were payable in Oudh, and it was at first thought that it would be advantageous to extend the procedure which he had described so as to include them On closer examination, however, it had been found that there were no sufficient reasons to provide for them in the legislation which was now proposed The Bill therefore would be limited to Nawab Táj Mahal s pension only (if he was right in calling it a pension), and he proposed that the title should be amended accordingly and that it should be read as a "Bill to provide for the determination of claims to Táj Mahal's pension"

The Motion, in which the title of the Bill was altered as proposed, was then put and agreed to

The Council adjourned to Friday, the 6th August, 1880

HIGH COURT—Original Side

Calcutta, the 27th July 1880

The following rules passed by the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, are now published for general information

By Order,
R BELCHAMBERS
Registrar

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate the rules relating to the admission of attorneys of this Court and alter the same so as to entitle the attorneys of this Court to the benefit of "the Colonial Attorneys Relief Act," it is ordered as follows —

Admission without examination of attorney or solicitor of Her Majesty's Superior Courts in England

1 Any attorney or solicitor of Her Majesty's Superior Courts of Law or Equity in England shall be entitled to be admitted as an attorney of this Court, without service or examination in India, on production of his certificate of admission in such English Courts, and of a certificate that his name is still borne on the rolls of such Courts, and also on producing satisfactory testimonials to his good character

Admission, without examination of attorney of High Courts of Madras or Bombay

2 An attorney of the High Court of Madras or of the High Court of Bombay, shall be entitled to be admitted as an attorney of this Court, provided that he shall produce a certificate of admission in either of the said Courts, and a certificate that his name is still borne on the rolls thereof and shall also produce satisfactory testimonials to good character, and shall moreover satisfy the Court that previous to his admission as an attorney he had served under articles of clerkship to some attorney or attorneys at law for the full term of five years

3 Any solicitor of the High Court of Judicature in Ireland shall be entitled to be admitted as an attorney of this Court, provided that he shall produce a certificate of admission in such Court, and a certificate that his name is still borne on the rolls of such Court and shall give satisfactory assurances of good character, and shall also produce a certificate signed by the major part of the Examiners actually present and conducting the examination (one of them being the Registrar of the Court, on the Original Side hereinafter mentioned as the Registrar), that he has satisfactorily passed an examination upon the following subjects —

Admission after examination of attorney or solicitor of the High Court of Judicature in Ireland

Subjects of examination

REVENUE REPORT IRRIGATION DEPARTMENT, PUNJAB FOR THE YEAR 1878 79

Nos 18 2001 dated Simla, the 8th July 1880

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Public Works Department

Read—

Letter from the Government of the Punjab No 552½I, dated 7th February 1880 forwarding copy of the Revenue Report of Irrigation Works in the Punjab for 1878 79 and of the Resolution by that Government reviewing the Report

OBSERVATIONS —The capital invested in these canals amounted at the close of the year under review to Rs 4,32,28,025, of which Rs 69 17,355 have been contributed by Native States, and the remainder, Rs 3,63,10,670, by the Imperial Government

2 The net revenue of the year exceeded the interest charges against canals in operation by Rs 3,95,146, adding the interest due on canals under construction and not yet yielding revenue, the total charges exceeded the revenue by Rs 1,38,747 But up to the end of the year the net revenue has exceeded the gross amount of interest charges by Rs 1,84,56,124

3 The year under review was, on the whole, one of the most successful in the records of irrigation in the Punjab The area irrigated was 1,418,279 acres, or 93,799 acres above that of the previous year, which was the largest on record up to that date The increase was chiefly due to the Inundation Canals, and to the rivers which supply them, having remained at a high level longer than usual A large falling off occurred on the Western Jumna Canal, owing mainly, it is stated, to widespread sickness among the cultivators, which materially impeded the rabbi sowings The area obtained in the previous year was, moreover, unusually large because the drought in the adjoining unirrigated districts caused a large immigration of cultivators into the canal districts

4 On the Bári Doáb Canal there was a satisfactory increase, the area irrigated having been 27,724 acres more than the highest previously recorded This increase is partly owing to irrigation from new branches and distributaries, which came into operation for the first time during the year under review The area of this new irrigation should have been given to show clearly the improvement due to the older portions of the system

5 The attention of the Government of the Punjab is invited to the 11th paragraph of the Resolution on the previous year's report The large and steady decrease in the area irrigated from this canal between 1869 and 1878 requires careful investigation

6 The working expenses on this canal are still very high The remarks of the Secretary of State on the excessive rate of the maintenance establishment as shown by previous reports are not noticed, owing, it is understood, to the letter in which those remarks were communicated not having been received till some time after the compilation of the report under review The next report should explain what measures are being taken to reduce these charges

7 Mill rent on this canal shows a remarkable increase It would be interesting to know whether there are prospects of a more extensive utilization than hitherto of the large water power available on the canal

8 The duty of the water is calculated for this canal on the supply entering at the head only, while for the Western Jumna Canal it is given for the utilized volume only Both calculations should be shown in these reports for the future Comparing the figures given with the results obtained on the North Western Provinces' canals, there is evidently room for improvement, the acreage per cubic foot per second obtained during the year under review is as follows —

	FROM SUPPLY
	Entering at head		Utilized
	Kharif	Rabbi	Kharif	Rabbi
Bári Doab	58	108	64	109
Ganges	97 3	142 5	110	157
Western Jumna			103	91
Eastern Jumna	109	181

9 The attention of the Punjab Government is invited also to the 12th paragraph of the Resolution on the previous year s report, regarding proportion of irrigated to gross area A statement is given, showing aggregate results for the irrigated sub districts but this does not bring out the information sought which is the maximum proportion of irrigated to gross area which is possible without unduly raising the spring level or causing swamp

10 The cost of maintenance of the distributaries is not touched on in the report under review A comparison of this item of outlay on the several distributaries is most useful as one test of the efficiency of the executive administration in economical management The duty of the water on each distributary should also be shown as far as possible, and the number of irrigation outlets per mile of channel

11 The Indus Inundation Canals again show a deficit, and a larger one than in the previous year, although the area under irrigation amounted to 213,948 acres, or 32 928 acres in excess of the largest area in any previous year This result was partly owing to heavy remissions of revenue consequent on damage to crops by flood, as well as to large expenditure on repairs of embankments and canals damaged by the same cause

12 The yearly clearance rate, which was fixed experimentally for a term of years is shown to be insufficient, but the rate is to be raised from 1880 The remissions made to jaghirdars noticed in the Resolution on the previous year's report, have not yet been credited to these canals, the aggregate amount as given approximately by the Chief Engineer, would nearly clear off the entire accumulated balance of interest now standing against the series

13 The attention of the Government of the Punjab is also invited to the remarks in the 14th paragraph of the Resolution on the previous year's report, with regard to the protective embankments in connection with these canals The length of the bunds, the area protected exclusive of the irrigated area, and the outlay on them should be shown separately

14 The uncollected balances of the yearly demands are shown separately for some of the canal series, they should be given for all The balance uncollected at the close of the year under review on the Indus series, appears from the Chief Engineer's review to have been again very large, but the amount is not stated

15 The usual statement of irrigated crops has not been appended to the report it should accompany future reports The total value of the irrigated crops is estimated at Rs 5,19 52,490, of which Rs 2,87 80 913 pertained to the two permanent canals, the Western Jumna and the Bári Doáb The gross assessment on these two canals, including the share of land revenue, amounted to Rs 24,77 957, or only 8 6 per cent on the value of the crops raised The cost to the cultivators was Rs 3 4 per acre irrigated, including the share of land revenue, or Rs 2 53 per acre by direct water rate

16 On the whole the financial results of the year are not discouraging The Capital outlay at the debit of the canals in operation at the close of the year amounted to Rs 2,35,38,296, and on this the return, deducting working expenses amounted to Rs 17,83,155 or 7 57 per cent, but this favourable return is largely due to the comparatively small expenditure on the Western Jumna Canal

17 The statement by the Examiner of assessments for the year (Appendix A) does not agree with the figures in the statement of financial result based on assessments appended to the Chief Engineer's report Explanations received subsequently show that the latter is correct The Examiner's statement includes adjustments for the previous years, which should not appear in a statement of earnings of a year

Revenue Report of the Chief Engineer Irrigation Works [illegible]ab for the year 1878 79

RESOLUTION —The additions made to the Capital A[illegible]t during the year amounted to Rs [illegible],36,167, of which Rs 8,28,831 was contributed [illegible] the Native States interested in the Sirhind Canal, and the total Capital expenditure at the end of the year was—

	Rs
Imperial	3 63 10 670
Native States	69 17 355

Of this amount Rs 2 35,38 296 is the Capital of the canals in operation

2 The revenue of the year amounted to Rs 22,15,025 exclud[illegible]g, and Rs 29 92,965 including, the land revenue dependent on the works The working [illegible]penses amounted to Rs 15,65,319, so that the net revenue shows a return on the Capital of th[illegible]anals in operation of 2 87 per cent excluding, and 6 31 per cent including, land revenue depe[illegible]t on the canals

3 The similar percentages in the previous year were 1 16 and 5 39 res[illegible]tively

4 The net revenue of the year, based on the assessments, amounte[illegible]o Rs 6,21,913 excluding, and Rs 17,83,155 including, the land revenue dependent on the works, which gives a return of 2 75 and 7 88 respectively on the Capital of the canals in operation The similar percentages in the previous year were 3 06 and 7 77 respectively

5 In Government of India's Circular No 68 of 17th September 1879 it was ordered that owners' rates should be shown as direct canal revenue in this and subsequent years, but the order was not received until after the accounts had been closed Moreover, at present no owners rates have been fixed They are now being settled for the Western Jumna Canal and the water advantage rate levied under the settlement on the Bari Doab Canal may perhaps be considered as owner's rate in future, but on all the Inundation Canals the only returns consist of a portion of the land revenue The whole subject of the sums to be credited as direct revenue is under consideration, and the decision on it will be reported subsequently

6 The interest chargeable against the canals in operation during the year amounted to Rs 10 32 500, and the revenue exceeded this by Rs 3,95,146

7 The only canals which did not pay the full amount of interest due from them were the Bari Doáb Canal and the Indus Inundation Canals

8 The charge for interest on the whole Capital, including suspended works, amounted to Rs 15,66 393, or Rs 1,38 747 less than the net revenue but up to the end of the year the net revenue has exceeded the gross amount of interest by Rs 1,84 56 124

9 The area irrigated was 1,418,279 acres, which is the largest yet recorded

10 There was a decrease on the permanent canals of 48,951 acres due to the falling off on the Western Jumna Canal where the rabi crop of the preceding year was abnormally increased by the immigration of cultivators from the dry districts bordering on the Hánsi Branch, who could cultivate nothing in their own country [illegible]ing to the failure of the rains

11 The following table shows the area irrigated [illegible]d the rainfall for the last five years —

N B—The rainfall is registered at numerous stations on each canal of which the highest and lowest are given the rainfall generally decreases as the distance from the hills increases

12 Although the rainfall was in excess of that of the previous year it fell unseasonably none falling during the early portion of the cold weather, when it is so much required for the spring crop sowings

13 The area irrigated on the Inundation Canals was large, owing to late floods in the rivers keeping the canals full longer than usual

WESTERN JUMNA CANAL

14 The area irrigated by this canal was less than that of the previous year by 109,514 acres for the reason above stated [illegible]here was an increase of sugarcane rice and cotton, but a decrease in wheat of 65 987 acres

15 The collections of the ye[illegible]w a profit of 13 28 excluding and 15 27 including, the land revenue, against 11 74 and 1[illegible] in the preceding year This is due to the decrease in the rabbi crop and the increase of Capital for the remodelling works

16 A very large balance remained uncollected at the end of the year, amounting to Rs 67,599 This was all collected in the first few months of the following year

17 The assessments of the year show a net profit of 11 17 per cent excluding, and 17 82 per cent including, land revenue, against 16 98 and 24 63 respectively in the previous year

DELHI AND GURGAON WORKS

18 There was some slight revenue accruing from these works on account of the rabbi of the previous year The Capital will, in future, be removed from the accounts of the Irrigation Department, as d[illegible]d by the Government of India

BARI DOAB CANAL

19 The area irrigated by this canal was 327 558 acres or 60 563 acres in excess of last year s, and is the largest on record, exceeding that of 1868 69 by 27,724 acres

20 The increase was due to the development of irrigation in the lower portion of the canal and on the Kasur and Sobráon Branches which were used for the first time, and to an exceptional season when little or no rain fell in the cold season The area under the more valuable crops—rice, cotton and sugarcane—is largely in excess of the previous year and in the two former is greater than in any of the previous four years, while the wheat is 26,000 in excess of any of those years

21 The assessments of the year show a profit of Rs 4 28 per cent, including the land revenue, against 2 49 in the previous year and excluding it of 2 06 per cent, against 1 18

22 The working expenses are still high This is due to the great difficulty of managing a river with a declivity of bed averaging about 32 feet a mile and to the experiment of substituting rapids with a slope of boulder paving without mortar for regular overfalls in the upper portion of the canal This resulted in great economy of first cost, and although the alterations add to the working expenses it is probable that the ultimate result will be a saving, as the Capital account on which interest is charged is less than it otherwise would have been The repairs made in 1877 78 enabled the Canal Officers to run much more water in 1878 79, and up to the present time a still further supply has been carried in 1879 80

23 Unfortunately the head works were damaged in 1878 and the working expenses thereby increased, but they have stood much better through the present rainy season The Government of India in their remarks on the last report ask when this heavy expenditure is likely to cease It certainly will not for a year or two, as there is much to be done to make the works safe, when this is accomplished, it is hoped that these charges will be reduced

24 The Chief Engineer has pointed out that the income of this canal has suffered from its having been the first on which the experiment of separating the land revenue dependent on the canals from the ordinary land revenue was made The possibility of raising the water advantage rate is under consideration, but it is doubtful whether this can be done before the termination of the present land revenue settlement in 1888

25 The unrealized balances at the end of the year were more than double those at the end of the previous year being Rs 17,511, against Rs 7,010 the increase is said to be due to the bad season

UPPE[illegible]TLEJ

26 The profit on these canals was 1[illegible] per cent, against 7 34 in the previous year This is due to the high level maintained b[illegible]e river up to a late period of the season

27 The area irr[illegible]ted was 51,[illegible]76 acr[illegible] excess of that of the previous year, but did not quite reach that of 1875 76 or 1872 73 The cost of maintenance of these canals is high when compared with the cost on other Inundation Canals

LOWER SUTLEJ AND CHENAB

28 The profit on these canals was 140 19, against 140 25 in the previous year The area irrigated was the largest on record—331,639 acres, being 45,994 acres in excess of any previous year The cost to the irrigators was the lowest in the last six years—1 3 per acre

29 There was a decrease in the area of indigo but an increase in cotton, rice, wheat, and millets In wheat the difference was very great—25,000 acres more than in any of the last five years

30 The question whether these canals should be cleared by the irrigators as heretofore, or by paid labor, has been settled It was found, after prolonged enquiry made during the Land Revenue Settlement, that the system in force could not be changed without imposing upon the people a cash assessment which they could not pay The system which has been in force ever since the canals were constructed, which is based upon the land revenue engagements of the people and is really a co operative association of the irrigators directed by Government, has been maintained The rules for working it have been revised by the Revenue and Irrigation Officers acting in concert, and it is probable that the "chher" system will in future work satisfactorily

31 The new settlement will come into effect in the ... year, when an increase of revenue of nearly 50 per cent will accrue As these canals were in existence at the time of annexation, the calculation of the profits by a percentage on the Capital is misleading, when used for comparison with the results obtained on other canals

INDUS CANALS

32 During the year an area of 213,948 acres was irrigated, which is the largest on record, but of this 42,364 acres were subsequently destroyed by inundation, and 5,060 were only flooded by waste water The river was in continuous flood for 26 days broke through the embankments, flooded the station of Dera Gházi Khan, and destroyed the head of the Máuka Canal

33 The result is a loss of 19 54 on the Capital, against 12 07 in the previous year, and of 5 05 in 1876 77 The amount of revenue which has to be credited to these canals on account of the allowance to Jágírdárs has been approximately ascertained, and will, after verification, be brought to account in 1879 80 for this and previous years

SHAHPUR CANALS

34 The area irrigated by these canals was 9,189 acres, an increase of 3,601 acres over the previous year The profit was 28 93 per cent on the Capital of Rs 40 460 In the last year it was 28 06 on a Capital of Rs 22,813 The extensions on which the extra Capital was invested have not yet had time to take full effect

GENERAL

35 The year has been a successful one on both inundation and permanent canals, especially on the former, which are dependent on the flood level of the rivers being high, and continuing high to the end of the season

36 Two accidents, tending to diminish the area irrigated occurred The head works of the Bári Doáb Canal were damaged, and several of the Indus embankments were burst by floods but still the irrigated area is larger than that of any previous year

37 The establishments are still in excess of the requirements of the Province, but that is now being rectified

By Order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor,

H W GULLIVER, Major General, R E,
Joint Secretary to Government, Punjab, P W D,
Irrigation Branch

CHIEF ENGINEER'S REVENUE REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1878-79

WESTERN JUMNA CANAL CIRCLE

Western Jumna Canal

1 The expenditure on new works during the year was Rs 8,08,602, which raised the Capital Account to Rs 65 67,815

The principal items were—

	Rs
Head Works	15 146
New Main Line	3 50 426
New Delhi Branch	2,82 082
Delhi Division	61 283
Establishment
Direction	35 430
Executive	1 15 858
Tools and Plant	5 077
Capitalization of abatement of Land Revenue	14,225

2 The Revenue Account Current is as follows —

Expenditure	Rs	Receipts	Rs
Extensions and Improvements	12 974	Water rates	11 39,365
Maintenance and Repairs	1 29 591	Miscellaneous	41 199
Compensation	4,325
Establishment, Direction	47 760	Total	11,80 564
Do Executive	2 15 172
Tools and Plant	5 263	Balance profit direct being 13 28 per cent on Capital	7 65 129
Refunds of Revenue	39
Profit and Loss	311	Land Revenue dependent on Canal	3 83 480
	4,15 435	Total Revenue	15 64,044
Refunds of Land Revenue	2 74,109
Total Expenditure including Land Revenue	6 89 544	Balance including Land Revenue being 15 17 per cent on Capital	8 74,500

3 The interest account shows an excess of net receipts of the year over the interest amounting to Rs 4,85,232 excluding, and Rs 5,94,603 including, land revenue dependent on the canals

Up to date the excess of receipts amounts to Rs 89,47 522 excluding, and Rs 2,46,72,432 including the land revenue

4 Extensions and improvements consisted in the building of a new inspection bungalow, collection of material for a bridge in place of one carried away the cost of a well and of a bridge over a distributary

5 There is little difference between the maintenance charges of the two last years they were—

	1878-79	1877 78
	Rs	Rs
Head Works	50 216	58 529
Main Canal and Branches	57 047	57 877
Plantations	3 642	3 362
Distributaries	18 410	21 315
Drainages	276	1 936

The only large difference is on the head works, where the variations are due to the state of the river being favorable or not In the present year the works in the river bed for protecting the river banks were less costly than in the previous year

6 In the item "compensation" there is an increase of Rs 2,718 over that in the previous year, the amounts being Rs 4,325 and Rs 1,607 respectively This was principally due to breaches in the Hánsi Canal caused by the cultivators shutting off their water courses on a sudden rainfall occurring This branch has long been in an unsatisfactory state but seasons of drought and other causes have prevented a closure of the canal for some years The first opportunity will be taken advantage of to put it in proper order Some damage was also done on the Delhi Branch

7 The establishment charges for the past three years have been—

	1876 77	1877 78	1878 79
	Rs	Rs	Rs
Direction	61 470	51 140	47 760
Executive	1 93 425	2 12 713	2 15 172
TOTAL	2 54 895	2 63 853	2 62 932

This small variation needs no explanation, nor does the decrease of Rs 1 000 on tools and plant

8 The refund of land revenue, amounting to Rs 2,74 109, is due to an adjustment made during the year on account of the sum credited for the Hissár District Rs 69,175 had been entered annually in former accounts, but on a revision being made, it was found that the proper amount was Rs 46,866, and the adjustment of accounts was accordingly made The sum has now been reduced to Rs 46,761, which will be the amount credited annually until owners rates are introduced at the next revision of settlement

9 The direct revenue of the year, according to the Examiner's accounts, amounted to Rs 11,80 564 of this Rs 11,39,365 are water rates, and Rs 41,199 miscellaneous revenue

These figures are those of the collections for the rabbi crop of 1877 78 and kharif of 1878 79 They would have been larger, but for the balances left uncollected at the end of the season, which amounted to Rs 67,599, against Rs 16,352 in the previous year The balances were almost entirely in the Karnál District The Deputy Commissioner explained that this was due to agricultural distress and delay [illegible]d by the Settlement Officers requiring the demand statements for use with reference to the assessments of owners rates The matter was brought to the notice of the Financial Commissioner, and the balances were realized in the first months of the current year

The collections of the last five years have been—

1878 79	1877 78	1876-77	1875 76	1874-75
Rs	Rs	Rs	Rs	Rs
11,80 564	9 92 106	8 78 133	10 08 707	9 12 905

The increase in the current year is entirely due to the heavy rabbi crop of 1877 78 the largest ever recorded, as pointed out in the report of that year

10 The amount of land revenue credited is the share of the assessment which is dependent on the canals, and varies but little year by year Arrangements are in progress for substituting owners rates for this fixed sum

11 Up to this point I have been treating of the collections of the year, and not of the assessments dependent on the year s operations In the latter there has been a falling off in water rate of Rs 1,74,411, owing to the fact that the cold weather crop (rabbi) of the previous year was abnormally increased by the immigration of the people of the unirrigated villages who crowded in and cultivated every available piece of ground while in 1878 79 a heavy fall of rain at the end of the rainy season enabled them to cultivate some crops in their own villages without canal water But the Superintending Engineer reports that the main cause of the falling off was the excessive sickness and mortality which prevailed over the district at the time of the rabbi sowings The people were simply prostrated with fever, and unable to till the ground

	1878 79	1877 78	1876 77	1875-76
	Rs	Rs	Rs	Rs
Water rates	10 17 451	11 91 862	9 16 244	7 64,809
Miscellaneous receipts for sale of water	1 700	2 726	3,161	3 170
Water supply for domestic purposes	2 095	2 036	676	216
Plantations	14,829	16 394	14 233	5 420
Other canal produce	2 404	2 041	3 883	11 766
Water power	112	11 648	15,287	16 937
Navigation tolls	8 709	10 361	8 341	8 015
Rent of buildings	842	936	812	607
Fines	6 291	7 124	6 150	7 333
Miscellaneous	4 217	2 847	2 359	3 103
TOTAL	41 199	56 116	54,902	56 567
GRAND TOTAL	10 58 650	12 47 978	9 71 146	8 21 376

13 There is a falling off in miscellaneous revenue of Rs 14 917

Miscellaneous receipts by sale of water has fallen off owing to the charge for watering cattle having been abandoned by orders of Local Government

Water supply of towns —This is entirely in the Delhi Division, and is nearly the same as for last year

Receipts from plantations are Rs 1,565 less than in 1877 78 The principal decrease is in the Karnál Division where it is Rs 3 511 less than the average of the past five years The demand for timber and fuel for works at Tajawála and New Main Line has ceased and similarly in the Delhi Division there is less fuel, &c, required for the New Delhi Branch

The mango gardens also did not bear well last year In the Hánsi Division there was increased sale of fuel and timber

Other canal produce —In the Karnál Division there is an increase owing to larger areas having been leased out for grazing, &c

In Hánsi and Delhi there was a less demand for grass owing to there being plenty in the zamindárs' fields after rain in August, &c

Water power —The small native mills at the head of the canal paid rent as usual The mills at Delhi were unlet no one would come forward to take them, as in the previous year, owing to drought, no water had been available, and the contractors had lost heavily from their inability to fulfil their agreements to grind grain

Navigation Receipts —There has been a falling off in this, almost entirely due to reduction of rates A separate and detailed report on the subject has been submitted by the Superintending Engineer

Fines —There is a decrease of Rs 833 The demand for water was less, and there was therefore less inducement to break the rules

Miscellaneous —There is an increase of the Rs 1,870 In the Karnál Division extra land was leased for cultivation, and in the Hánsi Division Rs 1,180 were realized by allowing saltpetre to be made in the Landa Khera chauki compound

14 The following are the details of the working of the canal for the last four years —

15 The decrease in the area irrigated has already been explained in para 11 The area of twice cropped land forms a larger percentage of the area when the crop itself is greater, this would be the natural result, as, when there is an inducement to cultivate a larger area, the same cause will tend to increase the twice cropped land This is a most undesirable result and measures are under consideration to restrict it. It has increased of late years, because the charge formerly made on the second crop has been remitted

The area irrigated, it will be seen, increases and decreases with the rainfall

The duty of the water in the kharif on this canal is not reliable, as much drainage enters the canal, except in such a year as 1877 78 The cause of the decrease in the rabbi has already been explained

The supply entering the canal in the kharif was much less than in the previous year, when, on account of the drought an abnormal quantity of water was forced down at great risk but what entered was nearly all utilized, and there was little loss either in kharif or rabbi

The water rate per acre irrigated varies with the nature of the crop In a dry year many of the minor crops are irrigated, which only pay a small water rate, and the average rate is consequently lower

16 The following table shows the area of the principal crops irrigated for four years There is an increase in sugarcane, rice, and cotton during the present year, but a falling off in wheat

The rate of measurement is less, but that of preparing demand statements greater The cost of the two together is Rs 426 less than last year

There is a marked improvement in the work done by measuring parties in the Karnál and Delhi Divisions, but a falling off in Hánsi, which is attributed to great sickness among the measurers, and to the crop being smaller, and consequently more scattered—

20 The value of the crops irrigated during the year is estimated at Rs 1 55,03 292

21 The following table shows the rainfall at some of the principal stations during the year It will be seen that the cold weather rain was very light, and had the sickness not been so great at the time of sowing the crops, there would probably have been a much larger area irrigated —

Najafgarh Jhil, and Delhi and Gurgaon Irrigation Works

22 The expenditure on the Najafgarh jhil was Rs 634 This was divided into Rs 182 for petty repairs, Rs 395 executive establishment, and Rs 57 direction and accounts

23 The receipts of the year were Rs 3,375 The balance unrealized only amounted to Rs 170

24 The earnings were Rs 3 974 against Rs 4,958 in the previous year, showing a falling off of Rs 984 The following table gives details and compares them with similar items of 1877 78 —

Wheat	3 388	267

There were only 10 acres of cotton and only one other of these four crops was grown, viz wheat Sugarcane and rice find no place in either of the years

30 The remainder of the bunds and streams which formed the Delhi and Gurgaon Works have been transferred to the District Officers The Najafgarh jhil drain will form the principal outlet for the country drainage when the completion of the remodelling works allows of the natural channels being opened The area irrigated consists of that portion of the land flooded during the kharif which is dry sufficiently early to allow of a rabbi crop being planted on it consequently as the rains were moderate this year and the rabbi dry, there was a larger area available for cultivation than in the previous year

Bari Doab Canal.

32 The Capital account was increased during the year by the sum of Rs 1,17,943, which raised the total cost of the canal to Rs 1,49,54,439

The details were as follow —

	Rs
Main Canal and Branches	38 029
Distributaries	77 319
Establishment	29 696
Capitalization of abatement of Land Revenue	4 185
	1 49 229

	1 17 943

On the Main Canal and Branches the expenditure was incurred on the completion of the Kasúr and Sobráon Branches, and the adjustment of the account of the lock gates constructed many years ago

The expenditure on the distributaries was mainly on those of the Kasúr and Sobráon Branches A small sum was spent on those of the Main Branch Lower

33 The Revenue account is as follows —

Expenditure.	Rs	Rs	Receipts	Rs.
Extensions and Improvements		20,732	Water rates	7 33 976
Maintenance and Repairs		2 19 174	Miscellaneous	71 857

Compensation		134	Balance profit, including Land Revenue 3·16 per cent. on Capital	4,68 855
Refunds of Revenue		5 028
Total		5 14,358

34 The interest charge for the year amounts to Rs 6,70,077, so that there is a balance against the canal on the year's transactions of Rs 2,01,222, and up to date of Rs 60,66,298.

35 Of the expenditure on extensions and improvements, nearly half is an adjustment of charges for water course heads transferred from the Capital account Rs 2,926 was on account of mill, Rs. 2,481 for completing bridge parapets, and the remainder for minor improvements

36 Maintenance and Repairs—There is a decrease of Rs 28 939 on the expenditure of last year, this is due to the fact that owing to the drought in the cold season it was not possible to close the canal for repairs

The decrease is on all items except on the head works, where, owing to the action of the river in eroding the right bank and damaging the outlet (or weir sluices), the sum of Rs 1 40 930 had to be spent, which is nearly two thirds of the whole amount

There is a slight reduction in the charge for establishments, and an increase on tools and plant, due to adjustments made by the Examiner during the year Last year the amount of compensation, Rs 342, was included in the cost of the works The decrease in the present year was due to less damage having been done by flooding crops Refunds of revenue are brought forward for the first time having formerly been deducted from the receipts

37 With regard to the revenue, there was an increase of Rs 2,26,121 on the water rates, and Rs 10,675 on the miscellaneous revenue The increase in water rates is due partly to the development of irrigation from the new distributaries at the lower end of the canal, partly to the commencement of irrigation from the Kasúr and Sobraon Branches, and in some measure to the increase of irrigation due to a dry season

The increase in miscellaneous revenue is almost entirely due to mill rent, which increased by Rs 10,214

In the item (Land Revenue dependent on the canals) there is an increase of Rs 58,352 in the collections, and of Rs 40,255 in the assessments

38 The following table shows the results of the operations for five years both according to the collections and assessments of the year —

It will be seen that both in collections and assessments there has been great progress, and the financial state of the canal, as far as revenue is concerned, is better than in any previous year

39 The Land Revenue dependent on the canals requires some remarks This was the first canal on which the attempt was made to separate this item of canal revenue from the ordinary Land Revenue assessment The arrangement was made by Mr Prinsep, when Settlement Commissioner, who fixed a rate for the lands of each village at which this rate was to be assessed on all lands which were irrigated during the year

These rates vary from Re 1 8 per acre on a small area to Re 1 4, 1 2, 1 and 12 annas with half rates charged on irrigation by lift

Remissions are given for lands which were irrigated by wells at the time of settlement and for lands belonging to Jagirdárs but this latter item will be adjusted in the ensuing year as it is now to be credited to the canal

On the Agra Canal the owner s rate has been fixed at one third the occupier s rate This is also being done on the Western Jumna Canal Had the same arrangement been made on the Bári Doab Canal it would now under all its disadvantages have paid a return in excess of the interest accruing annually, and the results of the present year would have been a profit in excess of the interest charge amounting to Rs 1,21 208 The re arrangement of these rates will be considered at the first opportunity In this year, out of 287,269 acres assessed 134 692 could only be charged 12 annas, and 126 147 one rupee per acre Nearly the whole of this land is situated on the lower portion of the canal where, until water was available, cultivation was very uncertain

The Land Revenue for the year is as follows —

ACRES IN EACH CLASS				Rs
358	264 acres @	Re 1 8	396

The remissions are as follow —

	Rs
For Jagirdari lands	40 612
For land irrigated from wells at time of settlement	25 578
Miscellaneous	582
	66 802

The amount assigned to Jagirdárs will in future years be shown as a separate item of canal credit but the arrangements were not completed in time to take effect before the closing of this year s accounts The total amount remitted to them up to date is calculated at Rs 5,21 374, but this may not be absolutely correct

40 The next item to be considered is the working expenses In the review of the last year s Revenue Report the Government of India remarked that the decrease in the profits of the last three years was mainly due to the large increase in this item and asked when the expenditure on special repairs was likely to cease

The principal items of these repairs are—

The head works
The rapids and falls
Silt clearance

The Head Works—When the canal was first opened, there were no permanent head works on the river the supply was forced in annually by temporary bunds This not only caused an annual expenditure but the river frequently fell so rapidly in the month of September that it was impossible to make the bunds quick enough to keep up the canal supply and the safety of the whole of the kharif crops was endangered just at the time that they required their last watering

In the cold season, too, a freshet would often sweep away the bunds, and the canal supply was cut off until they could be re-made On these grounds it was decided to make a weir across the river and permanent head works When these were damaged in 1875 76, it was earnestly considered whether it was advisable to re construct them, and the only conclusion we could arrive at was, that the safety of the irrigated area would annually be endangered if we reverted to the temporary bunds Such works had long been in use in the sandy beds of the rivers in Madras, and had been constructed in Orissa, Midnapore, and on the Sone, but they had not been tried in the boulder beds of the rivers in Northern India

The construction of this work at the head of the Bári Doáb Canal was thus an experiment, and it was an exceptionally difficult one, for the great declivity of the bed, which averages 32 feet per mile, causes the water to flow with very great velocity, and there is no heavy stone to work with The whole of the work had to be constructed of boulders, and the outlet or escape sluice has twice been damaged severely, and thus necessitated heavy expenditure on repairs as follows —

The outlet was destroyed in the floods of 1875, and the cost of re construction was charged partly in 1875 76 and partly in the following year It was also damaged in 1876 and bunds on the right bank of the river were rendered necessary by a change in the course of the main stream which began to impinge on that bank In 1877 the outlet stood, but was again damaged in 1878 It has been repaired, and has withstood the floods of the present year Some expenditure will have to be incurred in securing it, and on protective bunds on the right bank I should be glad if I could say that I had any certainty that this heavy expenditure was likely to cease, but with so dangerous a current and no heavy material at hand this work must always be a source of anxiety, and, I fear, expense, but without it I consider, as I have said above, that there would be annually danger of the whole crop being lost

41 The other principal sources of expense in repairs have been due to the floorings of the rapids, and the protection of the bed from the effects of the high velocity

Rapids formed of slopes of boulders packed on end were, in the original construction of the canal substituted in some places for overfalls as a matter of economy, the difference in point of cost being from Rs 15 to 20 000 for an eight feet descent

It has been found necessary to substitute boulders set in mortar for the packed boulders this can only be done during closures of the canal, which have of late years been rare owing to drought Much was done in 1877 78, but much still remains to be done and I am afraid that these special repairs will have to be continued during every canal closure for the next four or five years But the execution of the repairs will enable us to increase the quantity of water sent down the canal, and thus give a larger revenue Every attention will be given to economy consistent with the effective working of the canal

42 The following table gives information on various points connected with the working of the canal in the last four years —

The area irrigated was increased in both crops this is principally due to the opening of the Kasur and Sobraon Branches and development of irrigation on the new distributaries at the lower end of the Main Line The double-cropped land is in nearly the same proportion to the total area

The duty obtained from the water in the kharif was large but in the cold season was small in comparison with that of the year before Although a much larger proportion of the water was utilized than in the previous year during the rabbi, the result per cubic foot is very much less

This is due to the extreme drought of the season, which rendered necessary more frequent watering of the crops —practically no rain fell until March The escape of water unutilized was much less than in previous years, but this really depends on the season A heavy shower of rain stops irrigation, and the water flows out of the canal unused, while, when there is no rain, as was practically the fact in the rabbi of this season, the whole of the water is used The rate per acre depends on the nature of the crops grown with plentiful rain in the kharif there is no temptation to irrigate the minor crops which only pay a light water rate but in dry years the greatest increase of irrigation is in these crops

The reasons assigned by Executive Engineer 1st Division, Bári Doáb Canal for the excess in rate of cost of measuring 100 acres are during kharif crop, to measuring a portion of the irrigation by chain, and that during rabbi crop, to distribution of parchas at time of measurements The 2nd Division rate is slightly less during kharif and more during rabbi

The rates for preparing demand statements compare very fairly with those of the previous year

46 The balance outstanding on 1st April 1879 amounted to Rs 17,511 against Rs 7 010 in the previous year The reason assigned by the Deputy Commissioners of the three Districts is, that it is attributable to the scarcity which prevailed and the increase in the number of irrigating villages

47 The value of the crops irrigated is estimated at Rs 1,32,77 621

51 The interest account shows that there has been a gain on this year's operations of Rs 22 954, and up to date a loss of Rs 4,82,109, this is an improvement on last year's returns when the balance against the canals was Rs 5 05,063 In both cases land revenue is included as on these canals by far the larger proportion of the returns consist of fluctuating land revenue

52 The expenditure on improvement and maintenance is in excess of that in 1877 78 by Rs 23,178 the amounts being Rs 52,146 and 28,968 respectively This was due to incomplete silt clearance in the previous year owing to want of funds, and to the heads of the Sohág canals being much damaged by the floods of this year

53 In the establishment charges there is an increase of Rs 6,166 on Direction due to the increase in the expenditure the distribution of the charges under that head being made by a percentage The difference of Rs 8,460 in Executive is mainly due to Rs 7 377 on account of fees paid to Patwaris and Lambardárs in the Montgomery District and charged in Civil Department accounts

The increase of Rs 8,808 in direct water rate, Rs 7,927 in water advantage rates, and Rs 65 665 in fluctuating land revenue, is due to the largely increased area irrigated The decrease of Rs 734 on miscellaneous revenue is due to fluctuations in the sale of canal produce

55 The area irrigated in the two years is shown below —

	LAHORE DISTRICT			MONTGOMERY DISTRICT			GRAND TOTAL
	Kharif	Rabbi	TOTAL	Kharif	Rabbi	TOTAL
1878 79	16 355	18 380	34,735	67 902	30 324	98 226	132 961

DIFFERENCE { More / Less	9 975	7 642	17 617	29 658	4,501	34,159	51 776

There was an increase of 39,633 acres in the kharif and of 12 143 acres in the rabbi, or 51 776 acres in all This was due to the early rise of the rivers, and to their late subsidence, but in some measure also to the cultivators having cleared out their water courses thoroughly, which they had not done in the previous year in hope of getting the water rates lowered by neglecting their irrigation for a time

56 The areas irrigated in the last eight years are shown in the following table —

Years	Area irrigated in acres	REMARKS
1871 72	87 043
1872 73	135 350
1873 74	65 233
1874-75	84 120
1875 76	138,937
1876 77	74,243
1877 78	81 185
1878-79	132 961

It will be seen that every third year the area is much larger than in the two intervening years, this is entirely due to the fluctuations in the rise of the river

57 The percentage of flow to lift irrigation was also greater than in the preceding year being 88 8 of the whole area in place of 83 7, this also is due to the more favorable state of the river

58 The number of villages whose lands were irrigated also increased from 947 to 1,121

59 The areas in the principal crops irrigated in the last eight years are shown below —

	1871 72	1872-73	1873 74.	1874-75	1875 76	1876 77	1877 78	1878-79

Charri					14,278	7 114	11 711	16 800

It will be seen that the valuable crops, rice and cotton, are in the present year largely in excess of any previous crop

The area under jowar has decreased and the area under charri increased, this is due to the difference in rates, which are Re 1 8 and Re 1 per acre respectively, while the plant is the same only the latter is supposed to be used for fodder The alteration of this rate is under consideration

60 The incidence on the acre of Lahore water rates and the fluctuating land revenue of the Montgomery District is given below —

	LAHORE DISTRICT 1878-79	LAHORE DISTRICT 1877 78	MONTGOMERY DISTRICT 1878 79	MONTGOMERY DISTRICT 1877 78
Kharif	{ Rs 8 177 / Acres 16 355 } =0·5	{ 3 190 / 6 380 } =0·5	Rs 1 26 767 / Acres 67 902 } =1 9	65,096 / 38,244 } =1 7
Rabbi	{ Rs 9 190 / Acres 18 380 } =0 5	{ 5 369 / 10 738 } =0 5	Rs 24,792 / Acres 30 324 } =0·8	20 798 / 25 823 } =0 8
Whole year	{ Rs 17 367 / Acres 31 735 } =0 5	{ 8 559 / 17 118 } =0·5	Rs 1 51 559 / Acres 98 226 } =1 5	85,894 / 64,067 } =1 3

There is no material change in the rates compared with those of previous year The value of the crops raised is calculated at Rs 25,29,577

61 The cost of measuring per 100 acres was in the kharif 0 87 and in the rabbi 1 23 against 1 03 and 1 20 respectively in the previous year That of preparing the demand statements was 0 38 and 0 52 against 0 46 and 0 55, but in both cases the cost of the necessary forms had not been adjusted within the year, which caused the rates in the present year to be somewhat less than they otherwise would have been The work was done by the District Patwáris

62 The remissions granted for the two crops of this year were as follows —

	Kharif	Rabbi	Total
Lahore District	228	720	948
Montgomery District	15 689	634	16 323
Total	15 917	1 354	17,271
Total 1877 78	4,560	319	4,879
Difference	+ 11 357	+ 1 035	+ 12 392

The remissions during the year were chiefly for floodings and short supply at the end of the season, Rs 1,360 were remitted on account of wrong measurements

The balance uncollected at the end of the year only amounted to Rs 1,113

63 The results of the year have been very satisfactory but on these canals there is a large element of chance, as their working well depends on an early rise of the river and on its remaining at a fair level until the crops are ripened a late rise or an early fall are both equally fatal to the success of the year s operations

64 The following table shows the rainfall at three stations in the districts watered by these canals —

Lower Sutlej and Chenab Inundation Canals

65 The addition to the Capital Account of these canals during the year amounted to Rs 1,472, bringing the total Capital to Rs 1,09,554

The expenditure of the year was on purchase of stock

66 The Revenue Account is as follows —

67 The interest account shows a charge for the year amounting to Rs 4,819 which leaves a net profit to Government of Rs 1,46,668, including the land revenue There is practically no direct revenue on these canals, the items shown being merely account charges

68 The expenditure on extensions and improvements was on a new head for the Diwan wah Canal, and the excavation and bridges of the Khairpur cut Some improvements of the main channels of the Shekhwah Baháwalwah, Mubárakwah and Khánwah were also carried out The chers or laborers supplied by the cultivators were also paid on several of the canals where the work was so heavy that they had to be detained beyond the 90 days for which they are liable

Considerable progress was also made in obtaining correct maps and levels of the canals

69 The water rates from irrigation on this canal are very small, varying from Rs 678 to 685 only The miscellaneous receipts are less by Rs 582 than in the previous year The great decrease is on the sale of canal produce, Rs 845, which was due to less timber having been felled there was an increase of Rs 575 on miscellaneous receipts

70 The amount, Rs 44,393, entered as contributions, is the expenditure from the Zarnagha or Fine Fund This year nearly as much as was assessed has been expended in giving assistance to the laborers (chers) supplied by the villagers, and this is what should be done as the money is levied in commutation of labor which should have been given

The account at the end of the year stood as follows —

		Rs
Balance on 1st April 1878		2 98 073
Assessed during the year		48 305
	TOTAL	3 46 378
	DEDUCT—Expenditure of year	44,393
	Balance on 1st April 1879	3 01 985

71 The number of defaulters, 96,609, was large It was explained by the high cost of provisions, the laborers stated that at home, and not working, they could live on less than when working, consequently they preferred to pay the fine

72 The numbers called out were somewhat in excess of the previous year The following table gives a detailed comparison —

DETAIL	1878 79			1877 78			1878 79

75 The areas irrigated during the last five years were as follows :—

Crops	Area irrigated in acres in the year.					Average
	1878 79	1877 78	1876 77	1875 76	1874-75
Kharif	178,266	165 639	154,998	134 280	163 605	159,358

The area irrigated is by far the largest on record The rivers were unusually high, and there were no serious accidents from the bursting either of canal banks or protective embankments The crops suffered severely in September from destructive flights of locusts

76 The proportion of kharif to rabbi irrigation for the past five years is given below —

Crops	1878-79	1877 78	1876-77	1875 76	1874 75

77 The statement below shows the areas of the principal crops irrigated during the past five years —

Description of Crops	Area irrigated in acres

Turnips	20 419	23 894	20 046	25 324	19 331

The decrease in indigo is due to the extreme cold in the winter which killed the old plants The increase in cotton and rice is satisfactory The area under sugarcane generally remains the same from year to year. The turnip crop suffered much from grasshoppers

78 The statement below gives the areas of lands on which double crops were grown for five years The lands are chiefly those around the city of Mooltan which are very highly manured and cultivated with several crops during the year —

Years	In acres.			Percentage
	Sutlej Canals	Chenab Canals	Total

79 The percentages of flow and lift irrigation are compared below with those of the previous year, and the average of the last five years —

The expenditure in the present year is less than the previous year, and reduction in the rate per hundred acres is satisfactory

81 The following table shows a comparison of the rainfall of the two last years but it must be remembered that the fall in 1877 78 was much in excess of the average —

Indus Inundation Canals

83 There was an addition to the Capital Account during the year of Rs 3,482, which consequently amounted to Rs 5,80,957 at the end of the year The alteration was in the suspense balances

84 The Revenue Account of the year is as follows —

N B—The amount which has been credited to Jagirdárs has not yet been brought to credit in the account, but arrangements are being made for bringing it forward in next year's accounts The amount is stated to be Rs 84,275 but this requires verification

85 The interest account shows a balance against these canals up to date amounting to Rs 87,572 The charge for the year was Rs 5,934

86 On the expenditure side of the account the only great difference was in the charge for Direction, Rs 9,241 less than last year This was due to the different method of distributing the charge between this Division and the Mooltan Canals

Extensions and Improvements were principally on the Shoria Canal, where Rs 8,918 was spent on regulators and a new head channel, on passing drainage across the Mánka Canal, Rs 6,501, on regulator on the Gamúnwála Canal, Rs 1,436, on a chauki, &c, on the Dhundi, Rs 3,887

87 The maintenance and repairs were heavy both to embankments and canals Both were breached extensively owing to the very exceptional state of the Indus, which remained in continuous flood for 26 days, and carried away a portion of the main Kála bund, destroyed the head of the Mánka Canal, and damaged 42,364 acres of the irrigated crops The station of Dera Gházi Khan was also severely damaged by the inundation

The hill torrents were also unusually destructive, cutting across the Mánka, Shoria and Dhingána Canals

88 In the Revenue Account the clearance rate is Rs 35,987 in excess of last year, but this is due to the collection of arrears Only a small balance of the old charge remains uncollected, but none of the current year's dues have been brought to credit The miscellaneous revenue is in excess of last year's, principally in plantation, where the increase amounts to Rs 343

The district authorities contributed Rs 2,500 towards the cost of one of the regulators on the Shoria Canal, as a bridge for the Kot Chatta and Choti road was much required

89 The rainfall was more than during the previous year, it having been —

	1878-79 Inches	1877 78. Inches	More by Inches
At Sangar	12 8	7 0	5 8
„ Dera Ghâzi Khan	9 3	6 1	3 2

90 The river was much higher than in the previous year, the average difference was in June 0 47 feet, in July 1 11 feet, in August 2 83 feet, in September 1 49 feet, hence the area irrigated was large, as will be seen from the following table In this year 208,888 acres were irrigated, but of this 42,364 acres were subsequently destroyed by inundation In the Examiner's return 213,948 acres are shown as irrigated, but 5,060 acres of this was only overflowed by waste water —

91 The following table compares the areas of the principal crops during 1870 71 with the present and previous years —

CROPS	1870-71	1878 79	1877 78	1878 79 More	1878 79 Less

This shows a decrease in the present year, but taking the actual area irrigated, there were 32,928 acres more than that recorded for the most favorable previous year

93 The area of irrigated crops destroyed by the floods from the river and hill torrents amounted to 42,364 acres, spread over 256 mauzahs and amongst 3,022 wells It is impossible to distinguish how much was due to the river and how much to the torrents

The following is a list of crops destroyed —

	Acres
Jowár and bájra	15 875
Cotton	18 550
Indigo	2 287
Rice	4 715
Miscellaneous	937
TOTAL	42 364

94 Measurements of area irrigated by Patwaries —The area measured was larger than that of the last year, and the sum spent more by Rs 940 The rate has thus increased from Rs 2 18 to Rs 2 23 per hundred acres

The following are the rates —

	Per hundred acres by Canal Patwáries
1878 79	2 23
1877 78	2 18
1876-77	2 49
1875 76	2 54
1874-75	2 34

The time over which the work extended was 107 instead of 153 days, as last year, though the difficulties were much greater

95 The following table shows the loss to the canal by the fixed sum of Rs 45,000 allowed for the half clearance rate —

	Rs
I —Half cost of excavation	35 482
II — Ditto supervising establishment	1 750
III — Ditto repairs to banks	15 341
IV —Whole cost of distributing establishment	3 702

Loss during 1877 78 was	9 199

The fixed sum will be raised to Rs 54,000 from kharif of 1880

96 The estimated value of the crops irrigated was Rs 1,08,40,795

SHAHPUR CANALS.

97 These are small inundation canals taken from the River Jhelum, and are managed entirely by the district authorities

98 The capital was increased during the year by Rs 2,884, which was spent on extending the Station Canal The total capital now amounts to Rs 40,460

99 The income of the year amounted to Rs 15,542, and the working expenses to Rs 8,391, which shows a return to Government of Rs 7,151, or 19 03 on the capital invested

100 The interest account shows a balance in favor of revenue of Rs 5,374 for the year and of Rs 22,077 up to date

101 The area irrigated was 9,189 acres; the following table shows a comparison for the last five years —

	Acres
1874-75	6 335
1875 76	4,041
1876-77	9 123
1877 78	5 588
1878-79	9 189

As in all other inundation canals, there are great variations due to the state of the river

102 A comparison of the revenue assessed is shown below—

	Amount	Rate per acre
	Rs	Water rate	Maintenance
1874-75	8 112	1 28	58
1875 76	6,314	1 56	1 29

1877 78	12 403	2 23	1 07
1878-79	19,262	2·01	91

It will be seen that this has been a very successful year, the revenue having been large and the working expenses small 103 The principal crops grown in the last four years have been—

	1878 79	1877 78	1876-77	1875 76
Cotton	5,453	3 667	4,059	1 642

104 The capital invested in canals in the Punjab up to the end of the year 1878 79 was—

	Rs
On canals in operation	2 35 38,296
On works under construction and in abeyance	1 27 72 374
Contributions from Native States	69 17,355
TOTAL INVESTED	4,32,28 025

105 The interest charged against the capital amounted to Rs 15,66,393 for the year and to Rs 2,12,73,919 up to the end of the year, but the net receipts, after deducting working expenses, amounted to Rs 3,97,30,043 showing a balance of Rs 1,84,56,124 in favor of the canals in excess of the accumulated interest

106 The estimated value of the crops irrigated during the year was as follows —

RESOLUTION —The Governor General in Council is pleased to lay down the following in supersession of all existing rules for the grant of travelling allowance to officers in civil employ for journeys by sea or on a river —

I —A free passage, or refund of passage money, may be granted at the following rates to a public servant in the civil department when travelling by sea or in a river steamer, if he would be entitled to draw travelling allowance if he were travelling on land

II —For the purposes of these rules—

(1) Marine officers include officers of the Marine Department holding appointments afloat or in dockyards, but not port officers, and are divided into four grades—

1st —Commanders of vessels and Superintendents of Dockyards

2nd —Other executive officers, gazetted clerks, and engineers

3rd —Warrant officers, non gazetted clerks, gunners, and European employés

4th —All others

(2) Officers in civil employ are divided into three classes—

1st —Covenanted civil servants, commissioned military officers, the port officers mentioned in the margin marine officers of the 1st and 2nd grades, and other uncovenanted officers with rank not lower than that of extra assistant commissioner, deputy magistrate, or deputy collector, or with salary not less than Rs 200 a month

The port officers of Calcutta, Madras Bombay Rangoon Kurrachi Aden Akyab and Moulmein
The deputy port officers at Calcutta and Madras
The first assistant port officers at Calcutta Madras and Bombay
The second assistant port officer at Madras
The conservator river Indus

2nd —Marine officers of the 3rd grade, warrant officers, non commissioned military officers, European soldiers and uncovenanted servants in superior service as defined in the Civil Pension Code, with the exception (1) of those included in the first class, and (2) of those on monthly salaries of less than Rs 30, who ought, in the opinion of the heads of their offices, to belong to the third class

3rd —All other officers

III —An officer of the first class is entitled—

(a) to free passage for himself or refund of passage money at first class rates,

(b) to free passage or refund of passage money at lowest class rates for two or if his salary is not less than Rs 1 000 for three, servants,

(c) to the freight of such horses and tents as he would have been entitled to carry at the public expense had he been travelling by railway

IV —An officer of the second class is entitled to—(a) a free passage for himself, or refund of passage money at middle or second class rates,

(b) a free passage, or refund of passage money at lowest class rates, for one servant

V —An officer of the third class is entitled—

(a) to a free passage for himself, or refund of passage money at lowest or third class rates

VI —Except as provided in Rule III, (c), no more personal luggage can be carried at the expense of the State by an officer than the quantity, the freight on which, by custom, is included in the charge for passage

VII —If board is provided on the vessel either by its owners or its commander, table money is recovered from an officer of the first class at the following rates for every day on which dinner is provided for him on board —

(a) —If the board includes wines and liquors three twentieths of salary up to a maximum of Rs 8

(b) —If the board does not include wines and liquors, three fortieths of salary up to a maximum of Rs 4

Provided that—

(1) table money shall not be recovered from a native of India compelled by caste or other scruples to make separate arrangements for his board,

(2) an uncovenanted medical officer travelling between Calcutta and Port Blair in charge of convicts, is entitled to a free mess not including wine or beer

(3) a marine officer travelling on an Indian Government vessel will join the mess and pay the usual contribution,

(4) a marine officer, who is entitled to free rations and is proceeding from one appointment to another in both of which he is messed will, if the charge for messing is included in the charge for passage, be allowed a free mess If the messing is a separate charge, he will be reimbursed his actual messing expenses (exclusive of wines and beer) up to a limit of Rs 4 a day

VIII —Table money is not recovered from officers of the second and third classes If such an officer makes his own arrangements for messing, he is entitled to table money at the rate of three tenths of salary, but not exceeding Rs 3 and not less than 4 annas for every day on which he dines on board

(b) a port officer on detached duty or a warrant medical officer sent from Calcutta to Port Blair in charge of convicts during his voyage to or from Port Blair is not entitled to wine or beer

IX —The families of officers of the second class are conveyed at the public expense Table money under Rule VIII will be paid at full rates for those members of the family of such an officer who are not less than six years of age and at half rates for other members, but a passage will not be provided for more servants than the officer may take with himself under these rules when travelling alone

X —The foregoing rules do not apply to an officer other than a marine officer as provided in the 3rd proviso to Rule VII travelling, otherwise than on payment of passage money in any vessel the cost of which is borne from imperial, provincial or local funds Such an officer is not without the special sanction of the Government of India, entitled to any travelling allowance unless he can certify* that he has, during the voyage, incurred actual personal travelling expenses in which case he may recover the actual sum which he has so incurred, not exceeding the amount of the daily or monthly travelling allowance to which he would have been entitled for the period of the voyage if, during that period, he had travelled by land

ORDERED, that the foregoing resolution be published in the Gazette of India and communicated to the other Departments of the Government of India, to all Local Governments and Administrations, to the Comptroller General and Head Commissioner of Paper Currency, to other Chiefs of Departments administered by the Government of India in the Department of Finance and Commerce, to all Accountants General and to Deputy Accountants General in independent charge

Of the Realization of Government Revenue from Málguzárs

Act XIX of 1873 s 149 3 ¶ 18 93 Except as hereinafter provided a statement of account certified by the Tahsildár shall for the purposes of this chapter be conclusive evidence of the existence of any arrear payable direct to the Government of its amount and of the persons who in respect thereof are defaulters

Tahsildár's statement of account to be conclusive evidence of arrear

173 (a) XIX of 1873 s 150 94 The Deputy Commissioner or any officer empowered by him in this behalf may if he thinks fit, before any of the processes hereinafter referred to are issued for the recovery of such an arrear cause a notice of demand to be served on any of the defaulters

Notice of demand

173 Act XIX of 1873 s 150 95 An arrear payable directly to Government may be recovered by one or more of the following processes —

Processes for recovery of arrears

(a) by arrest and imprisonment of any defaulter,

(b) by attachment and sale of his moveable property

(c) by attaching the mahál or the share or land of any málguzár who has not paid the portion of the revenue which as between him and the other málguzárs is payable by him and taking the same under direct management,

(d) by transferring the share or land of any málguzár as aforesaid to any málguzár who has paid as aforesaid, or if all such málguzárs decline to accept such share or land, to a person having a mortgage or charge upon the same, B 178

(e) by annulling the settlement of the mahál in respect of which the default has occurred and taking such mahál under direct management or farming the same

(f) by selling the mahál or the land of any málguzár who has not paid the portion of the revenue aforesaid

(g) by selling immoveable property belonging to the defaulter other than the land in respect of which the arrear has occurred

Provided—

(1) that the process mentioned in the said clause (a) shall not be issued against any female

(2) that the processes mentioned in clauses (d) (e) (f) and (g) of this section shall not be enforced without the sanction of the Chief Commissioner

(3) that no land shall be sold and the settlement of no land shall be annulled on account of an arrear accruing on such land whilst it is under attachment, or under charge of the Superintendent of Government wards or held by the Deputy Commissioner under direct management or let by him in farm Act XIX of 1873 ss 158, 166

The processes specified in clauses (a) (b) and (g) may be enforced either in the district in which the default has been made or in any other district

96 The process mentioned in section ninety five clause (a) may be executed by issuing a warrant directing the officer named therein if the defaulter fails to pay the arrear by a date to be fixed in the warrant, to bring him to the tahsil B 174

Arrest and imprisonment for recovery of arrear

If when the defaulter arrives at the tahsil the arrear is still unpaid, the tahsildár may order him to be taken before the Deputy Commissioner or may keep him under personal restraint at the tahsil for a period not exceeding ten days and may then if the arrear is still unpaid, cause him to be taken to the Deputy Commissioner Act XIX of 1873 s 159

97 If the arrear is not paid when the defaulter arrives before the Deputy Commissioner the Deputy Commissioner may issue an order to the officer in charge of the civil jail of the district directing him to confine the defaulter in such jail for such period not exceeding three months from the date of the order, as the Deputy Commissioner may think fit, unless within such period the arrear is paid B 175 Act XXXIII of 1871, s 43

Management of share or patti attached under section 95 clause (c)

99 After causing any attachment to be made under section ninety five clause (c) the Deputy Commissioner shall issue a proclamation declaring the attachment and shall place the attached mahal share or land under the management of any agent whom he may appoint for the purpose

Effect of attachment

100 During the continuance of an attachment under section ninety nine the defaulters shall be excluded from possession of the land attached and the agent appointed by the Collector shall stand for all purposes in their position being bound by all their liabilities to any subordinate proprietors incumbrancers or tenants of or on, such land

B 177 Act XIX of 1873 s 156

Profits of land how applied

101 The surplus profits of such land after defraying the cost of attachment and management shall be applied first, to the payment of any revenue or provincial cesses falling due upon such land during the attachment and next, to discharging the arrear

B 176 177 Act XIX of 1873 s 156

Attachment when to cease

102 The attachment shall continue until the arrear is paid or realized from the profits of the land or the Collector thinks fit to reinstate the defaulters in possession

Provided that no attachment shall continue beyond five years from the first day of the agricultural year next following its commencement

Transfer under section 95 (d)

103 When it is proposed to execute the process mentioned in section ninety five clause (d) the persons to whom the share or land is to be transferred shall be required to pay the arrear or to secure its payment to the satisfaction of the Deputy Commissioner

Act XIX of 1873, s. 157

No such transfer shall be made for a term exceeding fifteen years from the first day of the agricultural year next after the date on which it is sanctioned by the Chief Commissioner

Joint and several liability not affected by transfer

No proceedings taken under this section shall affect the joint and several liability of the málguzars of the estate for arrears accruing on such estate subsequently to the transfer of the holding, except that, as regards all such arrears the transferee shall stand in the place of the málguzar whose holding is transferred

Procedure after receipt of sanction to annulment of settlement

104 When the Chief Commissioner sanctions the annulment of the settlement of any mahál the Deputy Commissioner shall proclaim such annulment and may then exclude the defaulters from the possession and either manage the mahal or any portion thereof himself or through an agent or let it in farm for such term and on such conditions as the Chief Commissioner directs and all liens, leases and other incumbrances created upon the land so managed or farmed by the defaulters, or by any person through whom they claim, may, at the option of the Deputy Commissioner, be cancelled

Provided that no farm or management under this section shall continue for a longer period than fifteen years from the first day of the agricultural year next after the proclamation of annulment of settlement

Settlement on expiry of farm or management

105 After the expiration of the period of management or farm, the Deputy Commissioner shall offer to the persons entitled to be settled with under section fifty a new settlement of the land on such conditions as the Chief Commissioner may direct, for the remainder of the term of the settlement of the local area in which such land is situate and, if such offer is refused may with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, let such land in farm for the remainder of the term of settlement to some other person or manage it himself or through an agent for such period B 180; Act XIX of 1873, s. 165

Case of a portion of a mahál being farmed or managed

106 When a portion only of the mahál is taken under management or farmed under section one hundred and four the rest of such mahál shall be separately re settled for the remainder of the term of settlement New

Saving of rights in sir land

107 Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained no defaulter shall be deprived of the possession of his sir land in the execution of any of the processes mentioned in section ninety five clauses (c) (d) and (e) but any such defaulter shall while such process is being enforced be entitled to retain possession of and pay rent for such land as if he were an absolute occupancy tenant Act XIX of 1873 s 190

Nature of estate taken by purchaser of land sold for arrears due thereon

108 Unless the Chief Commissioner in sanctioning the sale otherwise directs a purchaser of any land sold for arrears of revenue due in respect thereof acquires the full proprietorship or superior or inferior proprietorship of it, as the case may be free of all liens leases and incumbrances and all grants or contracts previously made by any person other than the purchaser in respect of such land shall become void as against such purchaser B 182 Cf Act XIX of 1873 s 157

(a) affect the rights of any proprietor, superior or inferior to the defaulters or of any málik makbúza or occupancy tenant who does not derive his rights as such from express contract with such defaulters or any person through whom they claim or No 3 ¶ 20

(b) apply to lands held under leases for the erection of dwelling houses or manufactories, or for mining purposes, gardens, tanks canals, places of worship or burying grounds whilst the lands continue to be used for the purposes specified in such leases, or

(c) deprive any defaulter whose property is sold of the rights in respect to his sir land conferred by the Central Provinces Tenancy Act, 1880

Rules for sale of immoveable property

109 When immoveable property is sold under this Act, the procedure provided in sections 287 (except Act XXXIII of 1871 s 58 the last two clauses), 293 and 306 to 316 inclusive of the Civil Procedure Code shall be followed except in the following particulars, that is to say —

(a) The defaulter may pay the arrear in respect of which the land is to be sold at any time before the day fixed for the sale, and on such payment the sale shall be stayed

(b) The proclamation of the intended sale provided in the said section 287 shall when the sale is under clause (f) section ninety five of this Act declare that subject to the provisions of section one hundred and eight the full proprietorship or superior or inferior proprietorship as the case may be is to be sold free of all liens leases and incumbrances and the certificate provided for in section 316 of the said Code shall contain a similar statement

(c) An appeal from any order under section 312 of the said Code for confirming or setting aside the sale shall lie to the Commissioner of the division and an appeal from the Commissioner's order shall lie to the Chief Commissioner

(d) The Deputy Commissioner may from time to time postpone a sale which he has notified reporting such postponement to the Commissioner of the Division

(e) Section 309 of the Civil Procedure Code shall be read as if after the words "for such payment" the words "and every sale of such property made after a postponement" were added

(f) Section 313 of the said Code shall not apply to sales under section ninety five clause (f) of this Act

(g) Section 316 of the Civil Procedure Code shall be read as if the words "The Deputy Commissioner shall give to the purchaser possession of the lands which he has purchased" were added thereto

Act XIX of 1873, section 188.

Pre emption at sales

110 (a) When the land of one or more of the málguzárs is sold under section ninety five clause (f) any málguzár who has paid the revenue which as between him and the other málguzárs is payable by him and

(b) when the superior or inferior proprietorship of any land is so sold any inferior or superior proprietor (as the case may be)

may, if the property has been knocked down to a stranger claim to take it at the sum last bid

Provided that such claim is made before the officer conducting the sale closes the sitting at which the sale is held and that the claimant fulfils all the conditions of the sale and that a málguzár under clause (a) shall have a prior claim to a superior or inferior proprietor under clause (b)

Act XIX of 1873 section 185

Application of proceeds of sale of immoveable property

111 The proceeds of every sale in execution of any process mentioned in section ninety five shall be applied, first in satisfaction of the arrear on account of which the sale was held and of the expenses of such sale secondly, to the payment of any other arrear of land revenue due by the defaulter, and the surplus, if any shall then be payable to him, or, in the case of more than one defaulter, to such defaulters according to their respective shares in the property sold

Costs recoverable as part of arrear

112 The costs of serving a notice of demand under section ninety four and of enforcing any process mentioned in section ninety five shall be recoverable as part of the arrear in respect of which the process was issued B 187

Matters as to which Chief Commissioner may make rules

113 The Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules— B 188.

(a) for the guidance of the Deputy Commissioner in issuing notices of demand under section ninety four and executing the processes mentioned in section ninety five

(b) prescribing the manner in which lands exempted from partition shall be dealt with when a default occurs

(c) defining the classes of officers by whom the processes mentioned in section ninety five, clauses (a) and (b), may be enforced

(d) prescribing the agency by which any of the processes issued under section ninety five shall be executed

Remedies open to person denying that sum demanded as an arrear is due

114 Notwithstanding anything contained in section ninety three when proceedings are taken under this Act for the recovery of an arrear payable directly to Government the person against whom such proceedings are taken may if he denies the arrear or any part thereof to be due pay the same under protest made at the time of payment and duly signed by him or by his agent and file a suit in the Civil Court for the recovery of the amount which he denies to be due B 195 Act XIX of 1873 s 189

Of the Realisation of Revenue by Malguzars

Limitation of right of defendant in suit for arrear

115 In a suit for the recovery of an arrear of revenue not being Government revenue or a suit brought by a lambardár to recover the amount of any Government revenue or provincial cesses payable through him the defendant shall not except with the permission of the Court — B 190

(a) set off against the plaintiff's demand any sum of money recoverable by him from the plaintiff or

(b) claim credit for any payment purporting to have been made on account when such payment was made before the date on which the amount thereof became due

Recovery of arrear through Deputy Commissioner instead of by suit

116 Any lambardár or sub lambardár entitled to recover an arrear of revenue or any malguzár to whom such an arrear is due under a sub settlement, may, instead of instituting a suit for the recovery thereof apply to the Deputy Commissioner to recover such arrear on his behalf as if it were an arrear of Government revenue B 192 Act XVII of 1876 s 158

The Deputy Commissioner may if he thinks fit comply with such application but shall before compliance therewith, give to the persons who would be defendants, if a suit were brought, opportunity to show cause against the order which he proposes to make

The Deputy Commissioner shall not be made a defendant to any suit instituted under section one hundred and fourteen to contest an arrear in respect of which an order has been made under this section

Persons on whose account the Deputy Commissioner proceeds under this section to recover arrears shall not thereby be relieved of their responsibility for such arrears and shall forfeit their claim to the collection charge, or, if no separate collection charge has been fixed to such percentage on the sum collected as the Chief Commissioner may authorise by rules framed in this behalf and such charge or percentage shall be collected and credited to the Government

121 The Deputy Commissioner may revise a Record of rights when such revision is provided for in such record

Powers of Deputy Commissioner as to correction or revision of record

122 When the Deputy Commissioner takes proceedings for the correction or revision of any entry in the Record of rights, he shall exercise with respect to the matter to which such entry relates, all the powers which the Chief Settlement-officer might have exercised if the proceedings had been taken whilst the settlement was in progress

Power to direct that rule or custom entered in Record of right shall be enforced by Government.

123 The Chief Commissioner may direct that any rule custom or condition entered in the Record of rights of any village shall be enforced by the Government B 155 156 No 2 ¶¶ 46 48.

Punishment of violation of such rule or custom

If any of the persons with whom a settlement or sub settlement has been made violate or neglect any rule custom or condition with respect to which the Chief Commissioner has made a direction under this section, the Deputy Commissioner may if no penalty is provided in this or in the Central Provinces Tenancy Act 1880 for such violation or neglect impose upon such person a fine which may extend to two hundred rupees

Powers of Chief Commissioner as to registration of changes after preparation of Record of rights

124 The Chief Commissioner may—

(a) direct that the mukaddam of each village shall, for the purpose of showing the changes occurring subsequently to the preparation of the Record of rights prepare or where there is a patwári, cause to be prepared and furnish, annually for such village papers in such form, at such time, containing such particulars and attested in such manner as the Chief Commissioner may, from time to time prescribe B 147 201 No 3 ¶ 24

(b) prescribe the procedure to be followed in order to ascertain that a change has occurred, and the nature of such change

All changes referred to in this section shall be recorded in such registers as the Chief Commissioner appoints and not in the Record of rights, and the Chief Commissioner may direct that before any specified changes are recorded the order of a specified Revenue-officer shall be obtained

125 All persons obtaining possession of proprietary rights and interests in land shall at once give notice of the same to the tahsíldár of the tahsíl in which such land is situated Act XIX of 1873 s 97

If any question arises whether any right or interest is a proprietary right or interest within the meaning of this section the decision thereof by the Chief Commissioner shall be final

Fine for neglect to give notice of possession

126 Any person neglecting to give the notice required by section one hundred and twenty five shall be liable, at the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner or Assistant Commissioner to fine which may extend to fifty rupees for each day during which such neglect continues Act XIX of 1873 s 100

127 All persons having proprietary rights in land are, on the requisition of the Deputy Commissioner, bound to prepare, or cause to be prepared, such papers and furnish such information as may be required for the preparation of the village papers prescribed under section one hundred and twenty four

Fees for mutations

129 All fees leviable under section one hundred and twenty eight shall be levied from the person in whose favour the change takes place

From whom leviable

B 169 Act XIX of 1873 s 101 130 The Deputy Commissioner shall make enquiry annually regarding all cases in which land has been released conditionally or for a time from the payment of revenue and if the term of any grant has expired or (when the grant is for a life or lives) if the person last entitled to hold revenue free or at less than full revenue rates has died shall assess the same and shall report his proceedings through the Commissioner of the Division for the sanction of the Chief Commissioner

Annual enquiry regarding revenue free holdings

Procedure on expiry of term of grant

B 169 Act XIX of 1873 s 101 131 If it appears to the Deputy Commissioner that the conditions of any grant have been broken by the grantee he shall report the case through the Commissioner of the Division for the orders of the Chief Commissioner who may direct that the land be assessed or may pass such other order as he thinks fit

Procedure on breach of condition of release

B 203 Act XIX of 1873 s 106 132 All records kept under this chapter shall be open to public inspection at such time and on such conditions as to fees or otherwise, as the Chief Commissioner from time to time directs

Inspection of revenue records

CHAPTER XI

Of certain additional powers and functions of Revenue officers

133 The Deputy Commissioner shall when a settlement is not in progress exercise the powers conferred by this Act on Settlement officers for the following purposes —

Purposes for which when settlement is not in progress Deputy Commissioner shall exercise Settlement officer's powers

(a) causing boundary marks to be erected

(b) assessing land revenue on lands which are liable to assessment, but have not been assessed

B 165 (c) forming new mahâls from land not previously settled,

(d) settling lands from which the proprietors were excluded at settlement and to which they have been or are about to be re admitted,

(e) settling mahâls in respect of which an application has been made under the third proviso to section fifty seven

(f) dealing with claims to hold land wholly or partially free from revenue as against the malguzárs,

(g) assessing lands gained by alluvion,

(h) ascertaining and recording village cesses which are levied at the time of the passing of this Act but have not been recorded at the settlement

134 The Chief Commissioner may, during the currency of a settlement, invest any officer with the powers conferred on a Settlement officer by sections forty forty one and forty two, or B 166 Act XIX of 1873 s. 98.

Purposes for which officer may be invested with Settlement officer's powers

with the sanction of the Governor General in Council with any other of the powers which are by this Act conferred on a Settlement-officer but not so as to enable him to enhance the amount of an assessment in force under section fifty seven

135 Any person wilfully erasing, removing or damaging a boundary mark may be ordered by the Deputy Commissioner or by a Tahsildár or Naib Tahsildár empowered by the Chief Commissioner in this behalf to pay such sum not exceeding fifty rupees as may in the opinion of the officer making the order be necessary to defray the expense of restoring the same and of rewarding the person (if any) who gave information of such erasure, damage or removal B 159 B 10 Act XIX of 1873 s 142

Cognizance of and penalty for offences for damaging boundary marks

136 Whenever the person erasing removing or damaging such mark cannot be discovered or if for any other reason it is found impracticable to recover from him the sum which he has been ordered to pay, the mark shall be re erected or repaired at the cost of the proprietor mortgagees or farmers of such one or more of the adjoining lands as the Deputy Commissioner thinks fit B 160 Act XIX of 1873 s. 143

Procedure when offender cannot be found

137 Any málguzárs of a mahál who are not co sharers with the other málguzárs of such mahal in any lands of such mahal except such lands as are under the law relating to partition for the time being in force indivisible, may apply to the Deputy Commissioner to make the lands held by them separately from such other málguzárs a separate mahal and the Deputy Commissioner shall thereupon make such lands and the lands held separately by the remaining málguzars separate mahals and shall apportion between the two new mahals thus constituted the entire revenue assessed upon the original mahal New

Village officers and Patwaris

138 The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time make rules regulating the appointment, remuneration and dismissal of lambardárs sub lambardárs and mukaddams B 204.

Power to make rules as to officer

Provided that proprietors other than málik makbúzás shall not be liable to pay, on account of the aggregate remuneration of lambardárs or sub lambardárs and mukaddams, a sum exceeding five per cent on the land revenue which is No 1 ¶ 38 Settlement Code, p 26 para 13

assessed on their land or which when their land is revenue-free would in the judgment of the Deputy Commissioner, be assessed on their land if it was subject to assessment

In framing rules for the appointment of lambardárs and sub-lambardárs under this section, the Chief Commissioner shall have regard among other matters to local custom and hereditary claims and to entries on the subject in the Record of rights of any mahál

B. 205 Duties of lambardárs

139 It shall be the duty of every lambardár and sub lambardár—

(a) to collect and pay into the Government treasury so much of the land revenue as may under section seventy be payable through him either solely or jointly with other lambardárs or sub lambardárs,

(b) to collect and pay to the mukaddam, or into the Government treasury as the Deputy Commissioner may direct, all sums payable through him either solely or jointly with other lambardárs or sub lambardárs from the mahál to which he is appointed on account of cash allowances to patwárís or village watchmen or on account of any expenses which the mukaddam is authorized to incur and to recover from such mahál

(c) to assist the mukaddam in obtaining all particulars which he is bound to enter in the annual village papers or to report under this Act

B. 205 Settlement Code p 26 para. 43 Lambardárs may recover fees and other charges from proprietors

140 Lambardars and sub lambardárs may recover from the proprietors whom they represent along with the land revenue—

(a) any remuneration to which they are entitled

(b) the sum which under section one hundred and thirty nine, they are bound to pay to mukaddams,

Provided that no such recovery shall be made from málik makbuzas paying a percentage which includes remuneration to mukaddams and lambardárs

B 168. Deputy Commissioner may alter channel through which málik makbuzá pays revenue

141 On the application of any malik makbuzá or other like holder of land or of the lambardar or sub lambardár through whom such málik makbuzá or other holder of land pays the revenue assessed on his holding the Deputy Commissioner may for sufficient cause shown direct that such revenue be paid through any other lambardár or sub lambardár or that it be paid direct into the Government treasury

Effect of order for payment of revenue direct to Government

When the Deputy Commissioner orders such payment to be made direct into the treasury such portion of percentage fixed under section sixty four as the Deputy Commissioner, subject to the control of the Chief Commissioner may determine, shall be paid to the Government, and the málik makbuzá or other person shall pay the rest to the mukaddams on account of fees to mukaddams and other village expenses

Duties of mukaddams.

142 It shall be the duty of every mukaddam— B 206; No. 1, ¶¶ 35, et seq.; No. 3 ¶¶ 60, 62

(a) to control and superintend the village-patwárí and watchmen, to report their deaths or absence from duty, to maintain them in the possession of any lands appertaining to their office, to recover and pay to them any cash allowances to which they may be entitled, and to take such steps as may be necessary to compel them to perform their duties,

(b) to furnish reports regarding the state of the village, at such places and times as the Deputy Commissioner fixes in this behalf,

(c) to prevent or report encroachments on public paths and roadways

(d) to preserve such stations and marks erected by any Government surveyor as may be made over to his care,

(e) subject to any rules issued by the Chief Commissioner to keep his village in good sanitary condition

(f) to report the deaths of all persons holding lands wholly or partially free from revenue and of Government pensioners,

(g) to report violations of any rules which the Chief Commissioner may make for the preservation of underwood, forests and trees growing on the village lands and for securing to persons entitled to cut wood, and enjoy other privileges in the waste lands of the village, the rights to which they are entitled

(h) to collect, or aid in the collection of, all Government taxes and dues

The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, make rules—

(1) varying or adding to the list of duties which a mukaddam is required to perform under this section and B 207

(2) regulating the liability of persons residing in any village for charges necessarily incurred by mukaddams in the performance of the duties specified in clause (e), in respect of such village and for apportioning such charges among such persons

143 When by any enactment for the time being in force, any public duties are imposed on, or public liabilities are declared to attach to, landholders, their managers and agents and the like, such duties shall be deemed to be imposed on, and such liabilities shall be held to attach to, mukaddams appointed under this Act B 206.

Provided that nothing herein contained shall discharge landholders their managers or agents or the like from any liabilities imposed upon them by law No. 8 ¶ 24.

Power to mukaddams to recover certain expenses incurred

144 Every mukaddam may recover from the lambardárs or sub-lambardárs of the village to which he is appointed his own remuneration, together with any expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of his duties B 206

Chief Commissioner may make rules as to patwárís

145 The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, make rules— B 208 Act XXXIII of 1871 s. 6.

(a) regulating the manner in which patwárís are to be selected, prescribing the condi tions under which they may be appointed, and fixing the limits of their circles, and the nature, mode and amount of their remuneration,

(b) prescribing the conditions under which substitutes may be appointed for persons having hereditary claims to the office of patwárí when they are unable to act themselves,

(c) prescribing the fines which may be imposed on patwárís and their substitutes for neglect of their duty and stating the circumstances under which they may be dismissed

Provided that, except in the case hereinafter mentioned, no proprietor shall be compelled to pay as remuneration to patwárís a sum exceeding six per cent on the revenue assessed on his land or which, when his land is revenue free would, in the judgment of the Deputy Commissioner be assessable on his land if it were liable to assessment

In framing rules regard to be had to hereditary claims &c

146 In making rules under section one hundred and forty five the Chief Commissioner shall have regard to conditions and customs recorded in administration papers and to hereditary claims to the office of patwárís but in no case shall such conditions or custom or claims be deemed to require the appointment of any patwárí who would otherwise be ineligible for appointment or to prevent the dismissal of any patwárí who would otherwise be liable to dismissal

Chief Commissioner may make rules for guidance of Deputy Commissioners in certain matters

147 The Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules for the guidance of Deputy Commissioners in dealing with cases where at the time of the last preceding settlement the maintenance of a patwárí was made optional and the persons settled with are unable to agree as to whether a patwárí should be maintained, and for dealing with cases where no patwárí is under such option maintained and the mukaddams or proprietors have made default in the performance of the duties of a patwárí

Such rules may empower the Deputy Commissioner in the latter class of cases—

(a) to impose fines on such mukaddams or proprietors, and therefrom to make provision for the temporary performance of the duties in respect of which they have made default

(b) to appoint patwárís in the villages of such proprietors either for the term of the settlement or for any shorter term and to fix the remuneration of such patwárís

B. 211

Chief Commissioner may define duties of patwárís

148 The Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules prescribing the duties of patwárís—

(a) towards the Government, and may in such rules determine the registers, returns or other papers which they shall keep or furnish, the forms and language in which such registers and returns are to be prepared, the mode of their preparation and attestation, and the dates on which they are to be furnished,

(b) towards the members of the village community, and may in such rules fix the remuneration, if any, other than the fixed emoluments of their office, which the patwárís may demand in respect of the performance of such duties

All records and documents which patwárís are required to prepare or keep by any rule made by the Chief Commissioner under this section shall be deemed to be public documents and to be the property of Government

Patwárís to produce papers for inspection and to deliver them to persons entitled

149 Patwárís shall produce at all reasonable times, for the inspection of all persons interested therein, all records and papers which they are so required to prepare or keep B 212; Act XVIII of 1873 s 95 (b)

Existing officers confirmed

150 All existing lambardárs, sub lambardárs, mukaddams and patwárís shall unless the Chief Commissioner otherwise directs, be deemed to have been appointed under this Act B 213.

Any sums which officers of these classes are entitled to recover or demand under this chapter may, if the Deputy Commissioner so directs be recovered in the same manner as an arrear of revenue payable directly to the Government

Holders of sir land in Sambalpur to provide for remuneration of mukaddams

151 In each village of the district of Sambalpur all persons other than mukaddams holding sir land are bound to provide for the due remuneration of the mukaddam of the village and the Chief Commissioner may from time to time, make rules for the enforcement of this obligation B 164.

(See section 2)

ENACTMENTS REPEALED

Number and year of Regulation order &c	Title	Extent of repeal
Act XII of 1841	For amending the Bengal Code in regard to sales of land for arrears of revenue	So much as has not been repealed
Act I of 1847	For the establishment and maintenance of boundary marks in the North Western Provinces and Bengal	The whole
Act XXXI of 1858	To make further provision for the settlement of land gained by alluvion in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal	The whole

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

1 The Land revenue Administration of the Central Provinces as at this moment carried on rests on an insufficient legal basis Throughout a considerable portion of the country there is little or no law regarding the settlement and collection of the revenue beyond that which may be considered to be established by ancient usage In some parts it is doubtful how far any written law applies and elsewhere the only law is either the spirit of certain old Regulations of the Bengal Code, or half forgotten rules which owe their binding force to the Indian Councils' Act

2 No inconvenience in practice was felt from this state of things in the earlier days of our rule, when the people scarcely realized the possibility of their having any rights as against their rulers but of late years the diffusion of legal ideas has placed the landholders and the Government more at arm s length the old state of things has shown clear signs of giving way and the want of a definite system of revenue law, such as exists in all the other settled Provinces of the empire has come to be felt

3 To supply this want the present Bill has been prepared It follows the main lines of the similar laws in force in the North Western Provinces and elsewhere except that it is confined as closely as possible to the subject of the land revenue administration strictly so called to the exclusion of certain subjects such as partition and Courts of wards, which it has been the practice in other Provinces to include in Land revenue Acts

It seems unnecessary here to enter into any description of its provisions in so far as they are borrowed from Acts like the North Western Provinces and Oudh Land revenue Acts which have been passed so recently and after so much discussion and the following remarks will accordingly be confined to such of the leading points of the Bill as are in some sense novel, or otherwise appear to require special notice

4 It will be observed that the repealing clause (section 2) has been drawn so as to fit in with the similar clause in the Central Provinces Laws Act of 1875 and to sweep away the indefinite mass of old rules and regulations relating to the settlement and collection of the land revenue which were saved by it and as any remnant of these old rules and regulations would if kept alive be apt to escape notice and perhaps ultimately lead to complication and difficulty the clause which is commonly inserted in such Bills maintaining existing rules in so far as they are consistent with the new law has been omitted It is believed that this omission will give rise to no difficulty as it will rest with the Government to fix the date on which the Act will come into operation and that date need not be fixed until all rules which it is necessary to make under the Act are ready for issue

5 Chapter II relating to Revenue officers their powers and procedure it will be seen contains no such detailed rules of procedure as are to be found in the North Western Provinces Act Most of the Revenue officers in the Central Provinces preside over Civil Courts and all have had more or less experience in working under the Code of Civil Procedure The provisions of that Code though copious are simple and untechnical and it accordingly seems the most convenient course to adopt it as a basis for the procedure of Revenue officers as has been done in sections 15(a) and 19 of the Bill power being given to the Chief Commissioner to modify and supplement its provisions as he may think necessary

6 In section 31 the Panjab system of empowering the Local Government to invest Settlement officers with the powers of Civil Courts for the disposal of suits relating to land has been followed but the ultimate appeal in such suits will lie to the Judicial Commissioner

7 Section 49 following the principle which it is believed has from a remote period been recognized throughout India and which will be found embodied in the preamble to Regulation XXXVII of 1793 and elsewhere in the Bengal Code declares that all land with certain definite exceptions is liable to be assessed to land revenue An express provision of this sort seems desirable in the Central Provinces where a question has been recently raised as to whether land would not become exempt by being occupied for habitations There is of course no general intention of assessing the lands in towns or old village sites They will be ordinarily excluded from assessment under the power conferred by section 118 but it is obviously desirable that where lands at present cultivated and assessed are built upon and yield as they probably would a larger profit to their owners than before, they should still remain liable to assessment

8 In sections 78 and 83 an attempt is made to specify the acts and decisions of a Settlement officer which may be called in question in a Civil Court all other such acts and decisions being by section 152 protected from being so challenged and as when a matter is liable to be taken in the last resort before a Civil Court it would be waste of time for the Settlement officer to enter upon any very elaborate inquiry regarding it section 78 provides that the investigation in the cases to which it refers shall be a summary one the Settlement officer being required to make only such inquiry as he thinks fit and not being bound to hear any party concerned or receive any evidence tendered

9 Sections 88 and 89 deal with cases in which at settlement made before the passing of the Act the proprietary right in land has been awarded by a Settlement officer to some person on the ground that he was the person who of all others had the interest in the land most nearly approaching to ownership They provide that no person whose claims to such land were considered and rejected by the Settlement officer shall be permitted to impeach his award but that any one whose claim was not so considered may institute a suit to establish it and that if he can prove that he was entitled to an interest in the land similar to that in consideration of which the proprietary right was awarded the Court may declare him to be a proprietor

10 Section 108 states, somewhat differently from the Land revenue Acts at present in force, the nature of the estate taken by a purchaser of land sold for arrears of revenue due upon it The interest taken by such a purchaser is described to be "the full proprietorship, or superior or inferior proprietorship, as the case may be, free from all liens, leases and incumbrances," &c, but among other matters saved by the clause which follows are "the rights of any proprietor "superior or inferior to the defaulters, or of any málik makbuza or occupancy tenant, who does not "derive his rights as such from express contract with such defaulters or any person through "whom they claim"

11 Section 116 following and enlarging upon section 128 of the Oudh Land revenue Act, 1876, provides that any lambardar entitled to recover an arrear of Government revenue, or any málguzár entitled to recover an arrear due under a sub settlement, may, instead of instituting a suit to recover such arrear apply to the Deputy Commissioner to recover it on his behalf by any of the processes provided by the Act for the recovery of revenue on behalf of the Government It will be in the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner to comply with such application or not as he thinks fit and he will probably comply with it as a rule in cases where the applicant has done his best to collect the arrear, and undue trouble and expense would be caused to him by instituting a suit to recover it

12 Section 117 deals somewhat differently from the North Western Provinces Act with the important question of the right of the málguzars to resume revenue-free grants made by them or their predecessors in interest It is quite conceivable that an improvident proprietor might by such grants alienate so much of the revenue which he was entitled to collect as to put it beyond his power in a bad year to meet the demands of the Government against him The Government revenue might no doubt, ultimately be secured by the sale of the mahál, but it is obviously desirable to devise some means of avoiding so trenchant a process

There would be a difficulty about refusing to recognize grants heretofore made perhaps for a valuable consideration but it is believed that such grants are not very numerous in the Central Provinces and may safely be left to their operation As regards grants made after the Bill becomes law, there need be no hesitation in declaring them voidable, and this is in effect what the Bill does

13 Section 119 of the Bill follows the 148th section of the North Western Provinces Act in providing that no interest shall be charged on an arrear of Government revenue, but it allows a Court to award interest on an arrear of revenue due under a sub settlement

14 Section 123, which empowers the Chief Commissioner to direct that any rule, custom or condition entered in a Record of rights shall be enforced by fine is new It is believed that it will be found useful in many cases where the persons for whose benefit a provision of a Record of rights is intended might owing to their not being parties to such record, or for some other reason not be in a position to enforce it or where, in order to enforce such a provision by a suit, it would be necessary to join, perhaps, all the inhabitants of a village as parties

15 Section 137 is the only section of the Bill dealing with partition, and it is confined to the only species of partition which it is conceived can properly find a place in a Land revenue Act namely, the separation into two separate mahâls of two portions of a mahál which are held in severalty

When two parties in a mahál, holding their lands in common, desire to sever their joint and several liability for the revenue they must, under the Bill, as under the law at present in force in the North Western Provinces and elsewhere, first obtain a partition of their lands but this partition is a matter with which the Revenue administration has no direct concern It might be and sometimes is, sought like a partition of house property or any other property, without any view to the dissolution of the joint and several liability to Government, and, accordingly, though it is intended that partitions of revenue paying land should continue to be effected as heretofore through the Revenue officers, as the authorities best qualified to undertake such an operation, it has been determined to relegate these partitions to a separate Bill, which it is hoped will shortly be placed before the Council, and to deal in the present Bill only with dissolution of the joint and several obligations of the málguzárs

16 The office of mukaddam which the 12th chapter of the Bill proposes to establish, is in most districts of the Central Provinces somewhat of a novelty Up to the period of the recent settlements villages in the Central Provinces were ordinarily held by a single málguzár or farmer, with whom the Government could deal on behalf of the village, but now, as Mr Jones has observed, "the zamindári tenure with its single head will yearly give way to the pattidári with its several heads" and the responsibility for the performance of the many duties incumbent on a village headman will thus become inconveniently split up Moreover, in some districts large tracts of country are bought up by town capitalists and thus many villages are left without a responsible head at all To remedy this, the Bill provides for the appointment for each village of a single representative headman (called a 'mukaddam"), to whom the Government can look for the performance of the important duties which the custom of the country attaches to the land and to whom the community can refer as a head when united action is required of it When there are resident lambardárs, the person appointed to the office of mukaddam would ordinarily, but not necessarily, be one of them

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 23rd July, 1880, and was referred to a Select Committee —

No 12 of 1880

THE PETROLEUM BILL, 1880

CONTENTS

A Bill to regulate the importation, possession and transport of Petroleum and other substances of a like nature

Preamble

WHEREAS it is expedient to regulate the importation, possession and transport of petroleum and other substances of a like nature, It is hereby enacted as follows —

Preliminary

Short title

1 This Act may be called "The Petroleum Act, 1880

Commencement

and it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1881 Committee's recommendations para. 1

Local extent

The provisions of this Act relating to—

(a) dangerous petroleum, and

(b) the importation of first class and second class petroleum,

extend to the whole of British India The rest of this Act extends only to such local areas as the Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, direct

Repeal of enactments

2 The Indian Ports Act, 1875 section thirty seven and Bengal Act No III of 1865 (to make better provision for the prevention of injury from fire in ports and to provide for the safe keeping of inflammable oils in ports and places within the Provinces under the control of the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal) are hereby repealed

Interpretation clause

3 In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

Petroleum

"Petroleum" includes also the liquids commonly known by the names of rock oil, Rangoon oil Burma oil kerosine paraffine oil, mineral oil, petroline, gasoline benzol benzoline, benzine and any inflammable liquid that is made from petroleum, coal, schist shale peat or any other bituminous substance or from any products of petroleum 34 & 35 Vic c 105 s 3 with additions from Committee's report.

But does not include any oil ordinarily used for lubricating purposes and having its flashing point at or above two hundred and fifty degrees of Fahrenheit s thermometer Committee's recommendations para. 3

Explanation —The flashing point of petroleum means the lowest temperature at which the petroleum yields a vapour which will furnish a momentary flash or flame when tested with the apparatus and in the manner described in the Schedule hereto annexed Committee recommendations para 4

"First class petroleum" means petroleum having its flashing point at or above one hundred and three degrees of Fahrenheit s thermometer Committee' recommendations para 6

Second class petroleum

"Second class petroleum" means petroleum having its flashing point at or above eighty three but below one hundred and three, degrees of Fahrenheit s thermometer

Dangerous petroleum

Dangerous petroleum" means petroleum having its flashing point below eighty three degrees of Fahrenheit s thermometer

Import

"Import" means to bring into British India by sea or land

and 'importation" means the bringing into British India as aforesaid

Transport

'Transport" means to remove from one place to another within British India

Ship

"Ship" includes anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or property

Master "Master" includes every person (except a Pilot or Harbour Master) having for the time being the charge or control of a ship

Magistrate "Magistrate" means in the Presidency towns a Presidency Magistrate, and elsewhere a Magistrate of the first class or (when specially empowered by the Local Government to try cases under this Act) a Magistrate of the second class and

Owner "Owner" includes also any agent to whom a ship is consigned

First class and second class Petroleum

Committee's recommendations paras 12 to 20.

Power to make rules as to the importation of first and second class petroleum

4 The Local Government may from time to time make rules to regulate the importation of first class petroleum and second class petroleum and in particular—

(a) for ascertaining the quantity and description of any such petroleum on board a ship

(b) to provide for the delivery by the master of a ship of samples of such petroleum and for the testing thereof before such petroleum is landed from such ship

(c) to determine the places at which only such petroleum may be landed and

(d) to regulate the time and mode of, and the precautions to be taken on, landing or transhipping any such petroleum

Possession and transport of first and second class petroleum

5 No quantity of first class petroleum exceeding five hundred gallons and

no quantity of second class petroleum exceeding forty gallons,

shall be kept by any one person or on the same premises or shall be transported except under and in accordance with the conditions of a license granted under this Act

Power to make rules as to such possession and transport

6 The Local Government may from time to time make rules as to the granting of licenses to possess or transport first and second class petroleum in cases where such licenses are by law required

Such rules may provide for the following among other matters that is to say —

in the case of licenses to possess petroleum—

(a) the nature and situation of the premises for which they may be granted, and

(b) the inspection of licensed premises and the testing of petroleum found thereon,

in the case of licenses to transport petroleum—

(c) the manner in which such petroleum shall be packed the mode of transit, and the route by which it is to be taken, and

(d) the stoppage and inspection of it during transit

in the case of both such licenses—

(e) the authority by which the license may be granted

(f) the fee to be charged for it

(g) the quantity of petroleum it is to cover

(h) the conditions which may be inserted in it

(j) the time during which it is to continue in force, and

(k) the renewal of the license

Dangerous Petroleum

Dangerous petroleum in quantities exceeding 40 gallons

7 No quantity of dangerous petroleum exceeding forty gallons shall be imported or transported, or kept by any one person or on the same premises, except under, and in accordance with the conditions of a license from the Local Government granted as next hereinafter provided

Application for license to import transport or possess such petroleum

Every application for such a license shall be in writing and shall declare—

(a) the quantity of such petroleum which it is desired to import transport or possess, as the case may be

(b) the purpose for which the applicant believes that such petroleum will be used and

(c) that petroleum other than dangerous petroleum cannot be used for such purpose

Power to grant license

If the Local Government sees reason to believe that such petroleum will be used for such purpose and that no petroleum other than dangerous petroleum can be used for such purpose it may grant such license for the importation transport or possession (as the case may be) of such petroleum absolutely or subject to such conditions as it thinks fit

Dangerous petroleum not exceeding 40 gallons

8 No quantity of dangerous petroleum equal to or less than forty gallons shall be kept or transported without a license

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply in any case when the quantity of such petroleum kept by any one person or on the same premises or transported does not exceed three gallons and such petroleum is placed in separate glass earthenware or metal vessels each of which contains not more than a pint and is securely stopped 34 & 35 Vic c 105 s 8.

Application of sections 4 and 6

9 Except as hereinbefore provided, the provisions contained in sections four and six in respect of first and second class petroleum shall apply also to dangerous petroleum

Petroleum generally

Vessels containing petroleum to be marked

10 All petroleum— 34 & 35 Vic c 105 s 6.

(a) which is kept at any place after seven days from the date on which it is imported,

(b) which is transported or

(c) which is sold or exposed for sale,

shall be contained in vessels which shall bear an indelible mark or label in conspicuous characters, stating what description of petroleum herein specified the same is Cf Act I of 1878, s. 9

Power to inspect and demand samples

11 Any officer specially authorized in this behalf by the Local Government may require any dealer in petroleum to show him any place and any of the vessels in which any petroleum in his possession is stored or contained, to give him such assistance as he may require for examining the same and to deliver to him samples 34 & 35 Vic c 105 s 11.

of such petroleum on payment of the value of such samples

34 & 35 Vic c 105 s. 11

Notice to be given when officer proposes to test samples.

12 When any such officer has in exercise of the powers conferred by section eleven, or by purchase obtained a sample of petroleum in the possession of a dealer he may give a notice in writing to such dealer informing him that he is about to test such sample or cause the same to be tested with the apparatus and in the manner described in the Schedule hereto annexed at a time and place to be fixed in such notice, and that such person or his Agent may be present at such testing

Ibid

Certificate as to result of such testing

13 On any such testing if it appears to the officer or other person so testing that the petroleum from which such sample has been taken is first class second class, or dangerous petroleum such officer or other person may certify such fact and the certificate so given shall be receivable as evidence in any proceedings which may be taken under this Act against the dealer in whose possession such petroleum was found and shall be prima facie proof of the fact stated therein

Penalty for illegal importation &c of petroleum

14 Any person who in contravention of this Act or of any rules made hereunder imports possesses or transports any petroleum and any person who otherwise contravenes any such rules or any condition contained in a license granted hereunder, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees or with both

34 & 35 Vic c 105 s 63

Penalty for keeping, transporting &c, exposing for sale petroleum in contravention of section 10

15 Any person keeping transporting, selling or exposing for sale petroleum in vessels not marked as prescribed by section ten shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees

34 & 35 Vic c 105 s 12

Penalty for refusing to comply with section 11

16 Any dealer in petroleum who refuses or neglects to shew to any officer authorized under section eleven any place or any of the vessels in which petroleum in his possession is stored or contained or to give him such assistance as he may require for examining the same, or to give him samples of such petroleum on payment of the value of such samples, shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees

Cf Act I of 1878 s 11

Confiscation of petroleum.

17 In any case in which an offence under section fourteen or section fifteen has been committed, the convicting Magistrate may direct that—

(a) the petroleum in respect of which the offence has been committed, or

(b) where the offender is importing or transporting or is in possession of any petroleum exceeding the quantity (if any) which he is permitted to import, transport or possess, as the case may be the whole of the petroleum which he is importing or transporting, or is in possession of,

shall be confiscated,

Miscellaneous

Rules when to have force of law

18 All rules made by the Local Government under this Act shall be published in the official Gazette, and shall thereupon, so far as they are consistent with this Act have the force of law

Provided that no such rule shall be so published without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council

34 & 35 Vic. c 105, s 14.

Power to extend this Act to other substances

19 The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, extend the whole or any portion of this Act to any inflammable substance other than petroleum, and may by such notification fix, in substitution for the quantities of petroleum fixed by sections five seven and eight, the quantities of such substance to which these sections shall apply

The Governor General in Council may by a like notification cancel any notification issued under this section

THE SCHEDULE

Specification explanatory of the Test Apparatus

Committee's recommendations para. 42 & 43 Vic c. 47

The oil cup consists of a cylindrical vessel 2" diameter $2\frac{2}{10}$ height (internal) with outward projecting rim $\frac{5}{10}$" wide $\frac{3}{8}$" from the top and $1\frac{7}{8}$ from the bottom of the cup It is made of gun metal or brass (17 B W G), tinned inside A bracket consisting of a short stout piece of wire bent upwards and terminating in a point is fixed to the inside of the cup to serve as a gauge The distance of the point from the bottom of the cup is $1\frac{1}{2}$ The cup is provided with a close fitting overlapping cover made of brass (22 B W G) which carries the thermometer and test lamp The latter is suspended from two supports from the side by means of trunnions upon which it may be made to oscillate it is provided with a spout the mouth of which is $\frac{1}{16}$ in diameter The socket which is to hold the thermometer is fixed at such an angle and its length is so adjusted, that the bulb of the thermometer when inserted to its full depth, shall be $1\frac{1}{2}$ below the centre of the lid

The cover is provided with three square holes, one in the centre $\frac{5}{10}$" by $\frac{4}{10}$, and two smaller ones, $\frac{3}{10}$" by $\frac{2}{10}$ close to the sides and opposite each other These three holes may be closed and uncovered by means of a slide moving in grooves and having perforations corresponding to those on the lid

In moving the slide so as to uncover the holes the oscillating lamp is caught by a pin fixed in the slide, and tilted in such a way as to bring the end of the spout just below the surface of the lid Upon the slide being pushed back so as to cover the holes, the lamp returns to its original position

Upon the cover, in front of and in line with, the mouth of the lamp, is fixed a white bead the dimensions of which represent the size of the test flame to be used

The bath or heated vessel consists of two flat bottomed copper cylinders (24 B W G), an inner one of 3" diameter and $2\frac{1}{2}$" height, and an outer one of $5\frac{1}{2}$" diameter and $5\frac{3}{4}$" height, they are

soldered to a circular copper plate (20 B W G) perforated in the centre, which forms the top of the bath, in such a manner as to inclose the space between the two cylinders but leaving access to the inner cylinder The top of the bath projects both outwards and inwards about ⅜, that is its diameter is about ⅝" greater than that of the body of the bath, while the diameter of the circular opening in the centre is about the same amount less than that of the inner copper cylinder To the inner projection of the top is fastened by six small screws a flat ring of ebonite the screws being sunk below the surface of the ebonite to avoid metallic contact between the bath and the oil cup The exact distance between the sides and bottom of the bath of the oil lamp is 1½ A split socket similar to that on the cover of the oil cup but set at a right angle allows a thermometer to be inserted into the space between the two cylinders The bath is further provided with a funnel, an overflow pipe, and two loop handles

The bath rests upon a cast iron tripod stand to the ring of which is attached a copper cylinder or jacket (24 B W G) flanged at the top and of such dimensions that the bath while firmly resting on the iron ring, just touches with its projecting top the inward turned flange The diameter of this outer jacket is 6½ One of the three legs of the stand serves as support for the spirit lamp attached to it by means of a small swing bracket The distance of the wick holder from the bottom of the bath is 1

Two thermometers are provided with the apparatus the one for ascertaining the temperature of the bath the other for determining the flashing point The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the water has a long bulb and a piece at the top Its range is from about 90° to 190 Fahrenheit The scale (in degrees of Fahrenheit) is marked on an ivory back fastened to the tube in the usual way it is fitted with a metal collar fitting the socket and the part of the tube below the scale should have a length of about 3½ measured from the lower end of the scale to the end of the bulb The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the oil is fitted with collar and ivory scale in a similar manner to the one described It has a round bulb a space at the top and ranges from about 55 F to 150 F it measures from end of ivory back to bulb 2¼"

NOTE — A model apparatus is kept at ... the Master of the Mint Calcutta

Directions for applying the Test

1 The test apparatus is to be placed for use in a position where it is not exposed to currents of air or draughts

2 The heating vessel or water bath is filled by pouring water into the funnel until it begins to flow out at the spout of the vessel The temperature of the water at the commencement of the test is to be 130 Fahrenheit and this is attained in the first instance either by mixing hot and cold water in the bath or in a vessel from which the bath is filled until the thermometer which is provided for testing the temperature of the water gives the proper indication or by heating the water with the spirit lamp (which is attached to the stand of the apparatus) until the required temperature is indicated

If the water has been heated too highly it is easily reduced to 130 by pouring in cold water little by little (to replace a portion of the warm water) until the thermometer gives the proper reading

When a test has been completed, this water bath is again raised to 130° by placing the lamp underneath and the result is readily obtained while the petroleum cup is being emptied, cooled, and refilled with a fresh sample to be tested The lamp is then turned on its swivel from under the apparatus, and the next test is proceeded with

3 The test lamp is prepared for use by fitting it with a piece of flat plaited candlewick, and filling it with colza or rape oil up to the lower edge of the opening of the spout or wick tube The lamp is trimmed so that when lighted it gives a flame of about 0 15 of an inch diameter and this size of flame which is represented by the projecting white bead on the cover of the oil cup is readily maintained by simple manipulation from time to time with a small wire trimmer

When gas is available it may be conveniently used in place of the little oil lamp, and for this purpose a test flame arrangement for use with gas may be substituted for the lamp

4 The bath having been raised to the proper temperature the oil to be tested is introduced into the petroleum cup being poured in slowly until the level of the liquid just reaches the point of the gauge which is fixed in the cup In warm weather the temperature of the room in which the samples to be tested have been kept should be observed in the first instance and if it exceeds 65 the samples to be tested should be cooled down (to about 60) by immersing the bottle containing them in cold water or by any other convenient method The lid of the cup with the slide closed is then put on and the cup is put into the bath or heating vessel The thermometer in the lid of the cup has been adjusted so as to have its bulb just immersed in the liquid and its position is not under any circumstances to be altered When the cup has been placed in the proper position, the scale of the thermometer faces the operator

5 The test lamp is then placed in position upon the lid of the cup the lead line or pendulum,* which has been fixed in a convenient position in front of the operator is set in motion and the rise of the thermometer in the petroleum cup is watched When the temperature has reached about 66°, the operation of testing is to be commenced, the test flame being applied once for every rise of one degree in the following manner —

The slide is slowly drawn open while the pendulum performs three oscillations, and is closed during the fourth oscillation

NOTE —If it is desired to employ the test apparatus to determine the flashing points of oils of very low volatility the mode of proceeding is to be modified as follows —

The air chamber which surrounds the cup is filled with cold water to a depth of 1½ inches, and the heating vessel or water bath is filled as usual, but also with cold water The lamp is then placed under the apparatus and kept there during the entire operation If a very heavy oil is being dealt with the operation may be commenced with water previously heated to 120, instead of with cold water

* The pendulum is two ( ) feet in length from the point of suspension to the centre of gravity of the weight

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

FOR some time past the dangerous nature of the inflammable oils which are being imported into this country has been engaging the attention of Government. In November, 1878, the notice of the Government of India was first drawn to the subject by the Government of Bombay, with a view, if necessary, to legislation being resorted to to check the importation of dangerous oils. On a reference being made to the Government of Bengal as to the expediency of such legislation, it was found that the subject had already been for some time before that Government, and that a Committee had been appointed for the purpose of considering the question of these oils in all its bearings. This Committee which was composed of officials, experts and gentlemen interested in the trade has presented its report, in which it strongly urges the necessity for legislation and puts forward certain recommendations as to the lines on which in its opinion such legislation should proceed.

2. These recommendations follow with certain modifications introduced to meet the special circumstances, climatic and otherwise, of India the outlines of 34 & 35 Vic. cap. 105 (since amended by 42 & 43 Vic. cap. 47) which is the principal Act governing this subject in the United Kingdom. They appear well adapted to carry out the object which the Committee had in view, namely practical security of life and property with the minimum of restrictions on an important and rapidly developing trade.

3. The following is the general substance of the conclusions of the Committee:—

1st.—All petroleum should be divided into three classes, namely:—

(a) first class petroleum with a flashing point at or above 103° F.
(b) second class petroleum with a flashing point between 83° and 103° F.
} According to Abel's close test.

2ndly.—All petroleum should be tested by Abel's close test which has recently been adopted in the United Kingdom (see 42 & 43 Vic. cap. 47, the Petroleum Act, 1879) for the purposes of the Petroleum Act, 1871, in preference to the old or open test which was fixed by that Act.

3rdly.—As second class petroleum flashes only at a temperature of 83° or 10° higher than the temperature (73°) at which petroleum is considered safe enough to be exempted from the provisions of the English Petroleum Act (see 42 & 43 Vic. Cap. 47) and may therefore be regarded as at all events fairly safe, the importation, storage and transport of such petroleum, as well as of first class petroleum, should be left practically free, while the importation, storage and transport of dangerous petroleum, if not actually prohibited, should be subjected to such severe restrictions as practically to be so for purposes of ordinary use.

4. The Government of India has considered this report and is disposed to concur generally in its conclusions and in the scheme of legislation contained in the Committee's recommendations. As the Government of Madras and the Chief Commissioner of Burma as well as the Government of Bombay and Bengal are in favor of legislation, the Government of India is willing to accept the recommendation of the Committee that the legislation to be undertaken should be in the Council of the Governor General, and accordingly the present Bill which embodies generally the recommendations of the Committee has been prepared.

5. As it seems desirable to check at once and generally the trade in dangerous petroleum (and it would be unfair if all ports were not put on the same footing as to the importation of first class and second class petroleum) the provisions of the Bill relating to dangerous petroleum and the importation of first class and second class petroleum are made to extend to the whole of India, but its other provisions are only applicable at the discretion of the Local Government.

The details of the measure have been left in a great measure to rules to be framed by the Local Government, with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, as this seems the most convenient course in a case of this sort where the local circumstances and peculiar features of the trade of various places have to be considered.

6. A section has been added to the Bill corresponding with section 14 of 34 & 35 Vic. cap. 105, enabling the Governor General in Council hereafter to extend the Act to substances other than petroleum and to adapt certain of the provisions of the Act to the case of such substances.

7. The length of the pendulum which was by an oversight omitted from the description of Professor Abel's test in the first schedule to the 42 & 43 Vic. cap. 47 has been inserted in a foot note to the schedule of the Bill on information furnished by Mr. Redwood.

8. The opportunity has been taken to repeal the thirty-seventh section of the Indian Ports Act relating to inflammable oils and Bengal Act No. III of 1865 which regulates in Calcutta and Howrah the importation and storage of inflammable oils, as the present Bill will make those enactments unnecessary.

The 3rd July, 1880.

D. FITZPATRICK,
Secretary to the Govt. of India,
Legislative Department.

[First publication]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 6th August, 1880, and was referred to a Select Committee —

No 13 of 1880

A Bill for the determination of claims to Táj Mahal's pension

Preamble.

WHEREAS by a treaty dated the 24th Shabán 1244 Hijrá, corresponding with the first day of March 1829, and made between His Majesty the King of Oudh and the Government of the Hon'ble the East India Company, it was (amongst other things) agreed that a certain pension therein specified should be paid by the English Government to one Nawáb Táj Mahal therein named, and that if she should die leaving an heir or heirs the English Government might at its election continue as before such pension to her heirs or make over to them the principal sum proportionate to such pension according to the rate thereinbefore mentioned,

and whereas the said Táj Mahal is now dead and doubts exist as to who are her heirs and it is therefore expedient to provide for the appointment of a person to represent her estate for the purpose of receiving such pension and whereas the Secretary of State in Council is desirous of making over to the persons entitled to receive the said pension the principal sum proportionate thereto as provided in the said treaty and it is expedient to empower the said Secretary of State in Council to capitalize the said pension pending the appointment of a person as aforesaid It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title

Commencement

1 This Act may be called "Táj Mahal's Pension Act 1880" and it shall come into force at once

Act XXVII 1860 s 2

No obligation to pay except on production of certificate

2 The Secretary of State for India in Council shall not be bound to pay the said pension or any portion thereof to any person claiming the same except on the production by such person of a certificate granted in the manner hereinafter provided, authorizing him to receive the same

Act XXVII 1860, s 3

Certificate to be obtained by application to the District Court

3 Any person considering himself entitled to the said pension or any portion thereof may apply in writing to the Court of the District Judge of Lucknow (hereinafter called the District Court) for a certificate authorizing him to receive the same

Form of application.

The application shall be in such form and shall contain such particulars as the Governor General in Council may from time to time by rules to be published in the Gazette of India, direct

Publication of application and notice to persons desiring to oppose it

4 The District Court shall fix a day for hearing the application and shall cause to be stuck up in the court-house and otherwise published or made known at the expense of the applicant in such manner as it thinks fit a copy of the application with a notice stating the time and place at which it will be heard, and calling upon all persons claiming to have a better right than the applicant to the grant of the certificate to come in and oppose the application

Procedure at hearing when no opposition

5 On the day so fixed or any subsequent day to which the Court may adjourn the hearing, the Court shall, if no person claiming to have a better right than the applicant to the grant of the certificate is present, hear the application and if after recording the evidence produced by the applicant in support of his claim and making such further enquiry (if any) as it thinks necessary, the Court is of opinion that the applicant has established his claim it shall make an order for granting him a certificate

In the event of the applicant not having, in the opinion of the Court established such claim it shall make an order dismissing his application

Procedure in case of opposition

6 In any case in which any person claiming to have a better right than the applicant to the grant of the certificate is present the Court shall after hearing the application and recording the evidence produced by the applicant in support of his claim hear such person and record the evidence produced by him in support of his claim and shall then after making such further enquiry (if any) as it thinks necessary determine which of the parties (if either) has established his claim to the certificate and shall make an order for granting the same accordingly

In the event of neither party having in the opinion of the Court established his claim the Court shall make an order dismissing both the application and the counter claim

Appeal to the High Court

7 When any order dismissing an application under section five or any order under section six is made an appeal shall lie by any party to the proceedings who deems himself aggrieved by such order to the High Court which may make an order dismissing such appeal or granting a certificate or otherwise reversing or varying the order of the District Court as it thinks fit

Period of limitation for appeal

8. The period of limitation for an appeal under section seven shall be sixty days from the date of the order appealed against

In computing such period and in all respects not herein specified the limitation of such appeals shall be governed by the provisions of the Indian Limitation Act 1877 See Act X of 1880 s 200

Form of certificate

9 A certificate granted under this Act shall specify the payments which the person to whom it is granted is entitled to receive, and shall contain such other particulars as the Governor General in Council may from time to time prescribe in this behalf

Effect of certificate

10 (a) A certificate granted by the District Court under section five or by the High Court on appeal under section seven, or Act XXVII of 1860 s 5

(b) when a certificate has been granted under section six and the period of limitation fixed by section eight has expired without the institution of an appeal, such certificate

shall, while it remains in force, be conclusive evidence against the said Secretary of State in Council of the right of the person to whom it has been granted to receive the payments specified therein and shall, unless or until it is rescinded and the authority rescinding it has given to the said Secretary of State in Council notice of such rescission, empower such person to give to the said Secretary of State in Council a full discharge for any such payment

Act XXVII of 1860 s 6, para 2

Right of third parties against holder of certificate saved

11 Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to affect the right of any person to recover by suit from the holder of a certificate granted under this Act the amount of any payment made to him in virtue of such certificate

Act XXVII of 1860 s 5

Court may take security from grantee of certificate

12 The Court ordering any certificate to be granted under this Act may if it thinks fit direct that before such certificate is granted, such security (if any) as it thinks necessary shall be taken from the person to whom such certificate is to be granted for his rendering an account of the payments to be received by him in virtue of such certificate to any person who may be entitled to recover from him in manner referred to in section eleven the whole or any part of such payments

Act XXVII of 1860 s 6 para 3

Court may grant fresh certificate to person who has recovered by regular suit amount paid to holder of old certificate

13 The District Court may on the application of any person who has recovered by suit from the holder of a certificate the amount of any payment made to him in virtue of such certificate grant a certificate to such person in supersession wholly or in part as the case may be, of the former certificate

No appeal shall lie from any order under this section

Act X of 1865 s 238

Effect of fresh certificate

On the grant of a fresh certificate under this section the former certificate shall be deemed to be rescinded wholly or in part (as the case may be)

Proceedings to be regulated by Code of Civil Procedure

14 In all proceedings under this Act the District Court and the High Court shall as far as may be and except as herein otherwise provided exercise the powers and follow the procedure conferred on and prescribed for a Court of first instance and a Court of appeal respectively by the Code of Civil Procedure Provided that nothing contained in chapter XLV of the said Code shall apply to any order made in any such proceeding

Matters decided in civil suits to be treated as res judicata

15 The provisions of section thirteen of the said Code shall apply to all cases under section six of this Act in which the question of heirship to the said Táj Mahal having been directly and substantially in issue in a suit in a Court of competent jurisdiction between the claimants or between parties under whom they or any of them claim, has been heard and finally determined by such Court

Indemnity as to payments already made

16 All payments heretofore made by or on behalf of the said Secretary of State in Council under the said treaty shall be deemed to have been made in accordance with law Provided that nothing in this section shall affect the right of any person to recover by suit the amount of any such payment from the person to whom the same has been made

Government empowered to capitalize the amount of the pension

17 The said Secretary of State in Council may, pending the grant of a certificate as hereinbefore provided invest in securities of the Government of India the principal sum proportionate to the pension of the said Táj Mahal according to the rate mentioned in the said treaty

On capitalization all claim to pension barred

And, thereupon, all further claim to such pension shall cease and the persons obtaining a certificate in manner hereinbefore provided shall be entitled in lieu of such pension to the Government Securities in which the principal sum proportionate to such pension has been invested

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Treaty dated the 24th Shabán 1244 Hijra corresponding with the 1st day of March 1829 and made between His Majesty the King of Oudh and the Government of the Honorable the East India Company to repay the sum His Majesty has advanced in loan

In the year 1829 the then King of Oudh lent to the East India Company the sum of sixty two lákhs and forty thousand rupees on the terms embodied in the treaty noted in the margin The only part of its provisions which it is here necessary to notice is that by which the Company undertook to pay interest on the loan at the rate of five per cent per annum and further to pay a certain portion of this interest by way of what is called in the document a pension" to a lady known as Táj Mahal during life, and on her death, in certain events to her heirs with the option, however of paying to such heirs a principal sum proportionate to the pension of Táj Mahal instead of continuing to them such pension

2 Táj Mahal is now dead and no less than five persons who claim to be her heirs and therefore entitled to succeed to her pension, have come forward Even if all these claimants were to settle their rights in the Courts of law and some one of them was to obtain a decision declaring him to be the heir the Government could not be sure that he was the right heir, for the family is so scattered and there are such contradictory accounts of its history that some other claimant might at any moment start up

3 The present Bill has been prepared to remove this difficulty It enacts that the Government shall not be bound to make any payment under the treaty to any person claiming as heir to Táj Mahal unless he produces a certificate to be granted by the Civil Court authorizing him to receive such payment, it provides full and complete indemnity to Government when it makes any such payment to any person producing such certificate, and it carefully preserves the rights of third parties against the persons to whom such payments may be made A simple procedure is prescribed for the Civil Court in matters relating to the grant of a certificate, and an appeal within a certain limited period is given from its decision to the Court of the Judicial Commissioner, whose decision is to be final All payments under the treaty which may heretofore have been made by the Government are validated

4 Lastly, the Bill provides for the capitalization of the pension contemplated by the treaty being carried out in anticipation of the grant of the certificate The Government is not bound to continue paying to the pensioners the present high rate of interest, but might, under the terms of the document, pay off the capitalized value of the pension at once As the Government certainly would do this if it could ascertain who the rightful heir is, the claim of any heir succeeding is practically a claim for the capital

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to agricultural tenancies in the Central Provinces

Preamble

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to agricultural tenancies in the Central Provinces It is hereby enacted as follows —

CHAPTER I

PRELIMINARY

Short title

1 This Act may be called "The Central Provinces Tenancy Act, 1890"

Local extent.

It extends to all the territories for the time being administered by the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces, except those specified in Part VI of schedule I of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874 B. 1.

Commencement

and it shall come into force on such date as the Chief Commissioner, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may fix in this behalf

Enactments repealed

2 The enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed are repealed. B. 2.

Suits and applications instituted and made under any such enactment, and pending at the time this Act comes into force before any officer before whom they would have been instituted or made if this Act had been in force, shall be deemed, so far as may be, to have been respectively instituted and made under this Act

B 3

Interpretation clause

3 In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context the following words and phrases shall be construed as next hereinafter provided, that is to say —

Land.

(1) "Land" means land which is let or occupied for agricultural purposes or for purposes ancillary to agriculture, and includes the sites of buildings appurtenant to such land

Tenant

(2) "Tenant" means a person who holds land of another person and is or but for a special contract would be, liable to pay rent for such land to such other person But it does not include a farmer thikadar or other similar lessee of a whole village or a portion thereof not being less than one half

Explanation —An inferior proprietor is not as such a tenant

Landlord

(3) "Landlord" means the person of whom a tenant holds land and to whom such tenant is or but for a special contract would be, liable to pay rent for such land but when the right to receive rent, or any other right which a landlord is ordinarily entitled to exercise is for the time being vested in a person other than the person of whom the land is held such other person shall be deemed to be the landlord in respect of the right so vested

A superior proprietor is not, as such, a landlord

Act XVIII of 1873 s 3 (2)

Rent

(4) "Rent" means whatever is paid delivered or rendered in money kind or service, by a tenant to a landlord, on account of the use or occupation of land

C P Rev Bill sec 4 (18)

Pay and payable

(5) "Pay" and "payable" used with reference to rent include "deliver" and "deliverable"

Arrear

(6) "Arrear" means an instalment of rent which is not paid on or before the date on which it is payable

Holding

(7) "Holding" means and includes all land held by a tenant under the same lease or conditions

Village

(8) "Village" includes any local area which at the last preceding settlement has been recognized as a village, or which the Chief Commissioner may from time to time declare to be a village for the purposes of this Act

Cf Act XVIII of 1873 sec 44; Act XIX of 1868 sec 23; Panjáb, sec 37; Irish Act sec. 70.

Improvement.

(9) "Improvement" means with reference to a holding any work which not diminishing the value of any other part of the landlord's estate, adds to the letting value of such holding is suitable to it and consistent with the purpose for which it was let, and, if not executed on the holding, is either executed directly for its benefit or is after execution made directly beneficial to it

It includes the reclaiming, enclosing or clearing of lands for agricultural purposes, and the renewal or reconstruction of works which, when first undertaken were improvements

But it does not include any class of embankments constructed for the purpose of flooding or retaining water on fields which the Chief Commissioner may from time to time declare to be excluded from this definition

Explanation —A work which benefits several holdings may be deemed to be, with respect to each of them an improvement

Agricultural Year

(10) "Agricultural year" means the year commencing on the first day of June

Absolute occupancy tenant

(11) "Absolute occupancy tenant" means, in reference to any land, a tenant who in any record of rights made before the passing of this Act was recorded in respect of such land as an "absolute occupancy raiyat" or in terms equivalent thereto — C P Rev Bill s 4 (19).

Sir land

(12) "Sir land" means—

(a) land recorded as "sir" in the papers of the last preceding settlement or — C P Revenue Bill sec 4 (7).

(b) land not so recorded but which has been continuously cultivated by the proprietor or one of the proprietors thereof for not less than twelve years, or

(c) land which being left uncultivated otherwise than in the ordinary course of husbandry has been broken up by the proprietor or one of the proprietors thereof and continuously cultivated by him for not less than six years

Provided that such land has not after the date of such settlement or the expiry of such period of twelve years or six years (as the case may be) been continuously for a period of three years unoccupied by such proprietor

Explanation (i) —Land is not unoccupied by the proprietor within the meaning of this definition when it is leased out by him with an express reservation of his sir rights

Explanation (ii) — "Sir land" includes "bhogra" land in Sambalpur

Record of rights

(13) "Record of rights" includes the "supplementary administration paper" prepared at the time of making a settlement before the passing of this Act. — C P Revenue Bill sec 4 (20)

Revenue officer

(14) "Revenue-officer" in any provision of this Act means such Revenue officer appointed under the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act 1880 as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time direct by name or by virtue of his office to discharge the functions of a Revenue officer under such provision — New

OF CERTAIN RELATIONS BETWEEN LANDLORDS AND TENANTS IN GENERAL

(A) —Of Rent generally

Presumption that rent continues unchanged

4 In all suits and proceedings between landlords and tenants it shall be presumed until the contrary is shown that the rent for any year payable by a tenant is if the area of his holding remains unaltered, that which was payable by him in the last preceding year

B. 6

5 When the rent of a holding is changed under any provision of this Act the change shall take effect from the commencement of the agricultural year following the date of the application upon which such change is ordered Provided that, if the application is made on the ground mentioned in section sixty seven section eighty nine clause (d) or section ninety clause (c), the change shall take effect from such date as the Court fixes

Date from which orders changing rents operate

B. 10; No. 8 p 51 Act XVIII of 1873 sec 21.

6 In the absence of any contract to the contrary rents shall be payable in such instalments and on such dates as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time by rule prescribe and in the absence of such rule according to local usage

Dates on which rents are payable

B 11 Compare Act XVIII of 1873 secs 50 to 55

7 When any landlord upon tender being made to him by any tenant of any instalment of rent payable in money refuses to accept the same, or to grant a receipt therefor and

Tenant may in certain cases deposit rent with Revenue officer

when any tenant in the case mentioned in section forty seven desires the appointment of a person to receive rents payable in money and no such appointment is made and when any tenant in any other case is doubtful as to the person entitled to receive any such rent from him,

such tenant may apply to a Revenue officer for permission to deposit the amount of rent which he believes to be due and such officer shall receive such deposit unless after examining the applicant the application appears unnecessary or made in bad faith

B 11 last para

8 When any deposit has been received under the provision of section seven it shall unless it appears that it was made in bad faith, or that it was less than the amount due be deemed to be a payment made by the tenant to the landlord or the person appointed to receive such rent as the case may be

Deposit to be deemed a payment to the landlord

A Revenue officer receiving any such deposit may pay the amount thereof to any person appearing to him to be entitled to receive the same or may in his discretion retain the same pending the decision of a Civil Court

Revenue officer how to deal with deposit

No suit or other proceeding shall be instituted against the Secretary of State in Council or against any officer of the Government in respect of anything done by a revenue officer under the last preceding clause but nothing herein contained shall prevent any person entitled to receive the amount of any deposit from recovering the same from a person to whom it has been paid

B 12 Compare Act XVIII of 1873 sec 48

9 Every tenant from whom his landlord levies any unauthorized cess or any rent exceeding the amount payable by such tenant shall be entitled to recover by suit in a Civil Court, from the landlord the amount so wrongfully levied, together with such penalty not exceeding double such amount as the Court thinks fit

Penalty for exaction by landlord

Compare Act XVIII of 1873 s 48.

When any landlord withholds a receipt for rent paid by a tenant or in giving such receipt omits to specify the period or crop in respect of which the payment is made, such tenant shall be entitled to recover, by suit in a Civil Court, from such landlord such penalty not exceeding double the amount of the rent so paid as the Court thinks fit

For not giving receipt

The period of limitation for a suit instituted under this section shall be one year from the date on which the cause of action accrues, in other respects the limitation of such suits shall be governed by the Indian Limitation Act, 1877

B 7; No. 4, pp. 1 2.

10 Whenever any portion of the Government revenue payable in respect of any land is remitted or suspended in consequence of the cultivation of such land being obstructed or the crops on such land being damaged or destroyed by drought, flood, locusts or any other cause beyond the control of a cultivator the Chief Commissioner may by written order direct that a tenant of any portion of such land may in any suit brought against him by his landlord for the rent due in respect of such portion of land for the season in which such obstruction damage or destruction occurred, prove that such obstruction damage or destruction occurred to a material extent upon such portion of land and the Court may thereupon remit or suspend such portion of the rent due as it deems reasonable

Suspension or remission of rent in certain cases of drought &c

11 A lease or other contract permitting a tenant to hold without payment of rent or fixing the rent payable by a tenant at an amount or value less than the amount of the revenue payable in respect of the holding shall be deemed to fix the rent at the amount of such revenue

No rent to be less than the revenue

12 When any land in any village in either of the districts of Chanda and Nimar has been recorded as waste at the last preceding settlement and any person having been for the three years preceding continuously cultivating in such village enters into any contract whereby he agrees to pay for such land any rent at a rate exceeding that which the Chief Commissioner may have prescribed in this behalf and caused to be entered in the Record of rights at such settlement such contract shall be deemed to be a contract to pay rent at the rate so prescribed and entered

Special rules as to contracts fixing rent in Chanda and Nimar

When any such land has not been recorded as waste at the last preceding settlement and any person enters into any contract whereby he agrees to pay for such land rent at a rate exceeding the rate so prescribed and entered such contract shall be deemed to be a contract to pay at the rate so prescribed and entered

Nothing in this section applies to sir land or land taken under a sub lease

(B) —Of Rents taken by Division or Estimate of the Crops

B 14 Act XVIII of 1873 s 42.

13 When rent is taken by division of the produce, or by estimate or appraisement of a crop, if either the landlord or the tenant neglects to attend, either personally or by agent at the proper time, or there is a dispute regarding the division of the said produce or the quantity or value of the crop an application may be made by either party to a Revenue officer requesting that a commission may issue for such division, estimate or appraisement

Procedure for dividing or estimating crops

If either party satisfies the officer that he has reason to believe that the other party will not so attend, or that if he does so attend, there will be a dispute regarding such division, estimate or appraisement the officer may in his discretion order the issue of such commission

Appointment of assessors

14 When a Revenue officer appoints any person a Commissioner for any of the purposes mentioned in section thirteen such officer may in his discretion direct such person to associate with himself any other persons as assessors and may give instructions regarding the number and mode of selection of such assessors and the procedure to be followed in making such division, estimate or appraisement

B 16: Ajmer Land Regulation sec 49

Remedy for error in division

15 If, in any division under the foregoing provisions either party receives less than the share to which he is entitled such party may within three months from the date on which such division is completed institute a suit against the other party to recover the value of the additional portion of the crop due to him at the price which prevailed on such date

If no such suit is instituted within the said period of three months the division shall for all purposes be deemed as between the parties thereto to have been rightly made

Effect of estimate

16 When a crop has been estimated or appraised under the foregoing provisions such estimate or appraisement shall be reduced to writing and signed by the Commissioner making the same and shall be submitted to the Revenue officer by whom such Commissioner was appointed

Ajmer Land Regulation s 51

Either party may within three months from the date on which an estimate or appraisement is submitted under this section institute a suit against the other party to set aside such estimate or appraisement on the ground that it was made in bad faith and on no other ground. If no such suit is instituted within the period thus limited such estimate or appraisement shall be as between the parties thereto for all purposes final and conclusive

No 3 pp 48 to 51

(C) —Of the Landlord's Lien upon the Produce of a Tenant's Holding

B 18

Definitions

17 In this section and sections eighteen to twenty two both inclusive the following expressions shall have the meanings hereby attached to them —

(a) "landlord's fortnight" means with reference to a holding a period of fourteen days next after the date on which an instalment of rent has fallen due in respect of such holding

(b) "produce of a tenant's holding" includes standing crops and other ungathered products of such holding and crops and other products reaped or gathered but not stored otherwise than in exercise of a right or power conferred by section nineteen

Explanation —Crops and other products deposited on a threshing floor or place for treading out the grain or the like shall not by reason of their being so deposited, be deemed to be stored

Priority conferred on attachments of crops made by landlords

18 When the produce of a tenant's holding is attached in execution of a decree for an arrear due in respect of such holding the attachment shall in respect of such part of the claim as may be for an arrear which fell due within one year next before the date of such attachment prevail against any prior assignment of or charge on such produce by way of sale mortgage or otherwise and if there are prior attachments, the landlord shall in respect of the said part of the claim, be held to be the creditor first entitled to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale

B 20 Act X of 1859 sec 118.

Tenant may reap [illegible]

19 Standing crops and other ungathered products of a holding may while under attachment by any order of a Civil Court, be reaped and gathered by the tenant and may be stored in such granaries or other places as are commonly used by him for the purpose If the tenant neglects to do so the Civil Court shall cause the said crops and products to be reaped and gathered and stored either in such granaries or other places aforesaid or in some other convenient place in the neighbourhood

[illegible]

20 If the produce of a tenant's holding is attached by order of a Civil Court on the application of any person other than the landlord it shall not be brought to sale—

(a) if the attachment is made during a landlord's fortnight before the end of such fortnight

(b) if the attachment is made at any other time before the end of the landlord's fortnight next ensuing

If having been so attached it is again within the landlord's fortnight mentioned in clause (a) or clause (b) attached before judgment in a suit brought by the landlord to recover the instalment [illegible] which fell due in respect of the holding at the beginning of such fortnight the sale shall be further deferred until the decision of the landlord's suit

Provided that no sale shall be deferred under this section—

(c) if the landlord consents that it shall be held or

(d) if when the attachment of the Civil Court has been made within a landlord's fortnight the amount of the instalment which fell due at the beginning of such fortnight has been paid to the landlord or into Court or

( ) if when the attachment has been made at any other time the amount of the instalment falling due at the beginning of the landlord's fortnight next ensuing has been paid to the landlord or into Court or

(d) when the produce is liable to speedy natural decay

[illegible]

21 In the case of a sale under the proviso (b) of section twenty the nett proceeds of the sale shall be retained by the Court until the date on which the produce would otherwise have been sold and attachments made by the landlord shall in respect of such proceeds have the same priority which they would have had in respect of the produce if it had not been brought to immediate sale

Attachment [illegible] in suits for [illegible]

22 If, within a landlord's fortnight a landlord makes an application to attach before judgment in respect of an arrear falling due at the beginning of such fortnight the produce of the tenant's holding or the nett proceeds of the sale of such produce retained by the Court

under section twenty one the Court shall make such attachment accordingly and such attachment shall be maintained up to judgment notwithstanding any objection made thereto But if it should afterwards appear that such application was vexatiously and unnecessarily made the Court may award to any party aggrieved thereby such compensation as it thinks fit

(D) —Of Surrender and Abandonment by Tenants

B 24. 23 Except as otherwise provided by contract between the parties any tenant desiring to surrender his holding may before the first day of April in any agricultural year —

Notice of surrender to be given by tenant

(a) present to his landlord a notice in writing declaring his intention to surrender such holding at the end of such year

(b) apply to such Civil Court as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time appoint in this behalf to serve such notice upon such landlord

Every landlord to whom a notice is presented under this section shall be bound to give a written receipt for the same and every Court to which an application is made to serve a notice under this section shall comply with such application

B 25 24 When such notice has been so presented and acknowledged before the first day of April in any agricultural year or when on an application made before the first day of April in any such year such notice is so served before the first day of May in such year the tenancy in respect of which such notice has been presented or served shall terminate at the end of such year

Tenancy when terminated by such notice

B 26. 25 Any tenant who except with the consent of his landlord or in the exercise of a right conferred by contract surrenders or abandons his holding otherwise than as provided by sections twenty three and twenty four shall be liable for the rent which would have been payable by him during the whole of the agricultural year in which he so surrenders or abandons his holding and the whole of the agricultural year next following if his tenancy had continued Provided that no such tenant shall be liable for such rent in respect of any portion of such following year during which the holding or any portion thereof has been in the actual occupation of the landlord or let by him to another tenant

Consequence of irregular surrender or abandonment

B 28 26 No tenant shall be entitled to surrender a part only of his holding except in the exercise of a right conferred by contract or with the consent of his landlord

Surrender to be of the entire holding

(F) —Of Ejectment

B 29 27 No tenant shall be ejected from his holding by or at the instance of his landlord except—

No ejectment by landlord except as herein provided

See s 60 (a) by his landlord in exercise of a right hereinafter conferred or

(b) by a Civil Court at the instance of his landlord as next hereinafter provided

B 30 28 A tenant may be ejected from his holding by a Civil Court in the following modes that is to say —

Ejectment by Civil Court—

(a) in execution of a decree for ejectment

in execution of decree for ejectment

(b) under a special order made in the execution of a decree for an arrear due in respect of such holding, or

in execution of decree for arrears

(c) if he is a tenant for a term, or an ordinary tenant or a sub lessee of a former tenant on an application by the landlord under one of the provisions relating to such tenants hereinafter contained See ss 60, 71 & 49

on an application under certain provisions of this Act

29 When on the sixteenth day of May in any agricultural year, or such other day of the year as the Chief Commissioner may by rule fix in substitution for the sixteenth of May in this behalf the landlord has obtained a decree against the tenant for an arrear of rent of any land and the amount of such decree or any portion of such amount remains unpaid, B 32; Act XVIII of 1873 ss 34 & 35

Ejectment in execution of a decree for arrears

the landlord may apply to the Court having authority to execute such decree to make an order directing that the tenant shall be ejected from such land and the Court may make such order

Provided that no ejectment shall be made under this section at any time less than fifteen days from the date of the decree

30 Any landlord who has obtained in respect of any holding a decree for ejectment or an order under section twenty nine or who is entitled under the provisions hereinafter contained to make the application next hereinafter mentioned B 33.

Application to a Civil Court to eject

may apply to the Court which made such decree or order or where the application is not based upon any such decree or order, to such civil Court as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time appoint in this behalf to eject his tenant from such holding 31 The Court to which an application is made under section thirty shall, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained eject such tenant B 34.

Procedure thereon

Provided that when an application is made to a Court to make an ejectment on a date after the fifteenth day of June and before the fifteenth day of April in any agricultural year such Court if it finds that the tenant has not sub let and that the holding has been cultivated in accordance with local usage may, instead of directing that the ejectment be at once proceeded with order it to be postponed to a date after the fifteenth day of April in such year Compare Act XXVIII of 1868 sec 21 and Act XIX of 1868, ss 38 & 39

32 When a tenant is ejected from his holding, he shall in the absence of any custom or special agreement to the contrary, be entitled— B 35; Compare Act XVIII of 1873 s 42

Rights of tenant in respect of crops and land prepared for sowing

(a) at the option of the landlord either to retain possession of any land comprised in such holding which he has sown previous to the time of ejectment and to use such land for the purpose of tending and gathering in the crops sown, or to receive from the landlord the estimated value of the labour and capital expended by him in preparing and sowing such land and tending such crops, and

(b) to receive from the landlord the estimated value of the labour and capital expended by him in preparing for sowing any land comprised in such holding but not sown

Compare Act XXVIII of 1868, sec 27

Provided that no tenant shall be entitled to retain possession of any land or receive compensation in respect thereof under this section when he has cultivated or prepared such land contrary to local usage, or to retain possession of any land or receive any compensation in respect of any cultivation or preparation which his landlord being in a position to make an application under section thirty, has by a notice in writing forbidden him to undertake

Payment by tenant for occupation of land under section 32

33 When a landlord elects under clause (a) of section thirty two to allow a tenant to retain possession of any land for the purpose specified in that section such tenant shall pay to such landlord for the use and occupation of such land during the period for which he is allowed to retain possession of the same such portion of the yearly rent of the holding as the Court may deem reasonable

Account to be taken generally between landlord and tenant

34 A Court ejecting a tenant under section thirty shall inquire into and determine all claims under this Act by the landlord against such tenant or by such tenant against the landlord and the decision of such Court upon any such claim shall be final and conclusive

Procedure when on ejectment a sum is found to be payable by the landlord to the tenant

35 When it appears to a Court making an ejectment that the amount payable by the landlord as such to the tenant exceeds the amount payable by the tenant as such to the landlord it shall unless the landlord and tenant come to an arrangement regarding the payment of such excess sum fix a time within which it must be paid into Court

If such sum is so paid within the time fixed, the Court shall eject the tenant and if such sum is not so paid within such time shall dismiss the application for ejectment

but nothing herein contained shall prevent a landlord from making a fresh application for ejectment

Transfer of holding while suit for arrears is pending

36 When a tenant against whom a suit for arrears has been instituted transfers his holding or any part thereof and a decree is passed against such tenant in such suit any order made in execution of such decree under section twenty nine may be executed either against such tenant or against such transferee as if he were the original tenant

When proceedings to eject to be stayed

37 If, during the course of proceedings to eject in execution of an order made under section twenty nine the amount of the decree for arrears and the cost of execution of such decree are realized the proceedings shall be stayed

Remedy of tenant illegally ejected

38 Any tenant who has been ejected in contravention of section twenty seven may within one year from the date of his ejectment sue in a Civil Court for reinstatement or for compensation or for both, and such Court shall if it finds that the ejectment was illegal reinstate the tenant, or, in case he has applied for compensation, ascertain the amount of actual damage which he has sustained by the ejectment and award to him such amount together with such further sum not exceeding two hundred rupees, as it thinks reasonable compensation for the trouble and annoyance caused to him by the ejectment

If within the said period of one year the tenant does not sue under this section, his interest (if any) in the land and his right (if any) to compensation shall cease

(F) —Of Improvements and Compensation therefor

Preferential right to improve

39 In all suits and proceedings between landlords and tenants it shall be presumed, until the contrary is shown that save as provided in section ninety five landlords have a preferential right to construct tanks pakka wells and permanent buildings on the holdings of their tenants B 42

The Chief Commissioner may from time to time by rule prescribe the manner in which tenants desiring to make improvements shall give notice thereof to landlords who have a preferential right to make them and may fix the time to be allowed for the exercise of such right

Compensation for improvements to be paid to tenant on ejectment

40 If any tenant or any person from whom he has derived his tenancy by inheritance or transfer, has made improvements in his holding such tenant shall be entitled to be compensated for such improvements when he is ejected and shall not be ejected by order of any Court until such compensation has been made or provided for to the satisfaction of the Court B 43 Compare Act XXVIII of 1868 sec 37 Act XIX of 1868 sec 22 Act XIX of 1873 sec 54 Irish Act, secs 3 4, 15 21 and 70

Provided that no compensation shall be claimable under this section in respect of an improvement in any of the following cases namely —

(a) when the tenant is a tenant of sir land and the improvement has been made in such land without obtaining the express consent of his landlord thereto

(b) when the landlord had a preferential right to make such improvement and the tenant has made it without giving such notice and allowing such time as is prescribed under section thirty nine or when no such notice or time is prescribed without giving due notice and allowing reasonable time to his landlord to make it

(c) when the tenant having contracted not to make such improvement without giving the landlord reasonable notice to make it, has made it without giving such notice

(d) when the tenant has made the improvement in pursuance of a contract or under a lease binding him to make such improvement without compensation

Improvements made by a tenant before the passing of this Act in lands other than sir land shall be deemed to have been made after notice to and with the permission of his landlord unless it is shown that the landlord forbade the tenant to make the improvement and was ready to make it himself or that the tenant contracted in writing not to make such improvement

Principle on which compensation to be assessed

41 In estimating the compensation to be made for an improvement under section forty the Court shall have regard— B 44; No 4 p 12.

(a) to the labour and capital expended by the tenant in such improvement, and

(b) to the amount by which the letting value of the holding or its produce or the value thereof is likely to be increased by such improvement

Provided that in no case shall the compensation for any improvement exceed the amount for which it could have been made by the landlord or the amount by which it has increased the selling value of the holding

Provided also that if a landlord has in consideration of an improvement allowed a tenant to hold at a rent lower than the rent which would have been payable if such improvement had not been made the amount of rent thus remitted shall be deemed to have been a payment by the landlord made towards the cost of the improvement

Explanation —In this section the words letting value mean the value of the holding if let at a rack rent

B 46 42 Compensation for improvements may be made in money to be paid by such instalments as the Court thinks fit unless both landlord and tenant agree that it should be made in any other manner, in which case it shall be made accordingly

(c) refer the parties to the Civil Court

B 59 52 If a landlord or tenant refuses or neglects to execute any instrument which he may be directed to execute under section fifty one the Officer may himself execute such instrument and the instrument so executed shall be of the same force and effect as if it had been executed by the person who refused or neglected to execute it

If landlord or tenant refuses to execute instrument Revenue officer may execute it

B. 60: Compare Punjab Act, s. 6: Oudh, s. 27: Act X, sec. 24.

Applications to measure or ascertain condition of holdings.

53 If any landlord or tenant desires that the extent of any holding should be ascertained or that evidence relating to any improvement made in respect thereof by either of them, or to the state of such holding at any specified time, should be recorded he may apply to a Revenue officer, and such Officer shall thereupon make, or cause to be made such enquiry as he thinks fit with a view to ascertain or record the matters the ascertainment or record of which is desired by the applicant Provided that—no action shall be taken by any Revenue officer under this section if it appears that the application is unnecessary or is made vexatiously or that the matter the ascertainment of which is desired is being enquired into by any Civil Court

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the right of a landlord to enter on any holding for the purpose of measuring or examining the same

When any matter has been ascertained and recorded under this section both landlord and tenant and all persons claiming under either of them shall in all subsequent proceedings before any Revenue-officer or in any Civil Court, be bound by such record

B 8 No 4, pp. 3 & 4

Leases may be avoided when assessment is changed

54 If any landlord grants a lease or enters into any other contract fixing the rent of any holding, and while such lease or contract is in force —

(a) land revenue is for the first time made payable in respect of the holding,

(b) land revenue having previously been payable in respect of it the revenue payable when the lease or other contract was executed is increased,

such lease or other contract shall be voidable at the option of the landlord unless the tenant agrees to pay such rent as a Settlement officer or Revenue officer may on the application of the landlord determine to be fair and reasonable

Where land revenue having been payable in respect of the holding at the time when the lease or other contract was executed the amount of such revenue is reduced such lease or other contract shall, if the Chief Commissioner by any general or special order so directs be voidable at the option of the tenant unless the landlord agrees to accept such rent as a Settlement officer or Revenue officer may on the application of the tenant determine to be fair and reasonable

OF ORDINARY TENANTS

(A) —Preliminary

Presumption as to ordinary tenancies.

55 In all suits and proceedings between landlords and ordinary tenants, it shall be presumed unless the contrary is shown or unless there is an entry in the Record of rights to the contrary, that the rights and liabilities described in this chapter are incident to the tenure

(B) —Of Ejectment

B. 62: No. 2, p. 22

Notice of ejectment

56 Any landlord who desires to eject an ordinary tenant at the close of any agricultural year may, before the first day of December in such year, apply to a Civil Court to serve such tenant with a notice of ejectment, and such Court shall serve such notice

Procedure when right to eject is disputed

57 If any tenant upon whom a notice has been served under section fifty six disputes the right of his landlord to eject him he may, within one month from the date on which such notice is so served, institute a suit to contest such right B. 63.

When protection order may be granted

58 Any ordinary tenant upon whom such a notice has been served, and who not being a tenant of sir land or a sub lessee has at the time when it is proposed to eject him continuously for five years cultivated land in the village in which the land from which it is proposed to eject him is situated and is when such village is inhabited, resident therein and has not either in the agricultural year in which it is proposed to eject him or in either of the two agricultural years next preceding received from his landlord any assistance in his cultivation, may within the said period of one month apply to the Court by which such notice was served for an order of protection from ejectment and such Court shall grant such order unless the landlord satisfies it that hardship would be caused thereby B 64 No 2 pp. 33 & 34.

Explanation —Loss caused to the landlord by not obtaining a higher rent is not hardship within the meaning of this section

Declaration of right to eject when tenant does not sue

59 If within the said period of one month, no suit is instituted under section fifty seven and no application is made under section fifty eight or if on such a suit being instituted or application made it is rejected the Court may record a proceeding declaring that the landlord is entitled to eject the tenant B 65.

Time for ejectment on declaration under section 59

60 Any landlord in whose favour a declaration has been recorded under section fifty nine may eject the tenant— B 66.

(a) when such declaration has been recorded before the seventeenth day of May in the agricultural year in which the application under section fifty six was made—at any time during the said month of May

(b) when such declaration has not been recorded before the said seventeenth day of May—at any time within fifteen days from the date of such declaration

Provided that any such landlord instead of ejecting such tenant himself may, within the period prescribed by this section, apply under section thirty to a Civil Court to eject such tenant

Tenant may apply for order prohibiting ejectment

61 Any ordinary tenant in respect of whom a declaration has been made under section fifty nine and who, if ejected, would have a claim to retain any land or receive any compensation under section thirty two may, if he has reason to believe that his landlord is about to eject him without the assistance of a Court, apply to such Court as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time appoint in this behalf to make an order prohibiting the landlord from so ejecting him and it shall be in the discretion of the Court to make such order B 67

B 68. 62. Any such tenant who has been ejected by a landlord without the assistance of a Court may within the period of one month after such ejectment apply to a Court appointed under section sixty one—

Remedy of tenant ejected by landlord

(a) to be put in possession of any land or to be awarded any compensation to which, under section thirty two, he is entitled and

(b) to compel the landlord to pay him any net sum to which if he had been ejected by the Court he would have been declared entitled under section thirty five

B. 69 63 On receiving such application the Court shall proceed to determine the matters set forth therein and may put the tenant into possession of any land to which he is entitled, and if any net sum as aforesaid to which the Court finds the tenant to be entitled is not paid by the landlord within such period as it fixes may in its discretion reinstate the tenant in the land from which he has been ejected

Procedure in such cases

B 70. 64 A tenant to whom an order of protection is granted under section fifty eight in one agricultural year may be ejected in a subsequent agricultural year if he ceases to reside in the village or receives assistance from his landlord in the cultivation of his holding

Protected tenant may be ejected in subsequent year

B. 71. 65 All entries in the Record of rights of any village providing that any notice other than that here in prescribed shall be given by a landlord before ejecting an ordinary tenant shall be void

Certain entries in Record of rights declared void

(C) —Of the Rent payable by Ordinary Tenants

B 72. 66 The rent payable in any year of his tenancy by an ordinary tenant not being a tenant who has obtained an order of protection under section fifty eight shall be —

Rent payable by ordinary tenants

(a) when such year is the first year of his tenancy, the rent which he agreed with his landlord to pay or in the absence of any agreement such rent as a Revenue officer may on application made to him determine to be a fair rent

(b) when such year is not the first year of his tenancy the rent which was payable in the preceding year unless a different rent has been agreed upon in which case the rent so agreed upon shall be payable

Compare Act XIX of 1868 ss. 35 & 36

In fixing a fair rent under clause (a) of this section the Revenue officer shall have regard to the rates paid by ordinary tenants occupying lands of similar quality and with similar advantages in the neighbourhood and to any expectations which the landlord may have held out to the tenant of occupying at rates lower than such rates

The fact that in any year any sum was paid as rent shall unless such payment was extorted or made through fraud or by mistake be held to prove that the tenant agreed to pay a rent not less than such sum

B 5. 67 When the area of a holding of an ordinary tenant is diminished by diluvion or otherwise, during any year of tenancy, a Revenue officer may, on application made to him, determine the rent payable for the holding for such year

Diminution of area of holding

68 When a Court grants a tenant an order of protection under section fifty-eight it shall either fix his rent at the amount which he is paying at the time when he obtains such order, or fix a fair rent in manner prescribed by section sixty six whichever may be greater B. 73.

Rents payable by protected tenants

Rent which has been fixed under this section is liable to be refixed on the application of either the landlord or the tenant in any subsequent year

69 Except as provided in this Act, no Court shall determine the rent proper to be paid by an ordinary tenant B 74 No. 3 p. 18

No Court to determine rent payable by ordinary tenants except under Act.

70 An ordinary tenant shall not in the absence of a written contract empowering him to do so be entitled to sub let his holding or any part thereof

Sub letting

OF TENANTS FOR A FIXED TERM

71 A tenant for a fixed term shall on and after the first day of May next preceding the end of such term, be deemed to be in matters relating to ejectment and reinstatement an ordinary tenant B 75.

Ejectment on expiry of term

Provided that if it be expressly stipulated in his lease that he shall quit his holding at the expiration of such term the notice specified in section fifty six shall not be required and such tenant may on the expiration of such term be ejected by his landlord with or without the assistance of a Civil Court as if a declaration in respect of him had been made under section fifty nine

72 A tenant for a fixed term may in the absence of any written agreement to the contrary sub let his holding or any part thereof

Sub letting

OF TENANTS WITH A RIGHT OF OCCUPANCY

(A) —Of the Acquisition of the Right of Occupancy

73 Any owner of sir land shall be deemed to become an occupancy tenant of such land in the following cases B 76 No 3 p. 16

Ex proprietors of sir land

(a) when he sells such land without expressly agreeing to transfer his right to cultivate it,

(b) when his interest in such land is sold for arrears of land revenue or

(c) when his interest in such land is sold in execution of any decree which does not declare his right to cultivate such land to have been expressly hypothecated to the judgment debtor

74 Any person recorded as an absolute occupancy raiyat or as a tenant with rights of occupancy of any land, or in terms equivalent thereto, in any record of rights of such land made before the passing of this Act, shall be deemed to have acquired a right of occupancy in the land in respect of which he may have been so recorded

Persons recorded as occupancy tenants

B 77; Compare Act XVIII of 1879, s. 8; No. 1, p. 16; No. 2, pp. 31 & 32; No. 3, p. 16; No. 2, p. 31

Twelve years rule.

75 Every tenant who has held the same land continuously for twelve years shall be deemed to have acquired a right of occupancy therein: Provided that such land is not (1) held under a written lease in which it is stipulated that a right of occupancy shall not be acquired, or that the tenant shall quit the land at its termination, or (2) held in lieu of wages, or (3) sir land.

Explanation I.—Land sub-let is not "held" either by the sub-lessee or his lessor within the meaning of this section.

Explanation II.—The occupation of the person from whom a tenant has inherited his holding, or, when the holding has been acquired by the tenant otherwise than by inheritance and the landlord was or, had this Act been in force, would have been bound to recognize such acquisition, the occupation of the person from whom it has been so acquired shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to be the occupation of the tenant.

No. 1, p. 12; No. 2, p. 30; No. 3, pp. 19, 22; Act XXVIII of 1868, s. 7

Explanation III.—When by the custom of any village the holdings of tenants are or have been liable to periodical redistribution, lands which a tenant may in accordance with such custom have from time to time received in exchange for lands previously held by him shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to be the same lands as the lands which he held prior to such exchange.

B 78; No. 1, p. 12; No. 2, p. 30; No. 3, pp. 19, 22; Act XXVIII of 1868, s. 7

Case of land redistributed in accordance with village custom.

76 A tenant having a right of occupancy in land situated in a village in which the holdings of tenants are by custom liable to periodical redistribution and exchanging such land in accordance with such custom for other land situated in the same village shall be deemed to have acquired a right of occupancy in the land so taken in exchange.

B 79; No. 1, p. 12; No. 2, p. 30; No. 3, pp. 61 & 62; Act XXVIII of 1868, s. 7

Tenant changing land in other cases.

77 If a tenant having a right of occupancy in any land ceases to hold such land and thereupon commences to hold other land of the same landlord under circumstances from which it might be inferred that he has accepted such other land in lieu of, and on the same conditions as, the land which he has ceased to hold, he shall in the absence of an agreement to the contrary be deemed to have acquired a right of occupancy in the land which he so commences to hold.

B 80.

Tenants in Chánda and Nimár.

78 In the districts of Chánda and Nimár every tenant shall be deemed to have a right of occupancy in respect of all land which he holds except sir land or land held by him under a sub-lease or recorded as waste at the time of making the settlement for the time being in force, and taken up during the term of such settlement on a lease such as is mentioned in section seventy-five.

B 81

Tenants in Sambalpúr.

79 In the district of Sambalpur every tenant shall be deemed to be an occupancy-tenant in respect of all the land which he holds except sir land or land held by him under a sub-lease; and no such tenant shall be ejected except under an order passed in the execution of a decree for arrears under section twenty-nine.

B. 82

Tenant not barred from claiming right of occupancy acquired by contract.

80 Nothing in this Act shall be held to debar any tenant from claiming a right of occupancy expressly conferred by a contract.

Descent of occupancy right.

81 The right of a tenant having a right of occupancy shall descend as if it were land: Provided that except in the districts of Chánda, Nimár and Sambalpur, no collateral relative of a tenant other than an absolute occupancy-tenant shall be entitled to inherit such right unless at the death of such tenant he was a co-sharer in the holding. B 83; No. 3, p. 37

Right of transfer.

82 Every tenant having a right of occupancy may transfer or mortgage such right in his holding or any undivided share thereof without his landlord's consent to any person who has become by inheritance a co-sharer with him in such holding. B 84.

Every absolute occupancy-tenant and in the districts of Chánda and Nimár, every tenant having a right of occupancy may transfer or mortgage his rights in his holding or any undivided share thereof to any person to whom the right of occupancy would under the provisions of section eighty-one descend at the death of such tenant if such person were then living. No. 3, pp. 31, 36.

Effect of entries in Record of rights.

83 No entry in the Record of rights shall be deemed to entitle occupancy-tenants of any class to transfer or mortgage their holdings otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of this chapter: B. 85

Provided that nothing in this section shall be deemed to invalidate any transfer or mortgage made before the passing of this Act by an absolute occupancy-tenant under any power recorded in a Record of rights.

Right to sub-let.

84 Every tenant having a right of occupancy may sub-let his holding or any part thereof: B 86; No. 3, pp. 29, 31.

Provided that in the districts of Chánda and Nimár tenants who were not in possession of their holdings at the time when rents were fixed at a settlement shall not during the term of such settlement be entitled to sub-let.

Occupancy-tenant agreeing to transfer or sub-let in belief of having power to do so.

85 No tenant having a right of occupancy shall be ejected from his holding on the ground that he has agreed to transfer or has sub-let the holding when he had no power to transfer or sub-let the same if it appears that he so agreed or sub-let, believing in good faith that he had such power. B 87; No. 3, p. 31.

Rent of occupancy-tenant changeable in two ways only.

86 The rent payable in any year by a tenant having a right of occupancy in respect of his holding shall be that which was payable in respect of such holding in the year next preceding, unless a different rent has been agreed upon in writing between the landlord and tenant, or such rent is changed under this Act. B 88; No. 4, p. 19.

Power to fix money rent where not fixed at or since settlement.

87 A tenant with a right of occupancy and paying rent in money or his landlord, may apply to a Settlement-officer if a settlement is in progress or if no settlement is in progress and the rent of the holding has not been fixed at the existing settlement by a Settlement-officer, or after such settlement and B 89

after the passing of this Act by a Revenue officer, to a Revenue officer to fix such rent, and such officer shall except as otherwise provided by agreement between such landlord and tenant, fix such rent having regard to the following, that is to say —

No 2 p. 37 Cf Act XIX of 1873, s. 72.

(a) to the rent-rates assumed for the purpose of assessing the land revenue on similar land with similar advantages, in the same circle or tahsil and to the customary rates of rent payable by tenants of the same class for similar land with similar advantages, in the same circle or tahsil,

(b) to any claim which the tenant has to pay rent at less than ordinary rates on the ground that some of the advantages with regard to which the lands included in his holding are classed were the result of improvements made by him

(c) to any circumstances such as the status or caste of the tenants which the Chief Commissioner may from time to time by rule direct to be taken into account in reduction of such rent and

No 1 pp 8 & 16 No. 2 p 38 No 3, pp. 23 & 24.

(d) when the application is made during the currency of a settlement to any changes in the value of the produce of land which have occurred after the settlement and which the Chief Commissioner may from time to time by rule direct to be taken into account for this purpose

Provided that the rent demandable from a tenant shall not be reduced under this section, except by a Settlement-officer

"Circle" in this section means two or more villages grouped together for assessment purposes by a Settlement officer or declared by the Chief Commissioner to constitute an assessment circle

B 90.

Certain rents to be deemed to have been fixed under section 87

88 (a) Rents recorded at any settlement made before the passing of this Act as payable by tenants in the Sambalpur district,

(b) rents of absolute occupancy tenants in any other district recorded at or after a settlement made before the passing of this Act and

(c) rents fixed before the passing of this Act by a Settlement officer shall be deemed to have been fixed in manner prescribed by section eighty seven

B 91 No. 1 pp 8 & 16 No 3 pp 24 to 28.

Enhancement of rent fixed under section 87

89 When the rent of a tenant having a right of occupancy has been fixed at or since the last settlement in manner prescribed by section eighty seven the landlord may except as otherwise provided by any contract between the parties, apply from time to time to a Revenue officer to enhance such rent on one or more of the following grounds, and on no other, namely —

(a) that the rent last fixed under this Act was fixed lower than it otherwise would have been owing to circumstances some or all of which have ceased to exist and that no corresponding adjustment of the rent has been made

(b) that since the rent was last fixed under this Act the Chief Commissioner has made a rule of the nature specified in section eighty seven, clause (d), and applicable to the holding,

(c) that since the rent was last fixed under this Act the productive power of the holding has been increased otherwise than by the tenant or at his expense,

(d) that the extent of the tenant's holding is larger than the area in respect of which his rent was last fixed under this Act

B. 92 ; No. 3, pp. 24-28.

Abatement of such rent

90 When the rent of a tenant having a right of occupancy has been fixed at or since the last settlement in manner prescribed by section eighty-seven, such tenant may except as otherwise provided by any contract between the parties, apply from time to time to a Revenue officer for an abatement of his rent on one or more of the following grounds, and on no other, namely —

(a) that since the rent was last fixed under this Act the Chief Commissioner has made a rule of the nature specified in section eighty-seven, clause (d), and applicable to the holding, or

(b) that, since the rent was last fixed under this Act the productive power of the holding has decreased otherwise than by his act or

(c) that the extent of his holding is less than the area in respect of which his rent was last fixed under this Act

B 94 No. 3, p. 37

Rents of certain tenant not to be changed on certain grounds

91 Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, the rents of occupancy tenants in the districts of Sambalpur Chánda and Nimár or of absolute occupancy tenants shall not be changed on the ground that a rule of the nature specified in section eighty seven, clause (d), has been made or on the ground that the productive power of the holding has increased or diminished, when such increase or diminution has not been caused by or at the expense of, the landlord

B 95.

Restriction on agreement by tenants in Sambalpur

92 Contracts by which tenants having a right of occupancy in the district of Sambalpur agree to pay rents at rates higher than the average rate at which at the time of making the settlement for the time being in force, the rents of other lands in the same village of similar quality and possessing similar advantages were fixed shall be void but nothing in this section shall affect any contract to pay a reasonably enhanced rent in consideration of an increase in the productive power of the land having been effected through the agency or at the expense of the landlord

Power to make rules for determining rents

93 The Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act for the guidance of Revenue and Settlement-officers in the determination of the rents of tenants having a right of occupancy, and declaring the principle on which reductions claimed by tenants under section eighty seven, clause (b), may be allowed

Settlement officer may commute rents payable in kind

94 In all cases in which a tenant with a right of occupancy has paid rent in kind or on the estimated value of a portion of the crop or by rates varying with the crop, or partly in one of such ways and partly in another or others the landlord, or tenant, may apply while a settlement is in progress to a Settlement-officer and during the term of a settlement to any officer specially empowered by the Chief Commissioner in this behalf, to commute such rent to a fixed money rent and on the receipt of such application, such officer shall determine the rent to be paid in commutation, as if the rent previously paid had been a money rent and an application had been made to him to fix the same

Act VIII of 1879 s 9 Provided that the Local Government may empower any such officer, when any such application made before him is opposed, to refuse, for reasons to be recorded by him in writing, to grant the same

(D) —Miscellaneous

B 97 95 Every absolute occupancy tenant and every tenant declared by section seventy eight or section seventy nine to have a right of occupancy shall be deemed to have with respect to his landlord, a preferential right to make all improvements on his holding

Certain tenants declared to have preferential right to improve

B 99 96 In all suits and proceedings between landlords and tenants having a right of occupancy, it shall be presumed, until the contrary is shown, or unless there is an entry in the Record of rights to the contrary that the incidents of the tenure of every tenant who at the passing of this Act has or may hereafter acquire rights of occupancy are those which are described in this chapter

Presumption that provisions of chapter apply

97 Any owner of sir land who—

Quasi occupancy tenants

(a) gives a usufructuary mortgage of such land without expressly agreeing to transfer to the mortgagee his right to cultivate it or

(b) is temporarily excluded from the proprietary possession of such land under the Central Provinces Land revenue Act, 1880

shall be entitled while such mortgage remains in force or while he is so excluded from the proprietary possession to retain the actual possession of the land paying no more rent for the same than if he were an absolute occupancy tenant

CHAPTER VI

Jurisdiction and Procedure

B 100 No 3 p 41 98 The Revenue officers shall have exclusive cognizance of the subject matter of the following applications namely —

Cognizance of certain applications

(1) applications to deposit rent (section 7),

(2) applications to divide estimate or appraise a crop (section 13),

(3) applications to have the terms of a tenancy reduced to writing (section 50)

(4) applications to measure or ascertain the condition of a holding (section 53)

(5) applications to fix the rent of ordinary tenants (section 66)

(6) applications to fix the rent of the holding of an ordinary tenant which has been diminished by diluvion or otherwise (section 67)

(7) applications to fix or alter the rent of an occupancy tenant (sections 87, 89 and 90)

(8) applications to commute rents (section 94)

and of such other matters as they are empowered to deal with under this Act and, subject to the provisions herein contained may grant such relief as the nature of the case requires

Provided that nothing herein contained shall debar a Civil Court from exercising jurisdiction in regard to any of the following matters which may arise in any suit or proceeding instituted in such Court, namely —

(a) measuring or ascertaining the condition of any holding, dividing, estimating or appraising any crop or receiving any deposit,

(b) determining the rents payable by tenants when the yearly amount so payable has been fixed by a Revenue or Settlement-officer or by agreement between the parties

99 In disposing of the matters referred to in section ninety eight, the Revenue officers shall, as nearly as may be exercise the same powers and follow the same procedure as are exercised and followed by them under the Central Provinces Land revenue Act, 1880

Procedure on such applications

From every order passed by a Revenue officer in respect of any such matter an appeal shall lie as if such order had been passed by such officer under the said Land revenue Act

100 Subject to the provisions of section ninety eight the Civil Courts shall have jurisdiction in all matters arising between landlord and tenant Provided that— B 103 No 3 pp. 41 to 45.

Jurisdiction of Civil Courts

(a) no Judge of a Civil Court of first instance shall unless he is also a Revenue officer or a Settlement officer hear any suit between a landlord and a tenant as such and

(b) the Chief Commissioner may, subject to the provisions of this Act direct that all or any of such suits shall be tried before such Courts of such grades competent to try the same as he thinks fit and not otherwise

101 The Chief Commissioner may direct that all or any of the following suits, namely,— B 103 (c)

Certain suits may be entered in separate register

(a) suits for an arrear of rent

(b) suits to eject a tenant or cancel a lease on account of a breach of the conditions of the tenancy or lease whether compensation for such breach be also claimed or not

107 In any such suit no set-off shall be allowed except such amount as may be due to the tenant under a decree or order against the landlord as such

B. 111. — Interest on arrears

108 In any such suit interest may be allowed up to judgment, at such rate not exceeding twelve per cent per annum as the Court thinks fit

B. 112: Act IX of 1868, s 118. — No process of execution to issue on decree for arrears after lapse of three years from date thereof

109 No process of execution shall be issued to recover any sum due under a decree in any such suit after the lapse of three years from the date on which under the decree such sum became payable

B 113: Cf Act X of 1859 s 12. — No appeal in certain arrear cases

110 When any such suit is decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, by a Civil Judge exercising powers not less than those of an Assistant Commissioner of the first class as defined in the Central Provinces Courts' Act, 1865, the decision shall be final, and shall not be subject to appeal unless—

(a) the amount or value of the subject-matter of the suit exceeds one hundred rupees, or

(b) a question relating to a title to land, or to some interest in land, has been determined as between parties having conflicting claims thereto

New — Limitation of suits by tenants to recover possession

111 The period of limitation for a suit instituted by a tenant to recover the possession of land from which he has been ejected by any person other than his landlord shall be one year from the date on which he is ejected

In other respects the limitation of such suits shall be governed by the Indian Limitation Act, 1877

ENACTMENTS REPEALED

Number of Act	Short title
Act X of 1859	To amend the law relating to the recovery of rent in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal
Act XIV of 1863	To amend Act X of 1859
Act XXII of 1872	To explain and amend Act X of 1859

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The law at present governing the relations of landlords and tenants in the Central Provinces is Act X of 1859, an enactment which was originally framed with particular reference to the circumstances of Lower Bengal and which has been found, in many respects, unsuitable to territories where proprietary right is of comparatively recent origin, and, indeed, in some districts is even now but imperfectly developed Though the primary object of Act X of 1859 was to protect tenants who had been depressed during a long course of years, by a powerful proprietary body, and though it certainly fulfilled its purpose in the Province for which it was enacted, the result of applying it to a country in which, until recently, the distinction between the cultivating and the revenue paying classes was somewhat loosely marked, and where the position of the former was therefore exceptionally strong, has been absolutely to curtail their ancient privileges Though this is the chief ground on which legislation is desirable, experience has shown that Act X of 1859 is inappropriate and inconvenient, both in its procedure and in some of its substantive provisions To remedy this state of things the present Bill has been framed

2 I will be observed (section 2 clause 1) that it applies only to land used for agricultural purposes, and to such land only when it is let to tenants of the class commonly known as raiyats Many of its provisions especially those of a protective nature would obviously be unsuitable in cases where a village or a considerable portion of a village, is leased to a thekadár or farmer who makes his own terms with the proprietor, and is quite well able to protect himself but it will be a question for the Select Committee to which it is proposed to refer the Bill whether some portions of it might not with advantage be extended to cases of this description

3 The provisions of the Bill are roughly divisible into two classes namely, those of general application contained in Chapters II and VI and those contained in Chapters III, IV and V, applying only to particular descriptions of tenants

Beginning with the former class and omitting all reference to such provisions as either speak for themselves or may be said to have become common forms in Upper India Tenancy Bills section 10—which in effect provides that when the Government suspends or remits its revenue on any land in cases of drought &c, the landlord may be required to suspend or remit his rent—may first be noticed

4 This section is based on the similar provision of the North Western Provinces Rent Bill at present before the Council but with this important difference that instead of requiring the Revenue officer on the revenue payable in respect of any tract being remitted or suspended, to go over all the holdings comprised in such tract and determine in the case of each whether any remission or suspension of rent should be allowed it allows this question to stand over until an actual dispute regarding it arises between the parties and then leaves it to be decided by the Court before which the landlord may claim his rent

This deviation from the rule proposed for the North Western Provinces appears advisable, because owing to the comparative simplicity of landed tenures in the Central Provinces, suspensions or remissions of land revenue may be granted without that minute field to field survey which is requisite in order to decide claims to suspension or remission of rent and it is not desirable to throw upon the limited staff of officers available in these Provinces the labour of making such a survey merely for the purpose of settling such disputes as may arise on this point between landlords and tenants

5 Section 11 which in effect prohibits leases at a rent smaller than the revenue payable on the land, is the complement of section 117 of the Central Provinces Land revenue Bill which invalidates revenue free grants made by Málguzárs The object of both is the same, viz, to prevent improvident proprietors from depriving themselves of the means of meeting the Government demand upon their lands (see paragraph 12 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Land revenue Bill)

6 Passing over, for the moment the special provisions relating to tenants in Chánda and Nimar contained in section 12, we come to sections 17 to 22 which treat of the landlord's lien upon the produce of his tenant's holding This lien is intended to be a substitute for the present power of distraint which, as a matter of fact has scarcely ever been resorted to by the Central Provinces landlords and which it is apprehended would if commonly employed, lead to abuses The provisions regarding it have been so framed as to enable a landlord, by the exercise of the most ordinary diligence to obtain for each instalment of his rent a first charge upon all crops which may be on the land at the time it falls due or during the year following

7 The effect of sections 27 to 38, relating to ejectment taken with certain subsequent provisions of the Bill to which they refer may be stated to be that, except (section 71) when there is a lease for a term with an express provision that the tenant shall quit at the end of such term, no tenant can be ejected from his holding by his landlord without an order of the Court, that as a rule in all contested cases the landlord will, after obtaining such order, not proceed to eject the tenant himself but apply to the Court to eject him, and that the Court will not eject the tenant until all claims on either side arising out of the tenancy have been adjusted

8 Sections 39 to 44 relate to improvements and compensation therefor They provide that, as a rule, the landlord shall be allowed the option of himself making any permanent improvement proposed by the tenant but that, if he does not avail himself of the option thus allowed him, the tenant may make such improvement, and, having made it, shall be entitled to receive compensation in respect of it before being ejected The rights thus conferred on the tenant cannot be affected by any contract or by any entry in a record-of rights to the contrary

9 Sections 45 to 47 are intended to relieve a tenant holding under a number of co-proprietors from the difficulties and perplexities in which he is now frequently involved owing to doubts as to the authority of individual co proprietors Section 47 provides that in such cases the co proprietors shall be bound if the tenant requires them to do so, to appoint one of their number or some other person, to act on behalf of all of them and receive the entire rent of the holding

10 Section 48 (b) enacts that except as provided by the Bill a tenant has no power to transfer or mortgage his holding without the consent of his landlord and it may here be added that no such power is conferred by the Bill except to a very limited extent in the case of the occupancy tenants to be presently referred to

11 Sections 50 to 52, which empower a Revenue officer to cause the terms of a tenancy to be reduced to writing at the instance of either party, when there appears to be no real dispute as to those terms are intended to take the place to some extent of the ordinary provisions as to suits for pattas and kabuliyats

12 Section 54, which provides for the readjustment of the rent fixed by a lease or contract whenever the holding falls under re assessment is in accordance with the general understanding that the rents of ordinary raiyats though fixed by contract, are subject to revision at settlement

13 With Chapter III of the Bill begin the provisions relating to certain particular classes of tenants

These classes (putting aside for the moment certain tenants in the districts of Chánda, Nimár and Sambalpur) are as follows, namely —

(1) ordinary tenants (chapter III)

(2) tenants for a fixed term (chapter IV)

(3) tenants with a simple right of occupancy (chapter V),

(4) absolute occupancy tenants (same chapter)

14 Taking these in their order it will be seen from section 48 (a) and section 55 that it is to be presumed until the contrary is shown, that a tenant who does not possess a right of occupancy or hold under an unexpired lease is an ordinary tenant' and that the rights and liabilities described in Chapter III are incident to his tenure

15 The position of the ordinary tenant as shewn in Chapter III bears a considerable resemblance to that of a tenant from year to year in England and in the Bill as originally framed by Mr Jones such tenants were designated tenants from year to year but it has been thought safer to avoid the use of a technical term borrowed from a different system of law, and accordingly the term 'ordinary tenant which connotes nothing has been substituted for it

16 The most striking feature in the position of such a tenant as defined by the Bill, is that he cannot be ejected without the order of the Court and that when he resides in the village, has cultivated any land there for five years, and has not within the preceding three years received any assistance in his cultivation from his landlord he may when an order for his ejectment is applied for claim to be protected from ejectment, and the Court will be bound to protect him unless the landlord shows that some hardship beyond a mere loss of rent will be thereby caused to him

The practical result of these provisions will be that every tenant who resides in a village and has cultivated any land there for five years continuously will as a rule at once acquire in any land he may begin to cultivate in such village an inchoate status of occupancy

This portion of the Bill has been retained practically unaltered, as it has met with the provisional approval of the Secretary of State in Council but it is obvious that, if only by reason of its novelty, it will require the most careful consideration by the Select Committee

17 As an 'ordinary tenant" is either removeable upon notice, or (if protected) is in a temporary state of transition it is not worth while to enact any elaborate rules for the fixation of his rent and accordingly the provisions on this point in Chapter III will be found to be brief and simple

18 Chapter IV relating to tenants for a fixed term calls for but little notice The position and rights of such tenants will usually be regulated to a great extent, by the terms of the leases under which they hold and the only peculiarity introduced by the Bill is that when the lease does not contain a stipulation expressly requiring the holding to be vacated at the expiration of the term the tenant will in the last year of such term, be deemed to become an "ordinary tenant and to be entitled to all the privileges in regard to ejectment and protection against ejectment which are conferred on such a tenant by Chapter III

19. Proceeding now to Chapter V, which deals with tenants with a right of occupancy, it will be seen that the status of an occupancy tenant when not conferred by express contract (section 80), may, as a rule, be claimed on any one of three grounds, namely —

1st, that the land was formerly the property of the tenant and held by him as sir, and that he parted with it or lost his ownership in it in one of the modes mentioned in section 73

2ndly, that the tenant was recorded as an occupancy tenant of the land in a settlement record prepared before the passing of the Bill or

3rdly, that he has for twelve years continuously held the land, otherwise than under a written lease expressly debarring him from acquiring the status

20 As regards the acquisition of the right in the third of these modes, it should be stated that actual occupation throughout the whole period is required the right not being acquired when the land is sub let On the other hand it is provided by the third Explanation to section 75 and by section 76 that neither the acquisition of the right nor its retention shall be affected by the circumstance that the tenant has shifted from one holding to another in accordance with a village custom such as has been found to prevail in Chhattisgarh and by section 77 that once the right has been acquired it shall not be lost by the tenant's removal to another holding, if it appears that he has removed on the understanding that his status is to remain unchanged, but that in such a case he shall have the rights of an occupancy tenant on his new holding This last provision is in accordance with section 7 of the Panjab Tenancy Act of 1868, and it is important as a check upon the practice of persuading ignorant tenants to change their holdings to which landlords are said sometimes to resort with a view to destroying occupancy rights

21 In whichever of the above modes the occupancy status may have been acquired its incidents will (section 96) be presumed to be those described in chapter V The principal of those incidents are as follows —

1st that (section 81) the right of an occupancy tenant descends lineally as if it were land but does not pass to a collateral unless he is a cosharer in the holding

2ndly that while an occupancy tenant is allowed (section 84) to sub let, he cannot (section 82) transfer or mortgage his holding except to a cosharer and

3rdly that he is in the absence of a contract fixing his rent entitled to have his rent fixed according to certain rules laid down by the Bill

22 These rules for the fixation of rent are contained in sections 86 et seq and are among the most important provisions of the Bill

Their most striking feature will be found to be the distinction which they make between the process of fixing rent for the first time after a new settlement has been taken in hand (section 87) and the process of subsequently during the currency of that settlement enhancing or reducing it.

A new settlement is considered to reopen completely the question of the rents to be paid by occupancy tenants and accordingly at the first determination of these rents after the settlement has commenced, all data and all circumstances which can properly be allowed any influence on the question will be taken into consideration The rent rates assumed by the Settlement-officer for the purpose of assessing the land revenue and which approximate to the true economic rent will be looked to, as also will the customary rates of rent which as a matter of fact are paid by tenants of the same class Nor will other circumstances such as the caste of the tenants which it is found practically impossible to disregard in such cases, be left out of account

But once the rents have been fixed in this way they will during the currency of the settlement be liable to be enhanced or reduced only on certain definite grounds These grounds are (omitting one which is of minor importance)—

1st, that the area of the holding has been altered

2ndly that its productive power has been altered and

3rdly, if the Chief Commissioner makes a rule admitting this as a ground for altering rents, that the value of the produce has increased or diminished

23 The power of admitting this last circumstance as a ground for changing rent is placed in the hands of the Chief Commissioner in order to save the Revenue officers the necessity of undertaking in individual cases long and minute inquiries into the history of prices in the neighbourhood since the rent was last fixed When, owing to any considerable rise or fall of prices in any locality such an inquiry appears to be called for it will it is conceived, be more successfully made once for all under the orders of the Chief Commissioner

24 The "absolute occupancy tenants" so called because when the subject of occupancy-rights was still under discussion in the Central Provinces their right of occupancy was considered to be beyond dispute are simply occupancy tenants with certain additional privileges The status can be claimed only on the ground of an entry made in a record of rights prior to the passing of the Bill, and accordingly the number of such tenants is strictly limited

They differ from ordinary occupancy tenants chiefly in the following particulars, viz. :—

1*st* that their right of occupancy descends in all cases to collaterals as well as lineally (section 81)

2*ndly* that their right to transfer and mortgage their holdings is (section 82) somewhat larger than that of ordinary occupancy tenants,

3*rdly* that their rents when once fixed by a Settlement or Revenue officer are not (section 91) liable to be enhanced or reduced on certain grounds on which the rents of ordinary occupancy tenants may be enhanced or reduced and

4*thly* that they have (section 95) a right to make improvements in their holdings without offering their landlords the option of making such improvements

25 As regards the second of these points it should be explained that it has not been considered advisable in the interest of these tenants to reserve to them the full right to transfer their holdings which was stipulated for in their behalf at settlement, but which has been found in practice to tempt them to incur debt and place themselves at the mercy of their landlords

26 In the foregoing account of the provisions of the Bill all mention of the exceptional privileges and protection provided for tenants in the districts of Chánda Nimár and Sambalpur has for convenience sake been omitted, and it is accordingly necessary to advert to the subject here

The relations between the persons who have been recorded as proprietors and those who have been recorded as tenants in these three districts were found on examination to differ considerably from those ordinarily subsisting between landlords and tenants The rights of the former were so limited and those of the latter so large that it was at one time a question whether a raiyatwári settlement would not under the circumstances be the most suitable

When therefore it was eventually determined to make the settlement with the superior class of occupants as proprietors it was found necessary to reserve for the inferior class rights considerably larger than those of ordinary tenants and in accordance with the arrangements then made the Bill provides that (sections 78 and 79) tenants in these three districts shall as a rule be deemed to have a right of occupancy that (section 79) a tenant in Sambalpur shall not be ejected except under an order passed in execution of a decree for arrears that (sections 81, 91 95) as regards the descent of the occupancy right fixity of rent and the right to improve, the occupancy tenants in all three districts shall be on the same footing as absolute occupancy tenants and that (section 82) occupancy tenants in Chánda and Nimár shall have the same powers of transfer as absolute occupancy tenants Lastly in order to protect these tenants against attempts to break down the rights thus reserved to them it has been thought well to introduce in sections 12 and 92 provisions which limit their power of contracting in regard to the amount of their rent

27 It remains to speak of the Chapter (VI) relating to jurisdiction and procedure, and the only point calling for notice in it (besides the new rule of limitation laid down in section 111) is that it leaves all matters between landlord and tenant except the fixation of rent to be dealt with by the ordinary Civil Courts instead of establishing as the North Western Provinces Rent Act does a special set of tribunals for their disposal The reason for adopting this course may be very briefly stated In the Central Provinces the same officers as a rule discharge revenue and judicial functions and there can never be any difficulty in arranging as required by the proviso to section 100 that all suits between landlord and tenant shall be heard by judges who have had the necessary experience of revenue administration This being so to establish a separate set of tribunals for the disposal of such suits would be merely to introduce a needless complication and without any reason whatever to expose ourselves to all the conflicts of jurisdiction and other difficulties which have arisen in connection with the double system of tribunals elsewhere

No 2781 F P—The following extract from the London Gazette, dated Friday, July 9th, 1880, is republished for general information —

At the Court at Windsor, the 28th day of June, 1880

The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty

Lord President | Earl Granville
Lord Chamberlain | Mr Gladstone

WHEREAS by an Act passed in the 37th year of Her Majesty's reign, chapter 88, intituled "The Slave Trade Act 1873," it was amongst other things provided that "where any Treaty "in relation to the Slave Trade is made after the passing of that Act, by or on behalf of Her Majesty 'with any Foreign State Her Majesty may, by Order in Council, direct that, as from such date, not being earlier than the date of the Treaty, as may be specified in the Order, such Treaty shall be ''deemed' to be an existing Slave Trade Treaty within the meaning of the Act', and it was further provided that "thereupon (as from the said date, or, if no date is specified, as from the date of such "Order)" all the provisions of the Act shall apply and be construed accordingly,

And whereas on the 29th day of March 1879 a Treaty or Convention was concluded between Her Majesty's Government and the Government of the German Empire, extending to the German Empire the provisions of the Treaty made on the 20th day of December 1841 between Great Britain, Austria, France, and Russia, for the suppression of the Slave Trade, in the following terms, that is to say —

HER Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and His Majesty the German Emperor, King of Prussia, considering it desirable that the Treaty for the suppression of the Slave Trade concluded between Great Britain, Prussia, Austria, France, and Russia, at

NACHDEM Ihre Majestät die Konigin des Vereinigten Konigreichs von Grossbritannien und Irland, und Seine Majestat der Deutsche Kaiser, Konig von Preussen, es fur wünschenswerth erachtet haben, dass der zwischen Grossbritannien, Preussen, Oesterreich, Frankreich und Russland

London, on the 20th December, 1841, and ratified by all these powers, with the exception of France, should be so extended to the German Empire as to correspond with the present altered circumstances, their Majesties have appointed Plenipotentiaries to conclude a Convention for that purpose, namely,—

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland—the Most Honourable Robert Arthur Talbot Gascoyne Cecil, Marquis of Salisbury, Viscount Cranborne, Baron Cecil, a Peer of the United Kingdom, a Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, Member of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs;

And His Majesty the German Emperor, King of Prussia,—His Excellency George Count Munster, Marshal Hereditary of Hanover, &c., &c., &c., Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of His Imperial Majesty to Her Britannic Majesty;

Who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers found in good and due form, have agreed as follows:—

ARTICLE I

All the rights and obligations hitherto devolving on Prussia in virtue of the above mentioned Treaty and the Annexes thereto shall subject to certain modifications contained in Article II of this Convention henceforth devolve on the German Empire as if that Empire had been a Contracting Party to the said Treaty.

ARTICLE II

In the place of the 11th and 12th paragraphs under Head V of the Instructions to Cruizers appended to the aforesaid Treaty as Annex B, the following stipulations shall be adopted:—

All German vessels which shall be detained on the stations of America or Africa by the cruizers of the other Contracting Parties shall be taken to Cuxhaven, and be delivered up by the authorities there to the jurisdiction of that German State to which the home port of the vessel belongs.

But if slaves shall be found on board any such German vessel at the time of her detention the vessel shall, in the first instance, be sent to deposit the slaves at that port to which she would have been taken for adjudication if she had been sailing under the English flag. The vessel shall afterwards be sent to Cuxhaven, and shall be delivered up to the competent German jurisdiction as above stipulated.

ARTICLE III

The present Convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications exchanged at London as soon as possible after the Governments of Austria Hungary and Russia, parties to the Treaty of the 20th December, 1841, have signified their consent to the modifications of that Treaty, agreed to in the present Convention.

am 20 Dezember 1841 zu London wegen Unterdrückung des Sklavenhandels abgeschlossene, und von allen diesen Mächten mit Ausnahme Frankreichs ratifizirte Vertrag den gegenwärtigen veränderten Verhältnissen entsprechend auf das Deutsche Reich ausgedehnt werde, so haben Allerhöchstdieselben behufs einer zu diesem Zwecke zu treffenden Uebereinkunft Bevollmächtigte ernannt, und zwar:—

Ihre Majestät die Königin des Vereinigten Königreichs von Grossbritannien und Irland, den sehr ehrenwerthen Robert Arthur Talbot Gascoyne Cecil, Marquis von Salisbury, Viscount Cranborne, Baron Cecil, Pair des Vereinigten Königreichs, Ritter des Hochstedlen Ordens vom Hosenband, Mitglied Ihrer Majestät Hochstehrenwerthen Geheimen Raths, Allerhöchstihren Haupt Staatssecretair für die Auswärtigen Angelegenheiten;

Und Seine Majestät der Deutsche Kaiser, König von Preussen, Seine Excellenz Georg Grafen zu Munster, Erblandmarschall von Hannover, &c., &c., &c., Allerhöchstseinen ausserordentlichen und bevollmächtigten Botschafter bei Ihrer Grossbritannischen Majestät;

Welche nach gegenseitiger Mittheilung ihrer in guter und gehöriger Form befundenen Vollmachten über folgende Punkte übereingekommen sind:—

ARTIKEL I

Alle aus dem obengedachten Vertrage und aus dessen Anlagen für Preussen herzuleitenden Rechte und Pflichten sollen vorbehaltlich gewisser im Artikel II der gegenwärtigen Uebereinkunft enthaltenen Abänderungen fortan auf das Deutsche Reich übergehen dergestalt als ob Letzteres den erwähnten Vertrag unmittelbar mit abgeschlossen hätte.

ARTIKEL II

An die Stelle des elften und zwölften Absatzes unter Nummer V der dem vorerwähnten Vertrage als Anlage B angehängten Instruktion für die Kreuzer sollen folgende Abreden treten:—

Alle deutschen Schiffe, welche auf den Stationen von Amerika oder Afrika durch die Kreuzer der anderen vertragschliessenden Theile in Beschlag genommen werden sollten, sind nach Cuxhaven zu führen und durch die dortigen Behörden der Jurisdiktion desjenigen deutschen Staats zu überliefern, welchem der Heimathshafen des Schiffes angehört.

Wenn aber an Bord eines solchen deutschen Schiffes im Augenblick seiner Beschlagnahme Sklaven vorgefunden werden, so ist das Schiff zuvörderst, um die Sklaven abzusetzen in denjenigen Hafen zu führen wohin es, wenn es unter Englischer Flagge gefahren wäre, geführt worden sein würde, um vor Gericht gestellt zu werden. Demnächst ist das Schiff nach Cuxhaven zu führen und der zuständigen deutschen Jurisdiktion, wie oben vereinbart, zu überliefern.

ARTIKEL III

Die gegenwärtige Uebereinkunft soll ratifizirt werden und der Austausch der Ratifikationen soll, nachdem die Regierungen von Oesterreich Ungarn und Russland als Betheiligte an dem Vertrage vom 20 Dezember 1841 ihre Zustimmung zu den in gegenwärtiger Uebereinkunft verabredeten Abänderungen jenes Vertrages erklärt haben werden, sobald als möglich in London stattfinden.

In witness whereof the Undersigned have signed the present Convention in Duplicate, and have affixed thereto their seals

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 6th August, 1880, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No 13 of 1880

A Bill for the determination of claims to Taj Mahal's pension

Preamble

WHEREAS by a treaty dated the 24th Shabán 1244 Hijrá corresponding with the first day of March 1829, and made between His Majesty the King of Oudh and the Government of the Hon'ble the East India Company it was (amongst other things) agreed that a certain pension therein specified should be paid by the English Government to one Nawáb Táj Mahal therein named, and that if she should die leaving an heir or heirs the English Government might at its election continue as before such pension to her heirs, or make over to them the principal sum proportionate to such pension according to the rate thereinbefore mentioned,

and whereas the said Táj Mahal is now dead and doubts exist as to who are her heirs and it is therefore expedient to provide for the appointment of a person to represent her estate for the purpose of receiving such pension, and whereas the Secretary of State in Council is desirous of making over to the persons entitled to receive the said pension the principal sum proportionate thereto as provided in the said treaty, and it is expedient to empower the said Secretary of State in Council to capitalize the said pension pending the appointment of a person as aforesaid It is hereby enacted as follows —

Short title. Commencement.

1 This Act may be called "Táj Mahal's Pension Act, 1880" and it shall come into force at once

No obligation to pay except on production of certificate. — Cf Act XXVI of 1860 s 2.

2 The Secretary of State for India in Council shall not be bound to pay the said pension or any portion thereof to any person claiming the same except on the production by such person of a certificate, granted in the manner hereinafter provided, authorizing him to receive the same

Certificate to be obtained by application to the District Court. — Cf Act XXVII of 1860 s 3.

3 Any person considering himself entitled to the said pension or any portion thereof may apply in writing to the Court of the District Judge of Lucknow (hereinafter called the District Court) for a certificate authorizing him to receive the same

Form of application.

The application shall be in such form and shall contain such particulars as the Governor General in Council may from time to time, by rules to be published in the Gazette of India, direct

Publication of application and notice to persons desiring to oppose it.

4 The District Court shall fix a day for hearing the application and shall cause to be stuck up in the court-house and otherwise published or made known at the expense of the applicant in such manner as it thinks fit a copy of the application with a notice stating the time and place at which it will be heard, and calling upon all persons claiming to have a better right than the applicant to the grant of the certificate to come in and oppose the application.

5 On the day so fixed or any subsequent day to which the Court may adjourn the hearing, the Court shall, if no person claiming to have a better right than the applicant to the grant of the certificate is present, hear the application, and if, after recording the evidence produced by the applicant, in support of his claim and making such further enquiry (if any) as it thinks necessary, the Court is of opinion that the applicant has established his claim, it shall make an order for granting him a certificate

In the event of the applicant not having in the opinion of the Court established such claim, it shall make an order dismissing his application

6 In any case in which any person claiming to have a better right than the applicant to the grant of the certificate is present the Court shall, after hearing the application and recording the evidence produced by the applicant in support of his claim, hear such person and record the evidence produced by him in support of his claim, and shall then, after making such further enquiry (if any) as it thinks necessary determine which of the parties (if either) has established his claim to the certificate, and shall make an order for granting the same accordingly

Procedure in case of opposition

In the event of neither party having, in the opinion of the Court, established his claim the Court shall make an order dismissing both the application and the counter claim

7 When any order dismissing an application under section five or any order under section six is made an appeal shall lie by any party to the proceedings who deems himself aggrieved by such order to the High Court which may make an order dismissing such appeal or granting a certificate, or otherwise reversing or varying the order of the District Court as it thinks fit

8 The period of limitation for an appeal under section seven shall be sixty days from the date of the order appealed against

Period of limitation for appeal

In computing such period, and in all respects not herein specified the limitation of such appeals shall be governed by the provisions of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877

See Act V of 1880 s 200

9 A certificate granted under this Act shall specify the payments which the person to whom it is granted is entitled to receive, and shall contain such other particulars as the Governor General in Council may from time to time prescribe in this behalf

Form of certificate

10 (a) A certificate granted by the District Court under section five or by the High Court on appeal under section seven, or

Act XXVII 1860 s 5

(b) when a certificate has been granted under section six and the period of limitation fixed by section eight has expired without the institution of an appeal, such certificate

shall, while it remains in force, be conclusive evidence against the said Secretary of State in Council of the right of the person to whom it has been granted to receive the payments specified therein, and shall, unless or until it is rescinded and the authority rescinding it has given to the said Secretary of State in Council notice of such rescision, empower such person to give to the said Secretary of State in Council a full discharge for any such payment.

11 Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to affect the right of any person to recover by suit from the holder of a certificate granted under this Act the amount of any payment made to him in virtue of such certificate

Act XXVII of 1860 s. 6, para. 2.

Right of third parties against holder of certificate saved

12 The Court ordering any certificate to be granted under this Act may, if it thinks fit, direct that before such certificate is granted such security (if any) as it thinks necessary shall be taken from the person to whom such certificate is to be granted, for his rendering an account of the payments to be received by him in virtue of such certificate to any person who may be entitled to recover from him in manner referred to in section eleven the whole or any part of such payments

Act XXVII of 1860 s 5

Court may take security from grantee of certificate

13 The District Court may on the application of any person who has recovered by suit from the holder of a certificate the amount of any payment made to him in virtue of such certificate, grant a certificate to such person in supersession, wholly or in part, as the case may be, of the former certificate

Act XXVII of 1860 s 6 para. 3

Court may grant fresh certificate to person who has recovered by regular suit amount paid to holder of old certificate

No appeal shall lie from any order under this section

On the grant of a fresh certificate under this section the former certificates shall be deemed to be rescinded wholly or in part (as the case may be)

Act X of 1865 s 238.

Effect of fresh certificate

14 In all proceedings under this Act the District Court and the High Court shall, as far as may be and except as herein otherwise provided exercise the powers and follow the procedure conferred on and prescribed for a Court of first instance and a Court of appeal respectively by the Code of Civil Procedure Provided that nothing contained in chapter XLV of the said Code shall apply to any order made in any such proceeding

Proceedings to be regulated by Code of Civil Procedure

15 The provisions of section thirteen of the said Code shall apply to all cases under section six of this Act in which the question of heirship to the said Táj Mahal, having been directly and substantially in issue in a suit in a Court of competent jurisdiction between the claimants or between parties under whom they or any of them claim, has been heard and finally determined by such Court

Matters decided in civil suits to be treated as res judicata

16 All payments heretofore made by or on behalf of the said Secretary of State in Council under the said treaty shall be deemed to have been made in accordance with law Provided that nothing in this section shall affect the right of any person to recover by suit the amount of

Indemnity as to payments already made

any such payment from the person to whom the same has been made

17 The said Secretary of State in Council may, pending the grant of a certificate as hereinbefore provided, invest in securities of the Government of India the principal sum proportionate to the pension of the said Táj Mahal according to the rate mentioned in the said treaty

And, thereupon, all further claim to such pension shall cease, and the persons obtaining a certificate in manner hereinbefore provided shall be entitled in lieu of such pension to the Government Securities in which the principal sum proportionate to such pension has been invested

On capitalization all claim to pension barred.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

In the year 1829 the then King of Oudh lent to the East India Company the sum of sixty two lákhs and forty thousand rupees on the terms embodied in the treaty noted in the margin The only part of its provisions which it is here necessary to notice is that by which the Company undertook to pay interest on the loan at the rate of five per cent per annum, and further to pay a certain portion of this interest by way of what is called in the document a pension to a lady known as Táj Mahal during life and on her death in certain events, to her heirs with the option however of paying to such heirs a principal sum proportionate to the pension of Taj Mahal instead of continuing to them such pension

Treaty dated the 24th Shabán 1244 Hijrá corresponding with the 1st day of March 1829 and made between His Majesty the King of Oudh and the Government of the Honourable the East India Company in respect to a sum His Majesty has advanced in loan

2 Táj Mahal is now dead and no less than five persons who claim to be her heirs and therefore entitled to succeed to her pension, have come forward Even if all these claimants were to settle their rights in the Courts of law and some one of them was to obtain a decision declaring him to be the heir, the Government could not be sure that he was the right heir, for the family is so scattered, and there are such contradictory accounts of its history, that some other claimant might at any moment start up

3 The present Bill has been prepared to remove this difficulty It enacts that the Government shall not be bound to make any payment under the treaty to any person claiming as heir to Taj Mahal unless he produces a certificate to be granted by the Civil Court authorizing him to receive such payment, it provides full and complete indemnity to Government when it makes any such payment to any person producing such certificate, and it carefully preserves the rights of third parties against the persons to whom such payments may be made A simple procedure is prescribed for the Civil Court in matters relating to the grant of a certificate and an appeal within a certain limited period is given from its decision to the Court of the Judicial Commissioner whose decision is to be final All payments under the treaty which may heretofore have been made by the Government are validated

4 Lastly the Bill provides for the capitalization of the pension contemplated by the treaty being carried out in anticipation of the grant of the certificate The Government is not bound to continue paying to the pensioners the present high rate of interest but might under the terms of the document, pay off the capitalized value of the pension at once As the Government certainly would do this if it could ascertain who the rightful heir is the claim of any heir succeeding is practically a claim for the capital

B 1, B 2, &c, refer to the sections of the amended draft of Mr Jones' Bill prepared while Mr F Cockerell had charge of the Bill

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to agricultural tenancies in the Central Provinces

Preamble

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to agricultural tenancies in the Central Provinces It is hereby enacted as follows —

CHAPTER I

PRELIMINARY

Short title

1 This Act may be called "The Central Provinces Tenancy Act, 1880"

Local extent

It extends to all the territories for the time being administered by the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces except those specified in Part VI of schedule I of the Scheduled Districts Act 1874 B 1

Commencement

and it shall come into force on such date as the Chief Commissioner, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may fix in this behalf

Enactments repealed

2 The enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed are repealed B 2

Suits and applications instituted and made under any such enactment, and pending at the time this Act comes into force before any officer before whom they would have been instituted or made if this Act had been in force shall be deemed so far as may be, to have been respectively instituted and made under this Act

B 3

Interpretation clause

3 In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context the following words and phrases shall be construed as next hereinafter provided, that is to say —

Land

(1) "Land" means land which is let or occupied for agricultural purposes or for purposes ancillary to agriculture and includes the sites of buildings appurtenant to such land

Tenant

(2) "Tenant" means a person who holds land of another person and is or but for a special contract would be liable to pay rent for such land to such other person But it does not include a farmer thikadar or other similar lessee of a whole village or a portion thereof not being less than one half

Explanation —An inferior proprietor is not as such a tenant

Landlord

(3) "Landlord" means the person of whom a tenant holds land and to whom such tenant is or but for a special contract would be liable to pay rent for such land but when the right to receive rent or any other right which a landlord is ordinarily entitled to exercise is for the time being vested in a person other than the person of whom the land is held such other person shall be deemed to be the landlord in respect of the right so vested

A superior proprietor is not as such a landlord

Rent

(4) "Rent" means whatever is paid delivered or rendered in money kind or service by a tenant to a landlord, on account of the use or occupation of land

C P Rev Bill sec 4 (18)

Pay and payable

(5) "Pay" and "payable" used with reference to rent include deliver and deliverable

Arrear

(6) "Arrear" means an instalment of rent which is not paid on or before the date on which it is payable

Holding

(7) "Holding" means land included in a lease held by a tenant under the same lease or condition

Village

(8) "Village" includes any local area which at the last preceding settlement has been recognized as a village or which the Chief Commissioner may from time to time declare to be a village for the purposes of this Act

Cf Act XVIII of 1873 sec 14
Act XIX of 1868 sec 24 Panjab sec 17 Irish Act sec 70

Improvement

(9) "Improvement" means with reference to a holding any work which not diminishing the value of any other part of the landlord's estate adds to the letting value of such holding is suitable to it and consistent with the purpose for which it was let, and, if not executed on the holding is either executed directly for its benefit or is after execution made directly beneficial to it

It includes the reclaiming enclosing or clearing of lands for agricultural purposes, and the renewal or reconstruction of works which, when first undertaken were improvements

But it does not include any class of embankments constructed for the purpose of flooding or retaining water on fields which the Chief Commissioner may from time to time declare to be excluded from this definition

Explanation —A work which benefits several holdings may be deemed to be, with respect to each of them an improvement

Agricultural year

(10) "Agricultural year" means the year commencing on the first day of June

Absolute occupancy tenant

(11) "Absolute occupancy tenant" means, in reference to any land a tenant who in any record of rights made before the passing of this Act was recorded in respect of such land as an absolute occupancy raiyat or in terms equivalent thereto

C P Rev Bill s 4 (10)

Sir land

(12) "Sir land" means—

(a) land recorded as 'sir' in the papers of the last preceding settlement or

C P Revenue Bill sec 4 (7)

(b) land not so recorded but which has been continuously cultivated by the proprietor or one of the proprietors thereof for not less than twelve years or

(c) land which being left uncultivated otherwise than in the ordinary course of husbandry has been broken up by the proprietor or one of the proprietors thereof and continuously cultivated by him for not less than six years

Provided that such land has not after the date of such settlement or the expiry of such period of twelve years or six years (as the case may be) been continuously for a period of three years unoccupied by such proprietor

Explanation (i) —Land is not unoccupied by the proprietor within the meaning of this definition when it is leased out by him with an express reservation of his sir rights

Explanation (ii) — Sir land includes "bhogra" land in Sambalpur

Record of rights

(13) "Record of rights" includes the "supplementary administration paper" prepared at the time of making a settlement before the passing of this Act

C P Revenue Bill sec 4 (20)

Revenue officer

(14) "Revenue officer" in any provision of this Act means such Revenue officer appointed under the Central Provinces Land-revenue Act 1880 as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time direct by name or by virtue of his office to discharge the functions of a Revenue officer under such provision

New

CHAPTER II

OF CERTAIN RELATIONS BETWEEN LANDLORDS AND TENANTS IN GENERAL

(A) —Of Rent generally

B 4

Presumption that rent continues unchanged

4 In all suits and proceedings between landlords and tenants it shall be presumed until the contrary is shown that the rent for any year payable by a tenant is, if the area of his holding remains unaltered that which was payable by him in the last preceding year

B 6.

Date from which orders changing rents operate.

5 When the rent of a holding is changed under any provision of this Act, the change shall take effect from the commencement of the agricultural year following the date of the application upon which such change is ordered Provided that, if the application is made on the ground mentioned in section sixty seven section eighty nine, clause (d) or section ninety clause (c) the change shall take effect from such date as the Court fixes

B 10 No 3 p 51 Act XVIII of 1873 sec 212

Dates on which rents are payable

6 In the absence of any contract to the contrary rents shall be payable in such instalments and on such dates as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time by rule prescribe and in the absence of such rule, according to local usage

B 11 Compare Act XVIII of 1873 secs 50 to 55

Tenant may in certain cases deposit rent with Revenue officer

7 When any landlord upon tender being made to him by any tenant of any instalment of rent payable in money refuses to accept the same or to grant a receipt therefor and

when any tenant, in the case mentioned in section forty seven desires the appointment of a person to receive rents payable in money and no such appointment is made, and

when any tenant in any other case is doubtful as to the person entitled to receive any such rent from him

such tenant may apply to a Revenue officer for permission to deposit the amount of rent which he believes to be due and such officer shall receive such deposit unless after examining the applicant the application appears unnecessary or made in bad faith

B 11 last para.

Deposit to be deemed a payment to the landlord

8 When any deposit has been received under the provisions of section seven it shall unless it appears that it was made in bad faith, or that it was less than the amount due be deemed to be a payment made by the tenant to the landlord or the person appointed to receive such rent as the case may be

A Revenue officer receiving any such deposit may pay the amount thereof to any person appearing to him to be entitled to receive the same or may in his discretion retain the same pending the decision of a Civil Court

No suit or other proceeding shall be instituted against the Secretary of State in Council or against any officer of the Government in respect of anything done by a revenue officer under the last preceding clause but nothing herein contained shall prevent any person entitled to receive the amount of any deposit from recovering the same from a person to whom it has been paid

B 12 Compare Act XVIII of 1873 sec 48.

Penalty for exaction by landlord

9 Every tenant from whom his landlord levies any unauthorized cess or any rent exceeding the amount payable by such tenant shall be entitled to recover, by suit in a Civil Court, from the landlord the amount so wrongfully levied together with such penalty not exceeding double such amount as the Court thinks fit

Compare Act XVIII of 1873 s 48

For not giving receipt

When any landlord withholds a receipt for rent paid by a tenant or in giving such receipt omits to specify the period or crop in respect of which the payment is made, such tenant shall be entitled to recover, by suit in a Civil Court, from such landlord such penalty not exceeding double the amount of the rent so paid as the Court thinks fit

The period of limitation for a suit instituted under this section shall be one year from the date on which the cause of action accrues, in other respects the limitation of such suits shall be governed by the Indian Limitation Act, 1877

10 Whenever any portion of the Government revenue payable in respect of any land is remitted or suspended in consequence of the cultivation of such land being obstructed or the crops on such land being damaged or destroyed by drought, flood, locusts or any other cause beyond the control of a cultivator the Chief Commissioner may by written order direct that a tenant of any portion of such land may in any suit brought against him by his landlord for the rent due in respect of such portion of land for the season in which such obstruction damage or destruction occurred, prove that such obstruction damage or destruction occurred to a material extent upon such portion of land and the Court may thereupon remit or suspend such portion of the rent due as it deems reasonable B 7; No 4, pp. 1

No rent to be less than the revenue

11 A lease or other contract permitting a tenant to hold without payment of rent or fixing the rent payable by a tenant at an amount or value less than the amount of the revenue payable in respect of the holding shall be deemed to fix the rent at the amount of such revenue

Special rule as to contracts fixing rent in Chanda and Nimar

12 When any land in any village in either of the districts of Chánda and Nimar has been recorded as waste at the last preceding settlement and any person having been for the three years preceding continuously cultivating in such village enters into any contract whereby he agrees to pay for such land any rent at a rate exceeding that which the Chief Commissioner may have prescribed in this behalf and caused to be entered in the Record of rights at such settlement such contract shall be deemed to be a contract to pay rent at the rate so prescribed and entered B 13

When any such land has not been recorded as waste at the last preceding settlement, and any person enters into any contract whereby he agrees to pay for such land rent at a rate exceeding the rate so prescribed and entered such contract shall be deemed to be a contract to pay at the rate so prescribed and entered

(B) —Of Rents taken by Division or Estimate of the Crops

Procedure for dividing or estimating crops

13 When rent is taken by division of the produce, or by estimate or appraisement of a crop, if either the landlord or the tenant neglects to attend either personally or by agent at the proper time, or there is a dispute regarding the division of the said produce, or the quantity or value of the crop, an application may be made by either party to a Revenue officer requesting that a commission may issue for such division, estimate or appraisement B 14 Act XVIII of 1873 s 4

If either party satisfies the officer that he has reason to believe that the other party will

not so attend, or that if he does so attend, there will be a dispute regarding such division estimate or appraisement, the officer may in his discretion order the issue of such commission

Appointment of assessors

14. When a Revenue officer appoints any person a Commissioner for any of the purposes mentioned in section thirteen, such officer may, in his discretion direct such person to associate with himself any other persons as assessors and may give instructions regarding the number and mode of selection of such assessors and the procedure to be followed in making such division, estimate or appraisement

B 16: Ajmer Land Regulation sec. 49

Remedy for error in division

15 If, in any division under the foregoing provisions either party receives less than the share to which he is entitled such party may within three months from the date on which such division is completed institute a suit against the other party to recover the value of the additional portion of the crop due to him, at the price which prevailed on such date

If no such suit is instituted within the said period of three months the division shall for all purposes be deemed as between the parties thereto to have been rightly made

Effect of estimate

16 When a crop has been estimated or appraised under the foregoing provisions such estimate or appraisement shall be reduced to writing and signed by the Commissioner making the same and shall be submitted to the Revenue office by whom such Commissioner was appointed

Ajmer Land Regulation s 51

Either party may within three months from the date on which an estimate or appraisement is submitted under this section institute a suit against the other party to set aside such estimate or appraisement on the ground that it was made in bad faith and on no other ground If no such suit is instituted within the period thus limited such estimate or appraisement shall be as between the parties thereto for all purposes final and conclusive

No 3 pp 48 to 51

(C) —Of the Landlord's Lien upon the Produce of a Tenant's Holding

B 18.

Definitions

17 In this section and sections eighteen to twenty two both inclusive the following expressions shall have the meanings hereby attached to them —

(a) "landlord's fortnight" means with reference to a holding, a period of fourteen days next after the date on which an instalment of rent has fallen due in respect of such holding,

(b) "produce of a tenant's holding" includes standing crops and other ungathered products of such holding, and crops and other products reaped or gathered, but not stored otherwise than in exercise of a right or power conferred by section nineteen

Explanation —Crops and other products deposited on a threshing floor or place for treading out the grain or the like shall not by reason of their being so deposited, be deemed to be stored

Priority conferred on attachments of crops made by landlords

18 When the produce of a tenant's holding is attached in execution of a decree for an arrear due in respect of such holding the attachment shall, in respect of such part of the claim as may be for an arrear which fell due within one year next before the date of such attachment, prevail against any prior assignment of or charge on such produce by way of sale mortgage or otherwise, and if there are prior attachments the landlord shall, in respect of the said part of the claim be held to be the creditor first entitled to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale

B 20: Act X of 1859 sec 118.

Tenant may reap attached crops

19 Standing crops and other ungathered products of a holding may, while under attachment, by any order of a Civil Court, be reaped and gathered by the tenant, and may be stored in such granaries or other places as are commonly used by him for the purpose If the tenant neglects to do so the Civil Court shall cause the said crops and products to be reaped and gathered and stored either in such granaries or other places as aforesaid or in some other convenient place in the neighbourhood

B 21.

Sale of produce of tenant['s holding] [not to] be deferred in certain cases

20 If the produce of a tenant's holding is attached by order of a Civil Court on the application of any person other than the landlord it shall not be brought to sale—

(a) if the attachment is made during a landlord's fortnight before the end of such fortnight,

(b) if the attachment is made at any other time before the end of the landlord's fortnight next ensuing

If having been so attached, it is again within the landlord's fortnight mentioned in clause (a) or clause (b) attached before judgment in a suit brought by the landlord to recover the instalment of rent which fell due in respect of the holding at the beginning of such fortnight the sale shall be further deferred until the decision of the landlord's suit

Provided that no sale shall be deferred under this section—

(a) if the landlord consents that it shall be held or

(b) if when the attachment of the Civil Court has been made within a landlord's fortnight, the amount of the instalment which fell due at the beginning of such fortnight has been paid to the landlord or into Court or

(c) if when the attachment has been made at any other time the amount of the instalment falling due at the beginning of the landlord's fortnight next ensuing has been paid to the landlord or into Court or

(d) when the produce is liable to speedy natural decay

Retention of sale proceeds by the Court in certain cases

21 In the case of a sale under the proviso (d) of section twenty the nett proceeds of the sale shall be retained by the Court until the date on which the produce would otherwise have been sold and attachments made by the landlord shall, in respect of such proceeds have the same priority which they would have had in respect of the produce if it had not been brought to immediate sale

Attachment before judgment in suits for arrears

22 If, within a landlord's fortnight, a landlord makes an application to attach before judgment in respect of an arrear falling due at the beginning of such fortnight, the produce of the tenant's holding or the nett proceeds of the sale of such produce retained by the Court

under section twenty one the Court shall make such attachment accordingly and such attachment shall be maintained up to judgment notwithstanding any objection made thereto But if it should afterwards appear that such application was vexatiously and unnecessarily made, the Court may award to any party aggrieved thereby such compensation as it thinks fit

(D) —Of Surrender and Abandonment by Tenants

B. 24. 23 Except as otherwise provided by contract between the parties, any tenant desiring to surrender his holding may before the first day of April in any agricultural year —

Notice of surrender to be given by tenant

(a) present to his landlord a notice in writing declaring his intention to surrender such holding at the end of such year

(b) apply to such Civil Court as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time appoint in this behalf to serve such notice upon such landlord

Every landlord to whom a notice is presented under this section shall be bound to give a written receipt for the same and every Court to which an application is made to serve a notice under this section shall comply with such application

B 25 24 When such notice has been so presented and acknowledged before the first day of April in any agricultural year or when on an application made before the first day of April in any such year such notice is so served before the first day of May in such year the tenancy in respect of which such notice has been presented or served shall terminate at the end of such year

Tenancy when terminated by such notice

B 26 25 Any tenant who except with the consent of his landlord or in the exercise of a right conferred by contract surrenders or abandons his holding otherwise than is provided by sections twenty three and twenty four shall be liable for the rent which would have been payable by him during the whole of the agricultural year in which he so surrenders or abandons his holding and the whole of the agricultural year next following if his tenancy had continued Provided that no such tenant shall be liable for such rent in respect of any portion of such following year during which the holding or any portion thereof has been in the actual occupation of the landlord or let by him to another tenant

Consequences of irregular surrender or abandonment

B 28 26 No tenant shall be entitled to surrender a part only of his holding except in the exercise of a right conferred by contract or with the consent of his landlord

Surrender to be of the entire holding

(F) —Of Ejectment

B 29 27 No tenant shall be ejected from his holding by or at the instance of his landlord except—

No ejectment by landlord except as herein provided

See s 60 (a) by his landlord in exercise of a right hereinafter conferred or

(b) by a Civil Court at the instance of his landlord as next hereinafter provided

B 30 28 A tenant may be ejected from his holding by a Civil Court in the following modes, that is to say,—

Ejectment by Civil Court—

(a) in execution of a decree for ejectment,

in execution of decree for ejectment

(b) under a special order made in the execution of a decree for an arrear due in respect of such holding, or

in execution of decree for arrears

See ss 60, 71 & 49 (c) if he is a tenant for a term or an ordinary tenant or a sub lessee of a former tenant on an application by the landlord under one of the provisions relating to such tenants hereinafter contained

on an application under certain provisions of this Act

B 32 Act XVIII of 1873 ss. 34 & 35 29 When on the sixteenth day of May in any agricultural year or such other day of the year as the Chief Commissioner may by rule fix in substitution for the sixteenth of May in this behalf the landlord has obtained a decree against the tenant for an arrear of rent of any land and the amount of such decree or any portion of such amount remains unpaid,

Ejectment in execution of a decree for arrears

the landlord may apply to the Court having authority to execute such decree to make an order directing that the tenant shall be ejected from such land and the Court may make such order

Provided that no ejectment shall be made under this section at any time less than fifteen days from the date of the decree

B. 33. 30 Any landlord who has obtained in respect of any holding a decree for ejectment, or an order under section twenty nine or who is entitled under the provisions hereinafter contained to make the application next hereinafter mentioned,

Application to a Civil Court to eject

may apply to the Court which made such decree or order or where the application is not based upon any such decree or order, to such civil Court as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time appoint in this behalf, to eject his tenant from such holding

B 34. 31 The Court to which an application is made under section thirty shall, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained, eject such tenant

Procedure thereon

Compare Act XXVIII of 1868 sec 21 and Act XIX of 1868, ss. 38 & 39 Provided that when an application is made to a Court to make an ejectment on a date after the fifteenth day of June and before the fifteenth day of April in any agricultural year such Court if it finds that the tenant has not sub let and that the holding has been cultivated in accordance with local usage may instead of directing that the ejectment be at once proceeded with order it to be postponed to a date after the fifteenth day of April in such year

B 35 Compare Act XVIII of 1873 s 42. 32 When a tenant is ejected from his holding he shall in the absence of any custom or special agreement to the contrary, be entitled—

Rights of tenant in respect of crops and land prepared for sowing

(a) at the option of the landlord either to retain possession of any land comprised in such holding which he has sown previous to the time of ejectment and to use such land for the purpose of tending and gathering in the crops sown, or to receive from the landlord the estimated value of the labour and capital expended by him in preparing and sowing such land and tending such crops, and

(b) to receive from the landlord the estimated value of the labour and capital expended by him in preparing for sowing any land comprised in such holding but not sown

Compare Act XVIII of 1868, sec 27

Provided that no tenant shall be entitled to retain possession of any land or receive compensation in respect thereof under this section when he has cultivated or prepared such land contrary to local usage, or to retain possession of any land or receive any compensation in respect of any cultivation or preparation which his landlord, being in a position to make an application under section thirty, has by a notice in writing forbidden him to undertake

36 33 When a landlord elects under clause (a) of section thirty two, to allow a tenant to retain possession of any land for the purpose specified in that section such tenant shall pay to such landlord for the use and occupation of such land during the period for which he is allowed to retain possession of the same, such portion of the yearly rent of the holding as the Court may deem reasonable

Payment by tenant for occupation of land under section 32

37 34 A Court ejecting a tenant under section thirty shall inquire into and determine all claims under this Act by the landlord against such tenant or by such tenant against the landlord and the decision of such Court upon any such claim shall be final and conclusive

Account to be taken generally between landlord and tenant

38 35 When it appears to a Court making an ejectment that the amount payable by the landlord as such to the tenant exceeds the amount payable by the tenant as such to the landlord it shall unless the landlord and tenant come to an arrangement regarding the payment of such excess sum fix a time within which it must be paid into Court

Procedure when on ejectment money has to be paid by the landlord to the tenant

If such sum is so paid within the time fixed, the Court shall eject the tenant

and, if such sum is not so paid within such time, shall dismiss the application for ejectment

but nothing herein contained shall prevent a landlord from making a fresh application for ejectment

39 36 When a tenant against whom a suit for arrears has been instituted transfers his holding or any part thereof and a decree is passed against such tenant in such suit any order made in execution of such decree under section twenty nine may be executed either against such tenant or against such transferee as if he were the original tenant

Transfer of holding while suit for arrears is pending

40 37 If, during the course of proceedings to eject in execution of an order made under section twenty nine the amount of the decree for arrears and the cost of execution of such decree are realized, the proceedings shall be stayed

When proceedings to eject to be stayed

41 38 Any tenant who has been ejected in contravention of section twenty seven may within one year from the date of his ejectment sue in a Civil Court for reinstatement or for compensation or for both, and such Court shall if it finds that the ejectment was illegal reinstate the tenant, or in case he has applied for compensation ascertain the amount of actual damage which he has sustained by the ejectment and award to him such amount, together with such further sum not exceeding two hundred rupees, as it thinks reasonable compensation for the trouble and annoyance caused to him by the ejectment

Remedy of tenant illegally ejected

If within the said period of one year the tenant does not sue under this section, his interest (if any) in the land and his right (if any) to compensation shall cease

(F) —Of Improvements and Compensation therefor

39 In all suits and proceedings between landlords and tenants it shall be presumed, until the contrary is shown that save as provided in section ninety five landlords have a preferential right to construct tanks pakka wells and permanent buildings on the holdings of their tenants B 42

Preferential right to improve

The Chief Commissioner may from time to time by rule prescribe the manner in which tenants desiring to make improvements shall give notice thereof to landlords who have a preferential right to make them and may fix the time to be allowed for the exercise of such right

40 If any tenant or any person from whom he has derived his tenancy by inheritance or transfer has made improvements in his holding, such tenant shall be entitled to be compensated for such improvements when he is ejected and shall not be ejected by order of any Court until such compensation has been made or provided for to the satisfaction of the Court B 43

Compensation for improvements payable to tenants on ejectment

Compare Act XXVIII of 1868 sec 37 Act XIX of 1868 sec 22 Act XIX of 1873 sec 54 Irish Act, secs 3 4 15 21 and 70.

Provided that no compensation shall be claimable under this section in respect of an improvement in any of the following cases namely —

(a) when the tenant is a tenant of sir land and the improvement has been made in such land without obtaining the express consent of his landlord thereto

(b) when the landlord had a preferential right to make such improvement and the tenant has made it without giving such notice and allowing such time as is prescribed under section thirty nine or when no such notice or time is prescribed without giving due notice and allowing reasonable time to his landlord to make it

( ) when the tenant having contracted not to make such improvement without giving the landlord reasonable notice to make it has made it without giving such notice

(d) when the tenant has made the improvement in pursuance of a contract or under a lease binding him to make such improvement without compensation

Improvements made by a tenant before the passing of this Act in lands other than sir land shall be deemed to have been made after notice to, and with the permission of his landlord unless it is shown that the landlord forbade the tenant to make the improvement, and was ready to make it himself or that the tenant contracted in writing not to make such improvement

41 In estimating the compensation to be made for an improvement under section forty the Court shall have regard— B 44 No 4, p 12

Principle on which compensation to be assessed

(a) to the labour and capital expended by the tenant in such improvement and

(b) to the amount by which the letting value of the holding or its produce or the value thereof is likely to be increased by such improvement

Provided that in no case shall the compensation for any improvement exceed the amount for which it could have been made by the landlord, or the amount by which it has increased the selling value of the holding,

Provided also that if a landlord has, in consideration of an improvement allowed a tenant to hold at a rent lower than the rent which would have been payable if such improvement had not been made the amount of rent thus remitted shall be deemed to have been a payment by the landlord made towards the cost of the improvement

Explanation —In this section the words ' letting value' mean the value of the holding if let at a rack rent

B 46 — Shape in which compensation may be given

42 Compensation for improvements may be made in money to be paid by such instalments as the Court thinks fit unless both landlord and tenant agree that it should be made in any other manner, in which case it shall be made accordingly

B. 47 No 3 pp 6-10 No 4, p 12 Cf Irish Act, s 4. — Agreements not to make improvements &c void

43 Every contract made after the passing of this Act whereby a tenant agrees not to make improvements or to be ejected if he makes improvements or to forego any claim to compensation under this Act for improvements which he makes otherwise than in fulfilment of a contract or under a lease binding him to make them, shall so far as regards such agreement be void

B 48 No. 3 pp 6 10 — Certain entries in Records of rights to be void

44 All entries in the Record of rights of any village providing,—

(a) that landlords shall be entitled to prevent tenants from making improvements or to eject them for making improvements or to demand increased rent from them in respect of any improvements which they have made or

shall be void

No 3 pp 3 & 4.

(G) —Case of several Persons Landlords of the same Land

B 50 — Appointment of person to act on behalf of several landlords

45 When persons who are jointly entitled to be deemed the landlords of any tenant in matters connected with the granting of leases ejectment or the enhancement abatement or recovery of rent appoint any person to act on their behalf in any such matter or revoke such appointment they shall notify such appointment or revocation for the information of their tenants in such manner as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time prescribe by rules in this behalf

Any such appointment or revocation not so notified shall be null and void as against the tenant

No 4, p 14. B. 51 — Person appointed under section 45 deemed sole landlord.

46 Any person whose appointment has been so notified shall be deemed to be for the purposes of this Act and so far as his appointment may extend, the sole landlord of the tenants to whom his appointment has been notified and shall alone be entitled to give receipts for rents, to grant leases, or enter into agreements with tenants, as the case may be, on behalf of the persons appointing him

B. 52. — Rents in which two or more persons are interested as landlords

47 When two or more persons are the joint landlords of any tenant in matters connected with the recovery of rents, such tenant subject to any rule which the Chief Commissioner may make in this behalf, shall not be compelled to pay part of the rent of his holding to one of such persons and part to another or others and such persons shall be bound if the tenant so desires, to appoint one of their number or some other person, in manner provided by section forty five, to receive the rent of such holding

(H) —Miscellaneous Provisions

B 53: No. 4, p. 14. — Presumptions in suits and proceedings between landlord and tenants

48 In all suits and proceedings between landlords and tenants it shall be presumed, until the contrary is shown —

(a) that a tenant who does not possess a right of occupancy or hold under an unexpired lease is an ordinary tenant within the meaning of this Act,

(b) that except as by this Act provided, a tenant has no power to transfer or mortgage his holding without the consent of his landlord

B 54 No 4 p 14. — Relation between landlord and sub lessee of tenant ejected or surrendering

49 When any tenant having a right to sub let sub lets his holding or any portion thereof and is subsequently ejected by, or surrenders his holding to, his landlord, the sub lessee shall be deemed to become the tenant of such landlord under the sub lease, but such landlord shall be entitled to apply at any time under section thirty to a Civil Court to eject him

B 57: No 3 p 12 Compare Act X of 1859 ss 2 9 30 & 31 Act XVIII of 1873 ss 24 & 28 and Act XIX of 1868 s 7 — Landlord or tenant may require that terms of tenancy be reduced to writing

50 When land is held otherwise than under a written lease or agreement either the landlord or the tenant may apply to a Revenue-officer to have the terms on which it is held reduced to writing

B 58 — Procedure on application under section 50

51 On receiving an application for the reduction to writing of the terms of any tenancy in accordance with section fifty the Revenue officer shall ascertain the matters if any, on which the parties are at issue and shall then—

(a) if it appears that there are no such matters in dispute or that they have been already decided by a Court of competent jurisdiction in the applicant s favour, make the order applied for, or

(b) if the matters in dispute are such as a Revenue officer is competent to determine, determine such matters, and make such order thereon as he thinks fit or

(c) refer the parties to the Civil Court

B 59 — If order to execute any instrument is neglected Revenue officer may execute it

52 If a landlord or tenant refuses or neglects to execute any instrument which he may be directed to execute under section fifty one, the Officer may himself execute such instrument, and the instrument so executed shall be of the same force and effect as if it had been executed by the person who refused or neglected to execute it

60: Compare Irish Act, s. Oudh, s. ; Act X, s. 24.

53 If any landlord or tenant desires that the extent of any holding should be ascertained, or that evidence relating to any improvement made in respect there of by either of them, or to the state of such holding at any specified time, should be recorded, he may apply to a Revenue officer and such Officer shall thereupon make, or cause to be made, such en quiry as he thinks fit, with a view to ascertain or record the matters the ascertainment or record of which is desired by the applicant Provided that—

Applications to measure or ascertain condition of holdings.

no action shall be taken by any Revenue-officer under this section if it appears that the application is unnecessary or is made vexatiously or that the matter the ascertainment of which is desired is being enquired into by any Civil Court

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the right of a landlord to enter on any holding for the purpose of measuring or examining the same

When any matter has been ascertained and recorded under this section both landlord and ten ant, and all persons claiming under either of them shall, in all subsequent proceedings before any Revenue officer, or in any Civil Court, be bound by such record

18 o 4, pp 3&4.

54 If any landlord grants a lease or enters into any other contract fix ing the rent of any holding and while such lease or con tract is in force,—

Leases may be avoided when assessment is changed

(a) land revenue is for the first time made pay able in respect of the holding

(b) land revenue having previously been pay able in respect of it the revenue payable when the lease or other contract was executed is in creased,

such lease or other contract shall be voidable at the option of the landlord unless the tenant agrees to pay such rent as a Settlement officer or Revenue officer may on the application of the landlord determine to be fair and reasonable.

Where land revenue having been payable in respect of the holding at the time when the lease or other contract was executed, the amount of such revenue is reduced, such lease or other contract shall, if the Chief Commissioner by any general or special order so directs, be voidable at the option of the tenant, unless the landlord agrees to accept such rent as a Settlement officer or Revenue officer may on the application of the tenant determine to be fair and reasonable

Of Ordinary Tenants

(A) —Preliminary

61

55 In all suits and proceedings between land lords and ordinary tenants it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is shown or unless there is an entry in the Record-of rights to the contrary, that the rights and liabilities describ ed in this chapter are incident to the tenure

Presumption as to ordinary tenancies.

62: o. 2, p. 33.

56 Any landlord who desires to eject an ordin ary tenant at the close of any agricultural year may, before the first day of December in such year, apply to a Civil Court to serve such tenant with a notice of ejectment, and such Court shall serve such notice

Notice of ejectment

57 If any tenant upon whom a notice has been served under section fifty six disputes the right of his land lord to eject him he may, within one month from the date on which such notice is so served, institute a suit to contest such right B. 63.

Procedure when right to eject is disputed

58 Any ordinary tenant upon whom such a notice has been served, and who, not being a ten ant of sir land, or a sub lessee has, at the time when it is proposed to eject him, continuously for five years cultivated land in the village in which the land from which it is proposed to eject him is situated, and is, when such village is inhabited, resident therein, and has not either in the agricultural year in which it is proposed to eject him or in either of the two agricultural years next preceding received from his landlord any assistance in his cultivation, may, within the said period of one month apply to the Court by which such notice was served for an order of protection from ejectment and such Court shall grant such order unless the landlord satisfies it that hardship would be caused thereby B 64: No 2, pp 33 & 34.

When protection or der may be granted

Explanation —Loss caused to the landlord by not obtaining a higher rent is not hardship within the meaning of this section

59 If within the said period of one month, no suit is instituted under section fifty-seven and no application is made under section fifty eight or if on such a suit being insti tuted or application made it is rejected the Court may record a proceeding declaring that the land lord is entitled to eject the tenant B. 65

Declaration of right to eject when to be made

60 Any landlord in whose favour a declaration has been recorded under section fifty nine may eject the tenant— B 66.

Time for ejectment on declaration under section 59

(a) when such declaration has been recorded before the seventeenth day of May in the agricultural year in which the application under section fifty six was made—at any time during the said month of May

(b) when such declaration has not been recorded before the said seventeenth day of May—at any time within fifteen days from the date of such declaration

Provided that any such landlord instead of ejecting such tenant himself may within the period prescribed by this section, apply under section thirty to a Civil Court to eject such tenant

61 Any ordinary tenant in respect of whom a declaration has been made under section fifty nine and who if ejected, would have a claim to retain any land or receive any compen sation under section thirty two may if he has reason to believe that his landlord is about to eject him without the assistance of a Court, apply to such Court as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time appoint in this behalf to make an order prohibiting the landlord from so ejecting him and it shall be in the discretion of the Court to make such order B 67

Tenant may apply for order prohibiting ejectment

B. 68. 62 Any such tenant who has been ejected by a landlord without the assistance of a Court may, within the period of one month after such ejectment, apply to a Court appointed under section sixty one—

Remedy of tenant ejected by landlord

(a) to be put in possession of any land or to be awarded any compensation to which, under section thirty two, he is entitled and

(b) to compel the landlord to pay him any net sum to which if he had been ejected by the Court he would have been declared entitled under section thirty five

B 69 63 On receiving such application the Court shall proceed to determine the matters set forth therein and may put the tenant into possession of any land to which he is entitled and if any net sum as aforesaid to which the Court finds the tenant to be entitled is not paid by the landlord within such period as it fixes may in its discretion reinstate the tenant in the land from which he has been ejected

Procedure in such cases

B 70 64 A tenant to whom an order of protection is granted under section fifty eight in one agricultural year may be ejected in a subsequent agricultural year if he ceases to reside in the village or receives assistance from his landlord in the cultivation of his holding

Protected tenant may be ejected in subsequent year

B. 71 65 All entries in the Record of rights of any village providing that any notice other than that herein prescribed shall be given by a landlord before ejecting an ordinary tenant shall be void

Certain entries in Record of rights declared void

(C) —Of the Rent payable by Ordinary Tenants

B 72 66 The rent payable in any year of his tenancy by an ordinary tenant not being a tenant who has obtained an order of protection under section fifty eight shall be —

Rent payable by ordinary tenants

(a) when such year is the first year of his tenancy the rent which he agreed with his landlord to pay or in the absence of any agreement such rent as a Revenue officer may on application made to him determine to be a fair rent

Compare Act XIX of 1868 ss 35 & 36 (b) when such year is not the first year of his tenancy the rent which was payable in the preceding year unless a different rent has been agreed upon in which case the rent so agreed upon shall be payable

In fixing a fair rent under clause (a) of this section the Revenue officer shall have regard to the rates paid by ordinary tenants occupying lands of similar quality and with similar advantages in the neighbourhood and to any expectations which the landlord may have held out to the tenant of occupying at rates lower than such rates

The fact that in any year any sum was paid as rent shall unless such payment was extorted or made through fraud or by mistake be held to prove that the tenant agreed to pay a rent not less than such sum

B. 5 67 When the area of a holding of an ordinary tenant is diminished by diluvion or otherwise during any year of tenancy, a Revenue officer may, on application made to him, determine the rent payable for the holding for such year

68 When a Court grants a tenant an order of protection under section fifty eight it shall either fix his rent at the amount which he is paying at the time when he obtains such order or fix a fair rent in manner prescribed by section sixty six whichever may be greater B 73.

Rents payable by protected tenants

Rent which has been fixed under this section is liable to be refixed on the application of either the landlord or the tenant in any subsequent year

69 Except as provided in this Act, no Court shall determine the rent proper to be paid by an ordinary tenant B 74 No 3 p 13.

No Court to determine rent payable by ordinary tenants except under Act

70 An ordinary tenant shall not, in the absence of a written contract empowering him to do so be entitled to sub let his holding or any part thereof

Sub letting

OF TENANTS FOR A FIXED TERM

71 A tenant for a fixed term shall on and after the first day of May next preceding the end of such term, be deemed to be, in matters relating to ejectment and reinstatement an ordinary tenant B 75.

Ejectment on expiry of term

Provided that if it be expressly stipulated in his lease that he shall quit his holding at the expiration of such term the notice specified in section fifty six shall not be required and such tenant may on the expiration of such term be ejected by his landlord with or without the assistance of a Civil Court as if a declaration in respect of him had been made under section fifty nine

72 A tenant for a fixed term may in the absence of any written agreement to the contrary, sub let his holding or any part thereof

Sub letting

OF TENANTS WITH A RIGHT OF OCCUPANCY

(A) —Of the Acquisition of the Right of Occupancy

73 Any owner of sir land shall be deemed to become an occupancy tenant of such land in the following cases viz — B 76 No 3 p 15.

Ex proprietors of sir land

(a) when he sells such land without expressly agreeing to transfer his right to cultivate it

(b) when his interest in such land is sold for arrears of land revenue, or

(c) when his interest in such land is sold in execution of any decree which does not declare his right to cultivate such land to have been expressly hypothecated to the judgment debtor

74 Any person recorded as an absolute occupancy raiyat or as a tenant with rights of occupancy of any land, or in terms equivalent thereto, in any record of rights of such land made before the passing of this Act, shall be deemed to have acquired a right of occupancy in the land in respect of which he may have been so recorded

Persons recorded as occupancy tenants

B 77: Compare Act XVIII of 1878, s. 8; No 1 p. 16; No 2 pp 31 & 32; No 3 p 16; No 2, p 31:

Twelve years rule.

75 Every tenant who has held the same land continuously for twelve years shall be deemed to have acquired a right of occupancy therein Provided that such land is not (1) held under a written lease in which it is stipulated that a right of occupancy shall not be acquired or that the tenant shall quit the land at its termination or (2) held in lieu of wages, or (3) sir land

Explanation I—Land sub let is not "held" either by the sub-lessee or his lessor within the meaning of this section

Explanation II—The occupation of the person from whom a tenant has inherited his holding, or when the holding has been acquired by the tenant otherwise than by inheritance and the landlord was or had this Act been in force would have been bound to recognize such acquisition the occupation of the person from whom it has been so acquired shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to be the occupation of the tenant

Explanation III—When by the custom of any village the holdings of tenants are or have been, liable to periodical redistribution lands which a tenant may in accordance with such custom have from time to time received in exchange for lands previously held by him shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to be the same lands as the lands which he held prior to such exchange

B 78; No 1 p 12; No 2, p 30; No 3 p 19 22; Act XXVIII of 1868, s 7

Case of land received in exchange in a village the holdings of which are subject to custom

76 A tenant having a right of occupancy in land situated in a village in which the holdings of tenants are by custom liable to periodical redistribution and exchanging such land in accordance with such custom for other land situated in the same village shall be deemed to have acquired a right of occupancy in the land so taken in exchange

B 79; No 1 p 12; No 2 p 30; No 3 pp 61 & 62; Act XXVIII of 1868 s 7

Tenant changing land in other cases

77 If a tenant having a right of occupancy in any land ceases to hold such land and thereupon commences to hold other land of the same landlord under circumstances from which it may be inferred that he has accepted such other land in lieu of and on the same conditions as the land which he has ceased to hold he shall in the absence of an agreement to the contrary be deemed to have acquired a right of occupancy in the land which he so commences to hold

B 80.

Tenants in Chánda and Nimar

78 In the districts of Chánda and Nimar every tenant shall be deemed to have a right of occupancy in respect of all land which he holds, except sir land or land held by him under a sub lease or recorded as waste at the time of making the settlement for the time being in force and taken up during the term of such settlement on a lease such as is mentioned in section seventy five

B. 81

Tenants in Sambalpúr

79 In the district of Sambalpur every tenant shall be deemed to be an occupancy tenant in respect of all the land which he holds except sir land or land held by him under a sub lease and no such tenant shall be ejected except under an order passed in the execution of a decree for arrears under section twenty nine

Tenant not barred from claiming right of occupancy acquired by contract

80 Nothing in this Act shall be held to debar any tenant from claiming a right of occupancy expressly conferred by a contract

(B) —Of Succession to and Transfer of the Right of Occupancy and of Sub letting

Descent of occupancy right

81 The right of a tenant having a right of occupancy shall descend as if it were land Provided that except in the districts of Chánda Nimár and Sambalpur no collateral relative of a tenant other than an absolute occupancy tenant shall be entitled to inherit such right unless at the death of such tenant he was a co sharer in the holding B 83; No 3 p 37

Right of transfer

82 Every tenant having a right of occupancy may transfer or mortgage such right in his holding or any undivided share thereof without his landlord's consent to any person who has become by inheritance a co sharer with him in such holding B 84

Every absolute occupancy tenant and in the districts of Chanda and Nimár every tenant having a right of occupancy may transfer or mortgage his rights in his holding or any undivided share thereof to any person to whom the right of occupancy would, under the provisions of section eighty one descend at the death of such tenant if such person were then living No 3 pp. 31, 36

Effect of entries in Record of Rights

83 No entry in the Record of rights shall be deemed to entitle occupancy tenants of any class to transfer or mortgage their holdings otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of this chapter B. 85

Provided that nothing in this section shall be deemed to invalidate any transfer or mortgage made before the passing of this Act by an absolute occupancy tenant under any power recorded in a Record of rights

Right to sub let

84 Every tenant having a right of occupancy may sub let his holding or any part thereof B 86; No 3 pp. 29 31

Provided that in the districts of Chanda and Nimár tenants who were not in possession of their holdings at the time when rents were fixed at a settlement shall not during the term of such settlement be entitled to sub let

Occupancy tenant not to be ejected for transfer or sub letting in ignorance of want of power

85 No tenant having a right of occupancy shall be ejected from his holding on the ground that he has agreed to transfer or has sub let the holding when he had no power to transfer or sub let the same if it appears that he so agreed or sub let believing in good faith that he had such power B 87; No 3 p 31.

Rent of occupancy tenant to be that payable in previous year unless otherwise agreed

86 The rent payable in any year by a tenant having a right of occupancy in respect of his holding shall be that which was payable in respect of such holding in the year next preceding unless a different rent has been agreed upon in writing between the landlord and tenant, or such rent is changed under this Act B 88; No 4, p 19

Power to fix money rent where not fixed at previous settlement

87 A tenant with a right of occupancy and paying rent in money, or his landlord may apply to a Settlement officer if a settlement is in progress, or if no settlement is in progress and the rent of the holding has not been fixed at the existing settlement by a Settlement officer, or after such settlement and B 89

after the passing of this Act by a Revenue officer, to a Revenue-officer to fix such rent, and such officer shall except as otherwise provided by agreement between such landlord and tenant, fix such rent having regard to the following, that is to say —

No. 2, p 37 Cf Act XIX of 1873 s 72. (a) to the rent-rates assumed for the purpose of assessing the land revenue on similar land with similar advantages, in the same circle or tahsil and to the customary rates of rent payable by tenants of the same class for similar land with similar advantages, in the same circle or tahsil,

(b) to any claim which the tenant has to pay rent at less than ordinary rates on the ground that some of the advantages with regard to which the lands included in his holding are classed were the result of improvements made by him,

(c) to any circumstances such as the status or caste of the tenants, which the Chief Commissioner may from time to time by rule direct to be taken into account in reduction of such rent and

No 1 pp. 8 & 16: No. 2 p. 32 No. 3, pp 23 & 24. (d) when the application is made during the currency of a settlement to any changes in the value of the produce of land which have occurred after the settlement and which the Chief Commissioner may from time to time by rule direct to be taken into account for this purpose

Provided that the rent demandable from a tenant shall not be reduced under this section, except by a Settlement officer

"Circle" in this section means two or more villages grouped together for assessment purposes by a Settlement-officer or declared by the Chief Commissioner to constitute an assessment circle

B. 90. Certain rents to be deemed to have been fixed under section 87

88 (a) Rents recorded at any settlement made before the passing of this Act as payable by tenants in the Sambalpur district,

(b) rents of absolute occupancy tenants in any other district recorded at or after a settlement made before the passing of this Act, and

(c) rents fixed before the passing of this Act by a Settlement-officer, shall be deemed to have been fixed in manner prescribed by section eighty seven

B. 91 No. 1 pp 8 & 16: No. 3 pp 24 to 28. Enhancement of rent fixed under section 87

89 When the rent of a tenant having a right of occupancy has been fixed at or since the last settlement in manner prescribed by section eighty seven the landlord may except as otherwise provided by any contract between the parties, apply from time to time to a Revenue officer to enhance such rent on one or more of the following grounds, and on no other, namely —

(a) that the rent last fixed under this Act was fixed lower than it otherwise would have been owing to circumstances some or all of which have ceased to exist, and that no corresponding adjustment of the rent has been made,

(b) that since the rent was last fixed under this Act the Chief Commissioner has made a rule of the nature specified in section eighty seven, clause (d), and applicable to the holding,

(c) that since the rent was last fixed under this Act the productive power of the holding has been increased otherwise than by the tenant or at his expense,

(d) that the extent of the tenant's holding is larger than the area in respect of which his rent was last fixed under this Act

Abatement of such rent

90 When the rent of a tenant having a right of occupancy has been fixed at or since the last settlement in manner prescribed by section eighty seven, such tenant may, except as otherwise provided by any contract between the parties, apply from time to time to a Revenue officer for an abatement of his rent on one or more of the following grounds, and on no other, namely — B. 92 : No. 3 pp 24 to 28.

(a) that since the rent was last fixed under this Act the Chief Commissioner has made a rule of the nature specified in section eighty seven, clause (d), and applicable to the holding, or

(b) that since the rent was last fixed under this Act the productive power of the holding has decreased otherwise than by his act, or

(c) that the extent of his holding is less than the area in respect of which his rent was last fixed under this Act

Rents of certain tenants not to be changed on certain grounds

91 Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, the rents of occupancy tenants in the districts of Sambalpur Chánda and Nimár, or of absolute occupancy tenants shall not be changed on the ground that a rule of the nature specified in section eighty seven clause (d), has been made or on the ground that the productive power of the holding has increased or diminished, when such increase or diminution has not been caused by, or at the expense of, the landlord B 94 No. 3 p 37

Restriction on agreement by tenants in Sambalpúr

92 Contracts by which tenants having a right of occupancy in the district of Sambalpur agree to pay rents at rates higher than the average rate at which, at the time of making the settlement for the time being in force, the rents of other lands in the same village of similar quality and possessing similar advantages were fixed shall be void but nothing in this section shall affect any contract to pay a reasonably enhanced rent in consideration of an increase in the productive power of the land having been effected through the agency or at the expense of the landlord B 95.

Power to make rules for determining rents

93 The Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act for the guidance of Revenue and Settlement-officers in the determination of the rents of tenants having a right of occupancy, and declaring the principle on which reductions claimed by tenants under section eighty seven, clause (b), may be allowed B 96.

Settlement officer may commute rents payable in kind.

94 In all cases in which a tenant with a right of occupancy has paid rent in kind or on the estimated value of a portion of the crop, or by rates varying with the crop, or partly in one of such ways and partly in another or others, the landlord, or tenant, may apply while a settlement is in progress to a Settlement-officer, and during the term of a settlement to any officer specially empowered by the Chief Commissioner in this behalf, to commute such rent to a fixed money rent, and, on the receipt of such application, such officer shall determine the rent to be paid in commutation, as if the rent previously paid had been a money rent and an application had been made to him to fix the same

Act VIII of 1879, s. 9. Provided that the Local Government may empower any such officer, when any such application made before him is opposed to refuse, for reasons to be recorded by him in writing, to grant the same

(D) —Miscellaneous

B 97 95 Every absolute occupancy tenant and every tenant declared by section seventy eight or section seventy nine to have a right of occupancy shall be deemed to have with respect to his landlord, a preferential right to make all improvements on his holding

Certain tenants declared to have preferential right to improve.

B 99 96 In all suits and proceedings between landlords and tenants having a right of occupancy, it shall be presumed until the contrary is shown or unless there is an entry in the Record of rights to the contrary that the incidents of the tenure of every tenant who at the passing of this Act has or may hereafter acquire rights of occupancy, are those which are described in this chapter

Presumption that provisions of chapter apply

97 Any owner of sir land who—

Quasi occupancy tenants

(a) gives a usufructuary mortgage of such land without expressly agreeing to transfer to the mortgagee his right to cultivate it or

(b) is temporarily excluded from the proprietary possession of such land under the Central Provinces Land revenue Act 1880, shall be entitled while such mortgage remains in force or while he is so excluded from the proprietary possession to retain the actual possession of the land paying no more rent for the same than if he were an absolute occupancy tenant

CHAPTER VI

Jurisdiction and Procedure

B 100 No. 2, p 41 98 The Revenue officers shall have exclusive cognizance of the subject matter of the following applications, namely —

Cognizance of certain applications

(1) applications to deposit rent (section [illegible])

(2) applications to divide, estimate or appraise a crop (section 13)

(3) applications to have the terms of a tenancy reduced to writing (section 50)

(4) applications to measure or ascertain the condition of a holding (section 53)

(5) applications to fix the rent of ordinary tenants (section 66),

(6) applications to fix the rent of the holding of an ordinary tenant which has been diminished by diluvion or otherwise (section 67)

(7) applications to fix or alter the rent of an occupancy tenant (sections 87, 89 and 90)

(8) applications to commute rents (section 94),

and of such other matters as they are empowered to deal with under this Act and, subject to the provisions herein contained may grant such relief as the nature of the case requires

Provided that nothing herein contained shall debar a Civil Court from exercising jurisdiction in regard to any of the following matters which may arise in any suit or proceeding instituted in such Court namely —

(a) measuring or ascertaining the condition of any holding, dividing, estimating or appraising any crop, or receiving any deposit,

(b) determining the rents payable by tenants when the yearly amount so payable has been fixed by a Revenue or Settlement-officer or by agreement between the parties.

99 In disposing of the matters referred to in section ninety eight, the Revenue officers shall, as nearly as may be, exercise the same powers and follow the same procedure as are exercised and followed by them under the Central Provinces Land revenue Act, 1880

Procedure on such applications.

From every order passed by a Revenue officer in respect of any such matter an appeal shall lie as if such order had been passed by such officer under the said Land revenue Act

100 Subject to the provisions of section ninety eight the Civil Courts shall have jurisdiction in all matters arising between landlord and tenant Provided that— B 103, No. 3 pp. 41 to 45.

Jurisdiction of Civil Courts

(a) no Judge of a Civil Court of first instance shall unless he is also a Revenue officer or a Settlement officer hear any suit between a landlord and a tenant as such and

(b) the Chief Commissioner may subject to the provisions of this Act direct that all or any of such suits shall be tried before such Courts of such grades competent to try the same as he thinks fit and not otherwise

101 The Chief Commissioner may direct that all or any of the following suits, namely,— B 103 (c).

Certain suits may be entered in separate register

(a) suits for an arrear of rent

(b) suits to eject a tenant or cancel a lease on account of a breach of the conditions of the tenancy or lease whether compensation for such breach be also claimed or not

(c) suits by tenants to recover rent wrongfully levied or for penalties (section 9)

B. 106 Act XVIII of 1873 s. 148. Allowance of pleaders fees optional

103 Pleaders' fees shall not be included as costs in such suits, unless the Court certifies that, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, such fees ought to be allowed

B. 107 Recovery of penalties under section 9

104 If, in any such suit, it appears that a tenant is entitled to recover any penalty from his landlord under section nine, the Court may include in its decree such penalty as it thinks fit within the limit specified in that section

B 108. Changes made in Limitation Act as to period of appeals

105 In the case of appeals from decrees or orders in such suits the Central Provinces Courts Act 1865 section 15 shall be read as if, for the words "thirty days," "six weeks" and "ninety days" the words "fifteen days," "thirty days" and "sixty days" were respectively substituted

An application for the re admission of any such appeal dismissed for want of prosecution shall be made within fifteen days from the date of such dismissal

B. 109; Act XIX of 1868, s 20; Act XXVIII of 1866, s 15. When proceedings in suit for arrears may be stayed

106 If, in a suit for an arrear of rent it appears that the area of the holding has been diminished by diluvion before or during the period in respect of which such arrear is claimed,

the Court may stay proceedings in the suit and refer the parties to a Revenue officer in order that the rent of the holding may be determined

B. 110 Act XIX of 1868, s. 18. Set off

107 In any such suit no set off shall be allowed except such amount as may be due to the tenant under a decree or order against the landlord as such

B. 111. Interest on arrears.

108 In any such suit interest may be allowed up to judgment, at such rate not exceeding twelve per cent per annum as the Court thinks fit.

B 112; Act IX of 1868, s. 118. No process of execution to issue on decree for arrears after lapse of three years from date thereof

109 No process of execution shall be issued to recover any sum due under a decree in any such suit after the lapse of three years from the date on which under the decree such sum became payable

B 113; Cf Act X of 1859, s. 13. No appeal in certain arrear cases.

110 When any such suit is decided, whether on appeal or otherwise by a Civil Judge exercising powers not less than those of an Assistant Commissioner of the first class as defined in the Central Provinces Courts' Act, 1865, the decision shall be final, and shall not be subject to appeal unless—

(a) the amount or value of the subject-matter of the suit exceeds one hundred rupees, or

(b) a question relating to a title to land, or to some interest in land, has been determined as between parties having conflicting claims thereto.

New. Limitation of suits by tenants to recover possession

111 The period of limitation for a suit instituted by a tenant to recover the possession of land from which he has been ejected by any person other than his landlord shall be one year from the date on which he is ejected

In other respects the limitation of such suits shall be governed by the Indian Limitation Act, 1877

ENACTMENTS REPEALED

Number of Act	Short title
Act X of 1859	To amend the law relating to the recovery of rent in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal
Act XIV of 1863	To amend Act X of 1859
Act XXII of 1872	To explain and amend Act X of 1859

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The law at present governing the relations of landlords and tenants in the Central Provinces is Act X of 1859, an enactment which was originally framed with particular reference to the circumstances of Lower Bengal, and which has been found, in many respects, unsuitable to territories where proprietary right is of comparatively recent origin and, indeed, in some districts is even now but imperfectly developed Though the primary object of Act X of 1859 was to protect tenants who had been depressed during a long course of years by a powerful proprietary body, and though it certainly fulfilled its purpose in the Province for which it was enacted the result of applying it to a country in which, until recently, the distinction between the cultivating and the revenue paying classes was somewhat loosely marked, and where the position of the former was therefore exceptionally strong has been absolutely to curtail their ancient privileges Though this is the chief ground on which legislation is desirable, experience has shown that Act X of 1859 is inappropriate and inconvenient, both in its procedure and in some of its substantive provisions To remedy this state of things the present Bill has been framed

2 It will be observed (section 2 clause 1) that it applies only to land used for agricultural purposes and to such land only when it is let to tenants of the class commonly known as raiyats Many of its provisions especially those of a protective nature would obviously be unsuitable in cases where a village, or a considerable portion of a village, is leased to a thekadár or farmer who makes his own terms with the proprietor and is quite well able to protect himself but it will be a question for the Select Committee to which it is proposed to refer the Bill whether some portions of it might not with advantage be extended to cases of this description

3 The provisions of the Bill are roughly divisible into two classes, namely those of general application contained in Chapters II and VI and those contained in Chapters III, IV and V, applying only to particular descriptions of tenants

Beginning with the former class and omitting all reference to such provisions as either speak for themselves or may be said to have become common forms in Upper India Tenancy Bills section 10—which in effect provides that when the Government suspends or remits its revenue on any land in cases of drought, &c, the landlord may be required to suspend or remit his rent—may first be noticed

4 This section is based on the similar provision of the North Western Provinces Rent Bill at present before the Council but with this important difference that instead of requiring the Revenue officer on the revenue payable in respect of any tract being remitted or suspended to go over all the holdings comprised in such tract and determine in the case of each whether any remission or suspension of rent should be allowed it allows this question to stand over until an actual dispute regarding it arises between the parties and then leaves it to be decided by the Court before which the landlord may claim his rent

This deviation from the rule proposed for the North Western Provinces appears advisable because, owing to the comparative simplicity of landed tenures in the Central Provinces suspensions or remissions of land revenue may be granted without that minute field to-field survey which is requisite in order to decide claims to suspension or remission of rent and it is not desirable to throw upon the limited staff of officers available in these Provinces the labour of making such a survey merely for the purpose of settling such disputes as may arise on this point between landlords and tenants

5 Section 11, which in effect prohibits leases at a rent smaller than the revenue payable on the land is the complement of section 117 of the Central Provinces Land revenue Bill, which invalidates revenue free grants made by Málguzárs The object of both is the same, viz, to prevent improvident proprietors from depriving themselves of the means of meeting the Government demand upon their lands (see paragraph 12 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Land revenue Bill)

6 Passing over, for the moment, the special provisions relating to tenants in Chánda and Nimár contained in section 12 we come to sections 17 to 22, which treat of the landlord s lien upon the produce of his tenant s holding This lien is intended to be a substitute for the present power of distraint, which, as a matter of fact has scarcely ever been resorted to by the Central Provinces landlords and which it is apprehended would if commonly employed, lead to abuses The provisions regarding it have been so framed as to enable a landlord, by the exercise of the most ordinary diligence, to obtain for each instalment of his rent a first charge upon all crops which may be on the land at the time it falls due or during the year following

7 The effect of sections 27 to 38 relating to ejectment taken with certain subsequent provisions of the Bill to which they refer may be stated to be that, except (section 71) when there is a lease for a term with an express provision that the tenant shall quit at the end of such term, no tenant can be ejected from his holding by his landlord without an order of the Court, that as a rule in all contested cases the landlord will, after obtaining such order, not proceed to eject the tenant himself but apply to the Court to eject him and that the Court will not eject the tenant until all claims on either side arising out of the tenancy have been adjusted

8 Sections 39 to 44 relate to improvements and compensation therefor They provide that, as a rule, the landlord shall be allowed the option of himself making any permanent improvement proposed by the tenant, but that, if he does not avail himself of the option thus allowed him, the tenant may make such improvement, and, having made it, shall be entitled to receive compensation in respect of it before being ejected The rights thus conferred on the tenant cannot be affected by any contract or by any entry in a record of rights to the contrary

9 Sections 45 to 47 are intended to relieve a tenant holding under a number of co proprietors from the difficulties and perplexities in which he is now frequently involved owing to doubts as to the authority of individual co proprietors Section 47 provides that in such cases the co proprietors shall be bound if the tenant requires them to do so, to appoint one of their number or some other person, to act on behalf of all of them and receive the entire rent of the holding

10 Section 48 (b) enacts that except as provided by the Bill a tenant has no power to transfer or mortgage his holding without the consent of his landlord and it may here be added that no such power is conferred by the Bill except to a very limited extent in the case of the occupancy tenants to be presently referred to

11 Sections 50 to 52, which empower a Revenue officer to cause the terms of a tenancy to be reduced to writing at the instance of either party when there appears to be no real dispute as to those terms are intended to take the place to some extent of the ordinary provisions as to suits for pattas and kabúliyats

12 Section 54 which provides for the readjustment of the rent fixed by a lease or contract whenever the holding falls under re assessment is in accordance with the general understanding that the rents of ordinary raiyats, though fixed by contract, are subject to revision at settlement

13 With Chapter III of the Bill begin the provisions relating to certain particular classes of tenants

These classes (putting aside for the moment certain tenants in the districts of Chánda, Nimár and Sambalpur) are as follows namely —

(1) ordinary tenants (chapter III),

(2) tenants for a fixed term (chapter IV),

(3) tenants with a simple right of occupancy (chapter V),

(4) absolute occupancy tenants (same chapter)

14 Taking these in their order it will be seen from section 18(a) and section 55 that it is to be presumed until the contrary is shown that a tenant who does not possess a right of occupancy, or hold under an unexpired lease is an ordinary tenant," and that the rights and liabilities described in Chapter III are incident to his tenure

15 The position of the ordinary tenant, as shewn in Chapter III, bears a considerable resemblance to that of a tenant from year to year in England and in the Bill as originally framed by Mr Jones such tenants were designated ' tenants from year to year", but it has been thought safer to avoid the use of a technical term borrowed from a different system of law, and accordingly the term ordinary tenant," which connotes nothing has been substituted for it

16 The most striking feature in the position of such a tenant as defined by the Bill, is that he cannot be ejected without the order of the Court and that when he resides in the village has cultivated any land there for five years and has not within the preceding three years received any assistance in his cultivation from his landlord he may, when an order for his ejectment is applied for claim to be protected from ejectment, and the Court will be bound to protect him unless the landlord shows that some hardship beyond a mere loss of rent will be thereby caused to him

The practical result of these provisions will be that every tenant who resides in a village and has cultivated any land there for five years continuously will, as a rule, at once acquire in any land he may begin to cultivate in such village an inchoate status of occupancy

This portion of the Bill has been retained practically unaltered, as it has met with the provisional approval of the Secretary of State in Council but it is obvious that if only by reason of its novelty it will require the most careful consideration by the Select Committee

17 As an ordinary tenant is either removeable upon notice, or (if protected) is in a temporary state of transition it is not worth while to enact any elaborate rules for the fixation of his rent and accordingly the provisions on this point in Chapter III will be found to be brief and simple

18 Chapter IV relating to tenants for a fixed term calls for but little notice The position and rights of such tenants will usually be regulated, to a great extent by the terms of the leases under which they hold and the only peculiarity introduced by the Bill is that, when the lease does not contain a stipulation expressly requiring the holding to be vacated at the expiration of the term the tenant will in the last year of such term, be deemed to become an 'ordinary tenant and to be entitled to all the privileges in regard to ejectment and protection against ejectment which are conferred on such a tenant by Chapter III

19 Proceeding now to Chapter V, which deals with tenants with a right of occupancy it will be seen that the status of an occupancy tenant, when not conferred by express contract (section 80), may, as a rule, be claimed on any one of three grounds, namely —

1st, that the land was formerly the property of the tenant and held by him as sir, and that he parted with it or lost his ownership in it in one of the modes mentioned in section 73

2ndly, that the tenant was recorded as an occupancy tenant of the land in a settlement record prepared before the passing of the Bill or

3rdly, that he has for twelve years continuously held the land, otherwise than under a written lease expressly debarring him from acquiring the status

20 As regards the acquisition of the right in the third of these modes it should be stated that actual occupation throughout the whole period is required the right not being acquired when the land is sub let On the other hand it is provided by the third Explanation to section 75 and by section 76 that neither the acquisition of the right nor its retention shall be affected by the circumstance that the tenant has shifted from one holding to another in accordance with a village-custom such as has been found to prevail in Chhattisgarh and by section 77 that once the right has been acquired it shall not be lost by the tenant's removal to another holding, if it appears that he has removed on the understanding that his status is to remain unchanged but that in such a case he shall have the rights of an occupancy tenant on his new holding This last provision is in accordance with section 7 of the Punjab Tenancy Act of 1868, and it is important as a check upon the practice of persuading ignorant tenants to change their holdings to which landlords are said sometimes to resort with a view to destroying occupancy rights

21 In whichever of the above modes the occupancy status may have been acquired its incidents will (section 96) be presumed to be those described in chapter V The principal of those incidents are as follows —

1st that (section 81) the right of an occupancy tenant descends lineally as if it were land, but does not pass to a collateral unless he is a co-sharer in the holding

2ndly that while an occupancy tenant is allowed (section 81) to sub let he cannot (section 82) transfer or mortgage his holding except to a co-sharer and

3rdly that he is in the absence of a contract fixing his rent, entitled to have his rent fixed according to certain rules laid down by the Bill

22 These rules for the fixation of rent are contained in sections 86 et seq and are among the most important provisions of the Bill

Their most striking feature will be found to be the distinction which they make between the process of fixing rent for the first time after a new settlement has been taken in hand (section 87) and the process of subsequently during the currency of that settlement enhancing or reducing it

A new settlement is considered to reopen completely the question of the rents to be paid by occupancy tenants and, accordingly at the first determination of these rents after the settlement has commenced all data and all circumstances which can properly be allowed any influence on the question will be taken into consideration The rent-rates assumed by the Settlement-officer for the purpose of assessing the land revenue and which approximate to the true economic rent will be looked to as also will the customary rates of rent which as a matter of fact are paid by tenants of the same class Nor will other circumstances such as the caste of the tenants which it is found practically impossible to disregard in such cases, be left out of account

But once the rents have been fixed in this way they will during the currency of the settlement, be liable to be enhanced or reduced only on certain definite grounds These grounds are (omitting one which is of minor importance)—

1st, that the area of the holding has been altered

2ndly, that its productive power has been altered and

3rdly if the Chief Commissioner makes a rule admitting this as a ground for altering rents that the value of the produce has increased or diminished

23 The power of admitting this last circumstance as a ground for changing rent is placed in the hands of the Chief Commissioner in order to save the Revenue officers the necessity of undertaking in individual cases long and minute inquiries into the history of prices in the neighbourhood since the rent was last fixed When owing to any considerable rise or fall of prices in any locality such an inquiry appears to be called for it will it is conceived, be more successfully made once for all under the orders of the Chief Commissioner

24 The 'absolute occupancy tenants' so called because when the subject of occupancy rights was still under discussion in the Central Provinces their right of occupancy was considered to be beyond dispute are simply occupancy tenants with certain additional privileges The status can be claimed only on the ground of an entry made in a record of rights prior to the passing of the Bill, and accordingly the number of such tenants is strictly limited

1st that their right of occupancy descends in all cases to collaterals as well as lineally (section 81)

2ndly, that their right to transfer and mortgage their holdings is (section 82) somewhat larger than that of ordinary occupancy tenants,

3rdly, that their rents when once fixed by a Settlement or Revenue officer are not (section 91) liable to be enhanced or reduced on certain grounds on which the rents of ordinary occupancy tenants may be enhanced or reduced, and

4thly, that they have (section 95) a right to make improvements in their holdings without offering their landlords the option of making such improvements

25 As regards the second of these points it should be explained that it has not been considered advisable in the interest of these tenants to reserve to them the full right to transfer their holdings which was stipulated for in their behalf at settlement, but which has been found in practice to tempt them to incur debt and place themselves at the mercy of their landlords

26 In the foregoing account of the provisions of the Bill all mention of the exceptional privileges and protection provided for tenants in the districts of Chánda, Nimár and Sambalpur has for convenience sake been omitted, and it is accordingly necessary to advert to the subject here

The relations between the persons who have been recorded as proprietors and those who have been recorded as tenants in these three districts were found on examination to differ considerably from those ordinarily subsisting between landlords and tenants The rights of the former were so limited and those of the latter so large that it was at one time a question whether a raiyatwári settlement would not under the circumstances, be the most suitable

When, therefore, it was eventually determined to make the settlement with the superior class of occupants as proprietors, it was found necessary to reserve for the inferior class rights considerably larger than those of ordinary tenants, and in accordance with the arrangements then made, the Bill provides that (sections 78 and 79) tenants in these three districts shall as a rule be deemed to have a right of occupancy that (section 79) a tenant in Sambalpur shall not be ejected except under an order passed in execution of a decree for arrears that (sections 81, 91, 95) as regards the descent of the occupancy right fixity of rent and the right to improve, the occupancy tenants in all three districts shall be on the same footing as absolute occupancy tenants and that (section 82) occupancy tenants in Chánda and Nimár shall have the same powers of transfer as absolute occupancy tenants Lastly in order to protect these tenants against attempts to break down the rights thus reserved to them it has been thought well to introduce in sections 12 and 92 provisions which limit their power of contracting in regard to the amount of their rent

27 It remains to speak of the Chapter (VI) relating to jurisdiction and procedure, and the only point calling for notice in it (besides the new rule of limitation laid down in section 111) is that it leaves all matters between landlord and tenant except the fixation of rent to be dealt with by the ordinary Civil Courts instead of establishing, as the North Western Provinces Rent Act does, a special set of tribunals for their disposal The reason for adopting this course may be very briefly stated In the Central Provinces, the same officers as a rule discharge revenue and judicial functions and there can never be any difficulty in arranging as required by the proviso to section 100, that all suits between landlord and tenant shall be heard by judges who have had the necessary experience of revenue administration This being so, to establish a separate set of tribunals for the disposal of such suits would be merely to introduce a needless complication and without any reason whatever to expose ourselves to all the conflicts of jurisdiction and other difficulties which have arisen in connection with the double system of tribunals elsewhere

TÁJ MAHAL'S PENSION BILL

The Hon'ble MR COLVIN introduced the Bill for the determination of claims to Taj Mahal's pension, and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Messrs Stokes and Aitchison and the Mover

The Motion was put and agreed to

The Hon'ble MR COLVIN also moved that the Bill be published in the Government Gazette, North Western Provinces and Oudh, in English and in such other languages as the Local Government thought fit

The Motion was put and agreed to

CENTRAL PROVINCES TENANCY BILL

The Hon'ble MR GRANT introduced the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to agricultural tenancies in the Central Provinces and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Messrs Stokes, Aitchison and Colvin and the Mover He said that in the exposition of a Tenancy Bill, it was scarcely possible to avoid trespassing on some of the most uncertain and bitterly contested questions of Indian Revenue History The landlord—at any rate in his present form—was our own creation, and the standard which we had in view in shaping him—that of the free European proprietor—involved the concession to him of rights and privileges to which most of his class could never have aspired under Native rule and which it was only possible to grant to him at the cost of some sacrifice of other interests The State deliberately abandoned many of its rights limiting its demand, lengthening its leases, and resigning its power of resumption, in order to build up a proprietary class In the words of Thomason, the father of the Upper Indian Revenue system—"It is the true interest of the Government to limit the demand to what is just, so as to create a valuable property in the land and encourage its improvement"

But though this generous ideal had never been lost sight of—perhaps, indeed, because it had been too exclusively kept in mind—there had been times when the proprietary position had been fostered, not only by the concession of State rights, but also in the opposite direction, by unconscious acquiescence in encroachments on the ancient rights of the cultivating peasantry The first great example of an oscillation of our revenue policy towards landlordism was in the famous Permanent Settlement of Bengal, when Lord Cornwallis, whilst investing the newly created proprietary class with privileges before, and indeed since, unexampled, set down their tenantry as entitled to no rights which they could not acquire from them by contract But what between the cautious spirit of compromise, in which the Regulations, embodying Lord Cornwallis' Settlement, were framed, and the protection which cultivators owed to the then great demand for them, they remained for long almost unaffected by the pressure of the new system Indeed, in Upper India an almost democratic sentiment grew up in favour of the tillers of the soil as against the mere consumers of the produce In the words of Mr Mertins Bird—

"Many persons hesitate not to take for granted the rights of Zamindárs and Talukdárs, and all the host of unproductives of whom, till our Government called them into existence, and associated with them all the ideas of landed property which prevail in our country no trace was ever found in any authentic record but as executive officers of Government * * * * Our Government is bound to maintain that right of the raiyat, which boasts a far higher origin, and stands on a far firmer foundation "

It was not, Mr Grant believed, until after the disturbances of 1857 that an opposite wave of feeling gathered strength enough again to turn the scale in favour of landlords The almost universal manifestation of anarchy, as soon as the pressure of authority was momentarily relaxed, was attributed by many to the leaderless condition of the people, which left them a prey to the persuasions of every petty adventurer, and from the famine experiences of 1860 61 was derived the further argument that, without a strong proprietary class, it was impossible to oppose efficiently organised resistance to general distress and starvation He did not mean to say that these theories were allowed—consciously at any rate—to affect the principles on which the great rent-law of the time, Act No X of 1859, was framed That was essentially a measure intended to benefit the raiyat It was described by one of its strongest supporters, Mr Harington, as seeking "the greatest happiness of the greatest number," and, in conveying his assent to it, Lord Canning styled it—

"a real and earnest endeavour to improve the position of the raiyats of Bengal and to open to them a prospect of freedom and independence which they had not hitherto enjoyed by clearly defining their rights and by placing restrictions on the powers of the Zamíndars, such as ought long since to have been provided

But the Act was primarily devised for Bengal, in which proprietors had attained a far stronger relative position than in Upper India, and there it undoubtedly served to check abuses almost, if not quite, unknown elsewhere And whatever may have been the feeling of its framers, it may be questioned whether the prevailing state of public opinion did not create a tendency to apply the new law in a spirit tinged with Western ideas of proprietorship In his judgment in the leading case of Thakurani Dasi, Sir Barnes Peacock spoke of the tenant's possession as "from the first a possession with the consent of the landlord," and as "permissive only however long it may continue", and he went on to remark how much it would surprise English landowners to find themselves subjected to such restrictions as the Act would impose on them in favour of tenants, thus clearly showing that he made little or no distinction between the tenures of the East, which had grown up by custom, and the tenancies of the West, which had their origin in contract Similarly, one of the best known text books of the time on the Law of Landlord and Tenant in the Bengal Presidency commenced with the words —

"The relation of landlord and tenant arises from a contract express or implied "

Now, as Mr Jones in his (Mr Grant's) opinion very conclusively showed in his Note printed as Paper No 2, it argued an entire misconception of the relative position of headman and cultivator, in the pre British era, to assume that the tenant's "status could be defined in terms of a contract to which he and the head man were sole parties * * * * In reality there was a third party privy to the contract (if, indeed, it could rightly be termed a contract) namely, the State " The headman was in fact no more than a primus inter pares, all paying alike their quota of revenue to the State; with no temptation to enhance the demand on them because all enhancements benefited the State and the State alone, and with little inducement to eject, because the main motive to ejectment, namely, the hope of increasing his receipts by it, did not exist for him, and because it was as much his own interest, as it was part of his engagement with the Government, to keep together those who shared with him the weight of the public burdens

Now Act No X of 1859 not only contained several provisions directly injurious to the cultivating class—such, for instance, as the increased facilities which it afforded for enhancing rents, but, (again to quote Mr Jones)—

"with the inevitable tendency of written, to drive out unwritten, law, it spread among all ranks of officers in the Province a more or less definite impression that it was not very necessary to enquire what right tenants had before its introduction, and that they could have no rights except those which it recognizes

"An Act which was intended to confer rights on tenants was construed as if it had demolished rights which before its introduction they possessed"

As MR GRANT had explained, in asking leave to introduce this and the Land revenue Bill, the position of an established cultivator in the Central Provinces, before the award of proprietary right at the recent settlements and the introduction of Act No X of 1859, was almost as secure as it was undoubtedly easy Tradition was in his favour, because he had borne the burden of a not yet forgotten day on almost equal terms with the village farmer, authority was in his favour, because its object was to secure the Government revenue by establishing a strong resident tenantry, and he had not even to contend against the ideal held out by that tempting phrase "the magic of property" for property in land, in the English sense, was then unknown in the Central Provinces

Since then the struggle had been intensified to him by the general definition of tenures which had not only widened the gulf between landlord and tenant, but had dispelled the doubtful atmosphere of custom, and had opened out to landholders clear paths for the assertion of their rights In so far as our own acts had ignored the traditional relations to each other of the agricultural classes, it might not be too late to restore—partially at any rate—the balance, but it was to be feared that the substitution of sharp and easily wielded rules for a custom, not only in itself so indefinite as to be embarrassing to free movement, but jealously guarded by authority, could not but place the more ignorant classes at a disadvantage in their relations with persons better qualified to see and seize the benefits held out by the law, and no legislation could restore to the peasantry the vantage ground which they had long owed to their comparatively small numbers and to the consequent demand for their services

The points in which the present Bill sought to redress the inequalities and supply the deficiencies of the existing law would be best explained in commenting on the appropriate sections in detail In all that had been proposed it had been necessary to remember that proprietary rights having been conferred, rightly or wrongly, we were no better entitled to nullify them by indirect encroachments, than to confiscate them openly, even if it were good policy after subjecting the land to the drawbacks inherent in a Western system of land tenure, to give up the undoubted advantages which it promised, such as its simplicity the impulse which it gave to cultivation, and the facilities which it afforded for orderly and systematic administration No universal creation of occupancy rights would, therefore, now be expedient, and indeed it might be that so sweeping a measure would go beyond the just claims of the cultivating classes, for probably at all times, certainly under the Marátha rule, headmen had considerable influence, if not always direct power and the authority which they justly had, and should have, would be paralysed under our inelastic system, by conferring practical independence of them on the whole village community All that we could now hope for was, by a compromise here and an adjustment there, to introduce into the fabric, which we had raised up, something as nearly as possible approaching to the equilibrium which self protection tended to maintain when all classes of villagers were obliged to band themselves together against the crushing pressure of despotism The points for which a system of reasonable protection to the cultivator might properly provide were—

(1) sufficiency of notice before ejectment,

(2) compensation for improvements,

(3) closer assimilation of the rules for retaining occupancy right to ancient customary practice, and

(4) security against harassing enhancements of rent

As would be seen from the remarks on the leading provisions of the Bill, which he would then proceed to offer, each of these questions had been considered in its appropriate place

The first section to which he need draw the attention of the Council was No 10 The section was based on section 9 of the North-Western Provinces Rent Bill of 1880, which was an amendment on section 23 of the North Western Provinces Land revenue Act of 1873 It provided that, when the Government revenue was remitted or suspended on account of drought or other natural calamity, the Local Government might take means to ensure to the actual cultivators of the soil their fair share in the indulgence granted, by directing that tenants might plead the damage to their crops in answer to suits for rent, and that the Courts might grant them relief accordingly The North-Western Provinces Act went further, and extended the boon to all tenants, whether they sought it or not but so wide a measure of relief would involve an immediate field to field examination on a very minute scale, which, with the limited staff and the extensive areas of the Central Provinces, would sometimes be very difficult to undertake

The twelfth section of the Bill imposed certain restrictions on freedom of contract as between landlords and tenants in the Chanda and Nimár districts, and, as in other parts of the Bill similar peculiar provisions with regard to these two districts and to the district of Sambalpur, would be found, he might as well avail himself of the first appearance in the Bill of anything of the kind to explain briefly why these districts should be regarded as needing exceptional treatment Chanda and Nimar were two of the western border districts of the Central Provinces Nimar was only added to the Province in 1864, and until then was under an entirely separate and peculiar revenue administration Chanda was a thinly inhabited outlying tract, in which land tenures were still in a very rudimentary condition when the settlements were undertaken Many authorities considered that a raiyatwari settlement, somewhat on the Bombay model, would have been the most suitable system in both districts, but, even before the creation of the Central Provinces, a proprietary settlement had been determined upon, in the case of the Nagpur Province (including Chánda) by the Governor General in 1860, in the case of Nimar by the Government of the North Western Provinces so far back as 1847, and, when opinion began to turn towards a raiyatwári settlement, we had gone too far in the opposite direction to reverse our policy It was not, however too late to modify it, in a sense favourable to the cultivating body, by introducing into the settlement conditions preserving as far as possible their ancient privileges, and accordingly it had been determined that—

'the tenure of all cultivators should be a fixed and permanent one so long as the revenue or rent was paid and that the payments should as a general rule, not be liable to enhancement except at the time of settlement'

Various other principles were laid down, of which he need only notice here, in order to explain the first part of this section, the rule regarding waste, which was that resident cultivators, that was to say cultivators of three years' standing, were entitled, when taking up waste land with the consent of the proprietor, to hold it at certain rates fixed at the time of settlement

In the Sambalpur district, the relative positions of headman and cultivator approached even less nearly than in Chánda and Nimár to the ordinary conception of landlord and tenant The Gaontias, or headmen, not having attained anything approaching to a proprietary status under the Native Government which had preceded our rule their privileges had been sufficiently maintained by the allowance to them, free of assessment, of the land occupied by their home-farms, and by certain powers of control over the village community, in return for which they would continue to be responsible for the collection of the revenue and other duties attaching to their office In so far as these privileges fell short of the proprietary status, the rights of cultivators were correspondingly enlarged, and the Sambalpúr raiyats would practically enjoy fixity of tenure subject to payment of a fixed rent

In sections 17 22 would be found defined the landlord's lien on the produce of a tenant's holding This was Mr Jones' substitute for the right of distraint of the tenant s standing crops which was generally throughout Northern India conceded to the landlord for the security of his rents Briefly described, the system provided for in these sections was as follows An attachment of standing crops made in execution of a landlord's decree had priority, in respect of arrears of rent falling due within the twelve months immediately preceding such attachment over all other attachments and assignments, and if the landlord chose to apply for attachment even before judgment, within the fourteen days next after the date on which an instalment of rent fell due, the Courts were bound to make the attachment and maintain it up to judgment, in order to prevent the produce from being removed or assigned away, and thus to put the landlord in a position to assert his right of priority as soon as he had obtained a decree in his favour There were also other ancillary provisions to prevent the sale of such produce after attachment by creditors other than the landlord, and before the landlord s prior claim was satisfied

This system was advocated by Mr Jones on the ground that—while the power of distraint is always liable to great abuse, it is peculiarly dangerous in the Central Provinces where landlords are strong and tenants weak and where anything like combined action among tenants in defence of their rights is unknown second that, as experience conclusively shows it can be safely dispensed with Distraint is practically I might perhaps say entirely, unknown in these Provinces yet no malguzar complains that his rents are insecure "

To this reasoning it had been objected that—the distraint sections operate as a penalty It is no argument against the maintenance of a penalty that it is seldom enforced Distraint is seldom used but the landlord knows that he can use it and if the tenant will not pay he does use it

Mr Grant s own opinion so far was in favour of these sections They were much simpler and less likely to sanction oppression than the corresponding power of distraint, which indeed was never used so far as he was aware in the Central Provinces Enquiries were however now being made in the Central Provinces, and the Chief Commissioner would no doubt be able to advise further on the subject when the Bill was sent to him for report

His Excellency the President inquired whether, under those sections, the landlord had to apply to the Court before he could attach the crops

The Hon ble Mr Grant replied that under section 18 (1) a landlord could only apply for attachment in execution of a decree, and that under section 22 he could only apply after institution of a suit In either case the intervention of a Court would be necessary

He then continued In sections 23 to 44 (inclusive) was set forth the proposed manner of dealing with improvements made by tenants and compensation therefor These sections proceeded in the main on the principles of the English Agricultural Holdings Act allowing of course for the peculiarities of Indian tenures and for the great difference in the agricultural development of the two countries Improvements were divided into two classes only, instead of into three as in the English Act, and, in respect of the first class landlords were given a preferential right to improve, except in land held by the specially privileged kinds of occupancy tenants As no occupancy rights could accrue in the landlord's sir or home farm, compensation would not be claimable for improvements executed by tenants on such lands without the express consent of the landlord

As 'by the custom of the country," to quote the Commentary on the Bill, " improving tenants retained the right to improvements after they lost the land on which they were made, * * * the power conferred on tenants by section 23 is a necessary and equitable equivalent for the abolition of an ancient and universal, but most inconvenient, custom "

Section 56, which provided that even an ordinary tenant should be entitled to six months' notice before ejectment, would be a very important safeguard against arbitrary evictions. The term "ordinary tenant" (he explained) had been substituted throughout this Bill for the old misleading expression 'tenant at will" Equity and the custom of the country always secured tenants against sudden ejectment whilst their crops were on the ground, and therefore they were not in the proper sense of the term tenants-at-will Mr Jones' explanation of this provision might here be suitably quoted He said,—

'the six months notice is intended to give the tenant ample time to contest the ejectment, and to permit of any proceedings taken by him being terminated before the end of the agricultural year In the Agricultural Holdings Bill, a year's notice is provided and Mr Gladstone once declared that a two years notice was really required In India with all the tradition in favour of the right of the tenant to remain on his land six months notice is little enough'

His Excellency THE PRESIDENT presumed that under the old system an ordinary tenant could be turned out without any notice at all

The Hon'ble MR GRANT replied that in one part of the Province it was held that he could, in another that notice was required—a notice of about three months

He continued In passing on to section 58, we came upon more uncertain ground As would be seen this section practically created a new class of privileged tenants, intermediate between ordinary tenants and tenants who had acquired a right of occupancy by twelve years continuous possession Thus any resident cultivator of five years standing on whom a notice of ejectment had been served might, provided that he had not in that year or in either of the two years next preceding, received from his landlord any assistance in his cultivation, apply for an order of protection from ejectment and the Court to which he applied must grant the order unless the landlord satisfies it that hardship will be caused thereby He (MR GRANT) felt that he was himself to some degree responsible for these provisions for he had proposed that the standard of rights of occupancy should be reduced from twelve years' occupation to five and Mr Jones though unable to go so far with MR GRANT, had adopted the plan above described as a reasonable and equitable compromise between the rights of landlord and tenant'

MR GRANT had therefore the less hesitation in saying that he thought these sections should be very carefully considered by the Special Committee It was true that they would not convert the protected tenant into an occupancy-tenant, for he could not sublet and if he died such rights as he had acquired would expire with him But they would create a new class of privileged tenants and so not only trench materially on the gift of proprietary right but would further complicate the already complicated tenure of land A vigorous exposition of the evils which they might occasion would be found in Mr Crosthwaite's Note, which had been printed as Paper No 4 to the Bill

MR GRANT then passed on to the important question of rents He said that in the determination of rents of ordinary tenants the Courts would not as a rule interfere By the old law (Act No X of 1859, section 13) landlords were empowered to serve a notice of enhancement on such tenants in the Spring, and unless they did so they could not recover from the tenant any higher rent than he had paid in the preceding year But in the next section the tenant was authorized to contest his liability to pay enhanced rent in defending any suit brought against him to recover it and thus the Courts were placed in the anomalous position of determining the rent of a tenant who could only retain his tenancy with the landlord's consent The notice of enhancement was further open to the objection that it was often regarded by the tenant as an order of Court, and, secondly, that it tempted tenants, who had no hope of being able to pay the rent demanded, to remain on in the delusive hope of being able to contest it successfully In the present Bill landlords and tenants would be left to settle rents between themselves But if the landlord wished to enhance he must come to terms, or else serve a notice of ejectment, before December, so that both parties would be brought face to face with their position in good time, and harassing litigation would be avoided

The Courts would only intervene when it happened that a tenant had been allowed to take up land without any stipulation regarding rent, and, it being the first year of his tenancy, no test of the amount properly payable could be sought in the previous demand, or when the holding of a tenant had been diminished, by diluvion or otherwise during the year of tenancy

To complete the subject of rent he must here go on to sections 86 to 93, which regulated the rents of tenants with rights of occupancy passing over, for the moment, those of the intermediate sections which needed consideration

It had been found impossible to devise any new and satisfactory standard for the fixation of occupancy rents In some cases the average rent rates calculated by the Settlement officer to aid him in assessing the land revenue, might also be of service in determining rents at a subsequent period and, accordingly, the Courts had been empowered to take them into account for the purpose Where these rates were inapplicable, as they often would be, owing either to their being of too general a character, or to their having been superseded by the progress of events we must fall back on the customary rates paid for similar land in the neighbourhood by tenants of the same class This of course always must be a somewhat laborious and intricate process but it would only take place once for all during the term of the settlement After that suits for enhancement or abatement would be entertained only on the ground that the value of produce, or the productive power of the land had changed, or (in the case of enhancement) that the rent was originally fixed below the proper amount for some reason which had ceased to exist He (Mr Grant) omitted here the case of alteration of rent on account of alluvion for that would not amount to enhancement on the existing holding, but would really be an addition to the rent on account of an increment to the land and a similar remark would apply to cases of abatement for diluvion It was only necessary to add that much objection having been made to allowing enhancement on account of increase in the value of produce owing to the practical difficulties which had been found in working the rule it had been provided that this plea for enhancement should only be permitted when the Chief Commissioner made a special direction in that behalf The effect would, it was hoped be to obviate any need for intricate statistical enquiries in each case The idea was that such investigations should be made once for all by the Chief Commissioner when he promulgated the rule By this means the chief objection to this ground of enhancement would be removed and it seemed indispensable to retain the rule in a hitherto backward but now advancing tract of country such as the Central Provinces Indeed even in the North Western Provinces though it was excluded in the first draft of the Bill relating to those Provinces, and at first condemned in debate, it was eventually incorporated into the law

Mr Grant said he must now revert to the seventy fourth section, to explain the position and privileges of absolute occupancy tenants This class had been originally recruited from among cultivators having exceptional claims to remain on and enjoy the produce of their holdings whether owing to unusually long occupation or connection with the person selected as proprietor, or execution of works of improvement or former possession of the village as farmers At the time of settlement when tenants having such claims as these were separately classed it was anticipated that provision for their rights would shortly be made in the law but as that expectation had not been realized, express recognition of their privileges had been made one of the conditions of settlement The chief distinctive rights then conferred upon them were fixity of rent for the term of settlement, and the power of alienation The former they would retain, except when there had been a change in the productive power of their land caused by or at the expense of the landlord The object of this exception would be obvious If the landlord were debarred from obtaining increased rent in return for improvements effected by him, his main inducement for outlay on the land would be removed As to the power of transfer, it had been found to be a positive disadvantage in many cases to the tenant To quote Mr Jones—

" absolute occupancy tenants have used the power of transfer chiefly to get into debt, the Civil Courts have laid hands on tenures possessing a saleable quality, and, above all landlords have shown a disposition to get this class of tenants into their power, in order to purchase out their rights "

As the status of these absolute occupancy tenants had not yet been validated by legislation, the opportunity had been taken, in giving it for the first time legal definition, to abrogate the exercise in future of this somewhat anomalous right, making due provision, of course, to save all transfers or mortgages already effected under it

His Excellency THE PRESIDENT inquired if the sections as they stood prevented mortgages

The Hon'ble MR GRANT replied that under section 82 transfers and mortgages were placed on the same footing That was to say they could only be made to the person to whom the right of occupancy would descend at the death of the tenant

Sections 76 and 77 were intended to provide against a very real hardship which resulted from a change in the law made by Act No X of 1859 In the North Western Provinces including the Saugor and Nerbudda territories Revenue Courts were only authorized to entertain suits for ejectment in the case of cultivators who had not held their fields, or by well established usage, other fields of equal value for twelve years These sections provided that, when there was a custom of redistribution a tenant might acquire or retain occupancy right, notwithstanding such redistribution and that even if there was no such custom a tenant might retain occupancy right when he exchanged lands presumably with the consent of the landlord A somewhat similar provision was even now in force in the Chhattisgarh Division of the Central Provinces as part of the compact with the Government under which landholders owned their estates and its general reintroduction would be a return to the ancient custom of the country

Lastly MR GRANT offered some explanation of the judicial machinery by which the provisions of the Bill would be put into force It would be observed that jurisdiction in all matters which could be brought to the test of a judicial enquiry was left to the Civil Courts In this respect there was a departure from the system obtaining under Act No X of 1859, and still observed in the North Western Provinces But the reasons, which elsewhere justified the relegation of suits between landlords and tenants to special Revenue Courts did not obtain in Provinces organized on the so called "Non Regulation system In the Central Provinces and other Provinces similarly constituted, the executive administration and civil jurisdiction were vested in one and the same body of officials and there was no distinction, except in name between the procedure of an officer on the revenue' or 'civil" side Both classes of suits were tried with equal promptitude and all Civil Judges having had a revenue training and being liable to even if not actually engaged in, revenue duties possessed the special knowledge and the particular aptitude requisite for dealing successfully with litigation of a kind in which simplicity of treatment should always be a prominent characteristic Even where circumstances had made the double jurisdiction necessary it had always been difficult in practice to draw the line between civil and revenue suits, and, as Mr Jones had pointed out —

"the hundreds and thousands of rulings which have been given on the question prove that no one has yet succeeded in separating them in a complete and satisfactory manner

In the Central Provinces the existing system had always been considered an anomaly, and, but that the highest Court of appeal was fully alive to its absurdities in practice and took all possible steps allowed by the law to obviate them litigants might, after having to defend their suits through a series of Revenue Courts have found themselves exposed to a fresh course of litigation in Civil Courts before the same Judges, and under practically the same procedure The Bill now before the Council abolished this artificial distinction between so called Civil and Revenue Courts, providing, however, two simple safeguards in order to prevent rent litigation from falling into the hands of Judges not trained in revenue administration In section 100, clause (a), it was provided that—

"no Civil Judge shall hear any suit under this Act in his capacity of a Court of first instance, unless he is also a Revenue officer or a Settlement officer," and in clause (b) power was reserved to the Local Government to declare that particular classes of suits under this Bill might be tried by particular Courts, and not otherwise

MR GRANT might add that, in making this change, we should only be following the example of the Panjáb, where the constitution of the Courts was in essentials the same as in the Central Provinces, and that, even in Bengal, where there was a separate judicial service, a similar system had been generally adopted

MR GRANT hoped that these explanations would be sufficient at the present stage of the proceedings In seeking to devise a Code of agricultural law for a country in which agriculture was the life and the breath of the people, the framers of the Bill had not been unmindful of the vast importance, for good or for evil, even of the pettiest details, but they could scarcely hope to have been entirely successful in the attempt to adapt fixed rules to a rapidly changing state of society, and to satisfy all the various interests which the inevitable substitution of competition for custom had forced into conflict with each other The difficulty of the task had been enhanced by the hopelessness of obtaining real assistance from the classes which would be affected by the law Legislation of this kind was almost like prescribing for a dumb patient—there was nothing to guide us but external symptoms, and, however anxiously they might be watched, we could not but know that all our treatment was merely empirical Out of the silence of public opinion one sentiment alone had persistently and unmistakeably made itself heard, and that was that abrupt and sweeping changes were feared, no less than disliked, indeed, that many would rather "bear those ills they have than fly to others that they know not of" Even, then, if we were not forced by ignorance to feel our way, we should, in deference to these feelings, shun heroic remedies, and in this doctrine must be sought the justification of the Bill, in so far as it might appear to place caution and compromise above symmetry and vigour

The Motion was put and agreed to

The Hon'ble MR GRANT also moved that the Bill be published in the Central Provinces Gazette in English and in such other languages as the Local Government thought fit

The Motion was put and agreed to

PRESIDENCY SMALL CAUSES COURTS BILL

The Hon'ble MR STOKES asked leave to postpone the motion for leave to introduce a Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Courts of Small Causes established in the Presidency towns

Leave was granted

NOTICE TO MARINERS

No 9 of 1880

RED SEA—GULF OF SUEZ

Suez Bay—Lights at Port Ibrahim.

Information has been received that the under mentioned lights are now exhibited at port Ibraham, Suez bay —

1 Two floating lights are placed 897 yards seaward of the entrance of the harbour—green on the northern side of the channel, red on the southern side

2 A fixed green light is shown from the extremity of the north mole head, a fixed red light on the extremity of the south mole head

3 A fixed white light is shown from the extreme (western) end of the inner pier of the harbour

NOTE —The foregoing green and red lights mark the channel into the port.

Entering port Ibraham—the green lights are left on the port hand, the red lights on the starboard hand, the vessel being steered for the white light on the inner pier

4 Also, that it is intended, when the state of the sea prevents the exhibition of the floating lights, to show two lights, green and red placed vertically, from the eastern commencement of the inner pier. These lights kept in line with the white light at the extreme (or western) end of the pier will then indicate the channel

Buoyage

Also, that a buoy has been placed on each side of the channel to port Ibraham, 568 yards from the mole heads—the northern buoy is line with the green lights, the southern buoy in a line with the red lights

NOTIFICATION

Simla, the 21st August 1880

No. 2368—In continuation of the Regulations for preventing Collisions at Sea published in the Gazette of India, Part I, dated the 31st January 1880, the following is notified for general information and guidance —

AT THE COURT AT WINDSOR

The 24th day of March 1880

PRESENT

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council

WHEREAS by 'The Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act 1862' it was enacted, that on and after the first day of June one thousand eight hundred and sixty three or such later day as might be fixed for the purpose by Order in Council the Regulations contained in the Table marked C in the Schedule to the said Act should come into operation and be of the same force as if they were enacted in the body of the said Act but that Her Majesty might from time to time on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade, by Order in Council annul or modify any of the said Regulations or make new Regulations in addition thereto or in substitution therefor, and that any alterations in or additions to such Regulations made in manner aforesaid should be of the same force as the Regulations in the said Schedule

And whereas by the same Act it was further provided that whenever it should be made to appear to Her Majesty that the Government of any foreign country was willing that the Regulations for preventing collisions contained in Table C in the Schedule to the said Act or such other Regulations for preventing collisions as are for the time being in force under the said Act should apply to the ships of such country when beyond the limits of British jurisdiction Her Majesty might by Order in Council, direct that such Regulations should apply to the ships of the said foreign country whether within British jurisdiction or not and it was further provided by the said Act that whenever an Order in Council had been issued applying any Regulation made by or in pursuance of the said Act to the ships of any foreign country such ships should in all cases arising in any British court be deemed to be subject to such Regulation and should for the purpose of such Regulation be treated as if they were British ships

And whereas by an Order in Council made in pursuance of the said recited Act and dated the ninth day of January one thousand eight hundred and sixty three Her Majesty was pleased to direct that there should be substituted for the Regulations contained in the Schedule to the said Act certain Regulations appended to the said Order and that the said appended Regulations should on and after the first day of June one thousand eight hundred and sixty three apply to French ships, whether within British jurisdiction or not

And whereas by several Orders in Council subsequently made, Her Majesty was pleased to direct that the Regulations appended to the said recited Order should apply to ships of the countries specified in the said Orders, whether within British jurisdiction or not

And whereas by Order in Council dated the thirtieth day of July one thousand eight hundred and sixty eight Her Majesty was pleased to make certain additions to the Regulations appended to the said first recited Order in Council

And whereas by Order in Council dated the fourteenth day of August one thousand eight hundred and seventy nine Her Majesty on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade, was pleased to direct that on and after the first day of September one thousand eight hundred and eighty the said Regulations and the additions thereto should be annulled, and that there should be substituted therefor the new Regulations contained in the First Schedule thereto, and that the same should, from and after the first day of September one thousand eight hundred and eighty apply to ships of the countries mentioned in the said Second Schedule thereto, whether within British jurisdiction or not

And whereas Article numbered 9 of the Regulations appended to the said recited Order in Council of the ninth day of January one thousand eight hundred and sixty three is as follows, that is to say,—

Art 9—Open fishing boats and other open boats shall not be required to carry the side lights required for other vessels, but shall, if they do not carry such lights carry a lantern having a green slide on the one side and a red slide on the other side and on the approach of or to other vessels such lantern shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side

Fishing vessels and open boats when at anchor, or attached to their nets and stationary shall exhibit a bright white light

Fishing vessels and open boats shall however, not be prevented from using a flare up in addition, if considered expedient

And whereas the Article numbered 10 of the said new Regulations contained in the First Schedule of the said recited Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August one thousand eight hundred and seventy nine, which said Article is to be in substitution for the said recited Article numbered 9 is as follows that is to say,—

Art 10—(a) Open fishing boats and other open boats when under way shall not be obliged to carry the side lights required for other vessels, but every such boat shall in lieu thereof have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on the one side and a red glass on the other side, and on the approach of, or to other vessels, such lantern shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side

(b) A fishing vessel and an open boat, when at anchor, shall exhibit a bright white light

(c) A fishing vessel, when employed in drift net fishing shall carry on one of her masts two red lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than three feet apart.

(d) A trawler at work shall carry on one of her masts two lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than three feet apart, the upper light red, and the lower green, and shall also either carry the side lights required for other vessels or, if the side lights cannot be carried, have ready at hand the coloured lights as provided in Article 7, or a lantern with a red and a green glass as described in paragraph (a) of this Article

(e) Fishing vessels and open boats shall not be prevented from using a flare up in addition, if they desire to do so

(f) The lights mentioned in this Article are substituted for those mentioned in the 12th 13th and 14th Articles of the Convention between France and England scheduled to the British Sea Fisheries Act, 1868

(g) All lights required by this Article except side lights shall be in globular lanterns so constructed as to show all round the horizon

And whereas the Admiralty and the Board of Trade have jointly recommended to Her Majesty that the operation of the said recited Article numbered 10 of the New Regulations contained in the First Schedule of the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August one thousand eight hundred and seventy nine shall be suspended until the first day of September one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one and that in lieu thereof and in substitution therefor the recited Article numbered 9 of the Regulations appended to the said Order in Council of the ninth day of January one thousand eight hundred and sixty three shall continue and remain in force until the said first day of September one thousand eight hundred and eighty one

NOW THEREFORE Her Majesty by virtue of the powers vested in Her by the said recited Act and by and with the advice of Her Privy Council is pleased to direct that the operation of the said recited Article numbered 10 of the New Regulations contained in the First Schedule of the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August one thousand eight hundred and seventy nine shall be suspended until the first day of September one thousand eight hundred and eighty one, and that in lieu thereof and in substitution therefor the said recited Article numbered 9 of the Regulations appended to the said Order in Council of the ninth day of January one thousand eight hundred and sixty three shall continue and remain in force until the said first day of September one thousand eight hundred and eighty one

FIELD OPERATIONS

No 479—The Governor General in Council has much pleasure in directing the publication, for general information, of the following extract of correspondence and despatches describing the operations of a force under the command of Brigadier General W A Gib, in the Mazina Valley, from 18th to the 23rd May 1880 —

From MAJOR-GENERAL G R GREAVES C B, Adjutant General in India to the Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department—(No 4109 A,—Kabul,—dated Simla, 7th August, 1880)

I have the honor, by direction of the Commander in Chief, to forward, for submission to Government, the accompanying despatches, relating to the operations of the troops under the command of Brigadier General Gib, in the Mazina Valley, from the 18th to the 23rd May 1880.

2 His Excellency concurs with Sir Donald Stewart that the complete success of the expedition reflects great credit on Brigadier General Gib and all engaged.

From MAJOR GENERAL R O BRIGHT C B Commanding the Khyber Line Force, to the Chief of the Staff, Kabul —(No 101,—Field Operations,—dated Safed Sang, 1st June, 1880)

I have the honor to forward, for the information of the Lieutenant General Commanding the accompanying despatch from Brigadier General Gib commanding the 1st Section, Khyber Line, of the operations carried out by him and the troops under his command from 18th to the 23rd May in suppressing disturbances in the Mazina Valley caused by the preaching of a jehad by one Moolah Fakir

2 I think the Lieutenant General will concur in my opinion that the complete success of the expedition reflects the greatest credit on the Brigadier General and all engaged, as will be seen from his account he found the enemy in vastly superior numbers in a position of great natural strength

3 By a most judicious disposition of his small force, and by the gallant advance of the troops the enemy were driven with considerable loss from every position, and ultimately clean out of the valley to the hills

4 I trust that for this gallant service the Lieutenant General will bring the names of Brigadier General Gib and the other officers whom he mentions as having specially distinguished themselves on the occasion to the favorable notice of His Excellency the Commander in Chief

---

No 2073 —Field Operations—dated Kabul 3rd July 1880

Forwarded to the Adjutant General in India for the favorable consideration of His Excellency the Commander in Chief and of the Government of India

Much credit to Brigadier General Gib and the troops under his command is due, and I have the greatest pleasure in bringing the services of all concerned to the notice of the Commander in Chief

(Sd) D M STEWART, Lieut Genl,
Commanding the Forces Northern Afghanistan

From BRIGADIER GENERAL W A GIB Commanding the 1st Section Khyber Line Force to the Assistant Adjutant General Khyber Line Force —(dated Peshawar Bolak the 27th May 1880)

I have the honor to report for the information of the Major General Commanding the Khyber Line Force that having been informed by Mr Merk Political Officer that the fakir Ghulam Ahmed, was raising large bodies of men for a hostile purpose and had murdered several officials of the Governor of Jellalabad and Khan of Lalpura I marched against him at 11 P M on the 18th instant, with the force as per margin taking no tents or baggage of any description, but three days supplies and spare ammunition

I-8th R A four guns under Captain [illegible]
8th Hussars [illegible]
1st Bengal Cavalry 110 sabres under Major H. A. [illegible]
2-14th Regiment 400 privates under Lieut Col D S [illegible]
32nd Pioneers 26[illegible] of all ranks under Major A C W Crookshank

2 After a tedious march over a very difficult country for guns the force arrived at Shershai about 8 A M on the 19th instant and bivouacked for the day under the trees about the village but in the afternoon moved about a mile off into the plain, as the villagers were not to be trusted In the evening the maliks of Shershai and the neighbouring villages were seized as it was thought that with them in our hands our rear was not so likely to be endangered A reconnoitring party was also sent up the valley to learn something of the ground towards Mazina, where the fakir was supposed to be

3 Early in the morning of the 20th instant I marched with the force towards Mazina There was no road and the route was over a stony plain intersected with ravines, and extremely difficult for guns, even with the assistance of working parties from the 32nd Pioneers

4 About 7 30 A M we found the enemy in a very strong position in a cultivated valley which was studded with forts and covered with orchards, terraced fields, sangas and water-courses.

His left rested on the village of Hisárak, and his line extended to Mazina about a mile in length, and faced what would have been my right flank had I advanced further As we came up they waved their standards, fired guns, and beat drums Mr Merk, being anxious to detach the villagers from the enemy, sent in a message by Ressaldar Major Mahomed Aslam Khan, 5th Bengal Cavalry (in political employ, and who was very useful) with a flag of truce, which was promptly fired on

5 I took the guns along the plain to about the middle of the enemy's line, and opened fire at about 1200 yards I then ordered two companies of the 14th, in skirmishing order, with two companies in support and the 32nd in column on the right rear, to attack the enemy's left, and gradually to push on as he became shaken by the guns

The enemy being in great force I determined to use the guns freely By degrees as we advanced, and I was sure I was forcing the enemy back I advanced the 32nd until they became level with the 14th and in the same formation as that corps The enemy opened a heavy but ill directed fire, and clung with considerable courage and tenacity to their many strong positions and in some cases held on till they were bayoneted, but they were gradually rolled back by the steady advance of the infantry Seeing some of the enemy retreating on the other side of the valley I sent the squadron of the 5th Bengal Cavalry under Major Shakespear across in rear of the infantry, but when they got there the enemy had disappeared At one place near what is marked in the map Old Kalhi Fort there was a sanga which the guns could not reach owing to a high bank This position was obstinately held, but carried finally in a charge led by Captain A W Noyes 14th Regiment, who was first in, killed the first man who opposed him and grappled with the second who was bayoneted by the men but not before he had wounded Captain Noyes in the hand I beg to bring Captain Noyes' gallant conduct particularly to the notice of the Major General

About this time seeing numbers of the enemy in full retreat in the open on the other side of the valley I ordered Major Burke in command of a squadron of the 8th Hussars to cross the valley rapidly and pursue the enemy

6 As the enemy were driven back the guns were advanced along the plain and fired with admirable precision and deadly effect and I believe that in one fort sixteen or eighteen dead bodies were found On one occasion a few skirmishers from the enemy crept out over the plain amongst the stones to fire at the guns to check these some marksmen from the escort were sent out, and eventually dispersed them

7 About one o'clock the enemy were in full retreat and had passed out of range of the infantry fire, and as they appeared to be thoroughly beaten and the infantry were very tired and hot having been on the move since five in the morning I halted them But shortly afterwards some of the enemy from the direction of their extreme right, who had probably not hitherto been engaged commenced firing on us, I therefore called up the infantry again and drove the enemy right out from the end of the valley into the Shinwari country and they made for the hills, which were five or six miles off over very difficult ground It was becoming late by this time and I returned back through the valley burning on my way at the request of the Political Officer, all the stacks of bhusa which belonged to the Shinwari villages

8 I halted near Mazina and spent the night there occupying several of the forts, and by the time we settled down it was just midnight I fully expected that shots would be fired at us during the night but it was good policy to remain there on the spot there was a bright moon and I was fully prepared in the event of the enemy making his appearance but not a single shot was fired which proves how thoroughly beaten he was for I understand it is a common practice with these tribes, even after they have been beaten to fire shots into the camp at night

9 No regular attempt to count the dead of the enemy was made During the action numbers of dead or wounded men were seen carried off on donkeys, chárpais, and even, I believe on men's backs The next morning as we moved off the ground, in a very circumscribed spot upwards of twenty bodies were found and from what I have since heard, and judging from the way I saw shells bursting amongst groups of men, and the steady manner in which the infantry fired at by no means long ranges, I think the killed numbered 100 or 120, if not more,—and by the enemy's own account there were upwards of 200 wounded Two wounded men were picked up, one was too much hurt to benefit by treatment and the other had his wounds dressed by Doctor H K McKay of the 32nd A number of prisoners were taken, but as they had no arms they were handed over to the Political Officer, to be dealt with by him Three standards were also taken Our loss, as will be seen by the return enclosed, was very trifling, which I attribute entirely to the free use I made of the artillery

10 On the morning of the 21st we returned to Shershai, the 5th Bengal Cavalry and the 32nd Pioneers diverging on the route to Khadi where a tower of three different forts was blown up and the gateways destroyed This was done at the request of the Political Officer, in consequence of the villagers having allowed the fakir to murder a fouzdar of the Governor of Jellalabad The force halted the next day at Shershai, and the 32nd were again employed in blowing up three towers and dismantling a fort at that place, as the fakir had there murdered another official and the villagers had permitted it The force remained for the night at Shershai,—no attack of any sort was made on it,—and returned next morning to Pesh Bolak

11 Some idea of the ground gone over in this expedition may be formed from the facts that one solitary ravine which the guns had to go up was not passed in less than three hours notwithstanding that the whole of the 32nd Pioneers were assisting, and that eight pairs of horses were in each waggon, and that in the three days, comprising 19th, 20th and 21st, the artillery and cavalry horses lost 144 shoes

12 All ranks bore the exposure, fatigue and discomforts of the expedition most cheerfully

13 My thanks are especially due to L 5th Royal Artillery, the 2 14th Regiment and the 32nd Pioneers, and the officers who commanded them which bore the brunt of the fighting The guns were brought into action after great labor and difficulty, over such bad ground that but for its state of efficiency it would perhaps never have reached the field at all the credit of having the battery in such good order is fairly due to Major W R C Brough the commanding officer, who to my great regret, was unable to accompany it owing to severe illness, though most anxious to do so

The battery, however, was ably commanded by Captain B F Domvile, assisted by Lieutenant J J Porteous until the latter was severely wounded The conduct of the men of the battery under fire was all that could be desired, they were cool and collected and their practice was admirable, and no doubt but for the guns our loss would have been very much heavier

14 The 2 14th Regiment, although composed mostly of very young soldiers behaved with very great steadiness, coolness and gallantry, and were well kept in hand by the commanding officer, Lieutenant Colonel D S Warren assisted by his company officers The action was one well calculated to produce wild firing, but there was none, and the percentage of rounds fired, viz, $8\frac{1}{20}$ per man, was marvel lously low in a long day s fight

15 The 32nd Pioneers deserve high credit for the manner in which they worked as well as fought They underwent a great deal of fatigue, making roads and blowing up towers and were well handled by the commanding officer, Major A C W Crookshank, and the officers of the regiment The percentage of rounds fired by this corps was only 9 02

16 Owing to the nature of the ground on which the action was fought, it was almost entirely an artillery and infantry one, but whenever the cavalry came under fire they were cool and steady and I much regret that they did not find an opportunity of charging the retreating enemy

17 Fortunately there was very little sickness and very few wounded, and the me dical officers attached to the force, of whom the senior was Surgeon Major A J Ferguson, had very little to do, but they were all in the field, ready to undertake anything that might be required of them Surgeon Major D A S Thorburn dressed the wounds of a wounded man of the 14th Regiment under fire so close that one of his kahars, in attendance was mortally wounded The kahars attached to the hospitals behaved extremely well, as they kept close up to the engaged line, ready to carry away killed and wounded I had to order them out of the line of fire twice myself

18 Under the circumstances in which the force advanced, it could scarcely be expected that the commissariat arrangements would be perfect, but Lieutenant E C C Sandys worked hard, and did his best to meet the demands of the troops

19 My best thanks are due to Major W Coningham, Brigade Major, and Lieutenant H L Wells Royal Engineers who acted as orderly officer, for the assistance they afforded me on the march, in the bivouac, and in action

20 Mr W R H Merk, the Political Officer, to whom I was much indebted for valuable information regarding the movements of the enemy, informs me that the successful issue of the expedition has had a very quieting effect on the surrounding country, and that, although the fakir escaped, several of his principal mulahs and adherents were killed and wounded.

The accompanying rough sketch of the ground will serve to give an idea of the enemy's position

Comdg 1st Section, Khyber Line Force

No 480—Under the orders of His Excellency the Governor General in Council, the following correspondence and despatch are published for general information —

From COLONEL ALLEN JOHNSON, Secretary to the Government of India Military Department to the Adjutant General in India,—(No 7893 K, Field Operations, dated Simla, 20th August, 1880)

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No 4312 A, dated the 13th August, 1880, forwarding a despatch relating to an engagement between the troops under the command of Brigadier General Burrows and the mutinous infantry of His Highness the Wali of Kandahar

2 In reply, I am directed to state that the Governor General in Council awaits the promised report from Brigadier General Burrows, and meanwhile the despatch forwarded with your letter under reply will be published in the Gazette of India for general information

---

From MAJOR GENERAL G R GREAVES C B Adjutant General in India to the Secretary to the Government of India Military Department—(No 4312 A — Kabul'—dated Simla, 13th August, 1880)

I am directed by the Commander in Chief to submit to Government Lieutenant General J M Primrose's despatch No 1 dated the 23rd July 1880 reporting an engagement on the 14th idem six miles from Girishk on the Herat road between the troops under the command of Brigadier General G R S Burrows and the mutinous infantry of His Highness the Wali of Kandahar's forces

2 Brigadier General Burrows' report of the action has been called for, and when received will be forwarded

3 As far as can be judged from the despatch now submitted it appears to His Excellency that the operations, which resulted in the capture of the guns in the hands of the mutineers, were well carried out

---

From LIEUTENANT GENERAL J M PRIMROSE C S I Commanding the Kandahar Field Force to the Adjutant General in India —(No 1 dated Kandahar the 23rd July 1880)

I have the honor to report that early on the morning of the 14th instant the infantry regiments of His Highness the Wali of Kandahar (numbering two thousand) who were stationed at Girishk, on the right bank of the Helmand with the object of opposing the advance of Ayub Khan on Kandahar mutinied and taking with them a battery of artillery moved off on the Herat road apparently with the intention of joining Ayub Khan, whose troops were reported to be within two marches of Girishk on that date

2 The Wali's cavalry, two thousand five hundred strong, accompanied him across the river, but Brigadier General Burrows reports that the majority were completely out of hand and went off at once in the direction of Kandahar

3 The force as per margin under the command of Brigadier General Burrows which had been sent out from Kandahar to support the Wali, was then encamped on the left bank of the river

F B Royal Horse Artillery
No 2 Company Sappers and Miners
3rd Sind Horse } 410 sabres
3rd Light Cavalry }
Four companies 66th Regiment
Three companies Jacob's Rifles

4 On its being reported that the infantry had mutinied and were marching off with the guns, Brigadier General Burrows ordered troops as per margin to cross the Helmand and pursue leaving two companies of the 66th Regiment, the 1st Grenadiers and five companies of the 30th Regiment Native Infantry to guard the camp

5 The cavalry and horse artillery under Brigadier General T Nuttall pushed on at once to feel for the enemy, and hold him in check until the infantry could be brought up

6 The ground being much cut up by numerous wide and deep canals, difficulty was experienced in getting the artillery along, and Brigadier General Nuttall, fearing that the enemy might make good his retreat sent the 3rd Sind Horse, under Colonel J H P Malcomson, rapidly to the front, leaving the 3rd Light Cavalry with the guns

7 They came upon the mutinous troops about six miles from camp, formed up in a strong position on a rocky ridge, their left resting on the right bank of the Helmand, which was here steep and precipitous Here they held them for three-quarters of an hour, being unable to charge in consequence of the cramped and enclosed nature of the ground.

8 Before the guns and infantry could get up, the enemy moved off in a direction parallel to the river, but being followed and threatened by the cavalry, came into position again, and opened fire on them with his artillery

9 In the meantime four guns of E B Royal Horse Artillery, were brought into action, and in the course of half an hour the enemy s guns were silenced and abandoned by their gunners

10 The cavalry at once charged to seize them, but on reaching the guns were received by a heavy musketry fire from a body of infantry who had taken up a position on the reverse slope of the hill from which the guns were firing

11 They were in consequence slightly withdrawn behind the crest of the hill, and some dismounted men being formed under cover of the wagons, returned the fire of the enemy until the infantry and guns arrived

12 On this the enemy immediately retreated under our artillery and infantry fire, into the valley below dispersing in all directions and leaving sixty dead on the field

13 Brigadier General Burrows reports that the country was dotted over with villages and intersected by water courses and walls rendering pursuit almost hopeless Moreover he had a long and difficult march back with the captured guns the horses of which had been carried off by the enemy, and he was anxious to recross the river by daylight

14 He therefore recalled his infantry and sent the cavalry on to secure the baggage, &c , which the enemy were taking off

15 Brigadier General Nuttall states that he followed the retreating troops closely, hoping to engage them in some favorable spot, but they at once quitted the bank of the river, leaving the whole of their baggage ammunition, &c , and retreated through country over which it was impossible for cavalry to act

16 He therefore abandoned the pursuit and secured the baggage which the enemy had left behind consisting of 53 camels, a quantity of small arms, ammunition, accoutrements and supplies

17 The battery captured consists of four 6 pounder smooth bore guns, two 12 pounder howitzers and three ammunition wagons but being unable to move the wagons, they were destroyed the guns and howitzers being brought safely into camp

Brigadier General Burrows reports that the behaviour of all ranks left nothing to be desired and particularly brings to notice the fact that the men of the 66th Regiment dragged the captured guns over three miles of difficult country until teams could be obtained for them

18 Our casualties were as follows —

19 Brigadier General Burrows informs me that he received every assistance from his Brigade Major, Captain W H M Math 66th Regiment, from his Deputy Assistant Quarter Master General Captain T Harris 66th Regiment and from Captain J R Slade, Royal Horse Artillery his Orderly Officer to whose untiring energy he is indebted for the guns being brought on intact with their carriages into camp

The cavalry under Brigadier General Nuttall was well handled, and the determined energy with which the artillery was brought up to the front reflects the highest credit on Major G F Blackwood, commanding E B, Royal Horse Artillery

20 Brigadier General Nuttall states his thanks are particularly due to Colonel J H P Malcomson C B, commanding the 3rd Sind Horse, Major A P Currie, commanding the 3rd Light Cavalry, Major G C Hogg Poona Horse, Cavalry Brigade Major, Lieutenant J Monteith, 2nd Sind Horse, Orderly Officer, and Lieutenant G S Jones Royal Artillery (on transport duty), who accompanied Brigadier General Nuttall as galloper

Preamble

WHEREAS by a treaty dated the 24th Shabán 1244 Hijrá, corresponding with the first day of March 1829 and made between His Majesty the King of Oudh and the Government of the Hon'ble the East India Company it was (amongst other things) agreed that a certain pension therein specified should be paid by the English Government to one Nawáb Taj Mahal therein named and that if she should die leaving an heir or heirs the English Government might at its election continue as before such pension to her heirs or make over to them the principal sum proportionate to such pension according to the rate thereinbefore mentioned, and whereas the said Taj Mahal is now dead and doubts exist as to who are her heirs, and it is therefore expedient to provide for the appointment of a person to represent her estate for the purpose of receiving such pension and whereas the Secretary of State in Council is desirous of making over to the persons entitled to receive the said pension the principal sum proportionate thereto as provided in the said treaty and it is expedient to empower the said Secretary of State in Council to capitalize the said pension pending the appointment of a person as aforesaid It is hereby enacted as follows —

Matters to be treated as res judicata

16 All payments heretofore made by or on behalf of the said Secretary of State in Council under the said treaty shall be deemed to have been made in accordance with law Provided that nothing in this section shall affect the right of any person to recover by suit the amount of

Indemnity as to payments already made

any such payment from the person to whom the same has been made

17 The said Secretary of State in Council may, pending the grant of a certificate as hereinbefore provided, invest in securities of the Government of India the principal sum proportionate to the pension of the said Táj Mahal according to the rate mentioned in the said treaty

Government empowered to capitalize the amount of the pension

And thereupon, all further claim to such pension shall cease, and the persons obtaining a certificate in manner hereinbefore provided shall be entitled in lieu of such pension to the Government Securities in which the principal sum proportionate to such pension has been invested

On capitalization all claim to pension barred

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

In the year 1829 the then King of Oudh lent to the East India Company the sum of sixty two lakhs and forty thousand rupees on the terms embodied in the treaty noted in the margin

Treaty dated the [illegible]th Shaban 1244 H, corresponding with the 1st day of March 1829, and concluded between His Majesty the King of Oudh and the Government of the Honourable the East India Company in respect to a sum His Majesty has advanced in loan

The only part of its provisions which it is here necessary to notice is that by which the Company undertook to pay interest on the loan at the rate of five per cent per annum and further to pay a certain portion of the interest by way of what is called in the document a pension to a lady known as Taj Mahal during life and on her death in certain event to her heirs with the option however of paying to such heirs a principal sum proportionate to the pension of Taj Mahal instead of continuing to them such pension

2 Taj Mahal is now dead and no less than five persons who claim to be her heirs and therefore entitled to succeed to her pension have come forward Even if all these claimants were to settle their rights in the Courts of law and some one of them was to obtain a decision declaring him to be the heir the Government could not be sure that he was the right heir for the family is so scattered and there are such contradictory accounts of its history that some other claimant might at any moment start up

3 The present Bill has been prepared to remove this difficulty It enacts that the Government shall not be bound to make any payment under the treaty to any person claiming as heir to Taj Mahal unless he produces a certificate to be granted by the Civil Court authorizing him to receive such payment it provides full and complete indemnity to Government when it makes any such payment to any person producing such certificate, and it carefully preserves the rights of third parties against the persons to whom such payments may be made A simple procedure is prescribed for the Civil Court in matters relating to the grant of a certificate and an appeal within a certain limited period is given from its decision to the Court of the Judicial Commissioner whose decision is to be final All payments under the treaty which may heretofore have been made by the Government are validated

4 Lastly the Bill provides for the capitalization of the pension contemplated by the treaty being carried out in anticipation of the grant of the certificate The Government is not bound to continue paying to the pensioners the present high rate of interest but might under the terms of the document pay off the capitalized value of the pension at once As the Government certainly would do this if it could ascertain who the rightful heir is the claim of any heir succeeding is practically a claim for the capital

OF RELATIONS BETWEEN LANDLORD AND TENANT IN GENERAL

(A) —Of Rent

4 In all suits and proceedings between landlord and tenant it shall be presumed until the contrary is shown that the rent for any year payable by a tenant [illegible] of his holding remains unaltered [illegible] that which was payable by him in the last preceding year

B 6 5 When the rent of a holding is changed under any provision of this Act the change shall take effect from the commencement of the agricultural year following the date of the application upon which such change is ordered: Provided that if the application is made on the ground mentioned in section sixty-seven, section eighty-nine, clause (d), or section ninety, clause ( ), the change shall take effect from such date as the Court fixes.

Date from which [illegible] rate.

B 10 No [illegible] Act XVIII of 1873 sec [illegible] 6 In the absence of any contract to the contrary, rent shall be payable [illegible] in such instalments and on such dates as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time by rule prescribe, and in the absence of such rule according to local usage.

B 11 Compare Act XVIII of 1873 secs 50 to [illegible] 7 When any landlord upon tender being [illegible] made to him by any tenant [illegible] of any instalment of rent [illegible] accept the same or to grant a receipt therefor; and when any tenant in the [illegible] mentioned in section forty-seven [illegible] the appointment [illegible] to receive rent [illegible] made; and when any tenant is in any other [illegible] doubtful as to the person entitled to receive any such rent from him, such tenant may apply [illegible] for permission to deposit the amount [illegible] which he believes to be due, and [illegible] shall receive such deposit unless [illegible] after examining the applicant the application appears [illegible] made in bad faith.

B 11 last para 8 When any deposit [illegible] under [illegible] the provisions of section [illegible] that it was made [illegible] than the amount due be deemed to be a payment [illegible] by the tenant to the landlord or the person appointed to receive [illegible]

A Revenue officer receiving any such deposit [illegible] may pay the amount thereof [illegible] to him to be entitled to receive the same, or may in his discretion retain the same pending the decision of a Civil Court.

No [illegible] proceeding shall be instituted against the Secretary of State in Council [illegible] against any officer of the Government in respect of anything [illegible] under the last preceding clause, but nothing [illegible] the amount of any deposit from [illegible] the same from a person to whom it [illegible] paid.

B 12 Compare Act XVIII of 1873 sec 18 9 Every tenant from whom his landlord [illegible] rent in excess of the amount payable by such tenant shall be entitled [illegible] by suit in a Civil Court from the landlord the amount [illegible] together with such penalty not exceeding double such amount as the Court thinks fit.

Compare Act XVIII of 1873 s 18 When any landlord withholds a receipt for rent paid by a tenant [illegible] such receipt omits to specify the period or crop in respect of which the payment is made, such tenant shall be entitled to recover by suit in a Civil Court from such landlord such penalty not exceeding double the amount of the rent so paid as the Court thinks fit.

The period of limitation for a suit instituted under this section shall be one year from the date on which the cause of action accrues; in other respects the limitation of such suits shall be governed by the Indian Limitation Act, 1877.

10 Whenever any portion of the Government revenue payable in respect of any land is remitted or suspended in consequence of the cultivation of such land being obstructed or the crops on such land being damaged or destroyed by drought, flood, locusts or any other cause beyond the control of a cultivator, the Chief Commissioner may by written order direct that a tenant of any portion of such land may in any suit brought against him by his landlord for the rent due in respect of such portion of land [illegible] which such obstruction, damage or destruction occurred, prove that such obstruction, damage or destruction occurred to a material extent upon such portion of land, and the Court may thereupon remit or suspend such portion of the rent due as it deems reasonable. B 7 No 4 [illegible]

Suspension or remission of rent [illegible]

11 A lease or other contract permitting a tenant to hold without payment of rent or fixing the rent payable by a tenant at an amount or value less than the amount of the revenue payable in respect of the holding shall be deemed to fix the rent at the amount of such revenue.

12 When any land in any village in either of the districts of Chanda and Nimar has been recorded as [illegible] at the last preceding settlement, and any person having been for the three years preceding continuously cultivating in such village, enters into any contract whereby he agrees to pay for such land any rent at a rate exceeding that which the Chief Commissioner may have prescribed in this behalf, and caused to be entered in the Record of rights at such settlement, such contract shall be deemed to be a contract to pay rent at the rate so prescribed and entered. B 13

When any such land has not been recorded as [illegible] at the last preceding settlement, and any person enters into any contract whereby he agrees to pay [illegible] rent at a rate exceeding the [illegible] prescribed and entered, such contract shall be deemed to be a contract to pay at the rate so prescribed and entered.

Nothing in this section applies to any land or land taken under a sub-lease.

(I) — Of Rents taken by Division or Estimate of the Crop

13 When rent is taken by division of the produce or by estimate or appraisement of a crop, if either the landlord or the tenant neglects to attend either personally or by agent at the proper time, or there is a dispute regarding the division of the said produce or the quantity or value of the crop, an application may be made by either party to a Revenue officer requesting that a commission may issue for such division, estimate or appraisement. B 14 Act XVIII of 1873 s 43

If either party satisfies the officer that he has reason to believe that the other party will not so attend, or that if he does so attend there will be a dispute regarding such division estimate or appraisement, the officer may in his discretion order the issue of such commission

15 14 When a Revenue officer appoints any person a Commissioner for any of the purposes mentioned in section thirteen such officer may in his discretion direct such person to associate with himself any other persons as assessors and may give instructions regarding the number and mode of selection of such assessors and the procedure to be followed in making such division estimate or appraisement

Appointment of assessors

16 Former Land Regulation 49 15 If in any division under the foregoing provisions either party receives less than the share to which he is entitled such party may within three months from the date on which such division is completed institute a suit against the other party to recover the value of the additional portion of the crop due to him at the price which prevailed on such date

Remedy for error in division

If no such suit is instituted within the said period of three months the division shall for all purposes be deemed as between the parties thereto to have been rightly made

17 16 When a crop has been estimated or appraised under the foregoing provisions such estimate or appraisement shall be reduced to writing and signed by the Commissioner making the same and shall be submitted to the Revenue officer by whom such Commissioner was appointed

Former Land Regulation 51 Either party may within three months from the date on which an estimate or appraisement is submitted under this section institute a suit against the other party to set aside such estimate or appraisement on the ground that it was made in bad faith and on no other ground If no such suit is instituted within the period thus limited such estimate or appraisement shall be as between the parties thereto for all purposes final and conclusive

3 pp 48 51 (C) —Of the Landlord's Lien upon the Produce of a Tenant's Holding

18 17 In this section and sections eighteen to twenty two both inclusive the following expressions shall have the meanings hereby attached to them —

Definitions

(a) landlord's fortnight means with reference to a holding a period of fourteen days next after the date on which an instalment of rent has fallen due in respect of such holding

(b) produce of a tenant's holding includes standing crops and other ungathered products of such holding and crops and other products reaped or gathered but not stored otherwise than in exercise of a right or power conferred by section nineteen

Explanation —Crops and other products deposited on a threshing floor or place for treading out the grain or the like shall not by reason of their being so deposited, be deemed to be stored

19 18 When the produce of a tenant's holding is attached in execution of a decree for an arrear due in respect of such holding the attachment shall, in respect of such part of the claim as may be for an arrear which fell due within one year next before the date of such attachment prevail against any prior assignment of or charge on such produce by way of sale mortgage or otherwise and if there are prior attachments, the landlord shall in respect of the said part of the claim be held to be the creditor first entitled to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale

Priority conferred on attachments of crops made by landlords

19 Standing crops and other ungathered products of a holding, while under attachment by any order of a Civil Court, be reaped and gathered by the tenant and may be stored in such granaries or other places as are commonly used by him for the purpose If the tenant neglects to do so the Civil Court shall cause the said crops and products to be reaped and gathered and stored either in such granaries or other places as aforesaid or in some other convenient place in the neighbourhood B 20 Act X of 1859 sec 118

Tenant may reap attached crops

20 If the produce of a tenant's holding is attached by order of a Civil Court on the application of any person other than the landlord it shall not be brought to sale— B 21

Sale of produce of tenant's holding to be deferred in certain cases

(a) if the attachment is made during a landlord's fortnight before the end of such fortnight

(b) if the attachment is made at any other time before the end of the landlord's fortnight next ensuing

If having been so attached it is again within the landlord's fortnight mentioned in clause (a) or clause (b) attached before judgment in a suit brought by the landlord to recover the instalment of rent which fell due in respect of the holding at the beginning of such fortnight the sale shall be further deferred until the decision of the landlord's suit

Provided that no sale shall be deferred under this section—

(a) if the landlord consents that it shall be held or

(b) if when the attachment of the Civil Court has been made within a landlord's fortnight the amount of the instalment which fell due at the beginning of such fortnight has been paid to the landlord or into Court or

(c) if when the attachment has been made at any other time the amount of the instalment falling due at the beginning of the landlord's fortnight next ensuing has been paid to the landlord or into Court or

(d) when the produce is liable to speedy natural decay

21 In the case of a sale under the proviso (d) of section twenty the nett proceeds of the sale shall be retained by the Court until the date on which the produce would otherwise have been sold and attachments made by the landlord shall in respect of such proceeds have the same priority which they would have had in respect of the produce if it had not been brought to immediate sale B 22

Retention of sale proceeds by Civil Court in certain cases

22 If within a landlord's fortnight a landlord makes an application to attach before judgment in respect of an arrear falling due at the beginning of such fortnight the produce of the tenant's holding or the nett proceeds of the sale of such produce retained by the Court B 23

Attachment before judgment in suits for arrears

under section twenty one the Court shall make such attachment accordingly and such attachment shall be maintained up to judgment notwithstanding any objection made thereto But if it should afterwards appear that such application was vexatiously and unnecessarily made, the Court may award to any party aggrieved thereby such compensation as it thinks fit

(D) —Of Surrender and Abandonment by Tenants

B 24. 23 Except as otherwise provided by contract between the parties any tenant desiring to surrender his holding may before the first day of April in any agricultural year —

Notice of surrender to be given by tenant

(a) present to his landlord a notice in writing declaring his intention to surrender such holding at the end of such year

(b) apply to such Civil Court as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time appoint in this behalf to serve such notice upon such landlord

Every landlord to whom a notice is presented under this section shall be bound to give a written receipt for the same and every Court to which an application is made to serve a notice under this section shall comply with such application

B 25 24 When such notice has been so presented and acknowledged before the first day of April in any agricultural year or when on an application made before the first day of April in any such year, such notice is so served before the first day of May in such year the tenancy in respect of which such notice has been presented or served shall terminate at the end of such year

Tenancy when terminated by such notice

B 26 25 Any tenant who except with the consent of his landlord or in the exercise of a right conferred by contract surrenders or abandons his holding otherwise than as provided by sections twenty three and twenty four shall be liable for the rent which would have been payable by him during the whole of the agricultural year in which he so surrenders or abandons his holding and the whole of the agricultural year next following if his tenancy had continued Provided that no such tenant shall be liable for such rent in respect of any portion of such following year during which the holding or any portion thereof has been in the actual occupation of the landlord or let by him to another tenant

Consequences of irregular surrender or abandonment

B 28 26 No tenant shall be entitled to surrender a part only of his holding except in the exercise of a right conferred by contract or with the consent of his landlord

Surrender to be of the entire holding

(E) —Of Ejectment

B 29 27 No tenant shall be ejected from his holding by or at the instance of his landlord except—

No ejectment by landlord except as herein provided

See s 60 (a) by his landlord in exercise of a right hereinafter conferred or

(b) by a Civil Court at the instance of his landlord as next hereinafter provided

B 30 28 A tenant may be ejected from his holding by a Civil Court in the following modes, that is to say —

Ejectment by Civil Court—

in execution of decree for ejectment

(a) in execution of a decree for ejectment,

in execution of decree for arrears

(b) under a special order made in the execution of a decree for an arrear due in respect of such holding, or

on an application under certain provisions of this Act

(c) if he is a tenant for a term or an ordinary tenant or a sub lessee of a former tenant on an application by the landlord under one of the provisions relating to such tenants hereinafter contained See ss 60, & 49

B 32 29 When on the sixteenth day of May in any agricultural year or such other day of the year as the Chief Commissioner may by rule fix in substitution for the sixteenth of May in this behalf the landlord has obtained a decree against the tenant for an arrear of rent of any land and the amount of such decree or any portion of such amount remains unpaid, Act XVII 1873 ss & 35

Ejectment in execution of a decree for arrear

the landlord may apply to the Court having authority to execute such decree to make an order directing that the tenant shall be ejected from such land and the Court may make such order

Provided that no ejectment shall be made under this section at any time less than fifteen days from the date of the decree

B 33. 30 Any landlord who has obtained in respect of any holding a decree for ejectment or an order under section twenty nine or who is entitled under the provisions hereinafter contained to make the application next hereinafter mentioned,

Application to a Civil Court to eject

may apply to the Court which made such decree or order or where the application is not based upon any such decree or order to such civil Court as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time appoint in this behalf to eject his tenant from such holding

B 34 31 The Court to which an application is made under section thirty shall subject to the provisions hereinafter contained eject such tenant

Procedure thereon

Provided that when an application is made to a Court to make an ejectment on a date after the fifteenth day of June and before the fifteenth day of April in any agricultural year such Court, if it finds that the tenant has not sub let and that the holding has been cultivated in accordance with local usage may, instead of directing that the ejectment be at once proceeded with order it to be postponed to a date after the fifteenth day of April in such year Compare XXVIII 1868 sec and Act X of 1868 38 & 39

B 35 32 When a tenant is ejected from his holding, he shall in the absence of any custom or special agreement to the contrary, be entitled— Compare XVIII of 1873 s 42

Rights of tenant in respect of crops and land prepared for sowing

(a) at the option of the landlord either to retain possession of any land comprised in such holding which he has sown previous to the time of ejectment and to use such land for the purpose of tending and gathering in the crops sown, or to receive from the landlord the estimated value of the labour and capital expended by him in preparing and sowing such land and tending such crops, and

(b) to receive from the landlord the estimated value of the labour and capital expended by him in preparing for sowing any land comprised in such holding but not sown

pare Act III of sec 27

Provided that no tenant shall be entitled to retain possession of any land or receive compensation in respect thereof under this section when he has cultivated or prepared such land contrary to local usage, or to retain possession of any land or receive any compensation in respect of any cultivation or preparation which his landlord being in a position to make an application under section thirty has by a notice in writing forbidden him to undertake

Payment by tenant for occupation of land under section 32

33 When a landlord elects under clause (a) of section thirty two to allow a tenant to retain possession of any land for the purpose specified in that section such tenant shall pay to such landlord for the use and occupation of such land during the period for which he is allowed to retain possession of the same such portion of the yearly rent of the holding as the Court may deem reasonable

Account to be taken generally between landlord and tenant

34 A Court ejecting a tenant under section thirty shall inquire into and determine all claims under this Act by the landlord against such tenant or by such tenant against the landlord and the decision of such Court upon any such claim shall be final and conclusive

Procedure when on ejectment money is to be paid by the landlord to the tenant

35 When it appears to a Court making an ejectment that the amount payable by the landlord as such to the tenant exceeds the amount payable by the tenant as such to the landlord it shall unless the landlord and tenant come to an arrangement regarding the payment of such excess sum fix a time within which it must be paid into Court

If such sum is so paid within the time fixed the Court shall eject the tenant

and if such sum is not so paid within such time shall dismiss the application for ejectment

but nothing herein contained shall prevent a landlord from making a fresh application for ejectment

Transfer of holding while suit for arrears is pending

36 When a tenant against whom a suit for arrears has been instituted transfers his holding or any part thereof and a decree is passed against such tenant in such suit any order made in execution of such decree under section twenty nine may be executed either against such tenant or against such transferee as if he were the original tenant

When proceedings to eject to be stayed

37 If, during the course of proceedings to eject in execution of an order made under section twenty nine the amount of the decree for arrears and the cost of execution of such decree are realized, the proceedings shall be stayed

Remedy of tenant illegally ejected

38 Any tenant who has been ejected in contravention of section twenty seven may, within one year from the date of his ejectment sue in a Civil Court for reinstatement or for compensation, or for both and such Court shall if it finds that the ejectment was illegal reinstate the tenant or, in case he has applied for compensation, ascertain the amount of actual damage which he has sustained by the ejectment and award to him such amount, together with such further sum, not exceeding two hundred rupees, as it thinks reasonable compensation for the trouble and annoyance caused to him by the ejectment

If within the said period of one year the tenant does not sue under this section, his interest (if any) in the land and his right (if any) to compensation shall cease

(F) —Of Improvements and Compensation therefor

Preferential right to improve

39 In all suits and proceedings between landlords and tenants it shall be presumed, until the contrary is shown that save as provided in section ninety five, landlords have a preferential right to construct tanks pakka wells and permanent buildings on the holdings of their tenants B 42

The Chief Commissioner may from time to time by rule prescribe the manner in which tenants desiring to make improvements shall give notice thereof to landlords who have a preferential right to make them and may fix the time to be allowed for the exercise of such right

Compensation for improvements to tenants on ejectment

40 If any tenant, or any person from whom he has derived his tenancy by inheritance or transfer, has made improvements in his holding such tenant shall be entitled to be compensated for such improvements when he is ejected and shall not be ejected by order of any Court until such compensation has been made or provided for to the satisfaction of the Court B 43 Compare Act XXVIII of 1868 sec 37; Act XIX of 1868 sec 22; Act XIX of 1873 sec 54; Irish Act secs 3 4, 15 21 and 70

Provided that no compensation shall be claimable under this section in respect of an improvement in any of the following cases, namely —

(a) when the tenant is a tenant of sir land and the improvement has been made in such land without obtaining the express consent of his landlord thereto

(b) when the landlord had a preferential right to make such improvement and the tenant has made it without giving such notice and allowing such time as is prescribed under section thirty nine or when no such notice or time is prescribed without giving due notice and allowing reasonable time to his landlord to make it

(c) when the tenant having contracted not to make such improvement without giving the landlord reasonable notice to make it, has made it without giving such notice

(d) when the tenant has made the improvement in pursuance of a contract or under a lease binding him to make such improvement without compensation

Improvements made by a tenant before the passing of this Act in lands other than sir land shall be deemed to have been made after notice to, and with the permission of his landlord unless it is shown that the landlord forbade the tenant to make the improvement, and was ready to make it himself, or that the tenant contracted in writing not to make such improvement

Principle on which compensation to be assessed

41 In estimating the compensation to be made for an improvement under section forty the Court shall have regard— B 44 No. 4, p 12

(a) to the labour and capital expended by the tenant in such improvement, and

(b) to the amount by which the letting value of the holding or its produce or the value thereof is likely to be increased by such improvement

Provided that in no case shall the compensation for any improvement exceed the amount for which it could have been made by the landlord, or the amount by which it has increased the selling value of the holding

Provided also that if a landlord has, in consideration of an improvement allowed a tenant to hold at a rent lower than the rent which would have been payable if such improvement had not been made the amount of rent thus remitted shall be deemed to have been a payment by the landlord made towards the cost of the improvement

Explanation—In this section the words "letting value" mean the value of the holding if let at a rack rent

Shape in which compensation may be given

42 Compensation for improvements may be made in money to be paid by such instalments as the Court thinks fit unless both landlord and tenant agree that it should be made in any other manner, in which case it shall be made accordingly

B 47 No 3 pp 6 10 No 4, p 12 Cf Irish Act s 4.

Agreements not to make improvements & void

43 Every contract made after the passing of this Act whereby a tenant agrees not to make improvements or to be ejected if he makes improvements, or to forego any claim to compensation under this Act for improvements which he makes otherwise than in fulfilment of a contract or under a lease binding him to make them shall so far as regards such agreement be void

B 48 No 3 pp 6 10

Certain entries in Records of rights to be void

44 All entries in the Record of rights of any village providing,—

(a) that landlords shall be entitled to prevent tenants from making improvements or to eject them for making improvements or to demand increased rent from them in respect of any improvements which they have made or

(b) that tenants ejected from any lands shall not be entitled to compensation for improvements in cases in which they would under this Act be entitled to such compensation

shall be void

No 3 pp 3 & 4

(G) —Case of several Persons Landlords of the same Land

B 50

Appointment of person to act on behalf of several landlords

45 When persons who are jointly entitled to be deemed the landlords of any tenant in matters connected with the granting of leases, ejectment or the enhancement abatement or recovery of rent appoint any person to act on their behalf in any such matter or revoke such appointment, they shall notify such appointment or revocation for the information of their tenants in such manner as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time prescribe by rules in this behalf

Any such appointment or revocation not so notified shall be null and void as against the tenant

No 4, p 14.

Person appointed under section 45 deemed sole landlord

46 Any person whose appointment has been so notified shall be deemed to be for the purposes of this Act and so far as his appointment may extend the sole landlord of the tenants to whom his appointment has been notified and shall alone be entitled to give receipts for rents, to grant leases, or enter into agreements with tenants as the case may be, on behalf of the persons appointing him

Rent in which two or more persons are interested as landlords

47 When two or more persons are the joint landlords of any tenant in matters connected with the recovery of rents, such tenant subject to any rule which the Chief Commissioner may make in this behalf shall not be compelled to pay part of the rent of his holding to one of such persons and part to another or others and such persons shall be bound if the tenant so desires, to appoint one of their number or some other person in manner provided by section forty five to receive the rent of such holding

(H) —Miscellaneous Provisions

Presumptions in suits and proceedings between landlords and tenants

48 In all suits and proceedings between landlords and tenants it shall be presumed until the contrary is shown,—

(a) that a tenant who does not possess a right of occupancy or hold under an unexpired lease is an ordinary tenant within the meaning of this Act

(b) that except as by this Act provided a tenant has no power to transfer or mortgage his holding without the consent of his landlord

B 54 No 4 p

Relation between landlord and sub lessee if tenant ejected or surrendering

49 When any tenant having a right to sublet sub lets his holding or any portion thereof and is subsequently ejected by, or surrenders his holding to, his landlord the sub lessee shall be deemed to become the tenant of such landlord under the sub lease but such landlord shall be entitled to apply at any time under section thirty to a Civil Court to eject him

B 57 No 3 p Compare X of 1859 s 9 80 & Act XVII 1873 ss 28 and Act XIX 1868 s 7

Landlord or tenant may require that tenancy be reduced to writing

50 When land is held otherwise than under a written lease or agreement either the landlord or the tenant may apply to a Revenue officer to have the terms on which it is held reduced to writing

B 58

Procedure on application under section 50

51 On receiving an application for the reduction to writing of the terms of any tenancy in accordance with section fifty the Revenue officer shall ascertain the matters if any, on which the parties are at issue, and shall then—

(a) if it appears that there are no such matters in dispute or that they have been already decided by a Court of competent jurisdiction in the applicant's favour make the order applied for, or

(b) if the matters in dispute are such as a Revenue officer is competent to determine, determine such matters and make such order thereon as he thinks fit or

(c) refer the parties to the Civil Court

B 59

If order to execute any instrument is neglected Revenue officer may execute it

52 If a landlord or tenant refuses or neglects to execute any instrument which he may be directed to execute under section fifty one, the Officer may himself execute such instrument and the instrument so executed shall be of the same force and effect as if it had been executed by the person who refused or neglected to execute it

B 60 Compare Irish Act s 3 Oudh's 1877 Act X sec 24.

53 If any landlord or tenant desires that the extent of any holding should be ascertained or that evidence relating to any improvement made in respect thereof by either of them, or to the state of such holding at any specified time should be recorded he may apply to a Revenue officer and such Officer shall thereupon make, or cause to be made such enquiry as he thinks fit with a view to ascertain or record the matters the ascertainment or record of which is desired by the applicant Provided that—

Applications to measure or ascertain condition of holdings

no action shall be taken by any Revenue officer under this section if it appears that the application is unnecessary or is made vexatiously or that the matter the ascertainment of which is desired is being enquired into by any Civil Court

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the right of a landlord to enter on any holding for the purpose of measuring or examining the same

When any matter has been ascertained and recorded under this section both landlord and tenant and all persons claiming under either of them shall in all subsequent proceedings before any Revenue officer or in any Civil Court, be bound by such record

B 8 No 4, pp 3 & 4

54 If any landlord grants a lease or enters into any other contract fixing the rent of any holding and while such lease or contract is in force —

Leases may be avoided when assessment is changed

(a) land revenue is for the first time made payable in respect of the holding

(b) land revenue having previously been payable in respect of it the revenue payable when the lease or other contract was executed is increased

such lease or other contract shall be voidable at the option of the landlord unless the tenant agrees to pay such rent as a Settlement officer or Revenue officer may on the application of the landlord determine to be fair and reasonable

Where land revenue having been payable in respect of the holding at the time when the lease or other contract was executed the amount of such revenue is reduced such lease or other contract shall if the Chief Commissioner by any general or special order so directs be voidable at the option of the tenant unless the landlord agrees to accept such rent as a Settlement officer or Revenue officer may on the application of the tenant determine to be fair and reasonable

OF ORDINARY TENANTS

(A) —Preliminary

B 61

55 In all suits and proceedings between landlords and ordinary tenants it shall be presumed unless the contrary is shown, or unless there is an entry in the Record of rights to the contrary that the rights and liabilities described in this chapter are incident to the tenure

Presumption as to ordinary tenancies

(B) —Of Ejectment

B 62 No 2 p 33

56 Any landlord who desires to eject an ordinary tenant at the close of any agricultural year may, before the first day of December in such year apply to a Civil Court to serve such tenant with a notice of ejectment and such Court shall serve such notice

Notice of ejectment.

57 If any tenant upon whom a notice has been served under section fifty six disputes the right of his landlord to eject him he may within one month from the date on which such notice is so served, institute a suit to contest such right B 63.

Procedure when right to eject is disputed

58 Any ordinary tenant upon whom such a notice has been served, and who, not being a tenant of sir land or a sub-lessee, has at the time when it is proposed to eject him continuously for five years cultivated land in the village in which the land from which it is proposed to eject him is situated and is when such village is inhabited resident therein and has not either in the agricultural year in which it is proposed to eject him or in either of the two agricultural years next preceding received from his landlord any assistance in his cultivation may within the said period of one month apply to the Court by which such notice was served for an order of protection from ejectment and such Court shall grant such order unless the landlord satisfies it that hardship would be caused thereby B 64 No 2 pp. 33 & 34.

When protection order may be granted

Explanation —Loss caused to the landlord by not obtaining a higher rent is not hardship within the meaning of this section

59 If within the said period of one month, no suit is instituted under section fifty seven and no application is made under section fifty eight or if on such a suit being instituted or application made it is rejected the Court may record a proceeding declaring that the landlord is entitled to eject the tenant B 65

Declaration of right to eject when to be made

60 Any landlord in whose favour a declaration has been recorded under section fifty nine may eject the tenant — B 66.

Time for ejection on declaration under section 59

(a) when such declaration has been recorded before the seventeenth day of May in the agricultural year in which the application under section fifty six was made—at any time during the said month of May

(b) when such declaration has not been recorded before the said seventeenth day of May—at any time within fifteen days from the date of such declaration

Provided that any such landlord instead of ejecting such tenant himself may within the period prescribed by this section apply under section thirty to a Civil Court to eject such tenant

61 Any ordinary tenant in respect of whom a declaration has been made under section fifty nine and who if ejected would have a claim to retain any land or receive any compensation under section thirty two may, if he has reason to believe that his landlord is about to eject him without the assistance of a Court apply to such Court as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time appoint in this behalf to make an order prohibiting the landlord from so ejecting him, and it shall be in the discretion of the Court to make such order B 67

Tenant may apply for order prohibiting ejectment

B 68 62 Any such tenant who has been ejected by a landlord without the assistance of a Court may within the period of one month after such ejectment apply to a Court appointed under section sixty one—

Remedy of tenant ejected by landlord.

(a) to be put in possession of any land or to be awarded any compensation to which, under section thirty two, he is entitled and

(b) to compel the landlord to pay him any net sum to which if he had been ejected by the Court he would have been declared entitled under section thirty five

B 69 63 On receiving such application the Court shall proceed to determine the matter set forth therein and may put the tenant into possession of any land to which he is entitled and if any net sum as aforesaid to which the Court finds the tenant to be entitled is not paid by the landlord within such period as it fixes may in its discretion reinstate the tenant in the land from which he has been ejected

Procedure in such cases.

B 70 64 A tenant to whom an order of protection is granted under section fifty eight in one agricultural year may be ejected in a subsequent agricultural year if he ceases to reside in the village or receives notice from his landlord in the cultivation of his holding

Protected tenant may be ejected in subsequent year.

B 71 65 All entries in the Record of rights of any village providing that any notice other than that herein prescribed shall be given by a landlord before ejecting an ordinary tenant shall be void

Certain entries in Record of rights to be void.

(C.—Of the Rent payable by Ordinary Tenants)

B 72 66 The rent payable in any year by a tenant by an ordinary tenant not being a tenant who has obtained an order of protection under section fifty eight shall be—

Rent payable by ordinary tenants.

(a) when such year is the first year of his tenancy the rent which he agreed with his landlord to pay or in the absence of any agreement such rent as a Revenue officer may on application made to him determine to be a fair rent

Compare Act XIX of 1868 ss 35 & 36

(b) when such year is not the first year of his tenancy the rent which was payable in the preceding year unless a different rent has been agreed upon in which case the rent so agreed upon shall be payable

In fixing a fair rent under clause (a) of this section the Revenue officer shall have regard to the rates paid by ordinary tenants occupying lands of similar quality and with similar advantages in the neighbourhood and to any expectations which the landlord may have held out to the tenant of occupying at rates lower than such rates

The fact that in any year any sum was paid as rent shall unless such payment was extorted or made through fraud or by mistake be held to prove that the tenant agreed to pay a rent not less than such sum

B 73 67 When the area of a holding of an ordinary tenant is diminished by diluvion or otherwise during any year of tenancy, a Revenue officer may on application made to him determine the rent payable for the holding for such year

Diminution of area of holding.

68 When a Court grants a tenant an order of protection under section fifty eight it shall either fix his rent at the amount which he is paying at the time when he obtains such order or fix a fair rent in manner prescribed by section sixty six whichever may be greater B 73

Rents payable by protected tenants.

Rent which has been fixed under this section is liable to be refixed on the application of either the landlord or the tenant in any subsequent year

69 Except as provided in this Act no Court shall determine the rent proper to be paid by an ordinary tenant B 74 No 3, p. 13.

No Court to determine rent payable by ordinary tenant except under Act.

70 An ordinary tenant shall not in the absence of a written contract empowering him to do so be entitled to sub let his holding or any part thereof

Sub letting.

OF TENANTS FOR A FIXED TERM

71 A tenant for a fixed term shall on and after the first day of May next preceding the end of such term be deemed to be in matters relating to ejectment and reinstatement an ordinary tenant B 75

Fixed term tenants on expiry.

Provided that if it be expressly stipulated in his lease that he shall quit his holding at the expiration of such term the notice specified in section fifty six shall not be required and such tenant may on the expiration of such term be ejected by his landlord with or without the assistance of a Civil Court as if a declaration in respect of him had been made under section fifty nine

72 A tenant for a fixed term may in the absence of any written agreement to the contrary sub let his holding or any part thereof

Sub letting.

OF TENANTS WITH A RIGHT OF OCCUPANCY

(A.—Of the Acquisition of the Right of Occupancy)

73 Any owner of such land shall be deemed to become an occupancy tenant of such land in the following cases, namely— B 76 No 3 p 15

Expropriated owners.

(a) when he sells such land without expressly agreeing to transfer his right to cultivate it

(b) when his interest in such land is sold for arrears of land revenue or

(c) when his interest in such land is sold in execution of any decree which does not declare his right to cultivate such land to have been expressly hypothecated to the judgment debtor

74 Any person recorded as an absolute occupancy raiyat or as a tenant with rights of occupancy of any land or in terms equivalent thereto in any record of rights of such land made before the passing of this Act shall be deemed to have acquired a right of occupancy in the land in respect of which he may have been so recorded

Persons recorded as occupancy tenants.

Bang Act X of 1859 s 6 p 16 2 pp 31 p 16 p 31

75 Every tenant who has held the same land continuously for twelve years shall be deemed to have acquired a right of occupancy therein Provided that such land is not (1) held under a written lease in which it is stipulated that a right of occupancy shall not be acquired or that the tenant shall quit the land at its termination, or (2) held in lieu of wages or (3) sir land

Twelve years rule

Explanation I —Land sub let is not held either by the sub lessee or his lessor within the meaning of this section

Explanation II —The occupation of the person from whom a tenant has inherited his holding or when the holding has been acquired by the tenant otherwise than by inheritance and the landlord was or had this Act been in force would have been bound to recognize such acquisition the occupation of the person from whom it has been so acquired shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to be the occupation of the tenant

p 12 p 30 3 pp 19 XXVIII 68 s 7

Explanation III —When by the custom of any village the holdings of tenants are or have been liable to periodical redistribution lands which a tenant may in accordance with such custom have from time to time received in exchange for lands previously held by him shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to be the same land as the lands which he held prior to such exchange

p 1 1 30 11 19 XXVIII 68 s 7

76 A tenant having a right of occupancy in land situated in a village in which the holdings of tenants are by custom liable to periodical redistribution and exchanging such land in accordance with such custom for other land situated in the same village shall be deemed to have acquired a right of occupancy in the land so taken in exchange

Case of land redistributed under village custom

1 12 1 30 pp 19 XXVIII 368 s 7

77 If a tenant having a right of occupancy in [illegible] any land ceases to hold such land and thereupon commences to hold other land of the same landlord under circumstances from which it may be inferred that he has accepted such other land in lieu of such land on the same conditions as the land which he has ceased to hold he shall in the absence of an agreement to the contrary be deemed to have acquired a right of occupancy in the land which he so commences to hold

80 78 In the districts of Chánda and Nimár every tenant shall be deemed to have a right of occupancy in respect of all land which he holds except sir land or land held by him under a sub lease or recorded as written at the time of making the settlement for the time being in force and taken up during the term of such settlement on a lease such as is mentioned in section seventy five

81 79 In the district of Sambalpur every tenant shall be deemed to be an occupancy tenant in respect of all the land which he holds except sir land or land held by him under a sub lease and no such tenant shall be ejected except under an order passed in the execution of a decree for arrears under section twenty nine

Tenants in Sambalpur

82 80 Nothing in this Act shall be held to debar any tenant from claiming a right of occupancy expressly conferred by a contract

Tenant not barred from claiming right of occupancy acquired by contract

(B) —Of Succession to and Transfer of the Right of Occupancy and of Sub letting

81 The right of a tenant having a right of occupancy shall descend as if it were land Provided that except in the districts of Chánda Nimár and Sambalpur no collateral relative of a tenant other than an absolute occupancy tenant shall be entitled to inherit such right unless at the death of such tenant he was a co sharer in the holding B 83 No 3 p 37

Descent of occupancy right

82 Every tenant having a right of occupancy may transfer or mortgage such right in his holding or any undivided share thereof without his landlord's consent to any person who has become by inheritance a co sharer with him in such holding B 84.

Right of transfer

Every absolute occupancy tenant and in the districts of Chánda and Nimár every tenant having a right of occupancy may transfer or mortgage his rights in his holding or any undivided share thereof to any person to whom the right of occupancy would under the provisions of section eighty one descend at the death of such tenant if such person were then living No 3 pp 31 36

83 No entry in the Record of rights shall be deemed to entitle occupancy tenants of any class to transfer or mortgage their holdings otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of this chapter B 85

Effect of entries in Record of rights

Provided that nothing in this section shall be deemed to invalidate any transfer or mortgage made before the passing of this Act by an absolute occupancy tenant under any power recorded in a Record of rights

84 Every tenant having a right of occupancy may sub let his holding or any part thereof J 86 No 3 pp 29 31

Right to sub let

Provided that in the districts of Chánda and Nimár tenants who were not in possession of their holdings at the time when rents were fixed at a settlement shall not during the term of such settlement be entitled to sub let

85 No tenant having a right of occupancy shall be ejected from his holding on the ground that he has agreed to transfer or has sub let the holding when he had no power to transfer or sub let the same if it appear that he so agreed or sub let bona fide believing in good faith that he had such power B 87 No 3 p 31

Occupancy tenant not to be ejected for transfer or sub letting in good faith

(C) —Of the Rent payable by Tenants with a Right of Occupancy

86 The rent payable in any year by a tenant having a right of occupancy in respect of his holding shall be that which was payable in respect of such holding in the year next preceding unless a different rent has been agreed upon in writing between the landlord and tenant, or such rent is enhanced under this Act B 88 No 4 p 19

Rent of occupancy tenant

87 A tenant with a right of occupancy and paying rent in money or his landlord, may apply to a Settlement officer if a settlement is in progress, or if no settlement is in progress and the rent of the holding has not been fixed at the existing settlement by Settlement officer, or after such settlement and B 89

Power to fix rent of [illegible] at settlement

after the passing of this Act by a Revenue officer to a Revenue officer, to fix such rent, and such officer shall except as otherwise provided by agreement between such landlord and tenant fix such rent having regard to the following, that is to say —

No 2 p 37 Cf Act XIX of 1878 s 72 (a) to the rent-rates assumed for the purpose of assessing the land revenue on similar land with similar advantages in the same circle or tahsil and to the customary rates of rent payable by tenants of the same class for similar land, with similar advantages in the same circle or tahsil

(b) to any claim which the tenant has to pay rent at less than ordinary rates on the ground that some of the advantages with regard to which the lands included in his holding are classed were the result of improvements made by him,

(c) to any circumstances such as the status or caste of the tenants which the Chief Commissioner may from time to time by rule direct to be taken into account in reduction of such rent, and

No 1 pp 8 & 16 No 2 p 32 No 3 pp 23 & 24. (d) when the application is made during the currency of a settlement to any changes in the value of the produce of land which have occurred after the settlement and which the Chief Commissioner may from time to time by rule direct to be taken into account for this purpose

Provided that the rent demandable from a tenant shall not be reduced under this section except by a Settlement officer

'Circle' in this section means two or more villages grouped together for assessment purposes by a Settlement officer or declared by the Chief Commissioner to constitute an assessment circle

B 90

Certain rents to be deemed to have been fixed under section 87

88 (a) Rents recorded at any settlement made before the passing of this Act as payable by tenants in the Sambalpur district

(b) rents of absolute occupancy tenants in any other district recorded at or after a settlement made before the passing of this Act and

(c) rents fixed before the passing of this Act by a Settlement officer

shall be deemed to have been fixed in manner prescribed by section eighty seven

B 91 No 1 pp 8 & 16 No 3 pp 24 to 28

Enhancement of rent fixed under section 87

89 When the rent of a tenant having a right of occupancy has been fixed at or since the last settlement in manner prescribed by section eighty seven the landlord may except as otherwise provided by any contract between the parties, apply from time to time to a Revenue officer to enhance such rent on one or more of the following grounds and on no other, namely —

(a) that the rent last fixed under this Act was fixed lower than it otherwise would have been owing to circumstances some or all of which have ceased to exist and that no corresponding adjustment of the rent has been made

(b) that since the rent was last fixed under this Act the Chief Commissioner has made a rule of the nature specified in section eighty seven, clause (d), and applicable to the holding

(c) that since the rent was last fixed under this Act the productive power of the holding has been increased otherwise than by the tenant or at his expense,

(d) that the extent of the tenant's holding is larger than the area in respect of which his rent was last fixed under this Act

Abatement of such rent

90 When the rent of a tenant having a right of occupancy has been fixed at or since the last settlement in manner prescribed by section eighty seven, such tenant may except as otherwise provided by any contract between the parties, apply from time to time to a Revenue officer for an abatement of his rent on one or more of the following grounds, and on no other, namely — B 92; No 3 pp. 28

(a) that since the rent was last fixed under this Act the Chief Commissioner has made a rule of the nature specified in section eighty seven, clause (d) and applicable to the holding, or

(b) that since the rent was last fixed under this Act the productive power of the holding has decreased otherwise than by his act, or

(c) that the extent of his holding is less than the area in respect of which his rent was last fixed under this Act

Rents of certain tenants not to be changed on certain grounds

91 Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained the rents of occupancy tenants in the districts of Sambalpur Chánda and Nimár or of absolute occupancy tenants, shall not be changed on the ground that a rule of the nature specified in section eighty seven clause (d) has been made or on the ground that the productive power of the holding has increased or diminished when such increase or diminution has not been caused by, or at the expense of the landlord B 94 No 3 p

Restriction on agreement by tenants in Sambalpur

92 Contracts by which tenants having a right of occupancy in the district of Sambalpur agree to pay rents at rates higher than the average rate at which at the time of making the settlement for the time being in force the rents of other lands in the same village of similar quality and possessing similar advantages were fixed shall be void but nothing in this section shall affect any contract to pay a reasonably enhanced rent in consideration of an increase in the productive power of the land having been effected through the agency or at the expense of the landlord B 95

Power to make rules for determining rents

93 The Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act for the guidance of Revenue and Settlement Officers in the determination of the rents of tenants having a right of occupancy and declaring the principle on which reductions claimed by tenants under section eighty seven, clause (b), may be allowed B 96

Settlement officer may commute rents payable in kind

94 In all cases in which a tenant with a right of occupancy has paid rent in kind or on the estimated value of a portion of the crop or by rates varying with the crop, or partly in one of such ways and partly in another or others, the landlord, or tenant, may apply while a settlement is in progress to a Settlement officer and during the term of a settlement to any officer specially empowered by the Chief Commissioner in this behalf, to commute such rent to a fixed money rent and, on the receipt of such application, such officer shall determine the rent to be paid in commutation, as if the rent previously paid had been a money rent and an application had been made to him to fix the same

(4) applications to measure or ascertain the condition of a holding (section 53)

(5) applications to fix the rent of ordinary tenants (section 66),

(6) applications to fix the rent of the holding of an ordinary tenant which has been diminished by diluvion or otherwise (section 67),

(7) applications to fix or alter the rent of an occupancy tenant (sections 87, 89 and 90)

(8) applications to commute rents (section 94)

and of such other matters as they are empowered to deal with under this Act and, subject to the provisions herein contained may grant such relief as the nature of the case requires

Provided that nothing herein contained shall debar a Civil Court from exercising jurisdiction in regard to any of the following matters which may arise in any suit or proceeding instituted in such Court, namely —

(a) measuring or ascertaining the condition of any holding, dividing estimating or appraising any crop, or receiving any deposit,

(b) determining the rents payable by tenants when the yearly amount so payable has been fixed by a Revenue or Settlement-officer or by agreement between the parties

99 In disposing of the matters referred to in section ninety eight the Revenue officers shall, as nearly as may be, exercise the same powers and follow the same procedure as are exercised and followed by them under the Central Provinces Land revenue Act 1880

Procedure on such applications

From every order passed by a Revenue officer in respect of any such matter an appeal shall lie as if such order had been passed by such officer under the said Land revenue Act

100 Subject to the provisions of section ninety eight the Civil Courts shall have jurisdiction in all matters arising between landlord and tenant Provided that— B 103 No 3 pp 41 to 45

Jurisdiction of Civil Courts

(a) no Judge of a Civil Court of first instance shall unless he is also a Revenue officer or a Settlement officer hear any suit between a landlord and a tenant as such and

(b) the Chief Commissioner may subject to the provisions of this Act direct that all or any of such suits shall be tried before such Courts of such grades competent to try the same as he thinks fit and not otherwise

101 The Chief Commissioner may direct that all or any of the following suits, namely,— B 103 (c)

Certain suits may be entered in separate registers

(a) suits for an arrear of rent

(b) suits to eject a tenant or cancel a lease on account of a breach of the conditions of the tenancy or lease whether compensation for such breach be also claimed or not

106 If in a suit for an arrear of rent it appears that the area of the holding has been diminished by diluvion before or during the period in respect of which such arrear is claimed

the Court may stay proceedings in the suit and refer the parties to a Revenue officer in order that the rent of the holding may be determined

B 110 Act XIX of 1868 s 13 Set off

107 In any such suit no set off shall be allowed except such amount as may be due to the tenant under a decree or order against the landlord as such

Interest on arrears B 111

108 In any such suit interest may be allowed up to judgment, at such rate not exceeding twelve per cent per annum as the Court thinks fit

No process of execution to issue on decree for arrears after lapse of three years from date thereof B 112 Act IX of 1868 s 118.

109 No process of execution shall be issued to recover any sum due under a decree in any such suit after the lapse of three years from the date on which under the decree such sum became payable

No appeal in certain cases B 113 Cf Act X of 1859 s 13

110 When any such suit is decided whether on appeal or otherwise by a Civil Judge exercising powers not less than those of an Assistant Commissioner of the first class as defined in the Central Provinces Courts Act, 1865, the decision shall be final, and shall not be subject to appeal unless—

(a) the amount or value of the subject-matter of the suit exceeds one hundred rupees or

(b) a question relating to a title to land or to some interest in land has been determined as between parties having conflicting claims thereto

Limitation of suits by tenant to recover possession New

111 The period of limitation for a suit instituted by a tenant to recover the possession of land from which he has been ejected by any person other than his landlord shall be one year from the date on which he is ejected

In other respects the limitation of such suits shall be governed by the Indian Limitation Act, 1877

ENACTMENTS REPEALED

Number of Act	Short title
Act X of 1859	To amend the law relating to the recovery of rent in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal
Act XIV of 1863	To amend Act X of 1859
Act XXII of 1872	To explain and amend Act X of 1859

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The law at present governing the relations of landlords and tenants in the Central Provinces is Act X of 1859, an enactment which was originally framed with particular reference to the circumstances of Lower Bengal, and which has been found, in many respects, unsuitable to territories where proprietary right is of comparatively recent origin, and, indeed, in some districts is even now but imperfectly developed. Though the primary object of Act X of 1859 was to protect tenants who had been depressed during a long course of years, by a powerful proprietary body, and though it certainly fulfilled its purpose in the Province for which it was enacted, the result of applying it to a country in which, until recently, the distinction between the cultivating and the revenue-paying classes was somewhat loosely marked, and where the position of the former was therefore exceptionally strong, has been absolutely to curtail their ancient privileges. Though this is the chief ground on which legislation is desirable, experience has shown that Act X of 1859 is inappropriate and inconvenient, both in its procedure and in some of its substantive provisions. To remedy this state of things the present Bill has been framed.

2. It will be observed (section 2, clause 1) that it applies only to land used for agricultural purposes, and to such land only when it is let to tenants of the class commonly known as raiyats. Many of its provisions, especially those of a protective nature, would obviously be unsuitable in cases where a village or a considerable portion of a village, is leased to a thekadar or farmer who makes his own terms with the proprietor and is quite well able to protect himself; but it will be a question for the Select Committee to which it is proposed to refer the bill whether some portions of it might not with advantage be extended to cases of this description.

3. The provisions of the Bill are roughly divisible into two classes, namely, those of general application contained in Chapters II and VI, and those contained in Chapters III, IV and V applying only to particular descriptions of tenants.

Beginning with the former class and omitting all reference to such provisions as either speak for themselves or may be said to have become common forms in Upper India Tenancy Bills, section 10—which in effect provides that when the Government suspends or remits its revenue on any land in cases of drought, &c., the landlord may be required to suspend or remit his rent—may first be noticed.

4. This section is based on the similar provision of the North Western Provinces Rent Bill at present before the Council, but with this important difference that instead of requiring the Revenue officer, on the revenue payable in respect of any tract being remitted or suspended, to go over all the holdings comprised in such tract and determine in the case of each whether any remission or suspension of rent should be allowed, it allows this question to stand over until an actual dispute regarding it arises between the parties, and then leaves it to be decided by the Court before which the landlord may claim his rent.

This deviation from the rule proposed for the North Western Provinces appears advisable, because owing to the comparative simplicity of landed tenures in the Central Provinces suspensions or remissions of land revenue may be granted without that minute field to field survey which is requisite in order to decide claims to suspension or remission of rent, and it is not desirable to throw upon the limited staff of officers available in these Provinces the labour of making such a survey merely for the purpose of settling such disputes as may arise on this point between landlords and tenants.

5. Section 11, which in effect prohibits leases at a rent smaller than the revenue payable on the land, is the complement of section 117 of the Central Provinces Land-revenue Bill, which invalidates revenue-free grants made by Malguzars. The object of both is the same, viz., to prevent improvident proprietors from depriving themselves of the means of meeting the Government demand upon their lands (see paragraph 12 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Land-revenue Bill).

6. Passing over for the moment the special provisions relating to tenants in Chánda and Nimár contained in section 12, we come to sections 17 to 22, which treat of the landlord's lien upon the produce of his tenant's holding. This lien is intended to be a substitute for the present power of distraint, which as a matter of fact has scarcely ever been resorted to by the Central Provinces landlords, and which it is apprehended would, if commonly employed, lead to abuses. The provisions regarding it have been so framed as to enable a landlord, by the exercise of the most ordinary diligence, to obtain for each instalment of his rent a first charge upon all crops which may be on the land at the time it falls due or during the year following.

7. The effect of sections 27 to 38 relating to ejectment, taken with certain subsequent provisions of the Bill to which they refer, may be stated to be that, except (section 71) when there is a lease for a term with an express provision that the tenant shall quit at the end of such term, no tenant can be ejected from his holding by his landlord without an order of the Court, that as a rule in all contested cases the landlord will, after obtaining such order, not proceed to eject the tenant himself but apply to the Court to eject him, and that the Court will not eject the tenant until all claims on either side arising out of the tenancy have been adjusted.

8 Sections 39 to 44 relate to improvements and compensation therefor They provide that, as a rule the landlord shall be allowed the option of himself making any permanent improvement proposed by the tenant but that if he does not avail himself of the option thus allowed him the tenant may make such improvement, and having made it, shall be entitled to receive compensation in respect of it before being ejected The rights thus conferred on the tenant cannot be affected by any contract or by any entry in a record of rights to the contrary

9 Sections 45 to 47 are intended to relieve a tenant holding under a number of co-proprietors from the difficulties and perplexities in which he is now frequently involved owing to doubts as to the authority of individual co proprietors Section 47 provides that in such cases the co proprietors shall be bound, if the tenant requires them to do so to appoint one of their number or some other person, to act on behalf of all of them and receive the entire rent of the holding

10 Section 48 (b) enacts that except as provided by the Bill a tenant has no power to transfer or mortgage his holding without the consent of his landlord and it may here be added that no such power is conferred by the Bill except to a very limited extent in the case of the occupancy tenants to be presently referred to

11 Sections 50 to 52 which empower a Revenue officer to cause the terms of a tenancy to be reduced to writing at the instance of either party when there appears to be no real dispute as to those terms are intended to take the place to some extent of the ordinary provisions as to suits for pattas and kabuliyats

12 Section 54 which provides for the readjustment of the rent fixed by a lease or contract whenever the holding falls under re assessment is in accordance with the general understanding that the rents of ordinary raiyats though fixed by contract, are subject to revision at settlement

13 With Chapter III of the Bill begin the provisions relating to certain particular classes of tenants

These classes (putting aside for the moment certain tenants in the districts of Chánda, Nimár and Sambalpur) are as follows namely —

(1) ordinary tenants (chapter III)

(2) tenants for a fixed term (chapter IV) ,

(3) tenants with a simple right of occupancy (chapter V) ,

(4) absolute occupancy tenants (same chapter)

14 Taking these in their order it will be seen from section 48(a) and section 55 that it is to be presumed until the contrary is shown that a tenant who does not possess a right of occupancy or hold under an unexpired lease is an ordinary tenant," and that the rights and liabilities described in Chapter III are incident to his tenure

15 The position of the ordinary tenant as shewn in Chapter III bears a considerable resemblance to that of a tenant from year to year in England and in the Bill as originally framed by Mr Jones such tenants were designated tenants from year to year but it has been thought safer to avoid the use of a technical term borrowed from a different system of law and accordingly the term ordinary tenant which connotes nothing has been substituted for it

16 The most striking feature in the position of such a tenant as defined by the Bill is that he cannot be ejected without the order of the Court and that when he resides in the village, has cultivated any land there for five years and has not within the preceding three years received any assistance in his cultivation from his landlord he may when an order for his ejectment is applied for claim to be protected from ejectment, and the Court will be bound to protect him unless the landlord shows that some hardship beyond a mere loss of rent will be thereby caused to him

The practical result of these provisions will be that every tenant who resides in a village and has cultivated any land there for five years continuously will as a rule at once acquire in any land he may begin to cultivate in such village an inchoate status of occupancy

This portion of the Bill has been retained practically unaltered, as it has met with the provisional approval of the Secretary of State in Council, but it is obvious that if only by reason of its novelty it will require the most careful consideration by the Select Committee

17 As an ordinary tenant is either removeable upon notice or (if protected) is in a temporary state of transition it is not worth while to enact any elaborate rules for the fixation of his rent and accordingly the provisions on this point in Chapter III will be found to be brief and simple

18 Chapter IV relating to tenants for a fixed term calls for but little notice The position and rights of such tenants will usually be regulated to a great extent by the terms of the leases under which they hold and the only peculiarity introduced by the Bill is that, when the lease does not contain a stipulation expressly requiring the holding to be vacated at the expiration of the term the tenant will in the last year of such term, be deemed to become an "ordinary tenant and to be entitled to all the privileges in regard to ejectment and protection against ejectment which are conferred on such a tenant by Chapter III

19 Proceeding now to Chapter V which deals with tenants with a right of occupancy it will be seen that the status of an occupancy tenant, when not conferred by express contract (section 80), may as a rule be claimed on any one of three grounds namely —

1st that the land was formerly the property of the tenant and held by him as sir, and that he parted with it or lost his ownership in it in one of the modes mentioned in section 73

2ndly that the tenant was recorded as an occupancy tenant of the land in a settlement record prepared before the passing of the Bill or

3rdly that he has for twelve years continuously held the land, otherwise than under a written lease expressly debarring him from acquiring the status

20 As regards the acquisition of the right in the third of these modes it should be stated that actual occupation throughout the whole period is required the right not being acquired when the land is sub let On the other hand it is provided by the third Explanation to section 75 and by section 76 that neither the acquisition of the right nor its retention shall be affected by the circumstance that the tenant has shifted from one holding to another in accordance with a village custom such as has been found to prevail in Chhattisgarh and by section 77 that once the right has been acquired it shall not be lost by the tenant's removal to another holding if it appears that he has removed on the understanding that his status is to remain unchanged but that in such a case he shall have the rights of an occupancy tenant on his new holding This last provision is in accordance with section 7 of the Punjab Tenancy Act of 1868 and it is important as a check upon the practice of persuading ignorant tenants to change their holdings to which landlords are said sometimes to resort with a view to destroying occupancy rights

21 In whichever of the above modes the occupancy status may have been acquired its incidents will (section 90) be presumed to be those described in chapter V The principal of those incidents are as follows —

1st that (section 81) the right of an occupancy tenant descends lineally as if it were land but does not pass to a collateral unless he is a co-sharer in the holding

2ndly that while an occupancy tenant is allowed (section 84) to sub let he cannot (section 82) transfer or mortgage his holding except to a co-sharer and

3rdly that he is in the absence of a contract fixing his rent entitled to have his rent fixed according to certain rules laid down by the Bill

22 The rules for the fixation of rent are contained in sections 86 et seq and are among the most important provisions of the Bill

Their most striking feature will be found to be the distinction which they make between the process of fixing rent for the first time after a new settlement has been taken in hand (section 87) and the process of subsequently during the currency of that settlement enhancing or reducing it

A new settlement is considered to reopen completely the question of the rents to be paid by occupancy tenants and accordingly at the first determination of these rents after the settlement has commenced all data and all circumstances which can properly be allowed any influence on the question will be taken into consideration The rent-rates assumed by the Settlement officer for the purpose of assessing the land revenue and which approximate to the true economic rent will be looked to as also will the customary rates of rent which as a matter of fact are paid by tenants of the same class Nor will other circumstances such as the caste of the tenants which it is found practically impossible to disregard in such cases be left out of account

But once the rents have been fixed in this way they will during the currency of the settlement be liable to be enhanced or reduced only on certain definite grounds These grounds are (omitting one which is of minor importance)—

1st that the area of the holding has been altered

2ndly that its productive power has been altered and

3rdly if the Chief Commissioner makes a rule admitting this as a ground for altering rents, that the value of the produce has increased or diminished

23 The power of admitting this last circumstance as a ground for changing rent is placed in the hands of the Chief Commissioner in order to save the Revenue officers the necessity of undertaking in individual cases long and minute inquiries into the history of prices in the neighbourhood since the rent was last fixed When owing to any considerable rise or fall of prices in any locality such an inquiry appears to be called for it will it is conceived, be more successfully made once for all under the orders of the Chief Commissioner

24 The "absolute occupancy tenants" so called because when the subject of occupancy rights was still under discussion in the Central Provinces their right of occupancy was considered to be beyond dispute are simply occupancy tenants with certain additional privileges The status can be claimed only on the ground of an entry made in a record of rights prior to the passing of the Bill, and accordingly the number of such tenants is strictly limited

1st that their right of occupancy descends in all cases to collaterals as well as lineally (section 81)

2ndly that their right to transfer and mortgage their holdings is (section 82) somewhat larger than that of ordinary occupancy tenants

3rdly that their rents when once fixed by a Settlement or Revenue officer are not (section 91) liable to be enhanced or reduced on certain grounds on which the rents of ordinary occupancy tenants may be enhanced or reduced, and

4thly that they have (section 95) a right to make improvements in their holdings without offering their landlords the option of making such improvements

25 As regards the second of these points it should be explained that it has not been considered advisable in the interest of these tenants to reserve to them the full right to transfer their holdings which was stipulated for in their behalf at settlement but which has been found in practice to tempt them to incur debt and place themselves at the mercy of their landlords

26 In the foregoing account of the provisions of the Bill all mention of the exceptional privileges and protection provided for tenants in the districts of Chánda Nimár and Sambalpur has for convenience sake been omitted and it is accordingly necessary to advert to the subject here

The relations between the persons who have been recorded as proprietors and those who have been recorded as tenants in these three districts were found on examination to differ considerably from those ordinarily subsisting between landlords and tenants The rights of the former were so limited and those of the latter so large that it was at one time a question whether a raiyatwari settlement would not under the circumstances be the most suitable

When therefore it was eventually determined to make the settlement with the superior class of occupants as proprietors it was found necessary to reserve for the inferior class rights considerably larger than those of ordinary tenants and in accordance with the arrangements then made the Bill provides that (sections 78 and 79) tenants in these three districts shall as a rule be deemed to have a right of occupancy that (section 79) a tenant in Sambalpur shall not be ejected except under an order passed in execution of a decree for arrears that (sections 81 91 95) as regards the descent of the occupancy right fixity of rent and the right to improve, the occupancy tenants in all three districts shall be on the same footing as absolute occupancy tenants and that (section 82) occupancy tenants in Chánda and Nimár shall have the same powers of transfer as absolute occupancy tenants Lastly in order to protect these tenants against attempts to break down the rights thus reserved to them it has been thought well to introduce in sections 12 and 92 provisions which limit their power of contracting in regard to the amount of their rent

27 It remains to speak of the Chapter (VI) relating to jurisdiction and procedure and the only point calling for notice in it (besides the new rule of limitation laid down in section 111) is that it leaves all matters between landlord and tenant except the fixation of rent to be dealt with by the ordinary Civil Courts instead of establishing as the North Western Provinces Rent Act does a special set of tribunals for their disposal The reason for adopting this course may be very briefly stated In the Central Provinces the same officers as a rule discharge revenue and judicial functions and there can never be any difficulty in arranging as required by the proviso to section 100 that all suits between landlord and tenant shall be heard by judges who have had the necessary experience of revenue administration This being so to establish a separate set of tribunals for the disposal of such suits would be merely to introduce a needless complication and without any [illegible] whatever to expose ourselves to all the conflicts of jurisdiction and other difficulties which have [illegible] in connection with the double system of tribunals elsewhere

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 17TH AUGUST 1880

GENERAL REMARKS —In Bengal Assam, Burma, Rajputana, Oudh, and the Central India States prospects continue favourable though more rain is said to be wanted at Morar and Sutna, where, however there was, in each case a fair fall in the preceding week The accounts from the Punjab are also satisfactory, except in the Peshâwar district In the North Western Provinces and the Central Provinces, the rain has been slight in most districts though heavy in a few Prospects are generally good except in Nimár In Allahabad, Agra Nágpur, Saugor, and Seoni more rain would be beneficial

There is a distinct improvement in the Madras Presidency and in Mysore Rain has fallen in the Kolar and Tumkur districts where it has hitherto been very deficient From parts of several Madras districts complaints still come that crops are withering for want of rain, but the fall has been general, and in some places fairly abundant so that crops previously suffering have revived

In Berar rain is still much needed at Amraoti In the Bombay Presidency, water is required for the autumn crops in Sind, and more rain is urgently wanted in the Deccan districts There have, however, been slight and partial showers during the week in Poona, Ahmednagar and Sholapur

On the whole, prospects are good in the Eastern Central and Northern Provinces in Southern India they have improved and it is only in parts of Western India that the want of more rain is, as yet, urgent

[These were awarded before the abolition of the one-sixth deduction Rule and are now given in full]

3 The votes of Subscribers have affirmed the resolutions passed at the General Meeting of 31st January last in regard to the disposal of the surplus which was declared to be available for the purpose of providing additional benefits to the members of the service and their families

The voting was as follows —

	For	Against
(1) Remission of annuitants subscriptions for wives and children existing at the time of retirement, and for children born of such wives after retirement	175	12
(2) Modification of the rule regarding minimum payments in the case of invalid annuitants so as to secure half benefits in all cases to their wives and children existing at the time of retirement and to children born of such wives after retirement	185	4
(3) Donation of £300 to the family of a subscriber dying in the service and of £200 to the family of subscriber dying after retirement ...	188	1
(4) Increase of the allowances of motherless orphans by 50 per cent	187	2
(5) Increase of sons allowances by £50 between the ages of 16 and 21	186	2
(6) Abolition of the rule regarding one sixth deductions	181	2
(7) Retrospective effect from 1st April 1878	181	6

The Actuary's further report, however, shows that in his opinion it would be unsafe to introduce all these new benefits and at the same time to give them retrospective effect from 1st April 1878 The Managers have accordingly after careful consideration, decided that it will be best for the present to continue to require subscriptions from annuitants to the ordinary or 8 per cent branch The following circular has been addressed to the subscribers —

Calcutta the 14th July 1880

SIR

AT the last general meeting of the subscribers it was decided to introduce certain alterations in the rules with retrospective effect from 31st March 1878 and this decision has been confirmed by the votes of the subscribers at large under Art XVII of the rules It was however understood that the continuance of the increased benefits would be dependent upon the result of the Actuary's valuation and that they would be withdrawn in the event of his reporting that the Fund cannot afford them.

2 I am now directed to forward to you a copy of Mr Sutton s report on the proposals for the appropriation of the surplus in which the Managers are pleased to find so full a justification of the course they have adopted in pressing the matter to an early decision You will observe that while Mr Sutton places a higher value upon the additions made to children s benefits his report in all other respects confirms the valuations upon which the Managers acted The final result however is to increase the figure (Rs 1 30 000) at which the Managers placed the calculated deficit of the Fund and in view of this he does not consider that retrospective effect could safely be given to all the benefits from 31st March 1878 He suggests two courses to place the Fund in safety—(1) to give effect to the additional benefits from 31st March 1880 only (2) to retain subscriptions to the ordinary branch after retirement and he favours the adoption of the first course The Managers do not consider that they would be justified in acting in such a matter against the advice of their Actuary ...y believe that the sense of the service will be against the postponement of the provisions for increased benefits to the widows and children of subscriber and they have decided to recommend that for the present subscriptions of annuitants to the ordinary branch shall be retained Mr Sutton finds that to give full effect to the decisions of the last general meeting would result in a deficit of Rs 2 93 825 in ... ordinary branch on which Government pays 8 per cent interest This calculation will be subject to modification ... consequence of the Managers decision regarding the distribution of charges between the two branches An adjustment should properly be made with effect from 1st April 1878 but as the accounts for 1878 79 have been closed this is not possible The Managers have however decided that the additional payments for 1878 79 shall be made entirely from the additional or five per cent branch as a set off against the excessive rate charged against the ordinary branch in that year For 1879 80 and until further valuation the Managers have fixed the proportion of charges at 68 to the ordinary branch and 32 to the additional Even after these adjustments however the Managers apprehend that the deficiency on the Actuary s estimate would exceed the margin which they would have been prepared to recommend the subscribers to allow The value of the 8 per cent subscriptions of annuitants is Rs 4 29 606, as calculated both by the Actuary and by Mr Westland Their retention would therefore place the fund considerably in surplus The value of the subscriptions alone which would have been refunded under this branch had it been possible to exempt annuitants wholly from 31st March 1878 is Rs 71 466 Looking to all the circumstances and recognizing that Mr Sutton has throughout avowedly inclined to the safe side in framing his valuation the Managers have little doubt that they will be in a position to recommend the total exemption of annuitants after the quinquennial valuation of 1883 and it is even possible that they may be able to propose this measure next year For the present the effect of the recommendation is that annuitants will be exempted from additional contributions from 31st March

1878, but that they will continue to subscribe 1¼ per cent. to the ordinary branch The Managers have no doubt that under the circumstances of the case the retired subscribers will acquiesce in this proposal and that it will not be necessary again to amend Art. VIII to provide for it

4 Miss Palmer has submitted the following application —

To THE MANAGERS OF THE BENGAL CIVIL FUND

SIRS

MAY I request the favour of your laying this appeal, in due course before the Subscribers to the Bengal Civil Fund for their liberal consideration and if you feel able to recommend and support it I shall indulge the hope of a favourable reply

On the death of my father a retired member of the Bengal Civil Service, in the year 1873 I was admitted to the benefits of the Bengal Civil Fund, and from that date I have received an allowance of £100 per annum under the provisions of the Fund

My father was forty years in the service and on his retirement in 1860 being then Civil Auditor, had paid as I am instructed nearly double the amount of the half value of his annuity to which must be added the amount of his subsequent contributions to the Fund to the date of his death

Some years after the death of my mother my father married again in India, and his widow my step mother is now on the Fund under the new rules

Owing to the flourishing condition of the Fund it has been* resolved to increase the present allowance of £100 per annum to the orphan daughters of subscribers to the Fund to £150 and the Managers would propose to extend this benefit to incumbent children becoming mother less after the 31st of March 1878.

* Vide Half Yearly General Meeting of Subscribers to the Civil Fund at Calcutta on the 31st January 1880

The proposed alteration in the existing rule increasing the allowance of orphan daughters to the above extent if restricted to orphans becoming such after the year 1878 would seem to bar my claim to its benefit for the following reasons My step-mother is still living and supported by the Fund and my father died in 1873 But surely the fact of my having been an orphan for several years cannot weaken my claim to the indulgent consideration of the present members of the service while it is strengthened by the circumstance of my never having resided at any time with my step mother

Under the above circumstances I cannot help hoping that if my appeal should seem to the Managers to be deserving of reference to the members of the service it will be received by the latter with their accustomed liberality

I do not suppose that there are many other cases if indeed any similar to mine and considering that the proposed increase to orphan daughters will be paid out of a fund to the formation of which my father so very largely contributed I do not feel that I am presuming too much in asking that the boon may be extended to me and for which I shall for ever feel deeply grateful

I am in the thirty seventh year of my age and excepting the Civil Fund have no other means of support and maintenance while it is admitted by all that £100 per annum is barely sufficient for food and clothing

ALICE WILHELMINA PALMER

The Managers have informed Miss Palmer that her case is excluded under the rule which provides for increased pension in the event only of the "wife or widow" of a deceased subscriber having died and that, as cases of this description were carefully considered when the rules were amended, the Managers are not prepared to recommend the Subscribers to alter their decision

5 The following letter has been received from the Government of India —

No 1588 dated Simla, the 6th July 1880

From—S JACOB ESQ, Officiating Under Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Finance and Commerce

To—The Managers of the Bengal Civil Fund

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your Secretary's letter No 250, dated 26th May last reporting certain additions made to the benefits granted from the Bengal Civil Fund

2 Your Secretary's letter will be forwarded to the Secretary of State in Council Pending considera tion of that letter by Her Majesty's Government, the Government of India should not be understood to have countenanced the grant of any privileged interest on the assets necessary to provide for these new benefits; or of the privileged exchange upon the remittance to England of funds required in order to give effect to them

COPY forwarded to the Comptroller-General for information and guidance

6 The Managers will propose the following amendments of the Rules —

Article III—Add "The term public emoluments" in this rule includes all fixed allowances received by subscribers employed out of India with the sanction of Government

Article XXIII—Omit from the beginning to the words five Managers inclusive and substitute—

"The affairs of the Fund shall be conducted by a Committee of Managers composed as follows —

(a)—Five ex-officio Managers who shall be the first four of the following officers not being elected Managers, who may for the time being be residing in or in the neighbourhood of Calcutta provided such officers are subscribers to the Fund, viz —

(1) The Senior Puisne Judge of the High Court of Fort William who is a member of the Covenanted Civil Service
(2) The Comptroller General
(3) The Accountant-General Bengal
(4) The Legal Remembrancer
(5) The Collector of Customs

(b)—The following officers provided they are subscribers to the Fund during such time as they may reside in or in the neighbourhood of Calcutta, viz —

(1) The Secretary Government of India Home Department
(2) The Secretary Government of India Financial Department
(3) The Revenue Secretary to the Government of Bengal or in his absence the Judicial Secretary or in the absence of both of these the Financial Secretary

(c)—Five elected Managers who

Proposed by Mr Alex T Maclean seconded by Mr H Beverley and carried unanimously—

That the Manager's proceedings in admitting the families of the late Messrs Abercromby Dick, T W Gribble, E A Bradbury J C Geddes, T E Vaughan, Hon'ble H deB Devereux H T Raikes, and R G Currie, to the benefits of the Fund, be confirmed

Proposed by Mr D R Lyall, seconded by Mr J Monro, and carried unanimously—

That the Manager's reply to Miss Palmer be approved

Mr Macaulay said that it might be convenient if he explained briefly the circumstances under which the Managers had found it desirable to propose the amendment of Art. III (4) of the rules Art XXXVI (37) provides that "if a subscriber to the Fund, continuing in the Civil Service and wishing to retain his interest in the Fund, shall have proceeded to, or remain in, Europe otherwise than on furlough or subsistence allowance, he shall be required, while absent from India, to pay to the Fund a monthly subscription equal to that which he would have been required to pay if on subsistence allowance" Obviously the intention of this rule was to enable officers compelled by special circumstances to remain in Europe out of employ to retain their interest in the Fund The Fund could not suffer under its operation, as subscribers taking advantage of it would nevertheless have to serve in India on Indian pay the ordinary term for pension Of late years, however, cases have arisen in which subscribers remain out of India neither on furlough nor on subsistence allowance, but on special duty under the Home or some foreign Government In these cases service on this special duty is allowed to count for pension, and the Fund would obviously suffer if subscriptions were paid, not on the salary drawn, but on the sum which might be drawn by such a subscriber if he happened to be on subsistence allowance. In the opinion of the Managers, such cases do not even technically fall under Art. XXVI (37), but are governed by Art III (4), under which subscribers are required to contribute on "their salaries and other authorized public emoluments," and they have ruled accordingly Their ruling has not been disputed, but they think it desirable that the meaning of Act III (4) should be made quite clear by the addition of the following clause —

The term 'public emoluments' in this rule includes all fixed allowances received by subscribers employed out of India with the sanction of Government'

Proposed by Mr J O Kinealy, seconded by Mr H J S Cotton, and carried unanimously—

That article III (4) of the Rules be amended as proposed

The Hon'ble W F McDonell proposed that Article XXIII (24) of the rules be amended as suggested by the Managers He explained that, under the present rule, great inconvenience was felt owing to changes in the management on the return of the Government of India from Simla each year The Home and Financial Secretaries then became Managers, displacing the Collector of Customs Mr J D Maclean, who had been an ex officio Manager in the latter capacity, had taken great interest in the administration of the Fund, and it was undesirable that an officer who had a knowledge of current questions connected with the management should be periodically displaced Practical inconvenience, moreover, had been felt a majority of the Managers in the cold weather taking a view different from that held by the majority in the middle of the year

Mr Cotton said that, in his opinion, the proposed rule would involve an undue preponderance of the official over the representative element He saw no reason why any Secretary to the Government of Bengal should be an ex officio Manager, and he thought that, as the Comptroller General stood second in the list, the Accountant General might well stand last The office of Accountant-General was not necessarily, and indeed was not at present, held by a subscriber to the Fund He also considered that an elected Manager should resign on succeeding to an appointment which qualified him to become an ex officio Manager He was quite aware of the importance of securing continuity in the management, but he held that this could be effected without making such a large addition to the number of ex officio Managers

Mr Westland observed that, with one or two possible exceptions, the ex officio Managers were just as much representatives of the service as those who were annually elected

Some discussion took place regarding the order in which the officers mentioned in clause (a) should stand Mr Beadon suggested that the officers should become eligible for ex officio managership according to priority of date of succession to the qualifying appointment After some discussion in which Messrs McDonell O Kinealy Beverley, Lyall, and Macaulay took part, Mr Cotton proposed the following amendment, which was accepted by Mr McDonell and carried unanimously —

Art XXIII (24) shall be amended as follows —

The affairs of the Fund shall be conducted by a Committee of Managers composed as follows —

(a) —Seven ex officio Managers as specified below or so many of them as may for the time being be residing in or in the neighbourhood of Calcutta provided such officers are subscribers to the Fund viz —

(1) The senior Puisne Judge of the High Court of Fort William who is a member of the Covenanted Civil Service

(2) The Secretary Government of India Home Department

(3) The Secretary Government of India Financial Department

(4) The Comptroller General

(5) The Accountant General Bengal

(6) The Legal Remembrancer

(7) The Collector of Customs

(b) —Five elected Managers who shall be subscribers and shall be elected at a General Meeting of subscribers to be held in January of each year in Calcutta Any elected Manager taking leave for a period of or exceeding six months shall be held to have resigned his office

Provided that the elected Managers shall not be chosen from among the ex-officio Managers, and in the event of an elected Manager being appointed to an office in virtue of which he becomes an ex-officio Manager for a period exceeding three months he shall be held to have resigned his office as an elected Manager and the Managers shall thereupon in this case as well as in the case referred to in the above preceding clause of an elected Manager taking leave for a period of or exceeding six months proceed to elect a Manager in his place from among the subscribers and shall duly report the same for the approval of subscribers at the next General Meeting

Proposed by Hon'ble W F McDonell, seconded by Mr H J S Cotton, and carried—

That Mr J Monro be elected a Manager to fill an existing vacancy

After a vote of thanks to the Chair the meeting separated

IRRIGATION BRANCH

IRRIGATION OPERATIONS OF THE NORTH WESTERN PROVINCES FOR THE RABI SEASON 1879 80

No 770 A dated Allahabad the 9th July 1880

RESOLUTION—By His Honor the Lieutenant Governor North Western Provinces and Chief Commissioner of Oudh

Read—

Statements A12, B12, C12 for rabi 1879 80

OBSERVATIONS —The total area irrigated during rabi 1879 80 was 844,330 acres This area was less by 231,622 than that of the previous rabi, but greater by nearly 90,000 acres than the average area of the four* years preceding 1878 79 This increase is considerably more than the increase of area attributable to new canals and extensions, which does not exceed 23,000† acres

YEAR	Acres
*1874 75	752 745
1875 76	758 403
1876 77	776 358
1877 78	729,845
1878 79	1 07[illegible]2

Average irrigated by new canals in four years 1874 75 to 1877 78			Acres 48 730
Area irrigated, 1879 80—	Acres
Agra Canal	36 286
Lower Ganges Canal	2[illegible] 744
Extensions (not more than)	5 000	=	71 030
Increase due to new canals and extensions in 1879 80 as compared with four previous years			†2[illegible] 300

2 Thus in spite of the decrease from the exceptional area of 1879 80, there has been a real growth in ordinary canal irrigation This has been attained in the face of agricultural disadvantages extending over a large portion of the area commanded by the canals which materially affected the irrigation in several canal divisions The opening of the season for rabi cultivation found an unusually heavy kharif harvest on the ground, and a population unable to reap it on account of the epidemic fever with which the whole of the North Western Provinces, but especially the districts lying south east of Meerut, were stricken The consequence of this was great delay in gathering in the harvest and deficiency of the labour necessary to prepare the soil for the rabi sowings, which, by diminishing the area under cultivation and delaying the watering of the crops, seriously affected the irrigation of the lower divisions of the Upper Ganges, the two open divisions of the Lower Ganges Canal, and the whole of the Agra Canal The Executive Engineer of the Cawnpore Division estimates that had the irrigation begun at the usual time, or a month earlier than it did begin, an additional area of 20,000 acres would have been irrigated in that division alone

3 In addition to this cause the very heavy monsoon rains of 1879 (which in these lower districts of the Doab continued up to October) flooded much of the area usually under rabi cultivation, and, by filling the jhils and hollows, afforded other sources of irrigation than the canal

4 In the upper divisions of the Ganges Canal these causes were not so much felt The rains ceased earlier in the upper part of the Doab, and had the people been in their usual health, they would have prepared the ground while it was still moist without the aid of the canal As it was they were unable to plough until the soil was dry, the water being more quickly carried off here than in the lower divisions owing to the more advanced state of the drainage works consequently they were obliged to take canal water for the purpose of breaking up the ground and sowing the crops Similar conditions obtained on the Eastern Jumna Canal, but even here it is reported that the sickness affected the irrigated area, and that the demand for water was much limited by incomplete and patchy sowings

5 The winter rains were scanty and favourable to canal irrigation, except in some portions of the Bulandshahr Division There was a considerable fall everywhere in February, but this was so late that its effect on the area irrigated from canals could not have been very great

6 The following statement compares the areas irrigated on the several canals for the last four years —

Canal	1876 77	1877 78	1878 79	1879 80
	Acres	Acres	Acres	Acres
1 Ganges	592 951	503,701	725 871	507 937
2 Lower Ganges			16 020	29 714
3 Agra	32,231	105 982	83 094	36 286
4 Eastern Jumna	104 397	103 100	181 228	142 201
5 Dun	6 869	7 381	9,607	8 804
6 Rohilkhand	37 483	7 001	57,237	66 277
7 Bijnor	1 711	1 475	1 283	1 730
8 Bundelkhand Lakes	711	1,202	1,612	1 351
Total	776 353	729 845	1 075 952	841 330

This table clearly brings out the fact that, except on the Agra Canal there is no decrease in the area of 1879 80 as compared with that of an ordinary year

7 The Agra Canal, being a new work, is liable to considerable fluctuations in the irrigated areas of dry and of ordinary seasons, because in seasons of good rainfall it has no steady area of superior crops to fall back upon On the older canals there is a well established area of such crops, which have come to be entirely dependent on the canal, and which in ordinary seasons furnish the greater portion of the revenue On a new canal, on the other hand, there will be a rush for water to save the food crops in a bad season when the price of food goes up but when good seasons come round again, the same crops will either be irrigated from wells or grown without any irrigation at all This is what has happened on the Agra Canal, and the result is that in 1879 80 the area was not much more than it was in 1876 77 The crops on which the decrease has occurred, as compared with the very large area of 1877 78, are as follows —

Wheat	17,447
Barley and coarser grain	28,789
Pulses	16 317
Others	7,143
	69,696

The wheat owing to the great sickness, was probably not grown at all, and the other crops (if sown) were grown without canal water The following table will illustrate the above remarks by comparing the area of wheat and barley with that of all other crops, chiefly the coarser grains, on the Ganges, Eastern Jumna, and Agra Canals —

	Ganges				Eastern Jumna Canal				Agra Canal
	Wheat and barley	Per cent	Other crops	Per cent	Wheat and barley	Per cent	Other crops	Per cent	Wheat and barley	Per cent	Other crops	Per cent
1876 77	538,650	91	54,301	9	98,078	94	6,319	6	14,947	46	17,284	54
1877 78	409,651	81	94,050	19	86,270	83	16,830	17	46,832	44	59 150	56
1878 79	597,779	82	128,092	18	157,275	86	23 953	16	51,589	62	31 505	38
1879 80	481,612	86	76,325	14	127,889	89	14,312	11	21,216	58	15 070	42

The figures show a large and fairly constant area of the better crops to which canal water is a necessity on the two older canals which is wanting on the newer work

On the Agra Canal during the season under review this cause of diminished irrigation was further aggravated by the scarcity of labour The cultivated area in Gurgaon and Muttra is supposed to have been the smallest on record, and it consisted chiefly of gram and other inferior crops, which in consequence of the heavy monsoon rains required no irrigation

8 The following table shows the areas of the principal crops for six years —

	Wheat	Barley	Other grains	Pulses	Opium and drugs
	Acres	Acres	Acres	Acres	Acres
1874 75	415 970	204 896	26 139	48 629	10 184
1875 76	471,198	191 812	31,973	35 719	12 956
1876 77	532,221	110 361	24 821	26 584	12 530
1877 78	415 659	138 627	59 912	61 328	10 823
1878 79	586 776	266 472	115 914	66 901	15,371
1879 80	482 703	210 959	83,861	33 401	15 104

The effect of the plentiful rains of 1879 is seen in the small area of pulses irrigated The area under the poorer grains compares very favourably with that of other years

The following table compares the rabi assessments of the years noted under occupier's rate —

Canal	1876 77	1877 78	1878 79	1879 80

and in addition to this there is a revenue of above Rs 52,000 from owner's rate

ORDER —Ordered, that the above Resolution be submitted to the Government of India for information, and that it be published in the North Western Provinces and Oudh Gazette

OBSERVATIONS —The number of accidents to trains, rolling stock, permanent way, &c, decreased from 1,080 in the corresponding quarter of 1879 to 653, or by 39 5 per cent against an increase of 3 4 per cent in the open mileage and 1 1 per cent in the train mileage The decrease chiefly took place on the following Railways —

East Indian	250
Eastern Bengal	13
Sind Punjab and Delhi	22
Madras	13
Great Indian Peninsula	72
Holkar and Sindia Neemuch	13
Rangoon and Irrawaddy Valley	82

2 The very large reduction on the East Indian Railway appears to be due to the elimination from the present returns of minor accidents which were previously included in the returns Under "Goods trains, or parts of goods trains, engines, &c, leaving the rails" the number of accidents is shown as 5 against 58, and under "Miscellaneous" nil against 173

3 On the Sind, Punjab and Delhi Railway there was a decrease of 9 accidents under 'Goods trains, or parts of goods trains engines, &c, leaving the rails," and 8 under "Miscellaneous," and an increase of 11 accidents under "Failure of machinery, springs, &c, of engines"

4 The decrease in the number of cases on the Madras Railway was chiefly under "Goods trains, or parts of goods trains, &c, leaving the rails'

5 On the Great Indian Peninsula Railway there was a decrease of 24 accidents under "Goods trains, or parts of goods trains, engines, &c, leaving the rails," 15 under "Failure of machinery, springs, &c, of engines," and 20 under "Fire in trains'

6 On the Holkar and Sindia Neemuch the number of cases of "Fire in trains" fell off from 17 to 5

7 On the Rangoon and Irrawaddy Valley State Railway the number of accidents diminished from 24 to 11 under "Trains running over cattle," 18 to 2 under "Failure of machinery, springs, &c, of engines," 11 to nil under "Failure of wheels," 19 to 1 under "Failure of couplings," and 21 to 1 under "Miscellaneous"

8 There was on the Indus Valley State Railway an increase of 32 accidents, of which 22 appear under "Trains running over cattle"

9 The casualties resulting from accidents to trains, &c, were among passengers 1 killed and 7 injured against 3 injured, and among railway servants 6 killed and 8 injured against 1 killed and 14 injured Of the 7 passengers injured, 5 received slight injuries only from a collision which took place between a goods and a mixed train on the Punjab Northern State Railway 4 servants were killed and 5 injured on the South Indian Railway by the slipping of the bank at the Gunnacherri river while being excavated for erection of a sleeper pier It is not clear whether this bank had anything to do with the working of trains, but if not, the casualties should have been included in Part IV

10 The following table exhibits the numbers of accidents under the different classes and the numbers of persons killed and injured thereby —

	Number of accidents	Number of passengers and others		Number of servants		Total
		Killed	Injured	Killed	Injured	Killed	Injured
Collisions between passenger trains and goods or mineral trains, engines, and vehicles standing foul of the line	25	1	5			1	5

Other accidents	31			4	7	4	7
TOTAL	653	1	7	6	8	7	15

11 The failures of couplings were, as in the 4th quarter of 1879, very large on the Punjab Northern and Rajputana State Railways being 11 and 15 respectively out of a total of 38 The attention of the Director General of Railways has already been drawn to this point, in Public Works Department Circular No 13R of 12th June 1880

12 Out of 24 cases of broken rails, 16 occurred on the Northern Bengal and 6 on the Muttra Háthras Railways As compared with the corresponding previous quarter, there was a decrease of 8 accidents under this head on the former line

13 The number of cases of fire in trains on the Indus Valley State Railway has diminished from 22 to 18, but still it is larger than that on any of the other railways

14 The cattle accidents were very large on the South Indian, due to imperfect fencing and unprotected gates, also on the Indus Valley, being 30 and 29 respectively against 19 on the East Indian, 14 on the Northern Bengal, and 13 on the Great Indian Peninsula

15 Of the 79 cases in which the goods trains, &c, left the metal, 16 took place on the Rajputana, 15 on the Great Indian Peninsula, 11 on the Sind, Punjab and Delhi, and 10 on the Punjab Northern, and of the 68 failures of the machinery, &c, of engines, 23 took place on the Punjab Northern and 15 on the Sind, Punjab and Delhi

16 The number of accidents from the bursting of boilers or tubes, &c, of engines, was also the largest on the latter line, viz, 9 out of a total of 16

17 The casualties to passengers from causes other than accidents to trains, &c were—

	Killed	Injured
From falling between carriages and platforms	2	2
Falling on to the platform, ballast, &c, when getting into or out of trains		1
Whilst crossing the line at stations	1
Falling out of carriages during the travelling of trains	2	11
Other accidents		1
TOTAL	5	15

And the accidents to servants in the employ of railways or of contractors whilst performing duties connected directly with the transit of passengers and goods from causes other than accidents to trains, &c, were—

	Killed	Injured
During shunting operations	4	11
Falling off engines, vans, wagons, &c	3	14
Coming in contact with over bridges, &c, during the travelling of trains		1
Getting on or off trains, engines, &c	2	8
Whilst loading, unloading, or sheeting	2	9
Whilst working on the permanent-way or in sidings	2	2
Whilst walking crossing, or standing on the line	4	4
Whilst passing between vehicles		1
Whilst attending to the machinery of engines, cleaning them, &c	1	15
Whilst attending to gates at level crossings	2	1
Falling or being caught between vehicles and platforms	1	3
Falling off ladders scaffolds, platforms, &c		3
Whilst coupling or uncoupling wagons	3	10
Miscellaneous	5	11
TOTAL	29	93

18 Of other persons killed and injured by running trains, &c, 2 were injured whilst passing over the line at level crossings, 21 killed and 6 injured whilst trespassing on the line, 6 were suicides, and 3 killed and 5 injured from miscellaneous causes

19 The following table exhibits the total numbers of persons killed and injured from causes connected with the working of trains, as compared with those in the previous corresponding quarter

	1st Quarter, 1879		1st Quarter 1880
	Killed	Injured	Killed	Injured
Passengers
From causes beyond their own control		8	1	7
misconduct or want of caution	2	14	5	15
Servants

Whilst passing at level crossings	3	1		2
Trespassers, including suicides	13	11	27	6
Other persons	12	4	3	5
TOTAL	60	144	71	136

20 In addition to the above, 17 persons are reported to have been killed and 41 injured in yards, workshops, &c, and 74 passengers to have met death in carriages and at stations from causes unconnected with the working of trains

RESOLUTION —The attention of the Governments and Officers concerned should be invited to the large number of cattle accidents on the South Indian and Indus Valley State Railways, large number of cases of broken rails on the Northern Bengal, fires in trains on the Indus Valley, derailments of goods trains, parts of goods trains, engines, &c, on the Rajputana, failures of machinery, springs, &c, of engines on the Punjab Northern, and the accidents from the bursting of boilers or tubes, &c, of engines on the Sind, Punjab and Delhi Railway

No 493—The Governor General in Council has much satisfaction in directing the publication for general information of the following correspondence and despatches relating to the defeat of a body of Zermuttis at Patkáo Shana on the 1st July 1880 by the Cavalry Brigade of the 3rd Division, Northern Afghanistan Field Force, under the immediate command of Brigadier General C H Palliser, C B —

From COLONEL ALLEN JOHNSON Secretary to the Government of India Military Department, to the Adjutant General in India —(No 7891 K, dated Simla, 20th August 1880)

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No 4341 A, dated the 13th August 1880, forwarding despatches relating to the action fought at Patkáo

Shana by the Cavalry Brigade of the 3rd Division, Northern Afghanistan Field Force, under the command of Brigadier General Palliser against the Zermuttis

2 In reply, I am to state for the Commander-in Chief's information, that the Governor General in Council has perused with much satisfaction the correspondence regarding these operations, and entirely concurs with the Commander in Chief in considering that great credit is due to the Cavalry Brigade of Major General Hills' Division, under the immediate command of Brigadier General Palliser, C B and to the officers and men whose services have been so prominently brought to notice in this despatch

3 The despatches will, I am to add, be published in the Gazette at an early date

---

From MAJOR GENERAL G R GREAVES C B Adjutant General in India to the Secretary to the Government of India Military Department —(No 4311 A,—Kabul—dated Simla 13th August 1880)

I HAVE the honor, by direction of the Commander in Chief to forward, for submission to Government the accompanying despatches relating to the action fought at Patkao Shana on the 1st July 1880, by the Cavalry Brigade of the 3rd Division, Northern Afghanistan Field Force, under the immediate command of Brigadier General C H Palliser, C B, against 1500 Zermuttis

2 His Excellency considers that great credit is due to Brigadier General Palliser and the troops engaged, and desires me to bring to special notice the names of Major J R B Atkinson, 1st Punjab Cavalry and Captain L T Bishop 2nd Punjab Cavalry, whose conduct was admirable affording a brilliant example of squadron leading

3 The conduct of Captain S D Barrow, 10th Bengal Lancers is also specially worthy of notice, and Sir Frederick Haines considers that all the officers and men mentioned,—indeed, the whole force,—deserve the favorable notice of Government

---

From LIEUTENANT GENERAL SIR DONALD M STEWART K C B Commanding in Northern Afghanistan to the Adjutant General in India —(No 3113 — Field Operations —dated Kabul 20th July 1880)

I HAVE the honor to forward for the information of His Excellency the Commander in Chief in India, the accompanying report as per margin of a very successful action fought on the 1st instant at Patkao Shana in the Logar Valley, by the Cavalry Brigade of Major General Hills Division under the immediate command of Brigadier General Palliser, C B

Letter No 6632 F dated 12th July 1880 from Major General Hills C B V C Commanding the 3rd Division with its enclosure

The operation reflects much credit on the cavalry of the 3rd Division and I have great pleasure in supporting the recommendations made by Major General Hills, C B, V C in favor of Brigadier General Palliser and the officers and men whose services have been favorably brought to notice in his despatch

From MAJOR GENERAL J HILLS C B V C Commanding the 3rd Division Northern Afghanistan Field Force, to the Chief of the Staff Northern Afghanistan Field Force —(No 6632 L,— Field Operations —dated Camp Zargunshahr 12th July 1880)

I HAVE the honor to report for the information of the Lieutenant General Commanding the Field Force, Northern Afghanistan, that on the evening of the 30th June I received information from the Political Officer, Major Euan Smith that some 1000 or 1500 Zermuttis were said to be at Patkao Shana, detained by Sirdar Hassan Khan, in expectation of reinforcements reaching them under Mahomed Jan

2 I therefore directed Brigadier General Palliser, C B, to proceed with his Cavalry Brigade early next morning towards Patkao Shana and Hisarak, and to ascertain whether any hostile gathering was present at either place or in the neighbourhood, and I gave him instructions to flash to me for assistance or press home an attack as circumstances required

3 Brigadier General Palliser started at 3 30 A M, with a force as per margin, and on approaching Patkao Shana learnt that the enemy had had timely notice of his approach and were in full retreat A few horsemen on his left front gave him a clue to the line of retirement and Captain G M Abbott, 19th Bengal Lancers, in command of his advance guard, following them up was soon able to report that he saw the main body of footmen about two miles ahead, making away towards Altimor

4 Brigadier General Palliser, leaving a squadron of the 2nd Punjab Cavalry under Captain J H Broome to watch the village of Patkao Shana and the Logar Valley pressed on with the rest of his brigade, and overtook these footmen some 1500 strong three miles from the village He at once attacked, and with such vigor that, although the enemy made several attempts to stand up against him wherever the nature of the ground specially favored resistance, still they were unable to withstand his assaults, and by 9 30 A M were utterly routed and had disappeared in the higher hills opposite Altimor, some eight miles having been covered in the pursuit

5 Many acts of gallantry were performed, the most prominently brought to notice being those of Major J R B Atkinson 1st Punjab Cavalry, Captain L T Bishop, 2nd Punjab Cavalry and Sowar Sirbuland Khan 1st Punjab Cavalry

6 Over 200 killed and wounded were left on the field, and though the number may appear small considering the distance to which the pursuit was pushed, the extreme roughness and difficulty of the ground, enabling many to slink away unseen, fully accounts for the same

7 The leaders of the gathering found to be almost entirely Zurmuttis, were—

Sultan Mahomed Mahmudzai
Ahmed Shah Kulingai,
Saad Khan Mandozai
Abdulla Khan Mandozai

and these being mounted galloped off at the first alarm of our approach

8 The following men of note are reported to be killed, wounded or missing —

Sultan Mahomed Mahmudzai killed
His nephew (name unknown) wounded
A nephew of Saad Khan (name unknown) killed
Mahomed Akbar 2nd son of Ahmed Shah Kulingai mortally wounded

9 Sirdar Mahomed Hassan Khan, with a small party of some 100 sowars watched Captain Broome's squadron from the low hills between Patkao Shana and Kila Jabbar, and retired towards Charkh on the return of the cavalry from the pursuit

10 Some of our late deserters were among the enemy,—

A havildar Bengal Sappers and Miners killed
A syce 2nd Punjab Cavalry taken prisoner
A sowar 1st Punjab Cavalry } who escaped
A sowar 2nd " " }

11 As soon as I received information, by heliogram that the enemy were in full flight I sent messengers to the different villages in Logar telling the people to remain in their homes and that no harm would befall them, and I invited them to search for and send in the wounded The people were thus re-assured of our good intentions to all who were peaceably inclined towards us, and have already begun to send in supplies They have been put under great pressure to join in a ghaza against us, but have hitherto resisted, and appear to be relieved by our presence

12 The day's work was a long and trying one, the cavalry covering nearly forty miles ere they returned to camp, and I trust that it will meet due approval

13 I would beg to bring the names of Brigadier General Palliser C B, to whom I am much indebted for the very thorough way in which he carried out my instructions and those of the following officers, specially commended by him, to the notice of the Lieutenant General Commanding, for favorable recommendation to His Excellency the Commander in Chief, for any reward he may consider they deserve —

1 Colonel P S Yorke commanding the 19th Bengal Lancers
2 Colonel T C Kennedy commanding the 2nd Punjab Cavalry
3 Lieutenant Colonel C S Maclean, commanding the 1st Punjab Cavalry
4 Major C C Bird Brigade Major Cavalry Brigade
5 Lieutenant W L G Forbes, 26th Foot, Orderly Officer

6 Captain Seymour D Barrow A D C severely wounded in both arms in a personal encounter with a nephew of Sultan Mahomed and who up to the time of his being wounded rendered Brigadier General Palliser much assistance as an Orderly Officer

Surgeon W R Murphy " P I O Connor	Mentioned as meriting special thanks for their attention to the wounded often at much risk to themselves from stragglers of the enemy

I HAVE the honor to report, for the information of the Major General Commanding that in accordance with orders received I marched yesterday morning at 3 30 A M, with the Cavalry Brigade, strength as per margin, towards Patkao Shana and Hisarak, up the Logar Valley for the purpose of ascertaining the truth of a report received of an adverse gathering of tribesmen in that direction, and, if opportunity offered of dispersing them

2 I proceeded with the intention of first turning the village of Patkao Shana on its riverside, and thus intercepting the retreat of any enemy that village might contain towards the walled villages cultivation and water cuts existing on that side which might render the action of cavalry difficult —considering from its outlying position with a line of retreat towards the Altimor and other passes to the south that an enemy would be more likely to be there than in any of the other villages indicated I was confirmed in this opinion by the information successively received from wayfarers brought in by the advanced files and flanking parties of the 19th Bengal Lancers, and from a Hazara spy returning towards camp that there was a collection of tribesmen, variously estimated from 400 to 2000 strong, in and around the village of Patkao Shana, and that others had departed to the hills on the south the day before

3 I flashed this information back to camp and continued my march, when, within about two miles and a half of the opening in the low range of smooth undulating hills stretching across the valley from above Kushi, round the point of which lay the village of Patkao Shana, a horseman or two were observed on our left front, evidently observing our advance After a little time these were joined by a cluster of footmen, carrying one red flag I therefore changed the direction of the head of the column, and advanced with a line of scouts thrown out towards this point, with small detached parties of twenty sabres each for reconnaissance on each flank —believing that from the crest of the hill I should be able to look down on Pathao Shana and the lower levels adjacent, but on reaching the top of the rise in view, I found a succession of waves of ascent and descent over which for about a mile the scouts advanced the main body of the brigade having been halted at the foot of the first ascent From the furthest off crest the village of Pathao Shana was seen to our right front and to the left front the enemy was observed in compact but full retreat towards the Altimor Pass and about two miles off there appeared to be at least 1500 footmen, with a few scattered horsemen Not wishing to hurry the enemy's retreat I checked the advance of the scouts ordered up the main body of the brigade (less one squadron of 52 sabres of the 2nd Punjab Cavalry which I had detached under Captain Broome to watch Pathao Shana and to summon the maliks thereof), and keeping them concealed in the ravines took ground to the left under shelter of the ridge to get as near the enemy as possible before making a direct pursuit, and finally following them direct with one squadron and a half of the 19th Bengal Lancers and two squadrons of the 1st Punjab Cavalry in the front line (Captain G M Abbott, Officiating 2nd in Command 19th Bengal Lancers, who had commanded the advanced guard and scouting party, being still detached some distance to the right he joined the front line of his regiment in the course of the pursuit), supported under the command of Colonel T G Kennedy C B by one squadron of the 1st Punjab Cavalry and one squadron of the 2nd Punjab Cavalry,—in all 503 sabres

4 It was some time owing to the difficulty of the ground, ere we came in contact with the retreating enemy who by this time were much scattered (necessitating the breaking up of our close formation) in knots and singly taking advantage of the broken stony ravines and sometimes precipitous ground, and fighting generally with desperation when brought to bay The ground in fact, was such that on it no cavalry could have touched well disciplined infantry

5 Among the first of the enemy overtaken was a stalwart, well dressed and well equipped Afghan evidently a man of some note armed with rifle shield sword and knife to encounter whom rode out Captain Seymour D Barrow Aide de Camp to the Major General whose services had been placed at my disposal as a galloper In the fight between them I regret to say, Captain Barrow received two severe sword cuts first on his bridle hand rendering it useless and another on the right fore arm his charger being also wounded in the neck The Afghan already badly wounded by Captain Barrow was finally despatched by Sowar Gulam Khan 1st Punjab Cavalry and a sowar Jewand Sing of the 19th Bengal Lancers (the latter, Colonel Yorke's orderly afterwards killed)

6 The pursuit was continued for a space of two hours and extended over seven or eight miles from Pathao Shana to within a few miles of the Altimor Pass, near the valley of Oucha Khan The enemy were so much disorganized (though they made one or two attempts to form) and scattered right and left of our line, that the supporting squadrons were equally engaged with those in front

7 At 9 A M seeing that the country became more rugged as the mountains were approached our horses being much fatigued and evidently footsore and few of the enemy being left in our front and they much dispersed I sounded the rally and when our squadrons were collected commenced our return on Pathao Shana, our killed being carried on horses and the most severe of our wounded men on litters made by tying lungis on to lances

8 Pathao Shana was reached at about noon, horses watered and fed and after a couple of hours rest the march back to camp was commenced the 1st Punjab Cavalry bringing up the rear —arriving at 6 30 P M, the brigade having covered probably not less than forty miles during the day

9 Our losses were found to be three men and eight horses killed one British officer (Captain Seymour D Barrow), twenty eight men (one of whom died the same evening of his wound) and twenty five horses wounded The loss of the enemy I compute from my own observation and that of others, to have been not less than two hundred

10 At the close of the pursuit I sent a message to be flashed by the signallers who had been left with Captain Broome at Pathao Shana, for twelve dulis, which were duly sent

11 It was reported that the gathering consisted chiefly of men from the Zaimukt tribe, and that the following men of note were or had been, with the gathering up to the time of their being pursued, when probably they took advantage of their horses' speed to keep out of danger, namely —

Sultan Mahomed Mahmudzai	Saiil Khan Mandozai
Mahomed Shah Khan	Abdulla Khan Mandozai

A nephew of Sultan Mahomed's who was known to have been in the fight, is said to have been killed, probably he was the man Captain Barrow engaged A horseman escorted by about 150 mounted followers was observed by Captain Broome 2nd Punjab Cavalry, from Path to Shana (and who, he was informed was Sirdar Mahomed Hassan Khan) retiring slowly towards Jabbar Kili apparently watching our movements They went on towards Chaikh shortly before the return of the brigade

12 The keen eagerness displayed by officers and men was all that could be desired, and had the surface of the country gone over been less rugged, the enemy's loss would have been far greater

13 I beg to bring to the special notice of the Major General Commanding, for good service performed, —

Colonel P S Yorke Commandant 19th Bengal Lancers who had two narrow escapes, a bullet passing through his helmet and another grazing his cheek bone

Colonel T G Kennedy C B Commandant 2nd Punjab Cavalry

Lieutenant Colonel C S Maclean Commandant 1st Punjab Cavalry

Major G C Bird Madras Staff Corps my Brigade Major

Lieutenant W I G Forbes 26th Foot my Orderly Officer

Captain S D Barrow Bengal Staff Corps who up to the time of his being wounded rendered me as did the two officers named immediately above throughout the day valuable service in conveying orders and carrying out the instructions it was necessary for me to give

Surgeons W R Murphy 19th Bengal Lancers and P F O'Connor 1st Punjab Cavalry, deserve special thanks for their care of and attention to the wounded on the field, often at much risk to themselves from straggling and skulking Afghans

(The medical officer of the 2nd Punjab Cavalry was unavoidably absent from the brigade)

14 Colonel P S Yorke, Commandant 19th Bengal Lancers mentions—

Captain C M Abbott Officiating 2nd in Command who commanded the advanced guard and relevant ... the cutting party (I would beg to add the above duties were performed to my entire satisfaction)

Lieutenant S D Gordon the Officiating Adjutant particularly forward in the pursuit killing several men to his own sword

Surgeon W R Murphy in medical charge of the regiment

Jemadars Mirawar Khan and Khan Mahomed Khan

Duffadars Mahomed Ishal and Sayad Khan

15 Lieutenant Colonel C S Maclean, Commandant, 1st Punjab Cavalry, brings prominently to notice the conduct of —

Major J R B Atkinson Officiating 2nd in Command who distinguished himself greatly

Captain D S Cunningham and Lieutenant J D J O'Brien 40th Foot (attached as probationer) —the latter a very young officer who had only joined a few days before

16 Colonel T G Kennedy C B, commanding the 2nd Punjab Cavalry, particularly mentions the spirited leading of his squadron, throughout the day, of Captain L T Bishop, and the conduct of the senior native officer present,—Ressaldar Jowahir Sing, which was all that could be desired

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 24TH AUGUST 1880

GENERAL REMARKS —Rain was plentiful and general during the week in Burma, Assam and Bengal In Madras and Mysore favourable rain has again fallen and prospects are fair In Bombay slight rain fell in the Deccan districts and the Southern Mahratta Country where more is still urgently needed Rain is also greatly wanted throughout the presidency generally and in Sind the crops are in some places suffering from a fall in the Indus

In Berar the Central Provinces the North Western Provinces and Oudh Central India States Rajputana and the Punjab the rainfall of the week has been very limited and partial Good rain fell only in the Sambalpur district of the Central Provinces and in the eastern districts of the North Western Provinces The want of rain in the Central Provinces and States is now causing some anxiety

The week's reports show that in the Eastern Provinces prospects remain satisfactory that in Madras and Mysore where the rains in the latter part of July and the beginning of this month were deficient prospects have improved but that in a large portion of Western Central and Northern India the season has as yet been too dry resulting in some injury to the autumn crops which unless more rain falls soon may suffer seriously

ABSTRACT OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA ASSEMBLED FOR THE PURPOSE OF MAKING LAWS AND REGULATIONS UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACT OF PARLIAMENT 24 & 25 VIC CAP 67

The Council met at Government House on Friday, the 20th August, 1880

PRESIDENCY SMALL CAUSES COURTS BILL

The Hon'ble MR STOKES moved for leave to introduce a Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Courts of Small Causes established in the Presidency towns He had read somewhere that the present Secretary of State for India had been once observed in the course of one of his own speeches to yawn and that when asked why he had done so he replied because his speech was so stupid MR STOKES feared that during the observations which it would be necessary for him to offer to the Council on the present occasion not only he but his audience would yawn not merely once, but several times but he would endeavour to state what he had to say in as few words as possible

The Courts now known as the Courts of Small Causes in the Presidency towns were established by a Charter of George the Second dated 8th January 1753 (a little more than four years before the battle of Plassey was fought) and would accordingly appear to be the oldest Courts now existing in British India They had, from time to time undergone many changes their constitution having been re modelled their jurisdiction extended and their procedure amended by various enactments and orders, in particular by Acts IX of 1850 and XXVI of 1864 which placed them on a footing closely resembling that of the English County Courts but they had been left to a great extent untouched by the important legislation by which in recent years the procedure of the other civil Courts had been reformed The result of that was that they had become somewhat antiquated and did not fit in with the rest of the Indian judicial system, that their powers and procedure were, in many particulars defective, and that though owing to the efficient manner in which they had been worked they had generally given satisfaction, questions had often to be discussed in them which to use the words of a late Small Cause Court Judge (the Hon'ble Mutusami Ayyar) now on the bench of the Madras High Court, 'are totally foreign to the people who resort to them, and some of which have only an historic interest even in England'

The necessity of completely revising the law relating to those Courts was pointed out many years ago by Mr Hogan and Mr Boulnois two of the ablest Judges who have presided in the Calcutta Small Cause Court, and in the year 1868, a Bill was drafted for this purpose by our hon'ble and learned colleague Mr Pitt Kennedy, but further action in the matter had been, from time to time, postponed, pending the consideration of certain proposals regarding the jurisdiction and powers of the Courts Those proposals had now been very fully discussed both in the Home and the Legislative Departments and by the Judges of the different Courts as near an approach to unanimity regarding them as could well be hoped for had been attained and the present Bill had accordingly been prepared to consolidate and amend the entire law

The most important change introduced by it lay in the extension of the pecuniary limit of the jurisdiction from Rs 1,000 to Rs 2 000 This extension was asked for as far back as 1867 by the Calcutta Trades Association—a body to which we were indebted not only for some valuable suggestions as to legislation, but also for useful criticisms on many of our Bills It had since then been much discussed, and had the approval of the Governments of Madras Bombay and Bengal, of the High Court of Madras and of the High Court at Calcutta The only opposition to it came from the High Court at Bombay and that opposition appeared to proceed not so much from any objection to the principle of the extension as from a fear that it would not be acceptable to the public—a point on which we should be in a better position to form an opinion after the Bill had been published

Assuming, then that the pecuniary limit of the jurisdiction was to be raised as proposed the question arose whether any appeal should be allowed in suits above Rs 1 000 or whether the present system of allowing a new trial by the Court itself and a reference to the High Court on a point of law was sufficient On that point the difference of opinion had been greater The Governments of Bombay and Bengal the Calcutta High Court and the Judges of the Small Cause Court at Bombay were against admitting an appeal The Government of Madras, the High Court there and the Judges of the Small Cause Courts at Calcutta and Madras, were in favour of it as was also Mr Kennedy at the time he drew the Bill already referred to On the one hand, it was urged that allowing an appeal was, especially as it involved the taking of notes of evidence and the writing of judgments inconsistent with the summary procedure of the Small Cause Court that the hearing of cases subject to appeal could not conveniently be carried on simultaneously with the ordinary Small Cause Court work and that the existence of a power to appeal would render litigation needlessly protracted and expensive On the other hand, the importance of providing a check on the trial of questions of fact in suits of the higher value was insisted on, and it was pointed out that, in two at least of the Presidency towns (Bombay and Madras) the practice of taking notes of evidence in all contested cases already prevailed The Bill as at present drawn did not provide an appeal but the Select Committee to which he hoped it would be referred would consider whether in suits above Rs 1,000 an appeal should not be allowed

The next question which presented itself in connection with the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Courts was that as to the classes of suits which those Courts should be empowered to hear It had been thought best both with a view to relieve the High Courts as far as possible of the petty litigation which now forms a considerable portion of their work on their original side and in order to avoid as far as might be the doubts and difficulties which attended the construction of provisions of this sort, to draw the Bill so as to give the Small Cause Courts jurisdiction in suits of all descriptions with certain specified exceptions

The most important of those exceptions was that of suits for the recovery of immoveable property It appeared from the records of the Legislative Department that the framers of Act IX of 1850 intended that its 25th section should confer jurisdiction on the Presidency Small Cause Courts in such suits but there had been a considerable difference of opinion as to the actual effect of that Act and of its amending Act (XXVI of 1864) in this particular

The High Courts of Calcutta and Bombay had held that the Small Cause Courts were given jurisdiction in the suits in question by the 25th section of Act No IX of 1850 The Bombay High Court had held further that a like jurisdiction was conferred in suits up to Rs 1,000 by the Act of 1864, while the Judges of the Calcutta Small Cause Court held that their jurisdiction in such suits was not extended by that Act The Madras High Court had held that neither Act conferred any such jurisdiction It would seem that the learned judges, like a certain united family in Ireland had "all agreed to disagree" To this it should be added that in Calcutta the jurisdiction, though held to exist up to Rs 500, was, for some reason which had not been fully explained, but little resorted to

The Madras and Bombay authorities and the majority of the Calcutta High Court were in favour of giving the jurisdiction The Bengal Government, the officers consulted by it (including the Judges of the Calcutta Small Cause Court) and four of the Judges of the Calcutta High Court were against it The Bill as he had already intimated would not give it and it was manifest that, if it were to be given, special provisions relating to it would have to be introduced An appeal should certainly be given, proper provision would have to be made for execution and probably some rules would as suggested both by the Calcutta and the Madras High Courts, be required to limit the operation of the decisions of the Small Cause Court as res judicatæ Considering the fact that questions of rights in respect of immoveable property in the Presidency towns were to use the words of the Bombay Government 'peculiarly intricate and difficult,' he was himself against giving the jurisdiction

Other suits in which it was proposed to withhold jurisdiction from the Small Cause Courts were the suits mentioned in section 25 of Act IX of 1850 and in addition thereto suits against the Secretary of State for India in Council, suits for partition, for foreclosure for redemption, suits for the specific performance or the rescission of contracts relating to immoveable property administration suits suits to obtain an injunction or enforce a trust The machinery of the Presidency Small Cause Courts was not such that it could deal usefully with most of these matters the difficult and complicated questions which constantly arose in the suits just mentioned could not possibly be disposed of in the summary manner which the public had a right to expect from a Small Cause Court and (speaking with all respect for the present able and learned Judges) the constitution of those Courts was not such that those questions could always be safely left to their decision

The want of any power to execute the decree of a Small Cause Court against immoveable property except by the circuitous process of instituting a suit upon such decree in the High Court had for many years past been complained of as involving an undue hardship to plaintiffs, and in some places particularly in Madras driving them to institute their suits in the High Court instead of in the Small Cause Court The objections that existed to giving the Small Cause Courts jurisdiction in suits to recover immoveable property applied also to giving them power to execute their decrees against immoveable property In execution cases complicated questions as to the relative priority of incumbrancers or as to the rights of persons claiming maintenance out of the attached property, constantly presented themselves in the Presidency towns, and to dispose of such questions satisfactorily not only required an astute and learned lawyer but a hearing so long and laborious that to grant it would seriously impede the Small Cause Court in the disposal of cases for the speedy decision of which it primarily existed The Bill would accordingly empower the Court to send its decrees for execution to the High Court or to a mufassal Court in the same way as the mufassal Small Cause Courts do under section 20 of Act No XI of 1865 The only serious opposition to this proposal came from the High Court at Bombay and it rested mainly on the political or economical objections which of late years had been so frequently urged against the sale of immoveable property in execution of decrees Objections which, however weighty they might be in the mufassal where the land was the only means of livelihood of the mass of the people and was in fact the basis of society, had little or no force in the cases that occurred in the Presidency towns

It had been held that the procedure in the Presidency Small Cause Courts was that of the Courts of common law in England, except in so far as it had been modified by Act IX of 1850 The result was that technical questions as to forms of action and the effect of particular pleas often engaged the attention of the judges, though they arose nowhere else in India The Bill and one of its schedules would make the simple and uniform Code of Civil Procedure the foundation of the procedure of the Small Cause Courts in the Presidency towns, as it was of those in the Mufassal, but the special provisions of the existing Acts regarding Court fees, fees to Counsel and attorneys, and suspension of execution in cases of sickness, had been retained, and it might be a question whether further modifications of the general law, for example, as regards the payment of expenses of witnesses, should not be introduced

The Bill would confer in the Presidency Small Cause Courts a limited insolvency jurisdiction This was completely new The introduction of provisions for this purpose had been advocated by the Government of Bengal, the Calcutta High Court and the present Chief Justice of Madras with a view to relieving the High Courts of a mass of petty work with which they were at present burthened, to the great detriment of more important business In Calcutta for instance the business in insolvency occupied a Barrister Judge for nearly thirty days in the year, and all the Judges who had sat in the Insolvent Court were unanimous in the opinion that this amount of Judge's time so lost to the High Court was not accompanied by commensurate advantages to the public in the application and working of the insolvent law In their report for 1875 the High Court said that ' during the last three years the instances might be counted on the fingers in which resort has been had to the Insolvent Court for the purpose of an equitable distribution among creditors of any appreciable estate belonging to the insolvent In the great majority of cases the applications are made by the debtors themselves only when arrest is imminent or has actually been effected and when they really have no property left or have taken means to conceal it That was in 1875 But things had become no better in the meantime In fact, it might be said ingravescit in dies malum There had been some difference of opinion as to the way in which the insolvency jurisdiction should be divided between the High Court and the Small Cause Court The Bill would assign to the Small Cause Court all cases of non traders leaving to the High Court only the cases of traders This was the principle of division proposed by the Calcutta High Court and it seemed to be the most convenient for it was as a rule, in the latter class of cases only that questions of difficulty and importance arose in this country The great mass of non trading insolvents consisted of Government clerks who had lived beyond their means and the settlement of their affairs was, generally speaking, only too simple a matter, there being in most cases little or no assets to recover or distribute

The Bill would also contain a chapter on testamentary and intestate jurisdiction The object of this was to relieve the High Court, and at the same time to provide in the case of small estates when the assets of the deceased were less than Rs 1 000 a cheap and expeditious mode of obtaining probate or letters of administration

These were the chief points of the proposed legislation He had only to thank the Council for listening so patiently to what was indeed a labor operosus ac molestus and to add that the Bill would be published as soon as possible but that it would not be proceeded with till the Council had re assembled at Calcutta in order to give the public and the profession ample time to familiarise themselves with its provisions, it would not come into force before the 1st July 1881

The Motion was put and agreed to

The Council adjourned to Friday, the 3rd September, 1880
